PREPOSTEROUS CLAIMS,

ARE MADE BY AMERICANS, ACCORDING TO THE THUNDERER.

In the Matter of the Behring Sea Dispute The Question by no Means Settled Yet. Return of the United States Commissioners. What They Say.

LONDON, Sept 19. Commenting upon two articles on the Behring Sea question published in its columns, The Times calls the Americans' claims preposterous. It says: "Their action is arbitrary and high handed; their arguments, as far as they can be put into intelligible shape, are worthy of the most rigid school of British game preservers. The seal is a wild animal, and there will never be any danger of its extermination on the high seas. The danger comes from excessive slaughter when the animals are perfectly helpless. If the Americans choose, by indiscriminate slaughter, to destroy their own industry, we are helpless, but they cannot be allowed to monopolize the seals by claiming property on the high seas and their contents. If they will show a reasonable spirit of compromise it will be a good thing to come to an arrangement, not for a close season, which is inappropriate to the conditions of the case but for a closure during the breeding season of an area of perhaps 20 miles around the breeding grounds."

One Times correspondent describes the sealing industry throughout, and combats the reports of American experts in regard to the extinction of the seal. He says masters in the sealing fleet, when interviewed testified that there was no diminution in number, but that the seals were harder to catch being more wary. After the end of May hardly only cow seals with young were taken, proving that the capture from boats is not calculated [illegible] animal increase. The correspondent suggests a close time for an area of 20 miles from the end of May to the [illegible] of December, as the mother seals feed within that radius during breeding time. The correspondent thinks that the question of how many should be killed on the islands should be decided by a commission of practical men.

RETURN OF THE COMMISSIONERS.

WASHINGTON, Sept 19. Yesterday afternoon Assistant Secretary Wharton of the State Department, and Commissioners Mendenhall and Merriam, who were sent to Behring Sea to examine and report concerning the condition of the seal fisheries there called on President Harrison. The commissioners declared a stop must be put to the practice of killing seals in the open seas for several years if it is desired to perpetuate this species of furbearing animals. Incidentally the commissioners referred to the fact that they had accompanied special treasury agent Williams and his assistants on their journey of exploration and found that their views were identical regarding the future course to be pursued in perpetuating the seals of the Pribyloff Islands.

Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British Minister, has notified the Government that the modus vivendi as to the catch of seals in Behring Sea has been violated by the North American Government Company, in exceeding the agreed catch of seals. The matter may lead so the [illegible] being declared imperative after that date.

The officials of the State Department decline to make any statement respecting the alleged breach of the agreement, or even to admit that any protest has been filed. The British minister and his secretaries are absent from Washington, and no information could be gleaned in that quarter. But there is the best of reasons for the belief that the matter at issue is not a serious one, or one that threatens to disturb the progress of the negotiations looking to arbitration, although its interposition now may result in further delaying the settlement of a question that the president very much desires to bring speedily to a conclusion. Undoubtedly Sir Julian Pauncefote's note was based upon representations made to him by Sir George Baden Powell and Mr. Dawson, the British commissioners sent to Behring Sea to watch the seal fisheries. They found that a certain number of skins had been taken up to date of their report in excess of the 7500 mentioned in the modus vivendi as the maximum number that might be taken, and there is reason to believe that the report of the special treasury agent Williams will confirm their statements. But inspection of the terms of the modus vivendi shows the protest is based upon the technical grounds, and there is fair room for the treasury official's contention that there has been no violation of its provisions. By the first clause of the agreement Her Majesty's Government prohibits seal sailing in Behring Sea until May of next year. By the second clause the United States Government agrees to do the same at sea and on the seal islands in excess of 7500 to be taken on the islands for the subsistence and care of the natives. Up to the close of this season the North American Commercial Company had taken 13,000 sealskins, and it is this fact that has come to the knowledge of the British Government. But the modus vivendi was signed June 15 last, and the majority of the 13,000 skins, were according to the information before the Treasury Department, taken in the early part of the season and before the signature of the agreement and not more than the maximum of 7500 have been taken since June 15. The British view appears to be that the 7500 skins were to be taken in the entire season, while the other view is that 7500 might be taken after the signatures, a purely technical point.

The Ocean Greyhound.

LONDON, Sept 18. The steamer Furst Bismarck, Capt. Albers, from New York, Sept. 10, for Hamburg, arrived at Southampton at 8.15 o'clock yesterday, breaking the best previous record between New York and Southampton. Her time 6 days, 12 hours and 58 minutes.

Afterclaps of the Great Flood.

MADRID, Sept. 18. The municipal authorities of Almeria estimate that it will require 2,000,000 pesetas to repair the streets and buildings damaged by the flood. There was a renewal last [illegible] of the storms and floods in the province [illegible] and more damage has been done.

MR. MERCIER ACCEPTS

THE COMMISSION PROPOSED BY LIEUT.-GOV. ANGERS.

The Party Caucus Held Last Night and So Decides—The Premier Asks His Colleagues to Stand by Him Until the Investigation is Complete.

QUEBEC, Sept. 19. All the supporters of the Local Government that could reach here held a caucus in the Parliament Buildings last night to discuss the political situation. Almost all the old pillars of the National party responded to the call of the president of the Liberal caucus, but the appearance of Mr. L. P. Pelletier in the caucus hall was somewhat of a surprise. Mr. Pelletier, however, was given a chance to give his views on the question, and of course his speech was a repetition of his former speeches, in which he so often protested of the services rendered the party and of the manner he was lately treated with.

The caucus was informed, however, that the crisis was at an end, the Government having accepted the Commissioners demanded by His Honor Lieut. Governor Angers.

Many of the Liberal members present are of opinion that the Government should have held out to the last and rather appeal to the country than give in to the Lieut. Governor's injunction. A fact which appears striking to many is that Mr. Charles Fitzpatrick was absent from the caucus, although he was seen around the Parliament buildings shortly before the opening of the meeting. It is reported that he was not summoned to it.

At 10.30 the members of the Cabinet were invited to the caucus, and their presence was greeted with loud peals of hand clapping.

The Premier's announcement that the crisis was postponed received considerable enthusiasm. He denounced the Pacaud-Armstrong transaction very bitterly, but he hoped that his colleagues would be confident in the integrity of the Government until the Royal Commission had investigated the matter and the members of the Cabinet had exonerated themselves of all blame.

A petition to the Lieut. Governor has been signed by all the members present asking His Honor to call the Legislature immediately. The paper was presented to the Premier, who promised to put it before the Cabinet for its approval.

Mr. Cochrane Acquitted.

OTTAWA, Sept. 19. It was 1 o'clock yesterday morning. Long hours of talking on the Cochrane case preceded adjournment. German, Mulock, Mason and Caron made long speeches.

Col. O'Brien, contrary to expectations, took no part in the debate and voted against both resolution and amendments. On Caron's amendment that the minority report be received the vote was 74 to 99, and on the main motion of Mr. Tisdale, chairman of the Investigation Committee, the vote was 75 to 98.

Hon. Thomas McGreevy in Quebec.

QUEBEC, Sept. 19. The Hon. Thomas McGreevy was seen in Quebec last night. It is thought that he will leave soon for the border.

THE MONDEGO WRECKED.

MONTREAL, Sept. 19. The steamship Mondego, from Montreal for Dundee, is a total wreck on the coast of Newfoundland. The steamship Mondego, Capt. J. Rowell, left here on Feb. 10. Her cargo was as follows: 50,400 bushels rye for Norris & Carruthers, 24,034 bushels rye for Crane & Baird, 8150 bushels rye for R. Peddie, 490 cattle for John Crowe and 64 cattle for C. Coughlin. The cattle were for Dundee. The cargo is a total loss.

The vessel had a crew of thirty men and had on board also ten cattlemen from Montreal. The cattle foreman Joseph Hyland is from Toronto. The agents here stated that their only information was a short despatch from the captain stating that the vessel was a total loss, but that all on board were saved. Another report received to-day stated that the "Mondego" was a total loss on the rocks in St. Marys Bay.

The Mondego was an old English mail boat, carrying the mails from Southampton to the West Indies. Afterwards she was purchased by A. Ross & Co., of Glasgow. The insurance companies will suffer very heavily by the loss of the Mondego. The risks on cattle and cargo exceeding $120,000. The insurance was taken in English companies.

The House of Commons Damaged

OTTAWA, Sept. 19. A terrific storm of wind and rain struck the Capital at 1 o'clock yesterday. The wind raised a large piece of ornamental iron work from the roof and sent it crashing down upon the upper roof of the chamber of the House of Commons. The upper roof, which is of glass, gave way, and a shower of water and broken glass fell through the glass ceiling of the chamber and deluged the desks of the Ministerialists. As the damage is confined to one side of the chamber it is improbable that it will interfere with the sitting of the House.

A Fatal Reaper Accident.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 19.—A Brandon despatch says Samuel Osborne, a respected farmer living near Carrollton, south of Brandon, met with an untimely death on Monday evening last. It would appear that he was driving a binder when his horses took fright and he got entangled in the machinery, the knife severing one leg at the knee. Deceased only survived the accident a few hours.

A Fatal Fall of 25 Feet.

TAVISTOCK, Ont., Sept. 19. Simeon Gion, near this place while helping his neighbor, William Kendall sink a well descended too soon after a blast had been discharged this afternoon and feeling faint from the gas asked to be drawn up. When within a few feet of the top he let go his hold falling a distance of twenty-five feet, breaking his neck. Deceased leaves a wife and family.

BRITAIN MUST EXPLAIN.

THE RUSSIAN BEAR WANTS TO KNOW ALL ABOUT SIGRI.

Clear Explanations of the Incident Must be Forthcoming, and Arbitrary Acts on Her Part Which Endanger the Security of Turkey Must be Discontinued.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 19. The Novoe Vremya, referring to the Sigri incident, says: "The clearest explanations are required from England and the naval commander responsible for the landing on the island of Mitylene should be punished. The powers in sympathy with the Sultan will unite to prevent England from committing arbitrary acts which endanger the security of Turkey."

The Sultan Shows His Hand.

LONDON, Sept. 19. The Sultan in order to emphasize the entente between the Porte and the Franco Russian alliance, has conferred upon M. Ribot, the French Foreign Minister, the Grand Cordon of the Order of Osmanee and upon Mme. Ribot the decoration of Nichani-Chefakat, an order for ladies founded by the Sultan himself.

British Foreign Office has received advices from Sir William White, British Ambassador at Constantinople, stating that said Pasha sent him a report from the Governor of Syria on the Mitylene incident with urgent note repeating the parties request for an explanation.

Sir William does not mention the receipt of any information concerning Sigri from Admiral Lord Kerr on which the response ought to be based. The delaying of the reply tends to confirm the belief that Admiral Kerr acted under orders.

The Admiralty has received a report from Admiral Kerr telegraphed through Constantinople presumably through the medium of the British Embassy. If Admiral Kerr acted under instructions Lord Salisbury's explanations may rest upon the fact that the Porte had long accorded the privilege of manœuvring and drilling upon the islands of the archipelago.

The Standard, in an article directly inspired, if not written by Lord Salisbury's private secretary, says: "It is advisable that the whole world should know what the English Government will do. Russia will lull itself into a most dangerous delusion to imagine that Great Britain will under any circumstances suffer Russia to obtain command of the Dardanelles. As long as Turkey effectually guards the straits England will not interfere but immediately the government of the Sultan in a fit of timidity, perversity or bewilderment, shows itself incapable of performing that imperative duty, England will assuredly not shrink from having recourse to expedients for meeting the difficulty."

Wagner's "Lohengrin."

PARIS, Sept. 19. The second performance of Wagner's "Lohengrin" took place this evening at the Grand Opera House. The theatre was filled. During the second act a number of globules containing a fetid chemical substance were thrown from the gallery to the orchestra. The police commissary gave warnings that if this was repeated the galleries would be cleared.

Later a row was caused at the box office by the editors of The Redditch newspaper trying to force an entrance with irregular tickets. Outside the opera house slight disorders occurred all the evening. The police, however, prevented serious trouble.

The police last night made 160 arrests. Ten persons arrested for causing disturbances at Wednesday's production of "Lohengrin" have been sentenced to imprisonment for one week to four months each.

Altogether six hundred and eighty arrests were made. The performance terminated without further incident.

Official Circles Astonished.

LONDON, Sept. 19. The Russian Government has requested the European Danube Commission to permit Russian Naval cadets to take passage on board the vessels belonging to the Commission, in order that they may be instructed in the pilotage of the Danube and become familiar with its navigation.

The strange request, following close upon the Dardanelles incident, in which Russia insisted that Turkey should allow vessels belonging to her volunteer fleet to pass the Dardanelles, has caused considerable astonishment in official circles.

The Lethargetic Chinese Authorities.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 19. The Chinese Government, it is announced, is not aware of any threatened naval demonstration upon the part of the combined fleet of the powers. It is also stated there is no truth in the statement that the Chinese Government has sent a note to the powers in regard to the outrages complained of by the foreign ministers.

Massing of Russian Troops.

VIENNA, Sept. 19. The Politische [newspaper] of Warsaw confirms the massing of Russian troops in the western districts in connection with the manoeuvres. A ukase has been issued directing the erection of barracks for the frontier guards a quarter of a mile from the western frontier.

A Fatal Tunnel Collapse.

TRIESTE, Sept. 19. It is reported that 50 workmen have been killed by the collapse of a tunnel on a new line of railway not far from here.

BRITAIN AND HAWAII.

England Planning to Take Possession of the Kingdom.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19. A Washington despatch to The Evening Post says: "Celso Caesar Moreno, a well known Italian American residing here and acting as an agent in his country of the National party of Hawaii, corresponding to the Chilian congressionalists, yesterday laid before the president a letter that he recently received from a correspondent at Honolulu asserting in the most positive terms that England is now planning to take possession of the kingdom.

"The writer said that some action on the part of the United States is necessary, that the queen is favorable to the British interests, and ready to countenance the move when made.

The president was much interested by the letter and asked Mr. Moreno to communicate with Secretary Blaine."

ALMOST ANNIHILATED.

The German African Expedition in a Sorry Plight.

BERLIN, Sept. 19. The Colonial Blatt of this city publishes further details from Zanzibar in regard to the disaster which has overtaken the German expedition under the command of Captain Zalewski. These show that while Captain Zalewski's expedition was at Wahehe the chief ruling over that district promised friendship to the Germans, but he subsequently robbed 30 members of the expedition at Mwapa. As a result of this breach of faith the German forces stormed the fortress or stronghold of the chief and succeeded in capturing it.

This battle was without doubt the victory announced by the Berliner Tageblatt on Sept. 12, when that paper stated that Captain Zalewski in August last had a desperate fight with a large body of natives, and that he had defeated the enemy with heavy loss.

The Colonial Blatt's later news shows that while Captain Zalewski later on was marching further inland into the Wahehe country his command was surprised by the natives and almost annihilated.

Lieutenant Tittinborn is expected to arrive shortly at the coast with the remains of Captain Zalewski's defeated corps.

ARRIVAL OF SURVIVORS.

ZANZIBAR, Sept. 19.—Lieut Tettenborn and 65 survivors of the Zalewski expedition have arrived at Bagamoyo.

NIAGARA'S VICTIM.

The Mighty Cataract Throws Up Two More of Them.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Sept. 19.—What appeared to be a body could be seen through the mist, now and then, for the past two or three days, under the American falls. Yesterday afternoon a body was discovered by J. McCloy just below the upper Suspension bridge, rapidly floating toward the whirlpool rapids. Customs Officer A. J. Walker and W. Glassbrook went out with a boat and succeeded in securing it. The corpse proved to be that of a woman who committed suicide by going over the falls a week ago yesterday. It was towed to the American shore and Coroner Walsh was notified.

The clothing on the body consisted of a black diagonal cloth sack or waist, the collar of which was trimmed with beads, a pair of dark brown kid gloves, black stockings and one low shoe. There was also a yellow silk elastic garter, with a silver buckle on which was a handsome painted pansy. The remainder of her clothing had been torn away by the rocks. On the third finger of her left hand was a plain gold ring. On the right hand were several small sores, covered with cloth. The body is in a reasonably fair state of preservation and no bones seem to have been broken.

It appears that the woman passed through the Cave of the Winds on the day she committed suicide, and when registering her name she said her hand had been poisoned. She registered as Mrs. Williams, the same as at the Cataract House.

An inquest will be held on Monday.

The body of a man is floating around the Whirlpool. It is probably that of Haywood, who committed suicide on the same day as the woman.

The Steam Tug King Burned.

TOBERMORAY, Ont., Sept. 19.—The steam tug King of St. Catharines, Capt. John Soden, while lying at the dock early yesterday was discovered to be on fire, and in less than an hour was a total loss. The crew barely escaped with their lives, losing all clothing and valuables. Cause of fire unknown.

Sunday Street Cars.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 19.—In the case of the East Harrisburg Railway Attorney-General Hensel declined to permit the use of the name of the Commonwealth in a proceeding to forfeit the franchise of the company on the ground that it operates its cars on Sunday.

A Horrible Threshing Accident.

MILFORD, Ont., Sept. 19.—Finley Clark, son of Gilbert Clark, of South Marysburgh, while stepping off the mow yesterday stepped into a threshing machine with his right leg and was drawn up to the groin. Doctors amputated the leg at hip joint, but Clark died at close of operation.

A DESPERATE ATTEMPT

By 1,300 Prisoners to Escape From San Quentin Penitentiary.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—A despatch from San Francisco says that a startling story came from San Quentin on Wednesday of a plot said to have been discovered among prisoners in the State Penitentiary there. On Wednesday large quantities of dynamite were found in the cells of several convicts. It was concealed in the straw of their mattresses and between the stones of the walls.

The leader of the conspirators is Charles Backman, who is serving a 35 year sentence for burning a ship in San Francisco Bay.

The plan of the gang was to explode large dynamite cartridges under the walls of the prison, when 1000 prisoners were out in the yard. This, it was expected would result in killing most if not all of the 50 guards.

The prisoners were then to seize their guns and pistols and make a break for liberty, shooting and hacking down everybody who opposed them.

Fatal Ballooning.

MERIDEN, Conn., Sept. 19.—One of the features of the Meriden State fair has been the daily balloon ascensions. Prof. Northrup has been advertised to make the ascensions, but yesterday James Robinson, one of his helpers, took his place and agreed to make two trips. At 2 o'clock Robinson took his place on the trapeze and the balloon was released. When it had reached a height of 400 feet one of the ropes of the trapeze broke and Robinson fell to the ground. He was picked up unconscious and medical aid summoned. He was found to be paralyzed from his shoulders down, his right leg is broken and he is internally injured. It is thought that he will die.

At 5 o'clock Frank Bronson, another helper agreed to make the second trip. He went up to a height of 1000 feet and attempted to release the parachute, but it stuck. The balloon was caught by a current of air and carried away. As it descended Bronson was dragged through tree tops and branches. When rescued four miles away he was found to be shockingly torn and lacerated and suffering from internal injuries. He is in a critical condition.

Fitzsimmons Still at Large.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 19. Frederick C. Fitzsimmons, the fugitive murderer, has not been caught yet, nor is there even a definite clue of the direction he took.

The opinion is now general that Fitzsimmons did not saw his way through the window to the jail roof, but that bribes helped him out of the jail door.

SUPPOSED TO BE FITZSIMMONS.

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 19. A suspect supposed to be Fitzsimmons, who escaped from the Pittsburg jail, was arrested here yesterday. The man was captured as he came from a C. & P. train. He claimed to be a traveling man, but investigation shows that his story is false. He tallies with the printed description of Fitzsimmons in every particular and officers will leave here today to identify him.

Gladstone's Health Causing Uneasiness.

LONDON, Sept. 19. Sir Andrew Clarke has just left Hawarden after a visit, during which he examined Mr. Gladstone, and announces that the aged statesman has not yet fully recovered from his recent attacks of influenza. Sir Andrew enjoined the greatest caution upon his distinguished patient, and even urged him to give up his political engagements entirely, but Mr. Gladstone, who is feeling quite vigorous, insists on making the trip he had planned to Glen Almond, Perthshire, for which point he starts on the 25th inst.

The De Cobain Case Again.

BELFAST, Sept. 19. A man named Allen, who is the chief witness for the Crown in the charges of immoral conduct brought against Mr. S. W. De Cobain, one of the members of Parliament for Belfast, has been arrested in this city, the complaint against him being that he was engaged in the sale of obscene pictures. Mr. Edward De Cobain, a member of Parliament for Belfast, early in April last fled from the United Kingdom in order to escape arrest on a warrant charging him with unnatural crimes.

Arrival of Balmaceda's Silver.

SOUTHAMPTON, Sept. 19. The British steamship Moselle arrived here yesterday from Montevideo, having on board the $800,000 in silver shipped by ex President Balmaceda of Chili to Europe in order to pay for war materials. This is the silver conveyed to Montevideo by H. M. S. Espiegle. The bullion will be stored in the Bank of England pending the settlement of the legal questions involved.

Gold Reefs in Ireland.

LONDON, Sept. 19. A remarkable story of rich gold reefs found on the west of Ireland says that they resemble those of the gold strata of California, Australia and South Africa, extend clear around a mountain and yield at least four to eight pennyweights per pound.

Cable Chat.

A mail coach has overturned in a mountain pass between Albula and Lenz, Switzerland. The coach fell into a ravine, killing two ladies and seriously injuring three other persons.

At an experiment to-day at Jutterbog, Germany, with a new style of field piece, a shell exploded and seriously injured six persons.

What Does it Mean?

"100 doses one dollar" means simply that Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most economical medicine to buy, because it gives more for the money than any other preparation. Therefore, be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla, the best blood purifier.

The Cochrane Case in the Commons.

Whitewashing the Inculpated Member—Speech of Mr. Barron, North Victoria, on the Motion to Adopt the Majority (Government) Report.

In the House of Commons on Thursday the motion for the adoption of the report of the committee appointed to investigate the charges against Mr. Cochrane led to a spirited debate on the Liberal side of the House. It was Mr. Skinner who formally moved the resolution, and he did so without a word of comment. This course appeared so unusual that Mr. Davies asked in unfeigned surprise whether the hon. gentleman would not explain the reasons. "The reasons are in the report," replied Mr. Skinner. "But I want to know the reasons for adopting the report," was Mr. Davies' retort. "There are none, it is quite indefensible," remarked Sir Richard Cartwright. After Mr. M. C. Cameron's trenchant criticisms of the report and convincing summary of the evidence brought out before the Committee, Mr. White, of Shelburne, one of the Government staff of calciminers, applied a weak lime wash to Mr. Cochrane and his pals. He was followed by Mr. Barron, of North Victoria, who addressed himself to the subject:

Mr. Barron said the report of the committee, was in his opinion, totally at variance with the evidence. The speech of the hon. gentleman who had just spoken was at variance with itself. At the beginning of his speech he said the payments were voluntary, and yet out of his own mouth he stultified himself, because the payments were improper and reprehensible. What was there reprehensible in a man making a voluntary payment. If the reason why Hedley Simpson should get the office was that his father had it before him, that was all the stronger reason that he should not be asked to pay $200 for it. The majority report did not state the fact that Hedley Simpson was an applicant for the office. Why did it overlook this important point? because the fact that Hedley Simpson sent Stanley, the close friend of Mr. Cochrane, to Mr. Cochrane about the office brought Mr. Cochrane directly in touch with the appointment. Stanley went to Mr. Cochrane and saw him at the tavern, and it was there he believed the celebrated letter was written. Why had they not put Mr. Cochrane in the box to deny that there was such a letter? If that letter was not written why did Hedley look for it to bring it to the committee? He said in his evidence he looked because he thought his subpœna called for it. Would he think his subpœna called for a letter which had no existence? Why did Mr. Cochrane not go into the box to deny that the letter which Hedley looked for, and could not find, was ever written? That letter sounded his political death knell, and yet, forsooth, because it would be "unpleasant for him to contradict a political friend," he had not denied it. The evidence of Hedley Simpson showed there was such a letter, but to get anything from the witness was like straining porridge through a straw. They answered, "I don't know," "I don't remember." It was like extracting teeth to get evidence, but what was got was enough to condemn the hon. member for East Northumberland. Speaking of the benefit which Mr. Cochrane had derived from the money paid by Hedley Simpson, he emphasized the fact that by the payment of Hedley Simpson's $200 Mr. Cochrane's liability for the $618 note was wiped out. The majority report said these sums taken from men who had never before paid a dollar to the Conservatives, were voluntary. It was an insult to the intelligence of the House to say so. They were screwed out—"exacted," as Mr. Bullock said. Hedley Simpson, when hauled up in court to pay his debts to W. W. Webb, said he could not pay his debts because it took all the money he could raise to pay the notes for his office. He swore further that he had no money to pay the notes until he earned the money in his office. He swore he never before contributed to elections and took little interest in politics. Yet it was said this man gave the $200 voluntarily and not as payment for his office. It was a positive insult to ask the House to say it was otherwise. The majority report said that any negotiations about the lighthouse took place between James Stanley and Hedley Simpson. The drafters of it had not read the evidence or they would see that on the 20th April Mr. Cochrane wrote to the Minister of Marine that he had told Hedley Simpson at Easter that he had been appointed. It was said the men paid the money for the love of the thing, and yet applicants for the office of bridgekeepers were required to put up $150, and those who were not appointed received their money back again. To show that Mr Cochrane knew of the working of the Patronage Committee, Mr. Barron referred to the evidence of James Stanley, who said he told Mr. Cochrane from time to time the committee had made recommendations to Thos. Fitzgerald, one of the men who paid $150 and got an office, who said he got up a petition and gave it to Mr. Cochrane, who said, "I will give it to the committee. I have nothing more to say. Whoever the committee picks out will get it"; and to David C. Bullock, in whose store the committee met, who told Mr. Osler that Mr. Cochrane attended one of the meetings and that while he was there for half an hour the discussion of the appointments and amounts to be paid was going on. All this was indicated clearly in the evidence, and yet the majority report said Mr. Cochrane knew nothing about it and all was clean and sweet, and Mr. Cochrane would go out of this chamber free from all blame.

The Ministerialists, during the delivery of Mr. Barron's splendid review of the evidence, had to be called to order several times by Mr. Speaker, because of the disgraceful uproar they created. Mr. Barron showed a score of instances where the contradiction of the report was so plain that the only explanation was that the members who signed it could not have read the evidence before signing it, and the Ministerialists that night were indifferent to the evidence.

When Mr. Barron concluded no one rose on the Ministerial side to reply, the Government supporters were content to allow Mr. White's brief and lame defence of the report to stand as their justification for their vote and as Mr. Cochrane's justification.

Mr. Barron was followed by Mr. German, of Welland, and the debate was not concluded as the report closed.

The Three Ages.

Childhood, Boyhood or Girlhood and Youth.

Childhood embraces the first seven years of life, and is characterised by the rapid growth and development of the organs of the body. At the age of seven a child weighs about six times as much as at its birth, and it has attained one-half of the stature, and about one-third or one-fourth of the weight of the grown man.

Boyhood or girlhood embraces the time from the seventh to the fourteenth year of age. In the development of body, this age is characterized by the appearance of the permanent teeth, by the completed growth of the brain, and by the first consciousness of sexual difference.

The age of youth extends from the beginning of puberty to the complete development of sexuality, or from the fourteenth to about the twenty-first year of age. At this time the growth of the body is completed; young men and women become aware of their special duties of life and of the difference in the careers upon which they are respectively to enter.

During the age of youth, parents should note with great care and attention the health of their boys and girls. Structures are being completed and furnished for good or evil—for health or disease. While it is the duty of parents to fully develop the moral character of their sons and daughters, it is most essential that their physical condition be closely watched and guarded.

During the age of youth there is a tendency to overstudy and overwork both body and brain, which is sure to beget nervousness, sleeplessness and irritability. There is always a growing desire to cram too many studies and subjects in too short a space of time, causing tired, heavy brain, restless and feverish anxious thoughts. All these dreaded results bring on dyspepsia, indigestion, kidney and liver troubles.

During the critical period of youth, science has amply provided for such contingencies. The wise among fathers, mothers and guardians know that science has provided from nature, for the young, a remedy which is quick and powerful in overcoming every trouble that may result from want of care or thought or by indiscretion. This friend of youth is Paine's Celery Compound, a true nerve and brain food; a builder of flesh, bone and muscle; a life-giver and true vitalizer. The most eminent physicians are recommending and prescribing it daily for our young men and women. Parents who fail to use Paine's Celery Compound for their children are unwise, and certainly heedless of their future physical well-being.

Pale, drooping girls, worn weary with a burden of disease almost greater than they can bear, should take heart and suffer no longe. Dr. Williams Pink Pills are a certain cure for all those diseases peculiar to womankind. They restore the blood, build anew the nerves, and leave happiness and health when used. Sold by dealers or sent on recipt of price (50c. a box) by addressing Dr. Williams Med. Co., Brockville, Ont. dw

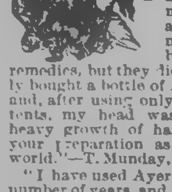
Ayer's Hair Vigor

IS the "ideal" Hair-dressing. It restores the color to gray hair; promotes a fresh and vigorous growth; prevents the formation of dandruff; makes the hair soft and silken; and imparts a delicate but lasting perfume.



"Several months ago my hair commenced falling out, and in a few weeks my head was almost bald. I tried many remedies, but they did no good. I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, after using only a part of the contents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best in the world."—T. Munday, Sharon Grove, Ky.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a number of years, and it has always given me satisfaction. It is an excellent dressing, prevents the hair from turning gray, insures its vigorous growth, and keeps the scalp white and clean."—Mary A. Jackson, Salem, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for promoting the growth of the hair, and think it unequaled. For restoring the hair to its original color, and for a dressing, it cannot be surpassed."—Mrs. Geo. La Fever, Eaton Rapids, Mich.

"Ayer's Hair Vigor is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a cure for dandruff."—J. W. Bowen, Editor "Enquirer," McArthur, Ohio.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past two years, and found it all it is represented to be. It restores the natural color to gray hair, causes the hair to grow freely, and keeps it soft and pliant."—Mrs. M. V. Day, Cohoes, N. Y.

"My father, at about the age of fifty, lost all the hair from the top of his head. After one month's trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor the hair began coming, and, in three months, he had a fine growth of hair of the natural color."—P. J. Cullen, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

A Handsome Prize.

An Evidence of What a Genuine Magazine Competition Offers.

On Friday there arrived from Toronto, for Miss M. Hera, a handsome Shetland pony, harness and cart, being the first award in the Royal Quilt Competition of The Canadian Queen magazine. It attests the genuine nature of the magazine's contests by its excellent condition and value. The Queen has frequent competitions and has made innumerable awards, displaying a generosity quite surprising to those who have had experience of the limited field for Canadian journalistic enterprise. But the Queen has been a success as a business venture from the start, and is growing in literary excellence steadily. It covers the field of fashion, as well as light reading; talks to the household, the young and indeed all home classes. The competitions have been used to assist the introduction of the magazine, for where it is introduced it is quite certain to remain a monthly guest. The leading prizes have been made, as instance this latest to Kingston, while many smaller prizes have rewarded the moderately successful among competitors. The Canadian Queen is truly royal in its ways.—The (Kingston Ont.,) Daily British Whig, June 27th, 1891.

WANT OF METHOD.

What Lies at the Bottom of the Heartaches of Modern Housework.

At the bottom of all the heartaches and headache caused by modern housework there usually lies only one trouble—want of method. Only within the last hundred years has there been any effort made to train woman, says a writer in the New York Tribune. She was regarded as a being to be governed by instinct or intuition, and all her work was expected to be done by some sweet haphazard method which should make itself right in the end by some rule unknown to every law of nature. Any one who suggested direct rules of doing housework was held up to derision as eccentric. Cooking was like a game of chance, and success and failure were looked upon generally as matters of luck. The breadmaker who measured the ingredients for her bread was looked upon as little less than daft. The natural result of want of method in bread making at home was the coming in of the foreign baker, whose loaves, though inferior in every way to a good home-made loaf, could always be depended upon to be of uniform quality. The baker produced loaves which were always the same size and quality, while the domestic loaf though delicious at times, was often a failure, owing to the want of method. When home methods become systematic methods then the home baker may come into active competition with the professional baker.

Though there are thousands of women who could bake better bread than the tradesmen bakers, and would gladly earn the money for doing so, they have not been able to gain any considerable market because they cannot be depended on for a positively uniform result. Whenever a woman conducts the work of baking by purely business methods, bakes her bread by strict uniform rule as a baker does, and charges only the regular price for it, she finds a remunerative market for her work.

From [illegible] generations men have been taught to do their work by rule. No man hires a laborer without engaging his time for a certain number of hours. The man servant knows distinctly when and what time he must devote to his work. The female servant alone is expected to do her work in a happy go-easy way. At one time she is seriously reprimanded for what is overlooked at other times. The trouble with servants is largely due to want of order in laying out their work and making them adhere rigidly to it. The average maid-of-all work has some reason in rebelling against her position when her work depends, as it often does, upon the whimsical fancies of the mistress, who drives her from one thing to another without system or order.

Strange as it may seem, it is yet true that there are no housekeepers who have so little trouble with their help as those who exact to the uttermost that which is required, but who do not break into the routine of work by ordering all manner of unexpected and unnecessary drudgery. The secret of peace in the household, of freedom from the thousand and one petty worries induced by domestic mismanagement, lies in one brief word—method. When women are trained to do their household work as craftsmen do theirs, when the head of a house manages her help with the same exactness that the master workman manages his men, making sure that every stroke of work tells toward the end, then we shall begin to see a solution of the problems of domestic service. The problems present themselves on every side, and have even reached a point at which they threaten to turn our homes into vast hostelries, to be managed on the co-operative plan.

The right arm is always a little larger than the left, but the left foot is almost always larger than the right, presumably because while nearly every man uses his right arm to lift a weight or strike a blow, in almost invariably kicks with his left foot, while the younger stands on his left leg and lets the right fall easily, because he has learned by experience that this is the best way he can assume to prevent lassitude and fatigue. This constant bearing of the weight on the left foot makes it wider than the right, and it often happens that a man who tries on a shoe on the right foot and gets a close fit has to discard the shoes altogether because he can not endure the pain caused by the tightness of the left. If when riding on a street car you will take the trouble to notice, you will see that in laced shoes the gap is much smaller on the right foot than on the left, while with button shoes the buttons have to be set back ten times on the left shoe to once on the right.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

Look Out for Wrinkles.

"The summer girls are going to come home in the fall wrinkled like hags," said a Madison avenue oculist, who sat in the sand at Spring Lake and eyed the belles and buds with a field-glass.

"I know just what I'm talking about," he continued, "there is no protection for the eyes under those tuck-brim straw hats, and the gauze-covered parasols are as good as tissue paper. If you will take the trouble to observe you will find that all the fashionably dressed women on the beach have to squint like sailors to see where they are going.

"Now that makes wrinkles gather round the eyes, across the nose and forehead and frequently about the lips. They don't come in pairs, but in companies and, what is worse, they come to stay."—New York World.

Among the features of the Austrian manœuvres were the use of a printing press on the field to print orders from headquarters and the photographing of troops while in motion.

Recently a band of brigands attacked and captured the railway station at Pavlokoi, 67 kilometres east of Adrianople. Two gendarmes who attempted to arrest the outlaws, were shot by them.

Lawlessness in Kentucky.

HARRODSBURG, Ky., Sept. 17.—A big riot is in progress. A mob yesterday rescued a prisoner from the jail. The authorities attempted to recapture him and a battle ensued. The governor has just ordered out the militia.

LATER.—The riot has ended for the present with the mob, which is small and very determined, master of the situation. The mob refuses to give up the rescued prisoner, and the authorities are powerless to retake him. The first report that the militia had been ordered out was a trifle premature. The governor was appealed to for troops, but he refused to order them out for the present, claiming that the case was not yet one for executive action and that the local authorities should first exhaust every effort to maintain the majesty of the law.

He is an Escaped Convict.

JACKSON, Mich., Sept. 17.—The man who is under arrest at London, Ont., on a charge of burglary, and who goes by the name of John Mack, was yesterday identified by means of photographs sent by Warden Davis, as the convict Davis from Kalamazoo, who escaped from the state prison at Jackson a few weeks ago.

TWO BROTHERS LYNCHED.

Strung Up on Two Sycamore Trees For Killing a Kentucky Sheriff.

SOMERSET, Ky., Sept. 17.—The Gilliland brothers, James H. and Josiah, were lynched yesterday by a mob for the murder of Sheriff McCargue, of Pulaski county last Saturday. The mob is supposed to have come mostly from Whitely and Laurel counties. McCargue was raised in Laurel county and had many friends in that section.

At a late hour the night before there was a great growd of men gathered in front of the court-house, and the ominous words "one o'clock" were whispered from one to another. Without any conference they filed down to the jail, where they were repulsed for the moment by a guard of some ten men in charge of the chief of police and his son. The guards stood at their post until they saw it was useless, and then came the demand for the victims. Jailor Shepard was called to the door and overpowered by the mob, and was forced to give up the keys to the jail, when the prisoners were taken out and hanged.

The Gillilands were game to the last and no confession could be procured. They asked leave to kneel and pray and protest their innocence. Their requests were answered by angry curses from the mob. The authorities at this place did all in their power to suppress and quell the angry mob.

The men were hanged on the limbs of two sycamore trees, one on each tree, about three squares west of Somerset, in sight of the cemetery.

New York's Democratic Candidate.

SARATOGA, N.Y., Sept. 17.—Roswell P. Flower, of Watertown, N.Y., was nominated on the first ballot at the Democratic state convention yesterday to oppose J. S. Fassett, of New York city, for governor of New York state.

Anxiety About the Str. Cervier.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Much apprehension is felt here for the safety of the steamer Cervier reported disabled at sea. The company's agents have sent out tugs to look for the vessel, but have no trace of her. It is supposed she has drifted out of the track of vessels.

PORTLAND, Oregon, Sept. 18.—About 8.35 last night several slight shocks of earthquake, lasting ten seconds, were felt here, but no damage was done.

Men that Jump

at conclusions are generally "of their base." Because there are numberless patent medicines of questionable value, it doesn't follow that all are worthless. Don't class Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy with the usual run of such remedies. It is way above and beyond them! It is doing what others failed to do! It is curing the worst cases of Chronic Nasal Catarrh. If you doubt it, try it. If you make a thorough trial, you'll be cured. $500 forfeit for an incurable case. THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT OF QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

The Galway Lead Mine.

After laying idle for over twenty years, another attempt, says the Independent, is being made to open the Galway lead mine. Messrs. Ketch and Keith of Toronto have obtained an option from the old company, and are now engaged in making a thorough test of the property. A practical foreman has been in charge for some weeks, and has the old shaft sunk to a depth of about one hundred feet. In the recent work two pockets have been struck, each the size of a sugar barrel, of almost pure lead. Two drifts have been run in from the shaft, and the indications are all favorable. Up to the present, the hoist has been worked by horse power, but a steam engine is now being set up. The ore will have to be shipped from Kettle's station which gives a haul of four miles. Should the tests prove as satisfactory, as present indications give hope for, the Galway mine will furnish work for a large number of men.

The New Sunday School Room

Of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church—A Commodious, Convenient and Elegant New Structure to be Formally Opened To-Morrow.

The new, commodious and elegant Sunday School room of the Charlotte street Methodist church is now completed, ready for the opening, which takes place to-morrow. Work was begun last August on the new building, which consists of the old building improved, elevated and practically rebuilt, and of an extension at right angles reaching to Reid street. The Reid street entrance is by a porch 7x10 feet, opening on a passage 7x14, admitting to the lighted by six windows, glazed with ground glass and hinged for convenient ventilation, and with a platform about seven feet wide and twenty feet in length, on the southern side. Opening from this room in front on each side of the vestibule, are two rooms, each 14x15 in area, one intended as a class room and the other as the library. At the opposite end is a large class room 14x17, and alongside of it a room to be used as a kitchen, 9x10. Opening off the main room at the east, at its left, are a vestibule 11x17 feet, admitting to the church proper, and also affording entrance from the outside, and another large class room 14x15 feet admitting to the vestry. The ceiling of the school room is of elegantly pannelled wood, painted a delicate neutral tint, and the line of the side walls is broken by a course of light wood moulding for hanging mottoes, text-cards, charts, etc., upon. The room is seated with substantial hardwood chairs, and altogether the new school is admirably adapted to its intended purposes, and will be, for a short time only it is to be hoped, a relief of the congestion from increased attendance, which demanded the enlargement of the old school room. Great credit is due to all concerned in the erection of the new building. Mr. W. Blackwell was the architect, Mr. W. Fitzgerald had the contract, Mr. W. Henry did the plastering, and Mr. George Fry the painting. The building committee have every reason to be pleased with the manner in which the work has been performed.

The formal opening takes place to-morrow. Particulars of the services will be found under the heading "Church Chimes."

HONARY PRESIDENT—Mr. Fessenden.
PRESIDENT—Mr. T. Dodds.
FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT—Miss B. Morrow.

COMMITTEE (1st form)—G. Rogers, D. Thom, Miss Burnham and Miss Ferguson.

The society will hold regular meetings, and it is expected a great improvement in the literary and musical tastes of the pupils will be the result.

The Drama.

"Alvin Joslin" drew a crowded house last night, and the people were fairly well satisfied with the performance. "Alvin Joslin" appears to be numerously represented on the stage. Last year Chas. L. Davis toured through Canada in Den. Thompson's original character, while this latest aspirant to Alvin Joslin fame was Mr. Chas. Willard—if that be his name. He is advertised to appear in Toronto as Geo. Davis. He succeeded splendidly in the character. His representation of the sly old Yankee farmer was tiptop. The audience laughed continuously while he was on the stage. In fact the mirth was infectious. The stage players themselves frequently broke out into smiles or laughter, and the judge whilst pronouncing the death sentence on old Alvin gave vent to a chuckle at every other word. As to the other members of the troupe, they were good, bad and indifferent. "Clorinda Joslin" was well represented, and several other roles were filled acceptably. But old Alvin was the life of the play, as he is supposed to be, and he took full honors last night. The play has been revised considerably and was new in some parts.

From the Jaws of Death.

Some surprising effects have been recorded from the use of Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil in the most desperate cases of consumption. When all other remedies have failed Miller's Emulsion nearly always succeeds. It is the best kind of flesh and blood maker, and has been used with marked success by the physicians in the Insane Asylum, Penitentiary, Hotel Dieu, and General Hospital in Kingston, Ont. In big bottles, 50c and $1 at Peterborough drug stores. dw

St. John's Harvest Festival.

Unusually Successful—A Beautifully Decorated Church—A Bright and Hearty Service.

The annual Thanksgiving Harvest Festival of St. John's last night was most successful in every way. The decorations of the church were exceptionally elaborate, tasteful, and effective. The pillars were draped with wreaths of green, picked out with suggestive knots of fruits or grains. The deep window ledges were splendidly filled with fruits, vegetables and miniature sheaves of grain, and in several of them were placed gigantic loaves, baked and presented by Mr. Charles Alexander, George street, suggesting the loaves that miraculously fed the five thousand in the wilderness. The chancel was especially decorated. Most artistic banks of flowers and fruit filled the deep slopes of the windows above the altar and upon the altar itself rested magnificent bouquets of cut flowers, while it was flanked with the graceful fronds of palms and potted plants. Wreaths of evergreens, sprinkled with bright-hued berries, crowned the chancel wainscoting. The pulpit and lectern were also hidden in graceful masses of floral decoration. The litany desk was a varegated expanse of brilliant bloom, while the font was a poem in flowers, the basin crowned with splendid clusters of scarlet lilies. While the decorations were beautiful, they were also appropriate, and garden being displayed, and representing a very large amount of useful food, which will, after it has served its purpose, be distributed to the poor. The decorations reflect the highest credit upon those concerned in their production.

EVERY PRODUCT OF THE FIELD

The church was well filled with a congregation containing representatives from nearly all the congregations in town.

Before the service began the rector, Rev. J. C. Davidson, warmly welcomed these, and invited them to join heartily in the service and asked them not to consider themselves as guests, but as worshippers with the congregation of St. John's, in a common heavenly Father's house.

The service began with the processional hymn, beginning,

Come, ye thankful people come,
Raise the song of Harvest Home.

The service, was Evening Prayer with the special collects, thanksgivings, psalms and lessons, prescribed for such occasions. Rev. Mr. Davidson, took the first part of the service and Rev. J. W. McCleary rector of St. Luke's the latter part. Rev F. Heathcote, of King, Ontario, read the first lesson and Rev. Mr. Clementi-Smith, of London, England, the second lesson.

The musical portion of the service was, as to the hymns and anthems, of special thanksgiving character. There was a full choir present. The Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis were Tours' in F. The offertory anthem in which Miss Annie Fawcett and Mr. W. J. Drope took the solos was Sir John Stainer's "Ye shall dwell in the land." Dr. Davies, who presided at the organ, succeeded in making the musical portion of the service very bright and excellent.

The sermon was preached by Rev. W. H. French, of Omemee, from the text, St. John vi 35—"I am the Bread of Life." The preacher pointed out that as material bread was necessary to the sustenance of the physical being, so the spiritual being was nourished and sustained by the Bread of life, which was Christ, and by feeding upon Him in our hearts by faith, we should lead, high, holy happy and glorious lives. The sermon was earnest, practical and exceedingly appropriate to the great occasion, and the Harvest Festival of St. John's for the year of grace 1891, was one of the brightest and most successful that the church has known.

CHURCH NOTES.

Large numbers of persons visited St. John's to-day to view and admire the beautiful harvest festival decorations.

The harvest festival in the parish of Rev. W. H. French, Omemee, who was the preacher last night, will be held on Wednesday week.

In the English churches of Millbrook to-morrow harvest festival services will be celebrated. Rev. J. W. McCleary, of St. Luke's, will preach the special sermons.

Rev. F. Heathcote, an old Peterborough boy, who came to town to attend St. John's harvest festival, returned to his parish this morning.

A letter has been received from Mr. C. B Beck, who has for some time past been lay reader for Rev. Mr. Ruttan, Norway, near Toronto, stating that he will soon be ordained to the deaconship.

Rev. W. M. Loucks was unable, through temporary illness to be present at the harvest festival services last night.

Rev. Mr. Kenrick will conduct the services in the Mission School room to-morrow evening.

Rev. Clementi-Smith went to Lakefield to-day for a few days' visit.

The next important event in St. John's will be the anniversary celebration services, Nov. 1st. Preparations are already being made for the event. Rev. Prof. Clark, the popular preacher of Trinity University, will be present to assist at the services.

Turner's Tents.

Messrs. Turner & Son, have received an order for a large tent for the Omemee exhibition, and also from Cape. Croker, Bruce County. The order was received yesterday morning and the shipment made last night.

Young People's 'At Home.'

A pleasant and successful "at home" was given the young people of St. Paul's church Thursday evening by the Christian Endeavor Society of that church. There was a good attendance of young people. The schoolroom was tastily decorated with flowers and mottoes. Refreshments were served and a programme rendered, consisting of two vocal solos each by Mr. J. Churchill Arlidge and Master Gussie Arlidge; a solo by Miss Mary Paterson; vocal duet by Miss Sophie Cameron and Mr. Crane; quartette by Misses Cameron and Crane, and Messrs. Nelson and Crane; instrumental duets by the Misses Wrighton, and Misses Edith Hall and Annie Patterson; and an address by Rev. E. F. Torrance.

The Methodist Cemetery.

The EXAMINER has been asked to state that a meeting of the stockholders in the Wesleyan Methodist cemetery at Peterborough will be held at the council chamber, Peterborough on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 26th, at 2 o'clock, to discuss some matters in connection with the cemetery now closed. It is understood that there is considerable feeling regarding the closing of the ground and as to its ultimate disposal, and some uncertainty as to whether the trustees of the church are as well, the trustees of the cemetery. Those who are moving in the matter are anxious that there should be a full attendance of all who own lots and have relatives or friends there buried. 311w

Fortunately, however, local matter is about as scarce as money."

Dyspepsia

Intense Suffering for 8 years—Restored to Perfect Health.

Few people have suffered more severely from dyspepsia than Mr. E. A. McMahon, a well known grocer of Staunton, Va. He says: "Before 1878 I was in excellent health, weighing over 200 pounds. In that year an ailment developed into acute dyspepsia, and soon I was reduced to 162 pounds, suffering burning sensations in the stomach, palpitation of the heart, nausea, and indigestion. I could not sleep, lost all heart in my work, had fits of melancholia, and for days at a time I would have welcomed death. I became morose, sullen and irritable, and for eight years life was a burden. I tried many physicians and many remedies. One day a workman employed by me suggested that I take Hood's Sarsaparilla, as it had cured his wife of dyspepsia. I did so, and before taking the whole of a bottle I began to feel like a new man. The terrible pains to which I had been subjected, ceased, the palpitation of the heart subsided, my stomach became easier, nausea disappeared, and my entire system began to tone up. With returning strength came activity of mind and body. Before the fifth bottle was taken I had regained my former weight and natural condition. I am today well and I ascribe it to taking Hood's Sarsaparilla."

100 Doses One Dollar

Scratched 28 Years

A Scaly, Itching, Skin Disease With Endless Suffering Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

If I had known of the CUTICURA REMEDIES twenty-eight years ago, it would have saved me $200.00 and an immense amount of suffering. My disease (psoriasis) commenced on my head in a spot not larger than a cent. It spread rapidly all over my body, and got under my nails. The scales would drop off of me all the time, and my suffering was endless, and without relief. One thousand dollars would not tempt me to have this disease over again. I am a poor man, but feel rich to be relieved of what some of the doctors said was leprosy, some ringworm, psoriasis, etc. I cannot praise the CUTICURA REMEDIES too much. They have made my skin as clear and free from scales as a baby's. All I used of them was $5 worth. If you had been here and said you would have cured me for $200.00, you would have had the money. I looked like the picture (No. 2, page 47) in your book, "How to Cure Skin Diseases," but now I am as clear as any person ever was. Through force of habit I rub my hands over my arms and legs to scratch once in a while, but to no purpose. I am all well. I scratched twenty-eight years, and it got to be a kind of second nature to me. I thank you a thousand times.

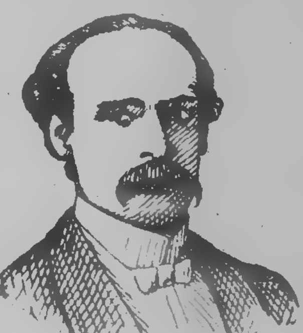
BALMACEDA SUICIDES.

THE EX-DICTATOR OF CHILI TAKES HIS OWN LIFE.

Unable to Bear Disgrace and Defeat He Makes His Exit to the Next World in a Sensational Manner—Sketch of His Career.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—A special from Valparaiso says that Balmaceda, ex-President of Chili, committed suicide Saturday morning at 8 o'clock.

Jose Manuel Balmaceda came of one of the oldest and wealthiest families in Chili. He was born in Santiago in 1840. He was intended to enter the church, but his tastes took other directions, and in 1864 he became an attache of ex-President Monat in a special mission. In 1868 he gained a good deal of prominence from his connection with a liberal reform movement. Two years later he was elected a member of Congress, and there he remained until 1885. President Santa Maria appointed Balmaceda Minister of Foreign Affairs and afterward promoted him to the highest official position in the Cabinet. Throughout Santa Maria's term Balmaceda was a staunch supporter of his policy, and did much to secure the passage of anti-clerical laws, aimed to bring about eventually a separation of church and state. When he was elected President in 1886 his victory was generally regarded as a triumph of progressive principles. He pledged himself to effect economies in public expenditures, to promote the objects of the party which had elected him, and to exert himself to prevent officials from interfering with elections.



The Dead Ex President.

Balmaceda was of the pugnacious sort of politicians who allow absolutely nothing to interfere with their plans. Balmaceda was inaugurated in 1886 and was elected for five years. He was charged with attempting to execute a plan by which he would become permanent dictator of the republic.

The events leading up to his overthrow are of sufficiently recent date not to require repetition.

Assassinated the President.

BOCAS DEL TORO, Columbia, Sept. 19.—Passengers by the American schooner Wilford, from Baltimore via Corn Island and the Honduran and Mosquito coasts, announce that the settlements along the Honduras coast at which the vessel touched are rife with wild rumors of the recent Liberal coup d'etat at Tegucigalpa, and President Bogran is said to have been assassinated in his private office by a prominent member of Bastila's party who was granted an audience by the President upon the pretext that he had a petition to present.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Sept. 20.—Juan Macorita, who has arrived from Mier Mex., says the Mexican revolutionists were overtaken north of that place by Government troops and that a battle ensued in which several on both sides were killed and wounded. Catarino Garza, the leader of the revolution, was seriously shot and then hanged to a tree. Juan Sandoval, Gen. Garza's chief lieutenant, escaped to the mountain with a few followers. He is being pursued and will be captured.

BLOWN UP IN BELGIUM.

TWENTY-NINE MINERS MEET DEATH IN A COLLIERY.

Several Persons Killed by an Explosion in a Brewery—Further Details of the Sudden and Disastrous Floods in Spain.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 20.—A despatch from Charleroi says that a terrible explosion has occurred at the Forchies la Marche colliery.

The latest reports from the scene of the colliery explosion place the number of dead at 29. There are also 11 workmen severely injured.

The news from the scene of the explosion is of the most harrowing character. Within a few moments after the fact of the awful disaster became known the parents, wives, children and other relatives and friends of those employed in the colliery hastened to the mouth of the pit in quest of news. The excitement and grief of the unfortunate people was so intense in its manifestation that it was speedily found necessary to appoint a temporary guard to prevent the women from forcing their way into the colliery. A few of the coolest headed of the miners were assigned to this task, and performed their sad duty faithfully until the arrival of the police, who were followed by a body of troops, who had been instructed to maintain order and assist in the work of rescuing the living and extricating bodies of the dead. With gentle force the women and children were urged away from the pit mouth, around which ropes were quickly stretched. The soldiers then formed a cordon outside of the ropes, and a few moments later gangs of men made up of volunteers, policemen, firemen and troops were hard at work doing everything possible to bring order out of the frightful confusion which followed the explosion.

A DESPERATE DUEL.

Italians Settle a Dispute With Swords.

ROME, Sept. 20.—A duel was fought yesterday between Gen. Gandolfi, Governor General of the Italian colonies in Africa, and Signor Franchetti, the deputy and member of the Enquiry Committee on African affairs. The general considered that Franchetti made certain reflections on his honor in connection with the management of African matters. In order that the combatants might suffer no interruption it was agreed the encounter should take place in a room in the house of one of the seconds. The weapons chosen were swords. The word was given and the two gentlemen set to fight with desperate earnestness. Gandolfi was soon slightly wounded, but his injury was not sufficient to put an end to the fight. It was accordingly continued, and finally Franchetti made a sudden rush at his adversary and was only stopped from inflicting a possibly fatal wound by the fact that in attempting to parry the thrust the general's sword struck him on the forehead and made a scalp wound. Blood flowed freely and soon streamed over his face, so that the service of the physicians had to be called in. They examined the cut and declared the wound to be of such a nature as to prevent further fighting. The seconds declared honor satisfied and the gentlemen shook hands.

Women Legislators.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—The Times publishes a despatch from its Melbourne correspondent saying that Sir George Grey, ex-Premier of New Zealand, has made a proposition which will be submitted to the House of Representatives that a new upper chamber be formed in the Government of New Zealand, that this new legislative body be composed entirely of women and that it replace the present upper chamber.

The general Government of New Zealand at present consists of a governor, the Earl of Onslow, aided by a ministry, a Legislative Council (or Upper Chamber) appointed by the Crown for life, at present consisting of 41 members, and a House of Representatives consisting of 95 members, which it is proposed to reduce to 75, elected for three years. Four members are Maoris, and are elected by the natives.

Conciliation of All Interests.

PARIS, Sept. 19.—President Carnot in the course of a speech at a banquet at Rheims yesterday, said every heart was full of patriotic emotion at the moment when France resumed her position in the world with a reconstructed army.

The President then said: "To-day there is no longer room for painful recollections of the past, which too long have divided France against herself. The country desires to live in peace, to maintain the Republic and develop a liberal policy uniting all Frenchmen. The wishes of the country may be summed up in the words "conciliation of all interests."

Bank of England Withdrawals.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—There was withdrawn from the Bank of England to-day £350,000, including £150,000 in U.S. coin, which was sold, and £90,000, which was taken for New York. Besides the sum of £90,000 withdrawn to-day, there was withdrawn for New York yesterday £50,000. These withdrawals have had the effect of hardening rates for money.

Settlements Threatened With Massacre.

BERLIN, Sept. 19.—A despatch to the Tageblatt from Bagamoyo, Zanzibar, says the Wadigo tribe in the northern territory have returned and that the settlements of Lewa and Magita are in danger. The despatch adds that the Arabs are restless and that the general situation is very bad. The Catholic missions in the interior are also in danger. Prompt and effective measures will be required to avert a serious disaster.

A hundred Russian Hebrew merchants with their families who were expelled from Russia on short notice have arrived at Lemberg, Austria, and owing to the absence of any other accommodations are being lodged in the cells of the prisons.

Mr. Parnell, speaking at Castlerea yesterday, said that one of the dangers of the future was a diminished Irish representation in Parliament. No English party, he said, could be trusted. The adoption of the 'one man one vote' principle would mean a grievous reduction of Ireland's electoral strength.

THE SARNIA TUNNEL.

OPENED WITH FEAESTING, SPEECH AND SONG.

The Great Undertaking Completed and Formally Opened—Erastus Wiman the Principal Speaker at the Banquet—Description of the Great Work.

SARNIA, Ont., Sept. 19.—The St. Clair Tunnel was formally opened to-day. A train containing Sir Henry Tyler and other officers of the Grand Trunk, and over 200 invited guests, arrived about noon and listened to an address from the Sarnia Council, after which the party went through the tunnel and was received by the Port Huron Council on the other side. A dinner was served at 2 o'clock. Among the notables aboard the train were Sir Henry Tyler, President of the Grand Trunk system, and all the managers of the Grand Trunk, several Michigan Congressmen, Hon. Frank Smith and others.

The guests arrived at the freight sheds, which had been improvised into a banquet hall. The exterior was almost covered with green fir boughs and the interior was festooned with flags and bunting until the bare rafters and ugly walls were out of sight. The floor was covered with cloth and the snowy tables with glistening silver and rich floral pieces. On the east side were three long tables running with the building, the guests facing the river. At the other end were 16 short tables set crosswise.

The post prandial work began with a toast to the Queen, offered by Sir Henry Tyler, and other toasts followed.

Mr. Wiman's Speech.

Erastus Wiman, in replying to the toast of "Trade and Commerce," said:

"The whole policy of commercial belligerency between the two countries is full of absurdity, and what is worse full of danger to such vast interests as are involved in the great tunnel, whose opening is celebrated to-day. The usefulness, nay, the existence, of the great highways between the east and west across Canada is constantly menaced by the unsettled relations between the two countries. British capital, Canadian transportation agencies and American transportation facilities of the most important character are all involved in the great gift of the United States of bonding privileges. These privileges once restricted or withheld, as has been threatened, would be a most serious and fatal matter, although if this was done, in order to put an additional screw upon the Canadians, it would be but responding to reprisals invited by a policy that their statesmen have pursued of a character just as narrow.

"Let us hope that the great tunnel which we now inaugurate will illustrate the blessed advantage of unrestricted intercourse to such a degree that before long the perfect reciprocity which exists between the States of the Union and the Provinces of the Dominion will be created between the two nations. To obliterate the commercial barrier that, like a barbed wire fence, now runs athwart the continent, would be to inaugurate a movement the consequences of which would take rank second only to those which followed the Declaration of Independence or the Emancipation of the slaves, setting the South free to pursue her marvelous career of prosperity. The great North Land needs only a similar freedom of intercourse to contribute in even a greater degree to the prosperity of the United States. The late lamented Secretary Windom, in the series of comparisons which he uttered preceding his sudden death, startled the world with the statement that the internal commerce of even this section of the country, in the tonnage that floats upon the river that flows above this tunnel, equalled that of Liverpool and London combined; further, that the tonnage of Sault Canal between two inland lakes in the northern part of North America surpassed in seven months the tonnage of the Suez Canal for an entire year. This, too, in spite of a competition of railroad systems more perfect than elsewhere in the world.

Canada's Marvelous Richness.

"A few of those who heard these comparisons realized that from only one half the continent had been originated a commerce of this magnitude. The greater half of the continent yet remains untouched so far as its contributions is concerned to this internal traffic. The southern shores of Lake Superior have yielded an enormous wealth, contributing greatly to this internal commerce, because these are in the United States. The northern shores of the same lake are equally rich in wealth-giving power, but are silent, dormant, and dead; because they are in Canada. The wheat areas of Minnesota and Dakota contributing enormously to the traffic of the lakes and railways are occupied to the fullest extent, and a land hunger exists that must remain unappeased. Yet across the border there is a thousand miles square of wheat lands that need only to be "tickled with the hoe to laugh with the harvest!" All these regions within British possessions need only the nearby market which the United States will afford to make them contributory to the commerce of that country that would augment it even to double its present great extent. Thus would be created a possibility not only of enrichment to Canada, and incidentally to the people of Great Britain, whose investments in such works as this tunnel indicate their faith in the future, but also enlarge the opportunities of the people of the United States to a degree that would assure a success in the future, measured only by that which has been achieved in the past. Literally and truly may it be said to them as it has never yet been said to any people in the world:

"No pent up Utica confines your powers,
The whole, the boundless continent is yours!'"

Description of the Great Work.

The great tunnel under the St. Clair River is, at its lowest point, 56.83 feet below the surface of the water.

At its shallowest place there is 8.43 feet of clay between the top of the tunnel and the bottom of the river.

There is 40.47 feet of water above it in the deepest channel.

From one end to the other, open cuts included, the tunnel is 11,745 feet long; rather less than 2¼ miles.

The over arched cylindrical portion of the tunnel is composed of cast iron, forming a circle outside of 21 feet, and inside of 19 feet 10 inches in diameter.

The length of the actual tunnel—the tube of iron is 6026 feet—nearly 1 1-7 miles.

The weight of this enormous tube of iron is 28,000 tons. It would, therefore, load fourteen of the 2000 ton ships that ply the great lakes.

The steel bolts and nuts that unite the segments and rings of iron together into a water and air-tight tube the tunnel proper —weigh 2,000,000 pounds, or 1000 tons, a ship load of themselves.

There are 20 miles of side track, or shuntings as Englishmen term them, in the approaches to the tunnel—10 miles on each side of the river.

The American open cutting is 2533 feet long; the Canadian 3192 feet. The American cutting is 52 feet deep, 200 feet wide at the widest point. It descends at a grade of one foot in fifty. The Canadian cutting is 60 feet deep, 200 feet wide at the widest point. It descends at the same grade—one foot in fifty.

A view of these deep cuttings as they descend from the surface impresses one forcibly with the magnitude of the tunnel.

There is 2000 feet of the tunnel under the bed of the river proper; that is, the swift, clear waters of the St. Clair flow over rather more than half a mile of the iron guarded tunnel.

Cost Two and a Half Millions.

Its cost is within a small amount of $2,500,000, with approaches, fittings and all appliances. The cost of the tunnel proper was $1,460,000.

An average of 700 men were employed in its construction. They worked day and night, eight hours constituting a day's work.

The work began on the cuttings January 1, 1889. In the afternoon of August 24, 1890, one year nine months and 23 days after beginning, the workmen from opposite ends conversed with each other through an auger hole bored into the clay between the shields and exchanged tobacco. In a little while thereafter the opening was enlarged and the first man to pass through was Chief Engineer Hobson.

An engine and car were run through the tunnel April 9, 1891, at 5.30 p.m., two years three months and 8 days after the beginning of the work on the tunnel.

There remain some finishing touches, but the work is in effect completed, two years eight months and 18 days after its beginning.

The Tunnel Proper.

The tunnel is made of rings of iron, each ring been composed of 12 segments and a key, 13 in all. The width of a ring is 18 inches, the segments being four feet long and two inches thick. They have inside flanges six inches deep and 1¾ inches thick. The segments bolted together make a ring that on the inside is 19 feet ten inches in diamater. The rings are fastened by bolts through the flanges to each other, forming a continuous tube 6026 feet long, as mentioned above. The fitting is water and air tight, the edges of the iron segments having been planed and made accurately interchangeable.

To unite the different pieces of this immense tube of iron required 828,150 steel bolts, seven-eighths of an inch in diameter.

The segments are protected from rust by a coating of tar. They were first heated and plunged in the tar, which cooling, thoroughly and perfectly covered them.

Guarding Against Foul Air.

When quicksands were struck under the river bed at St. Clair and danger from water was feared the pressure of atmospheric air was applied and the work went on in safety. This pressure was applied at a maximum of twenty-two pounds to the square inch, resulting in the equivalent of two and one-half atmospheres. It was necessary to use the air compressers for nearly six months, from April 7, 1890, to Oct. 2, 1890. An ingenious lock arrangement held the air in confinement. Horses could not endure the pressure of the atmosphere under these conditions. Mules had to be substituted, and they withstood the unwonted condition of the air well.

A deal of care had to be used in getting men of proper constitution to work in the tunnel in the compressed air. Physicians examined all the applicants for work and at every shift of the gangs. Three gangs of 75 men each were employed in this work. Several deaths resulted during its progress. Some time was taken at every shift to get the workmen accustomed to the heavy pressure and to bring them back again to the condition of normal atmospheric pressure. If any mistake was made about this the distress of the men was apparent. They would be stricken with a sort of blind staggers; their legs would wobble, accompanied by bleeding at the mouth, nose and ears. An unpleasant feeling often amounting to decided pain was felt in the ears on entering the high-pressure chamber.

Fresh air is now supplied to the tunnel by means of blowers in such abundance as to keep it thoroughly well ventilated and sweet.

The drainage of the tunnel is into a pump shaft on the Ontario side. The quantity is not above 15 gallons a minute. The drainage tubes are under the railroad track—three in number, the centre one 18 inches in diameter, the outside ones each 12 inches in diameter.

The enormous amount of tough blue clay excavated from the tunnel has been used to fill in low lands owned by the railroad company. Many acres of the marsh on the river front at the lower part of Port Huron have been covered and elevated to a height sufficient for buildings and tracks.

Unusually Heavy Rails.

The track through the tunnel is of extra heavy steel rails, 100 pounds to the yard. A lining of brick and concrete protects the lower third of the tunnel. The bottom of the tunnel is planked. At suitable places ladders and safety platforms are placed in the tunnel. Wires for lighting are carried through, and by means of incandescent electric lamps it is brilliantly illuminated. The tunnel is dry and there is nothing at all suggestive of its sub-aqueous location. The descent of the open cuttings is gradual and the change from sunlight to electricity is not all uncheerful to the traveler.

Guard rails of creosoted pine, 10x12 inches, are placed outside the steel rails of the track. The ties are of creosoted pine 8x8 inches square and 9 feet long.

The most wonderful accuracy with which the engineering work was done is shown by the circumstance that the two portions of the bore working toward the centre, met with only the fraction of an inch out of a direct straight line. The direction of the boring shields was observed every morning with transit instruments set on masonry, with a series of disks and a tube containing cross wires.

Mysterious Safe Robbery.

GUELPH, Sept. 20.—Between the hours of 12 and 1 o'clock on Saturday the sum of $41 was stolen from the safe in the office of Burr Bros., furniture manufacturers. W. Toil, the bookkeeper, had drawn the money from the bank and deposited it in the safe previous to paying the hands. He left for dinner at 12 o'clock and locked both doors of the office, but did not lock the safe. When he returned at 1 o'clock he found both doors open and the money gone.

Burned to Death.

BISMARCK, N.D., Sept. 20.—Word has just reached here that George W. Johnson and son, living about 60 miles south of here in Emmons County, were burned to death while fighting one of the worst prairie fires ever witnessed in that county.

A Stowaway's Paper Diet.

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—As showing what a stowaway will endure to get from England to America, Carl Weisman's experience on board the Stockholm City, just arrived here from London, is instructive. The boatswain discovered him on Sept. 1, and 30 tons of cargo had to be displaced to get him out of the hold. There, since Aug. 27, Weisman had eaten nothing but paper and drank nothing but the sweat on the iron steamer's sides.

A Famine Threatened.

CALCUTTA, Sept. 20.—The viceroy, Lord Lansdowne, reports that the crops are improving and that they are in a favorable condition excepting in Mysor, Madras, Ajmior and Rjpotantoa, where the prospects are gloomy. The Government has started relief works for the famine-threatened people in Upper Burmah.

A Fifty Days' Fast.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—Alexander Jacques, the French faster at the Westminster Aquarium, to-day completed a fifty days' fast. Jacques was formerly a soldier in the French army and has given several fasting exhibitions.

Orth Turns Up.

VIENNA, Sept. 19.—The Tagblatt says Archduke John, alias John Orth, was employed on board a Congressionalist man-of-war in the Chilian fight and he is now safe in Chili.

Many Railway Wrecks.

POCATELLO, Idaho, Sept. 19.—On the Union Pacific Railroad at Port Neuff, six miles from Pocatello, yesterday, passenger trains met and two collided, killing five men and seriously injuring several others.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 20.—Two cars belonging to John Robinson's circus were wrecked on a side track near here this morning. The cars were filled with employes of the show and their escape from death was almost a miracle. An actress was probably fatally injured and four men badly hurt. The accident was caused by a broken brake beam.

GLENWOOD SPRINGS, Sept. 20.—A rock on the track of the Colorado Midland yesterday, wrecked a freight train. Brakeman J. P. Morgan was burned to death between the engine and tank and Engineer Britton and Fireman Stiffler fatally injured. Thirty-five head of cattle were killed.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 20.—[illegible] freight wreck occurred on the Pennsylvania Railroad two miles east of Greensburg at [illegible] o'clock this morning, demolishing 40 freight cars and 20 cattle cars. Engineer Rofers and Brakeman Wadsworth were fatally injured and a tramp burned to death. Twenty car loads of cattle were killed and the wreck was piled 100 feet high.

The Great Benefit

which people in run down state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength, but Hood's Sarsaparilla builds up a perfectly natural way all the weakened parts, purifies the blood, and assists to healthy action those important organs, the kidneys and liver.

MILLINERY AND MANTLE DISPLAY AT TURNBULL'S

On Tuesday and Wednesday, the 22nd and 23rd Sept.

Our Millinery Showrooms will be open for the Fall Trade, when all the new fall patterns will be on display. As there is considerable change in the styles this season, ladies may expect to see novelties with us. We will also show an extensive range of Pattern Mantles, and keep a well selected stock of Cloths and Trimmings, so that ladies preferring to leave their order for anything in the Mantle Line will find everything desirable with us.

Our stock of Dress Goods is now complete. We are showing some novelties in Camel's Hair Cloths, Polka-dot and Check Robes, Cheviot Cloths and Fancy Serges. MISS MERCIER, our dressmaker, has returned from a trip to Rochester, Buffalo and Toronto, and is well posted on all the latest styles. We feel we owe an apology to some of our customers for the unpardonable time their dresses were kept before made in the past, but, as with any first-class dressmaker, Miss Mercier got overcrowded. We have made a rule not to take any orders but what can be filled in a reasonable time, so that this will be avoided in the future.

Our stock of Men's Suitings and Overcoatings are well bought and cheaper than ever. We claim to be the best house in town for Ordered Clothing.

Arrived to-day, seven shades of Ladies' Diagonal Suitings (wide) at 15c.; three-quarter Table Napkins, 100 doz.; all the leading makes of Corsets at the lowest prices in the trade.

CHARLOTTE STREET CHURCH,

Rev. Mr. Shorey Again in the Pulpit.

The Opening of the New School Room Celebrated Two Fine Sermons and an Afternoon Service—"Procrastination is the Thief of Time."

There was a familiar sight in the Charlotte street church Sunday. Rev. S. J. Shorey, its old pastor, was in the pulpit once more, and overflowing congregations listened to his eloquent ministrations. Regular church attendants were delighted to hear Mr. Shorey again, and it is needless to say that gentleman fully sustained his reputation as a splendid pulpit speaker.

The occasion of Rev. Mr. Shorey's visit was the opening of the new school-room, a description of which was given in Saturday's EXAMINER. The new building was occupied for the first time Sunday. Special services commemorating the occasion were held Sunday, and the proceedings will be continued to-night, when a grand tea-meeting and concert takes place. There will doubtless be a large attendance. Rev. S. J. Shorey, of Napanee, will be amongst the speakers.

SPECIAL MUSIC.

The musical portion of the services Sunday was, of course, unusually interesting. The choir prepared two new anthems, and, in addition, two solos were sung. Miss Fawcett sang "Calvary" at the morning service, in which she excelled herself, and Mr. A. L. Davis sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," at night.

The pulpit precincts were beautifully decorated with flowers and potted plants.

Special collections in aid of the school building fund were taken up during the day.

MORNING SERMON.

The text of Rev. Mr. Shorey's morning discourse was Acts iii, 6:—

"Then Peter said, silver and gold have I none, but such as I have give I thee."

Working out the theme of the text, Rev Mr. Shorey dwelt upon the fact that a good name was better than great riches in every case. He preached a forcible, impressive sermon.

THE AFTERNOON SERVICE.

At the afternoon, children's, service the beautiful school room, which was described in Saturday's EXAMINER, was crowded in every part, chiefly by the pupils of the school, disposed in classes presided over by their teachers, the friends of the pupils and the school occupying every foot of otherwise available space. In spite of the new school room being more than twice the size of the old one, on this occasion there was no room to spare.

The school room platform was very brightly decorated with flowers, and on the wall above it was the word "Welcome" in the form of an arch, the letters very tastefully formed of autumn leaves.

The services opened with singing by the school, followed by prayer by the pastor.

The next event on the programme was the reading in unison by the superintendent and the pupils, of the 23rd Psalm.

This was followed by a sacred solo very pleasantly sung by Miss Lola Pettitt, Miss Morrow presiding on this occasion and during the service at the piano.

Mr. ROWSE, superintendent of the school, who had charge of the programme, welcomed the teachers and pupils of the Sunday school to their beautiful new school room, including the parents and friends in his hospitable welcome, and was glad to see the large gathering present, justifying the name that had been bestowed on the occasion, "rallying day." He also pointed out the increased responsibilities that attended their increased privileges, enlarged upon the importance of the teachers' duties, and bespoke the increased support of the congregation for the Sunday school.

A hearty chorus was sung by the Sunday school choir and the children.

Rev. Mr. SHOREY, of Napanee, late pastor of the church, after pleasant references to his past relations to the congregation and the school, spoke of the gratifying change which had been wrought and congratulated all concerned upon the handsome, new and commodious school room, which gave a wide scope to the Christian activity which the great importance of Sunday School work demanded. He further hinted that the enlargement which they had that day met to celebrate, would within three years demand the enlargement of the church building. This he told the present pastor, Rev. Mr. Edwards, for his comfort.

The Misses Stevens sang in an acceptable manner a duet, "Homes there are of want and Sorrow"—the chorus of which the choir and school joined.

Mr. Moment, Superintendent of the Methodist Sunday School, Orono, gave a forcible and practical address, making a strong appeal on behalf of the Sunday School, as deserving to be ranked as a work of the church, whose financial support should be as much an object of official solicitude as the salary of the pastor.

Little Miss May Redman gave an appropriate recitation for the occasion.

Rev. Mr. Edwards, of Wiarton, brother of the pastor of the church, gave a pleasant and profitable address.

The pastor of the church following, applied in a very practical and emphatic manner the remarks that had been made during the afternoon, and the very pleasant and successful afternoon's service and most auspicious opening of the new Sunday School room were brought to a close by the benediction pronounced by Rev. Mr. Shorey.

EVENING SERMON.

The text of the evening discourse was the parable of the vineyard, Matthew xxi, 28 31.

A certain man had two sons, and he came to the first and said, son, go work to day in my vineyard.

He answered and said, I will not, but afterwards he repented, and went.

And he came to the second and said likewise. And he answered and said, I go, sir, and went not.

Whether of them twain did the work of his father? They say unto him, the first.

If I were to ask you what is the great need of the Christian world to-day, said the speaker, in order to make it harmonious, I fancy those of you who are reflecting and thoughtful would say it was not so much better instruction, not so much holier desires, not so much higher determinations and purposes, but the great need of the Christian world to-day is doing. I have sometimes thought the churches could afford to sit down a decade or two so far as their tongues are concerned and wait until their lives are caught up. Our tongues outrun our lives. Our knowledge is away in advance of our times. Our professions are almost out of hearing of our lives.

Continuing upon this theme, Mr. Shorey said these two sons represented two distinct classes in the community to-day. The first one refused his father's request, but after reflection he repented, and whether he ever unsaid the act or not, he undid it, which was the best evidence his father could have of his repentance. It is encouraging to occasionally come across a like nature in a man who recognizes that he has not always done right, but wants to do right now. It is possible this young man was actuated by selfish motives. He may have thought to himself, the vineyard will one day be mine and all the work I put into it will come back to me. Even so, Mr. Shorey said, he wished to make a point of this, because God's demands are never arbitrary. Whatever He commands them to do, it is to their best interests to obey. Some men think if they can avoid the claims of God and put them on other shoulders, they are escaping a great burden and receiving just as much good. That was a vast mistake. Everything a man does for God in some way and somehow comes back to him an hundred fold.

Oh, my friends, said the speaker, here is the secret of power for man. When men confess their sins and shortcomings, the hand that stretches out to them must be a hand that knows a like experience. If you stand afar off as if you never knew repentance and had no need of it, you will chill the world and repel further and further away from God those who are seeking to come nigh. Encourage them in their repentance, it is better late than never, and you will put inspiration into them.

The second son—what a numerous posterity he has to this day. All over the world these words, "I go," are ringing from the second sons of humanity—"I go in answer to the appeals of God and right." But they go not. This young man likely enough had the most honest intentions, but he thought to himself there was no hurry for going to-day. There were others at work in the vineyard and it would not suffer much if he did not go just then. So he did not go. There were probably people like him sitting in the church. The spirit of God was touching their hearts, they felt they had not been living aright. The calls of conscience quickened withing them and they cried "yes, I go." But they go away, defer it from day to day, and the impressions leave them. Ah, the unfruitfulness of good resolutions without determination! If men understood God was not asking them to do anything that was not to their blessing and benediction they would not try to cheat God by not doing His will.

This young man may have said to himself, I had better first go and sharpen the implements with which I am to labor in the vineyard, instead of going to work with the tools he had. So some people in the church when asked to do God's work say, "wait till I get some experience, and am better able to do it." They go away and begin sharpening the implements of their labor, and death overtakes them before they get to work. Could they not see that the best way to acquire the power to do the things God intends them to do, is to undertake to do them.

Neglected duties to-day can never be overtaken. Some people are constantly deferring a duty until another person steps in and does the work. Then they congratulate themselves upon their good intentions and piously remark upon the providence of God providing a way for everything. They said "yes, I go," and thought they had done something meritorious, yet they went not. Could they realize that every duty performed leads upward to God and every duty shirked leads downward, they would not be so complacent.

People say to themselves sometimes when God calls to them, "now, there is somebody else who ought to attend to it rather than me." They see it ought to be done but they quiet themselves with this argument until bye-and-bye, they see it is undone forever. Instead of stifling, choking, restraining, putting down these things which are within us, said the preacher, which call us upward to God, we ought to cherish them as unspeakably precious. They are the voices calling us to the skies—don't silence them. They are the lights breaking through the clouds to guide us from earth—don't put them out. They are the immortal pilots of the soul leading us upward to God—don't drive them away.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

Is the "ideal" Hair-dressing. It restores the color to gray hair; promotes a fresh and vigorous growth; prevents the formation of dandruff; makes the hair soft and silken; and imparts a delicate but lasting perfume.

"Several months ago my hair commenced falling out, and in a few weeks my head was almost bald. I tried many remedies, but they did no good. I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, after using only a part of the contents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best in the world."—T. Munday, Sharon Grove, Ky.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a number of years, and it has always given me satisfaction. It is an excellent dressing, prevents the hair from turning gray, insures its vigorous growth, and keeps the scalp white and clean."—Mary A. Jackson, Salem, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for promoting the growth of the hair, and think it unequaled. For restoring the hair to its original color, and for a dressing, it cannot be surpassed."—Mrs. Geo. La Fever, Eaton Rapids, Mich.

"Ayer's Hair Vigor is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a cure for dandruff."—J. W. Bowen, Editor "Enquirer," McArthur, Ohio.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past two years, and found it all it is represented to be. It restores the natural color to gray hair, causes the hair to grow freely, and keeps it soft and pliant."—Mrs. M. V. Day, Cohoes, N. Y.

"My father, at about the age of fifty, lost all the hair from the top of his head. After one month's trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor the hair began coming, and, in three months, he had a fine growth of hair of the natural color."—P. J. Cullen, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

THE SPANISH FLOODS.

Three Thousand People Drowned. Five Million Dollars Damage.

MADRID, Sept. 19. The number of people who perished in the floods in the Province of Toledo is now placed at 2300, and the number of lives lost in other localities at 500. In addition, many were injured. The destruction of grape, olive and maize crops in the flooded district is in itself a serious evil. It is estimated that the total loss from the flood, including the destruction of crops, damage to property, the railways' loss of their effects, will amount to little short of £1,000,000. The bodies of animals are being burned, and the stench is terrible. The Minister of Public Works and his [illegible] are distributing money, food and clothing among the sufferers.

The bodies of 1200 victims of the flood at [illegible] have been buried. The town wears a most desolate aspect. The streets are covered with a deposit a yard deep of stinking mud, which probably still contains many corpses. A deposit of similar slime envelopes the whole of St. John's Church, the furniture of which was thrown in all directions by the torrent. Hundreds of Franciscan priests have displayed heroic devotion in recovering and interring bodies which are now badly decomposed owing to the extreme heat.

The superintendent of the military works gallantly saved the lives of 60 persons by means of a hastily constructed raft of barrels secured from floating wreckage. [illegible] badly injured himself he did not flinch in his efforts to save his fellow beings. He lost the whole of his own property and the savings of many years. He is now building a wooden bridge across the river to restore communication.

PALESTINE SHUT TO JEWS.

The Chosen People Denied Admission to the Lands of Their Fathers.

LONDON, Sept. 19. The pathetic spectacle of denying the Jews admission even to Palestine was witnessed last week at the port of Jaffa. The exiled Hebrews had to go back without being permitted to set foot on shore. The Jews then applied at various ports, but were rejected at all of them. They were then conveyed to Cyprus.

In the city of Jerusalem the Turkish authorities are enforcing the regulations calculated to annoy the Jewish residents and induce them to leave.

Nevertheless, an English tourist, returning from Palestine, says the soil is ample for the support of a large population and that virtually no attempt is now made to work it. The same writer thinks the Sultan would readily grant the Jews access to the Holy Land, provided he received a large sum of money and that he will not until then relax the exacting situation.

Horrors of Russian Prisons.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 19. Horrible discoveries were made at a recent trial in Kieff, arising from the death of a prisoner named Drujankoff in the jail. The post mortem showed the men had been terribly bruised, 12 of his ribs being broken. At the trial the wardens confessed that by order of Inspector Morozoff they had beaten the deceased with sticks and stones and trapped in cage, and declared that such castigation was common. The evidence given was, in fact, of a nature to make one's hair stand on end. The wardens were sentenced to hard labor, while Inspector Morozoff was sent to exile in Siberia and the loss of civil rights. Morozoff, however, has eluded the police and fled to America.

A Populace Enraged for Bread.

WARSAW, Sept. 19. The bakers of the town of Zgierz, Poland, raised the price of bread to five kopecken per pound on account of the rise in the price of grain. The populace rebelled en masse, invaded the market place and sent an appeal to the governor of the district. This official [illegible] granted their request for a [illegible] price for the staff of life. He [illegible] soldiers, headed by a drummer, to parade the streets and announce that bread should again be sold at four kopecken per pound, the former price, and that any baker refusing to accept this price would be imprisoned.

THE HULL STRIKE.

Some Lurid Talk in the Speeches of Prominent Strikers.

OTTAWA, Sept. 19. Yesterday 1200 of the striking mill workers paraded in procession through the city, and afterwards listened to speeches made by Mr. W. Keys, one of the most prominent men in Montreal labor circles, urging peace. Whilst reminding the men that the mill owners, their masters, their tyrants, had called out the militia to shoot them down, the speaker begged them to commit no act which would put them in power of the militia, the bloodhounds of Eddy, Booth & Co., whom they would drop one by one over the Chaudiere Falls. The masters have issued a letter stating they cannot afford to agree to the men's terms.

Bright Trade Prospects.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19. While the increased movement of such staples as cottons, worsteds, hats, shoes, notions, hardware and millinery continues a feature as heretofore, special telegrams to Bradstreets corroborate the statement that the autumn's distributions in general lines has started a month later than usual.

Advances from the Canadian Dominion report trade greatly improved in Ontario with bright prospects for the season and money in active demand to move the crops. There is a fair volume of trade in drygoods and groceries in the Province of Quebec, and the outlook is regarded favorable. The Dominion reports 33 business failures this week against 23 last week and 30 this week last year. The total number Jan. 1 to date is 1277 against 1157 last year.

Hanged for His Crime.

EAGLE PASS, Tex., Sept. 19. R. H. Duncan, the murderer of the Williamson family, paid the penalty of his horrible crime on the gallows here yesterday. Duncan's crime was the murder of the Williamson family of four people of San Saba County in 1889. The bodies were found floating in the Rio Grande, seven miles above Eagle Pass, with stones tied to them. All had their skulls crushed, and two of the women had strings tied around their throats. Duncan and his brother Tap was arrested, but Tap was released for want of evidence.

The Girl who Teaches.

Sound health is a prime necessity for any worker in the world, no matter what the line of work may be, but it becomes of the greatest importance if the work is to be carried on in the school-room, writes Caroline B. LeRoy, in the September Ladies Home Journal. There not only the physical, but the nervous and mental forces are taxed to their utmost. The young graduate has hitherto gone to school to sit comfortable at her desk; to stand occasionally for recitations; to use her voice but little; to have constant variety in her work; to enjoy her recess with perfect freedom and in congenial companionship. As a teacher she goes to school to stand upon her feet all day long; to use her voice incessantly, perhaps, too, in a large room filled with the tumult of the street; to keep noisy, and, very likely, rebellious and disobedient children not only quiet, but interested, and to spend the recess in care of them in the halls and the yard. Besides this she is to stimulate their brains, and a certain amount of time—usually prescribed by a board of education, the members of which know little of the capacity and possibilities of the youthful mind—is allotted her, in which she must somehow or other, succeed in teaching them a certain number of facts—no allowance being made for the slowness, stupidity, or disorder, which increases the friction of the work and delays the doing. No matter how complete the education, or how enthusiastic the spirit, the power physical endurance is absolutely necessary.

A Handy Saucepan.

A novelty in the shape of a saucepan has recently been brought out by an English concern. The pan cooks eggs to your satisfaction and then whistles blithely to let you know that they are done.

To accomplish this last feat, there is a small aperture in the lid over which is fastened a small piece of metal, which is also pierced so that the two holes together form a whistle.

The eggs to be cooked are placed in the bottom of the pan with just sufficient water to cover them, and the pan is then placed on the fire. The instant that steam begins to rise from the boiling water, the whistle emits its characteristic sound, and at that moment the eggs are done.

About Card Cases.

The old, hard, stiffened sort have gone out, fortunately. The new ones are of soft leather, and sometimes they have, and sometimes they do not have, silver corners. But they have no fastening.—New York Recorder.

To Clean Marble.

To take grease out of white marble, apply a little pile of whiting or fuller's earth saturated with benzine, and allow it to stand some time. Or apply a mixture of 2 parts washing soda, 1 part pumice stone, and 1 part chalk, all first finely powdered and made into a paste with water; rub well over the marble, and finally wash off with soap and water.

The Death Least Expected.

Bings—You astonish me! How did he acquire the habit?

Dodson—It was very sudden. A cake of ice fell on him.

A Suggestion.

Grandfather—Well, Paul, what would you like for a birthday present?

Paul—Oh, grandpa, buy me a telephone, so that I can answer the teacher's questions without having to go to school.—Tit-Bits.

"Praise be to him, whose wondrous skill
Has conquered every human ill—
And now alone, as victor, stands

So spake a man, with tribute crowned,
Of Dr. Pierce, the "world renowned,"
Whose "Medical Discovery,"
Has vanquished pain and set him free.

One can but speak in praise of a remedy so effectual and unfailing as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Acting promptly and thoroughly, it produces permanent cures, Consumption in its early stages, scrofula, liver and kidney disorders, and all blood diseases, are within the field of its unbounded success.

Lives of children are often endangered by sudden and violent attacks of cholera, cholera morbus, diarrhœa, dysentery and bowel complaints. A reasonable and certain precaution is to keep Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry always at hand.

What Say They?

In popularity increasing. In reliability the standard. In merits the first. In fact, the best remedy for all summer complaints, diarrhœa, dysentery, cramps, colic, cholera, infantum, etc., is Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. All medicine dealers sell it.

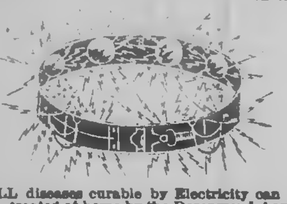
BY THE
DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT
And Attachments.
HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto
THE WORLD'S BEST.



ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA.

The attention of our Policy-Holders is directed to the following summary of the leading items of the present report, which speaks for itself as to the progress and prosperity of the Company:—

Life Assurances in force, 1st January, 1891	$16,759,355.92
Increase over previous year	3,421,372.84
New Applications received in 1890	6,371,599.15
Increase over 1889	2,268,888.60
Cash income for year ending 31st December, 1890	889,078.87
Increase over 1889	325,938.35
Assets at 31st December, 1890	2,473,514.19
Increase over 1889	687,691.47
Reserve for Security for Policy-Holders	2,109,232.68

Surplus over all Liabilities and Capital Stock	232,175.69
Increase over 1889	75,649.05
Death claims fallen in during 1890	143,961.65

The progress made by the SUN LIFE during 1890 was remarkable. The new business was the largest in the Company's history, and was equalled by but one other Canadian Life Company. The income for the year exceeds $2,000 for each day in the year, Sundays included. The Assets are large and rapidly increasing. They are, moreover, of the highest character, yielding an average interest of 6.0⁰ per cent. The overdue interest is small, and the Real Estate owned under foreclosure is only four per cent. of the amount of mortgages. This is a remarkable showing. The SURPLUS accumulated during the FOUR years of the current quinquennium is nearly THREE TIMES as much as the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail thus to be highly satisfactory. The following are the figures:—

Thursday's Great Lacrosse Match

Next Thursday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, the twelves of the Peterborough and Orillia lacrosse clubs will be lined up on the P.A.A.A. grounds, Ashburnham, for the finest match of the season. The teams are evenly matched and they will play lacrosse from face to finish. It is hoped the local club will make themselves ready for the fray by putting in two or three nights of rattling practice. Let there be a big turn out and a brisk business practice to-night on the P. A. A. A. grounds.

More Insulting Cases.

Saturday night about eight o'clock no less than three adult ladies and two girls were insulted in a wanton manner on Charlotte street by the same man. If these parties will at once make themselves known to the Chief of Police they may have the satisfaction of seeing the miscreant punished. Or, as this paragraph may not catch the eyes of the ladies in question, if anyone knowing aught of the circumstances of these cases or the persons interested, will give their information to the police, it will be equally acceptable. Every assistance should be given the police to have the wretch punished.

South Ward Boom.

Real estate men and investors generally will be interested in the judicial sale advertisement which appears in another column. The sale of eight acres in a block near the Edison Works suitable for subdivision, will be a boom to both speculators and householders, who have been deterred heretofore by the high prices from purchasing. The sale of the Albion Hotel in Ashburnham will also be an event in the history of that flourishing suburb.

Just how an alterative medicine cleanses the system is an open question; but that Ayer's Sarsaparilla does produce a radical change in the blood is well attested on all sides. It is everywhere considered the best remedy for blood disorders.

The Street Railway.

The Street Railway Committee of the town council have decided to take no action until next spring. In the meantime the two applications for franchise will be carefully considered, and as very little work if any could be done this fall there will be no time time lost in delaying decision. Next summer our electric street railway will be assured, as there is a keen rivalry for the franchise.

Walter Kerr's Condition.

Walter Kerr, the young man stabbed in the lungs, still keeps up his strength and hopefulness of recovery. But the doctors are not able to pronounce a positive prognosis. The have performed two operations to relieve the chest of the blood resulting from internal bleeding. There have been some more or less alarming symptoms of blood poisoning and the chances of recovery largely depend upon the subsidence or development of these symptoms.

A Crushed Hand.

Billy Horsely, a C.P.R. brakesman, had his right hand badly injured Saturday afternoon Some cars loaded with ties were being shunted, and the concussion broke off the stakes holding the ties in place on one the cars, the heavy pieces of wood falling on the brake where Horsely had his hand, and crushing the hand frightfully. The member will not be amputated, but it be unfit for use for a long time.

Police Court Paragraphs.

This morning in the police court, Wm. Doris was arraigned, charged with malicious injury to wearing apparel. It appears that on Sept. 17th, Mrs. Thomas Sabine was passing where the accused was at work putting limewash on a fence, when, the complainant says, he threw a large splash of the liquid lime on her dress and parasol, greatly injuring it. A fine of $2 and costs, in all $4.85, was imposed and the defendant adjuged to pay $5 damages.

Thomas Horam, up on a charge of drunkenness, was allowed to go.

The Edison Phonograph.

Messrs. Robertson & Quain, the managers of the Edison Phonograph, are in town, ready for exhibiting this wonderful instrument on the Exhibition grounds. Since their visit to Peterborough, they have added a very large number of new and beautiful selections, which will be a source of delight to all who avail themselves of the privilege of hearing this most wonderful of the scientific triumphs of this wonderful age. Messrs. Robertson & Quain will be on the exhibition grounds during the day, and will make the Grand Central Hotel their evening headquarters, where they will be glad to welcome their friends.

The Methodist Cemetery.

The EXAMINER has been asked to state that a meeting of the stockholders in the Wesleyan Methodist cemetery at Peterborough will be held at the council chamber, Peterborough on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 26th, at 2 o'clock, to discuss some matters in connection with the cemetery now closed. It is understood that there is considerable feeling regarding the closing of the ground and as to its ultimate disposed, and some uncertainty as to whether the trustees of the church are as well, the trustees of the cemetery. Those who are moving in the matter are anxious that there should be a full attendance of all who own lots and have relatives or friends there buried. 331w

An Opposition View.

The following is from the Cobourg Post:—At Peterborough on Monday evening last the town council struck the rate for the ensuing year, which is considerably lower than Cobourg. Their rate for the Protestant portion of the town is 16 mills, while the Roman Catholic citizens are expected to pay 16 8-10. Our readers will see that there is a vast difference between the taxes of that town and Cobourg, and considering the great improvements made in Peterborough of late, the rate is very reasonable. Our councillors should take a few lessons in economy, and then practice them. From the manner in which Peterborough is prospering, and the way that Cobourg lies dormant, it is evident that some of our aldermen have a poor idea as to what should be done to make the town boom.

An Important Public Meeting.

The Ancient Order of United Workmen in Peterborough are by no means "ancient" in the energy and enterprise that characterize their movements. A public meeting under the auspices of the local lodge, A.O.U.W., No. 135, will be held in the Foresters' hall, Simcoe street, next Wednesday evening, Sept. 23rd, which will be addressed by J. Milne, Esq., Grand Master Workman of the Grand Lodge of Ontario. His subject will be, "The Order, its Advantages and What it is Doing." This excellent society has a strong hold and is doing a good work in Peterborough, and the public generally and especially the members of kindred societies should be anxious to avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing of its aims and work which Mr. Milne's address will afford. A cordial welcome is extended to the public generally. No admission fee is charged and all will be welcomed. D. W. Dumble, Esq., will take the chair at eight o'clock.

Rugby Football.

Rugby football will be galvanized into momentary life next Saturday, and if the spasmodic revival of the defunct sport does not result too seriously it is possible the game may once more flourish here. There are a dozen or so young men connected with the Edison Works who never tire of telling their friends how brilliantly they can play football, and there is an equal number of young men belonging to the town, with glorious memories of many a hard fought field, whose spirit has been aroused by the confident talk of the Edison men as to the way in which they could thrash any other team that dared face them. A challenge has been issued and accepted, and next Saturday afternoon the two opposing forces will meet on the P.A.A.A. grounds. In the meantime both teams will practice diligently, and then— what happens when an irresistible force comes in contact with an immovable body?

The Central Exhibition.

The First day—Big Preparations for a big day To-morrow—Butter Making to Order—The Special Attraction the Speeding in the Ring.

This morning the annual exhibition of the West Peterborough Agricultural Society opened at the society's grounds. During the morning the grounds and the approaches thereto were a scene of the liveliest activity, exhibitors rushing in their articles, special exhibitors taken in their impedimenta and stray stock wandering in well fed unweildiness into their pens.

The office of the secretary Mr. Collins was a busy scene, he and his obliging assistants being kept busy taking entries and allocating stalls to owners of stock.

The exhibits in the main building were pretty generally placed and this afternoon the judges will be busy at their duties. The exhibits inside the hall are the largest for years and to-morrow everything will be in first class shape.

Prof. Dean and his assistant, Mr. Brown, are busy getting their travelling dairy into order and to-morrow the public will be able to see the practical operation of butter making on the most approved scientific principles, going on with plain and practical instructions given during the process by Prof. Dean, of the Guelph Agricultural College, and Prof. Robertson of the Dairy Dominion Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Prof. Dixon, the willowy and wiry great high wire artist, has his wire stretched in position and will give his exhibition to-morrow at 10.30 in the morning, and in the afternoon at 2 and 5.30 o'clock.

Messrs. Robinson and Quain will have two of their splendid phonographs at work on the grounds in different tents, and the public will have an opportunity of hearing the practical operation of the great Edison's masterpiece.

The speeding in the ring will be a special attraction to-morrow afternoon. There is already a fine field of good pacers entered for the several special trotting and pacing events. For the under mentioned events the following horses are entered, and most of them are in town:—

For the Open Trot, J. J. Daly's "Essie D", R. Croft's (Cobourg) "Billy C," Ted Philips' pacing mare, Port Hope, Gillespie's "Commonwealth" and McKenzie's (Port Perry) "Hambletonian George." For the Open Pacers' event, Appleby's "Billy Clark" and Daly's "Minnie Bell." Other horses are expected on every train, and there is no doubt, but that the speeding in the ring will be a speedy enough to give lashins' of sport to the most avaricious horsemen. The Exhibition will be in full swing to-morrow.

To-morrow afternoon has been declared school children's day at the Central Exhibition, and a half holiday will give the youngsters an opportunity of visiting and enjoying the sights at the exhibition, which will be full of both instruction and entertainment.

A Practical Move.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC, PETERBORO',
SEPTEMBER 21st, 1891.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR—The suggestion of your correspondent "Keynote" in your issue of Wednesday last is worthy of consideration, and I shall ask the members of the Philharmonic Society to discuss it at the meeting for rehearsal to-morrow evening. Desiring nothing so much as the advancement of music, I am always ready to adopt any idea having that end in view.

Yours faithfully,
J. CHURCHILL ARLIDGE.

English Clergyman's Retreat.

The Belleville Ontario says:—A retreat is being held at the residence of Rev. F. C. Poole, (Mrs. Campbell's house) in West Belleville, for the benefit of the English ministers in the city. The retreat was opened on Tuesday night, and is led by Father Huntingdon, the well known high church clergyman of New York, and who recently lectured in the opera house on the single tax reform. The retreat will be closed to-night. Those who have been in attendance at the meeting are Rev. Bogart, Canon Burke, and Rev. F. C. Poole. Rev. S. Daw and his curate have been unable to be present on account of the pressure of parish duties. An English clergyman stated to-day to a reporter of the Ontario that the object of the retreat was a retirement for a few days for prayer and spiritual meditation and strength to go forward to lead better lives. The service lasts all day usually from 7 a.m. until nine in the evening during which time the clergymen are knelt in prayer. The dress of the clergy is the same as that worn on ordinary occasions. A reporter was told that the service was common in England and was usually held at least twice a year. It is also held in some parts of Canada, and in Ottawa the ladies of the parish minister to the wants of the ministers during their retreat. The retreat in Belleville has been very quiet and little has been generally known of the service.

The Diamond Dusters.

A Good Game and a Bad One on Saturday—Indian River Wins—The 'Times' Draws With the "Examiner"

Nine baseball players were picked up by General Tighe on Saturday and driven to Indian River, where a pic-nic was being held. The Peterborough aggregation met the Indian Rivermen and suffered defeat.

It was a pitchers' battle throughout. Pomfret and Parks were the battery for the Peterborough nine, and their work was perfect. Pomfret struck out no less than twelve men in five innings. Walsh and Miles did good work for Indian River, Walsh throwing a speedy ball that puzzled a good few of the opposing batsmen.

At the end of the fourth innings the score stood 3 to 0 in favor of Peterborough. The Indian Rivermen had scarcely touched the ball, and none of them got past first base. Then a change was made, Pomfret going behind the bat and another twirler taking his place. He was wild, the team got a little rattled, the Indian Rivermen touched up the ball, though they did not make a single safe hit, and before the side was retired six runs had been scored. Peterborough followed with two more to their credit. Pomfret went in the box again and struck out the batsmen in one, two, three order, but it being five o'clock, the hour agreed upon for quitting, the Indian Rivermen deemed it advisable to stick to the letter of the agreement and refused to give the Peterborough nine their innings to even the score.

Dr. Montague, of Westwood, umpired the game.

Following was the score:—

THE PRINTERS DRAW—(NO BLOOD)

The great struggle between the EXAMINER and Times printers came off on the P.A.A.A. grounds instead of Riverside Park Saturday afternoon. There was a large crowd present and all the spectators considered that they got their money's worth of fun—which may not mean a great deal, seeing that no admission fee was charged. The game ended in a draw. Only two full innings were played—but, oh my, what an awful two innings they were. The Times typos made eighteen runs in their first innings—and we were fairly "out of sight" at the start. We have to admit we can't play ball—at least against the Times. We take back all we said on the subject. We fondly imagined because we could beat the world at shinny stick or climbing the greasy pole that we were wolverines at baseball also. But that's evidently not our forte. It's too much like work. Saturday's game has satisfied us for the rest of the season. The match was a draw, though the umpire gave a decision in our favor. In the mere matters of runs the Times had a little the best of us—something like 28 to 7—that's neither here nor there. But when one of our so called baseball players, exhausted by his frantic efforts to hit the ball, (which persisted in finding a hole in the bat to slip through) was taken away in the ambulance to the hospital, the captain of the Times team would not allow our lean man—no, that's not the term, "spare" man, we should say, to be substituted. Herein the captain of the Times team showed as little knowledge of the glorious game as did the EXAMINER typo who thought to make time by cutting across the diamond from first to third base on a passed ball, totally ignoring the second bag. As a team cannot play without nine men, the umpire (Dr. Brennan) in the light of the Times captain's refusal to allow the vacancy on our side to be filled, had to declare the game 9 to 0 in our favor. But we magnanimously waive our claim on the ground of the umpire's decision, and abiding by the rule that a game is no game until five innings are played, will be content to call it a draw. We are thankful to have got out of it so easily.

PRINTERS VS. EDISON CO.

The next game talked of is one between the printers of the town and the Edison team. The printers are to be allowed an outside battery, and the remainder of the nine will be picked from the three offices. If the match is arranged it will likely come off next Saturday.

Home from the Military Camp.

Peterborough Troop of Cavalry and the Durham Field Battery Return.

The rumble of heavy cannon and long files of horsemen made the streets echo Saturday evening. "C" Troop of Cavalry and the Peterborough wing of the Durham Field Battery returned from camp at Belleville after a pleasant fortnight's outing. The men are unanimous in saying that the Belleville camp was the best they ever attended, and they want to go there again next year. Civilians and soldier citizens alike of the Bay City did their utmost to give the volunteers a pleasant time, and they succeeded admirably. The officers and men of the 15th, Belleville's city regiment, were particularly kind and thoughtful. The camp commissariat was also commendable.

Peterborough troop of cavalry comprised three officers and 37 troopers. Lieut.-Col. H. C. Rogers commanded. Lieut. Strickland, who is usually attached to the troop, acted as Adjutant for the 3rd Regiment of Cavalry while in camp. The troop arrived at 4:30 Saturday afternoon via Grand Junction railway, and paraded the streets before disbanding.

The Peterborough detachment of the Durham Field Battery feel especially pleased with their camp experience. The battery won the Gzowski challenge cup, which is presented to the battery making the best shifting time twice in succession. The D.F.B. has accomplished the feat, and they feel proud of it. Their time was 2 32, beating the next best time by over five seconds.

There were 25 men in the Peterborough wing, under command of Lieut. Snider. Four of them—Lieut. Snider, Sergts. Hay and Hutchinson and Corporal Brown, were chosen on the team of the D F.B., which is to compete at Kingston this week in the Dominion Artillery Association matches. Only the two Sergeants were able to attend. During the camp Corpl. R. A. W. Hay was promoted to the rank of Order-room Sergeant.

Church Chimes.

In the absence of the pastor of the George street church, on mission work in Chandos, Rev. J. D. Dyer, of Ottawa, conducted the services and occupied the pulpit on Sunday.

At St. John's on Sunday, the Harvest Thanksgiving services were continued, the beautiful decorations remaining. The church was filled by large congregations at both services, which were of a bright cheery character.

Mr. Moment, superintendent of the Methodist Sunday School, Orono occupied the pulpit of the Mark street Methodist church yesterday, the pastor being absent on Mission duties in Chandos.

In St. Luke's church, Ashburnham, on Sunday Rev. W. C. Allen, of Millbrook, took the services morning and evening and preached the sermons, Rev. Mr. McCleary taking his services and preaching Harvest Festival sermons at Millbrook and Bailliebore.

In the other churches the regular services were taken by the respective pastors.

Next Sunday will be Review Day in the George street Methodist Sunday School. A mass meeting of scholars will be held in the church proper, instead of the usual services, at which a number of town clergymen will be present.

A report of the special services in connection with the opening of the new school room of the Charlotte street Methodist church, is published on our second page.

St. John's Mission Sunday school was superintended yesterday by Mr. Beale, of the Edison Works.

BANK THIEVES STEAL NEARLY A MILLION DOLLARS.

One of the Most Extensive Robberies Ever Reported—Accidents to Workmen—Further Reports Concerning the Mitylene Incident—Foreign News of a Night

LONDON, Sept. 22. The banking world of this city has just been startled by the announcement that an important bank robbery has taken place in the city. The police and bank officials are trying to keep the matter as quiet as possible, so that the entire facts in the case are not obtainable at present. It is known, however, that the institution that has suffered is the London and Westminster (limited), an important establishment having over 15 branch houses in this city. The money stolen consisted of a large parcel of bills remitted from the country banks to the London and Westminster Bank.

It is currently reported that the amount stolen is not less than $750,000 and that it may amount to as much as $1,250,000.

IN FAVOR OF THE PEOPLE.

Sir John E. Gorst Says a Change Must Be Made Soon

LONDON, Sept. 22. Sir John E. Gorst, Political Secretary of India Office, in an interview yesterday upon the English land question declined to commit himself to any definite plan for the settlement of the grievance. He said, however, "something must and will be done or a revolution is certain. I do not mean a bloody revolution, but I mean that the people will demand possession of the land they live upon. They have now the power to do so, and they are dissatisfied with their present lot. Consequently they will have things altered. Allotments may palliate, but they will not solve the difficulty. The Conservatives ought to attempt the solution of anything that would stop emigration and keep the people from flocking into the towns. Give them an interest in the soil. That is the consideration. I am now applying myself to the condition of the rural laborers and the smaller class of farmers. I am a [illegible], and am gleaning by personal [illegible] which will justify me to form a definite policy upon the English land question."

The Star to-day predicts that Sir John E. Gorst will be the leading Tory Democrat, and intimates that he is preparing to bid high for the rural vote.

ONE WOE DOTH TREAD.

A Hurricane Adds Its List of Dead to That of Consugura

MADRID, Sept. 22. A hurricane last evening added to the damage done by the recent floods to the unfortunate town of Consugura. Many of the houses which were undermined or otherwise weakened by the floods collapsed last night beneath the force of the wind. An epidemic of [illegible] has broken out at Badajoz, [illegible] the province of that name. There are already over 2000 severe cases of that disease in the city and it is feared that the epidemic will spread over Spain.

A Hurricane on the Mersey

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 22. A hurricane swept over the River Mersey Monday, doing considerable damage to shipping. At Black Pool, Lancashire, the [illegible] have been inundated and a great amount of damage has been done to the crops. Reports from several sections of North Wales show that the storm has flooded the [illegible] in that section of the country and farmers have suffered severely.

The Berwick life boat went out to [illegible] the Danish schooner Freya [illegible] schooner Aukathen. Both vessels were wrecked, but the crews with the exception of three seamen were saved. Navigation on the Tweed is dangerous on account of floating trees and wreckage, and immense quantity of corn are rushing down. Several yachts have been sunk at [illegible]. Heavy floods prevail in Edinburghshire district.

A number of pleasure boats have been destroyed at Porto Bello, and the pier has been damaged. Railway bridges at [illegible] and in the Esk district have collapsed, and traffic is interrupted and in many cases suspended.

The gale has done immense damage in the highlands, the swollen rivers having washed away the corn, turnip and potato crops and many sheep. The new schooner Bodiwer has been wrecked at Cardigan. The crew were saved.

Rainstorm in Berlin.

BERLIN, Sept. 22. A terrific thunder storm passed over Berlin Monday. Several houses were struck by lightning. An incessant downpour of rain extinguished fires and stopped traffic on the streets.

A Picnic With Torpedoes.

LONDON, Sept. 22. The British squadron in the Levant, Admiral Lord Kerr commanding, left the waters of Mitylene on Sunday last. It is now learned that it was occupied in extensive submarine mining operations off Sigri last week and engaged in several trial night attacks with torpedoes. The information comes, presumably, from Admiral Kerr's official report of the proceedings, which has reached the Admiralty Office. No mention is made of the landing of marines or guns on the island.

A British Columbia Earthquake

DARLINGTON, Wis., Sept. 22. At noon Monday an infuriated mob took from the county jail Anton Sieboldt, who brutally murdered James Meighan, a neighbor, last Wednesday, and hanged him to a tree in the court house yard.

WILL SIR HECTOR GO?

The Commons Debate the Report of the Privileges and Elections Committee

OTTAWA, Sept. 22.—A meeting of the Public Accounts Committee was held yesterday, when Mr. Somerville again proceeded with the case against Horace Talbot and others of the Public Works Department who it had been shown were in the habit of purchasing goods for their own use and having them charged to false invoices of goods said to be delivered to the department. It was shown at a recent meeting that several hundred dollars worth of goods, comprising groceries and wearing apparel, had been purchased from Mr. A. C. Larose, an Ottawa merchant, some years ago. At this session it was shown by Mr. C. Charlebois, then bookkeeper to Larose, that in addition to other accounts proved at the last meeting, there was another one of $172 for clothes to [illegible] Dion, sold by Mr. Larose, and the account in the book was marked "T.B.," which meant "Talbot's boodling," and was identified as such.

A. P. Bradley, secretary of Department of Railways and Canals, was next examined and testified that his son had received [illegible] per month while he was attending [illegible] college in Toronto, and which was charged to the department. Mr. Bradley said he had the authority of the then minister of the department, the late John Henry Pope, to pay this amount during his son's absence.

Mr. Trudeau, Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals, was also examined in regard to this matter. He said that he was not aware of the payment to young Bradley until the papers were asked by the committee.

Mr. Gobeil, secretary of the Public Works Department, was recalled in regard to the case against Talbot and others. Until three or four weeks ago he thought he knew nothing of Talbot's transactions, but when the vouchers and accounts came before him he saw that he had signed one of the checks. There was nothing that appeared on the face of the check to show anything connected with the account to be wrong. Mr. Ballarge was then Deputy Minister and he signed the other checks. There was an examination made into the large amount of spittoons and glassware used in the department. The accountant made the examination, but he could not implicate any one, so the matter dropped.

Denied That They Were Boodlers.

Mr. Gobeil, as well as Mr. Dionne, accountant, asked leave to deny a statement that appeared in the American press and was copied into The Kingston News, that both of them were boodlers. The privilege was accorded them.

James Ashfield, glassware merchant; Joseph R. Esmonde, hardware and stove merchant, and S. S. Shaw, also sold goods to Talbot, but they understood they were for the Government. Some of the goods might have been delivered at Talbot's house. All of them remembered sending to his house furnishings for rooms which they were told were to be used for Government translators. It was afterwards learned that Talbot's rooms were leased by the Government for the translators for a short time. What became of the furnishings of the room was not known.

Mr. J. Sauriol, a messenger with Larose in 1885, testified to delivering goods to Talbot and Dionne.

Mr. Talbot appeared before the committee and was allowed to harangue and abuse the Liberal members for a solid half hour, and the chairman or any of the ministers never called him to order. He presented a couple of receipts for money he paid Larose in 1888.

Mr. Charlebois, bookkeeper to Larose, testified that these accounts had nothing to do with those before the committee, which were for goods as far back as 1885 and 1886. Larose testified that in about one month he had borrowed from E. Dionne about $270 to [illegible] checks. They were made out to different public works going on in the country. The committee then adjourned.

It is said here to-day that Dr. Bergin intends moving an amendment to the report of the Committee on Privileges and Elections after the minority report is disposed of, which will censure Sir Hector Langevin.

CANADIAN SUICIDES.

A Prisoner Charged with Stealing Suicides at Amherstburg—A Lunatic at Liverpool Ends His Life.

AMHERSTBURG, Sept. 22.—On Saturday a poorly clad man was arrested on the charge of stealing a pair of trousers and lodged in the town jail. Yesterday morning a constable went to the jail with breakfast, and on looking into the prisoner's cell door he found him hanging from the transom. The prisoner had taken a blanket from his bed, tore it in strips and tied one end to the transom, and placing the other end in a loop round his neck, slowly strangled. Nothing was found on his person to indicate who he was, except an envelope addressed "James Buckley, Austin, Texas." The body will probably be buried by the town.

A Lunatic Suicides.

L'ORIGNAL, Sept. 22. A lunatic named Durwant, from Clarence Creek, confined in L'Orignal jail awaiting removal to the asylum, committed suicide about 5 p.m., on Saturday, Sept. 19, hanging himself in a closet in the jail yard. The inquest will be held to-day.

An Incendiary Confesses.

TORONTO, Sept. 22. During the early hours of yesterday a young man walked into Detective Slemin's office and coolly confessed to a serious crime. He said he was Adam Singer, a German Jew, and had been working near Thornhill for a farmer named Snider. He had a disagreement with regard to wages, and the young man left for the city last week. He wished to get even with Snider, so he hid in the barn Saturday night and fired it the next morning. The barn was burned. Loss $2000.

Incendiarism at Quebec.

NAPIERVILLE, Que., Sept. 22. The house known as the old Laviette mansion was burned to the ground early this morning. A number of other buildings were also consumed. The tenants had left about a week ago, therefore the total loss, $5000, is on the building itself, which is insured for $2000. This fire is supposed to have been incendiary. The woolen factory and grist mill adjoining were saved.

HER LIFE WAS A GAY ONE

WHO THE NIAGARA FALLS SUICIDE ACTUALLY WAS.

She Left Her Home in Brooklyn That Might Have Been Happy—Incidents in Her Career Which Account for Her Strange Actions.

NIAGARA FALLS, Sept. 22.—Mrs. Bessie Luders was scarcely 20 when she married. She was shapely and pretty, blue-eyed and golden-haired. Her husband was Gustave Luders, composer and musical director, and in spite of the preoccupation of his business he was the most attentive of husbands. That was five years ago. The wife was of a lively temperament and soon became known among the jolliest of spirits in Mr. Luder's calling.

Matters went well for a time. Then there were frequent quarrels and reconciliations. Suddenly Mrs. Luders left New York. The next heard of her was in San Francisco. There her life was gay. Through it all the really affectionate nature of this erratic woman often asserted itself. Then she wrote to her husband. He was always forgiving.

About a year ago Mrs. Luders left San Francisco and started east. She stopped in Denver, where she lived pretentiously and had many admirers.

Her letters to her husband soon became full of contrition and he consented to take her back. So in May she left Denver for New York. Luders had become musical director of Leavitt's "Spider and Fly" company. She sent a telegram telling the time of her arrival, but neglecting to say at what station. Luders went to the Grand Central Station the morning of June 2 last. He waited several hours, but did not meet his wife.

Meanwhile Mrs. Luders had reached the Pennsylvania station and taken a cab direct to the Coleman House. There her husband found her. She had been drinking and upbraided him for not meeting her. A violent quarrel followed, but peace was afterwards patched up. Early in the afternoon Mrs. Luders received a note from the Fifth-avenue Hotel. It was from a [illegible] whom she had met on the cars [illegible] east. Her husband read the note. [illegible] there was a quarrel more bitter than the [illegible]. He left the hotel.

Mrs. Luders went away in a cab in the evening, and when she came back it was apparent that she had been drinking. While the wife was absent Luders returned. Finding her gone he wrote a note saying it was best for them to be apart. He inclosed $250. When Mrs. Luders read the note she became hysterical. Dr. S. W. Smith of No. 24 West Thirteenth street, gave her a hypodermic injection of morphine. When he returned next morning the attendant said that Mrs. Luders had not once closed her eyes. She was quiet, though, and was inclined to talk about herself.

"What's this?" inquired the physician, who walked to the dressing-case and took up a two ounce vial of carbolic acid.

"Oh, that's something I had here," was the hesitating reply. "Perhaps you'd better take it away with you."

Mrs. Luders had heard her husband speak of having a sister in Brooklyn, where he had made his home. She employed a private detective to shadow him. The wife was suspicious. It was found that Luders did live with his sister, Mrs. Lena Chase, at No. 286 Warren-avenue. Mrs. Luders called on Mrs. Chase. The sister-in-law acted as mediator, and within a week husband and wife were again together. They remained at Mrs. Chase's for a time and then took rooms at Mrs. Benson's, No. 140 East Fifteenth street, New York.

There they passed the summer with occasional trips to the country. They seemed very happy and had many callers.

Several times during the summer Luders was called away by the "Spider and Fly" arrangements. Callers came just the same. Among the friends who came regularly was Mr. Johnson. He told Mrs. Benson he was an old friend of the family.

Mrs. Luders called at Dr. Smith's office Sept. 1. She complained of insomnia and nervousness. It was evident she was suffering from dissipation. Severe neuralgic pains in the head were treated by counter-irritation. The inflammation produced was hidden by a piece of cotton which adhered behind the ear. Mrs. Luders became despondent and hinted at suicide more than once. Luders came home during her sickness, remaining only a few hours. Friday, Sept. 4, he left for Washington.

The following Tuesday Mrs. Luders said she was going to join her husband. Mr. Johnson was there Tuesday morning. Mrs. Luders said an expressman would call for her trunk. She left the house about 5 o'clock. A few minutes later she called at Dr. Smith's and settled her bill. She said she did not know when she would return and was in a hurry to get to the Grand Central Station.

Passing through New York next morning on his way to Yonkers Luders called at his rooms. He was surprised at his wife's absence. He ordered that her trunk should not leave the house. Shortly afterwards an American Express agent came from the substation, at No. 15 East Fourteenth street. The trunk was refused him. The agent returned with a telegraphic demand from Lawrence Hackett of No. 561 Warren-avenue, Chicago. This address was given by Mrs. Luders at the Grand Central Station to the agent there.

Thursday morning following a woman who had registered at the Cataract House here jumped into the rapids. A piece of cotton behind her ear identified her as a woman who had called in a local physician the day before. She complained of insomnia and said her husband was in love with an heiress.

When Dr. Smith read an account of the suicide he recognized Mrs. Luders. Mrs. Johnson, too, learned the news and called at Mrs. Luder's late home. He said Mr. Hackett of Chicago was Mrs. Luder's brother. Hackett was telegraphed. Luders was playing last week at the Howard Athenaeum in Boston. He went to New York on Friday night and learning that the suicide's body had been recovered telegraphed to have it held for identification. Hackett and Luders reached Niagara Falls Saturday morning. The body was identified and buried here in the Catholic cemetery.

The Gun Kicked

KINGSTON, Sept. 22.—On Saturday Joseph Dunn, nephew of M. J. Kennedy, messenger at the penitentiary, and John Barry, both residents of Portsmouth, went on a shooting expedition up Cataraqui Creek. They rowed about in the skiff for a while and had pretty good success in securing game. On their return Dunn remarked to his companion "I will fire my gun off again." The charge was a heavy one and forced the gun back into Dunn's face. The trigger struck him on the side of the nose and caused a deep wound. The force of the blow knocked him into the water. Barry got him out and removed him to the nearest shore.

Continuation of the Investigation Before the Public Accounts Committee—How the Country Was Swindled—A Question of Privilege.

OTTAWA, Sept. 22.—In House yesterday Mr. Girouard moved the adoption of the report of the Committee on Privileges and Elections. In doing so, he said that if he had consulted his own inclination he would have asked the House to adopt the report without discussion. He condemned the system of trying such a case before a Parliamentary committee, which must be moved more or less by partizan feeling. The committee believed that Mr. Geoffrion should be paid for his services, as well as Messrs. Osler and Henry. Quoting from the two reports, Mr. Girouard said they substantially agreed as regards Thomas McGreevy, but differed as regards Sir Hector Langevin. He declared that there was no evidence to justify the report of Messrs. Davies and Mills, that Sir Hector knew of the conspiracy to defraud the public. With the engineers and the inspectors and Thomas McGreevy in the plot, the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. did not require the assistance or connivance of Sir Hector Langevin. The minister relied on the reports of his chief engineer (Perley), who must assume the responsibility unless positive proof were produced that the minister knew of wrongdoing on the part of his chief engineer. His denial ought to be accepted. He showed that the Public Works Department under Mr. Mackenzie often awarded contracts to others than the lowest tender. For example, Patrick Larkin was awarded the contract for the Levis Graving Dock although there were two lower tenders. He admitted that there were many suspicious circumstances, but they should have something stronger than suspicion before condemning the minister. Sir Hector was the victim of his long intimacy with Thomas McGreevy. He blamed the electorate for the practice of subscriptions for political purposes. So long as electors deemed hired speakers, elaborate organization, etc., necessary, the practice of subscribing for political purposes must continue and a portion at least would come from the public purse. Notwithstanding the bad features of the case there was one gratifying circumstance, namely: that only one member of Parliament was found guilty. This case will teach public contractors that if they subscribe for political purposes they must keep within the law.

Tarte Replies.

Mr. Tarte held that the report of the committee justified the charges he had made. He declared that Thomas McGreevy became the power behind the throne through Sir Hector's indebtedness to him, arising out of the Charlevoix election of 1876. If it had not been for the quarrel between the members of the firm they would have obtained possession of every public work in the Dominion. He held in his hands plans of works which they proposed to carry out, and which showed that they were masters of the department. The conspiracy was twofold—financial and political. The conspiracy was all-powerful and could crush anyone. Looking around him, he saw men who would have been ornaments to public life but who were compelled to retire into private life. If more of us are not dead it is not their fault. The Minister of Militia, if he were outspoken, would say he had been almost ruined in the district of Quebec by these men. Many another public man in that district was ruined by these conspirators. If Sir John Macdonald were alive he could produce the protest of all the Conservatives in the Quebec district, presented in 1889, against the machinations of these men. Hon. Mr. Taillon, the personification of honor, has been persecuted by Thomas McGreevy because he would not certify to a bogus claim of $400,000 against the Quebec Government. In their interviews with the Ministry they found goodwill, but they also found a power behind the throne more powerful than all the Conservatives of Quebec. He admitted that he was nearer going to jail than to Parliament. Thomas McGreevy boasted in this very chamber that he would jail him (Tarte). The leader of the Opposition knew that there was an intrigue on both sides of politics to crush him (Tarte) and send him to jail. Besides his political influence, Thomas McGreevy was powerful financially. He was vice president of the Union Bank, which carried Sir Hector Langevin's note for 10 years and Robert McGreevy's note for 18 years. For the credit of Canada the Government ought to ascertain whether there were other notes carried in this way. If his Conservative friends had had a little more confidence in him and in written proof he would not be to-day on the Opposition side of the House. If his Conservative friends had had the courage to stand by him they would have achieved great results. He wished to say a word to the credit of the Minister of Justice. At first Sir John Thompson was deceived by the man who had deceived the whole country. But from the moment he (Sir John) was undeceived the day of Perley's confession, the Minister of Justice sent Messrs. Osler and Henry to him. They said that the Minister of Justice was willing to work with him (Tarte) in eliciting the truth. He asked them whether they were following the order of Sir Hector Langevin or of the Minister of Justice. They replied frankly that they were obeying the instructions of the Minister of Justice, who authorized them to say that he was anxious to reach the truth. He declared that there was a great amount of perjury in connection with the case and warned the Minister of Justice that there was necessity for a change in the law.

Mr. Cameron (Huron) followed, taking up the Esquimalt dock contract. He declared that the evidence of Michael Starrs, one of the tenderers for that work, brought a charge of connivance of fraud directly home to the late minister. The minister induced Starrs and O'Hanly to withdraw by saying that no reduction would be allowed on $50,000, which they would have to pay for plant, and that no extras would be allowed. When Larkin, Connolly & Co. got the contract a reduction of $19,000 was made in the price of the plant, and they were allowed $207,000 extra on a contract price of $374,539. If the minister was innocent he was the most extraordinary head of a department that ever existed.

Mr. Coatsworth moved the adjournment of the debate. It will be continued to-morrow.

Notes.

Among the applicants for the office of deputy sergeant-at-arms, which will shortly be vacated by the promotion of the present incumbent, Col. Smith, to the place of Mr. Macdonnell, superannuated, is Mr. A. Z. Palmer, a six-foot young Englishman here of independent means, and popular with all classes. He was some years ago in the Postoffice Department here and married a daughter of the late Ralph Jones.

A Significant Utterance.

ROME, Sept. 18. The Italia declares that a single act of diplomatic aggression entitles a signer of the Dreibund treaty to demand armed assistance of the other signers without waiting for an actual attack.

Profile of a River Bed.

A cleverly designed instrument by means of which the profile of a river bed can be taken automatically, has been invented by a German engineer. The record can be taken from a boat at the rate of 3½ to 6½ miles an hour. The apparatus consists of a curved arm, which is hinged on its upper extremity, and is so long that the lower curved portion trails on the bottom of the stream. The deeper the stream the greater the inclination of the arm, and hence, by a suitable recording mechanism, the depth can be automatically registered on a revolving drum, as the boat moves. The instrument has already made a record in practical testing of 207 miles in ten days.

What It Does.

MILLINERY AND MANTLE DISPLAY AT TURNBULL'S

On Tuesday and Wednesday, the 22nd and 23rd Sept.

Our Millinery Showrooms will be open for the Fall Trade, when all the new fall patterns will be on display. As there is considerable change in the styles this season, ladies may expect to see novelties with us. We willl also show an extensive range of Pattern Mantles, and keep a well selected stock of Cloths and Trimmings, so that ladies preferring to leave their order for anything in the Mantle Line will find everything desirable with us.

Our stock of Dress Goods is now complete. We are showing some novelties in Camel's Hair Cloths, Polka-dot and Check Robes, Cheviot Cloths and Fancy Serges. MISS MERCIER, our dressmaker, has returned from a trip to Rochester, Buffalo and Toronto, and is well posted on all the latest styles. We feel we owe an apology to some of our customers for the unpardonable time their dresses were kept before made in the past, but, as with any first-class dressmaker, Miss Mercier got overcrowded. We have made a rule not to take any orders but what can be filled in a reasonable time, so that this will be avoided in the future.

Our stock of Men's Suitings and Overcoatings are well bought and cheaper than ever. We claim to be the best house in town for Ordered Clothing.

Arrived to-day, seven shades of Ladies' Diagonal Suitings (wide) at 15c.; three-quarter Table Napkins, 100 doz.; all the leading makes of Corsets at the lowest prices in the trade.

Daily Examiner.

TUESDAY, SEPT. 22, 1891.

THE St John's, P.Q., News is a good Conservative, but it declines to argue that two wrongs make a right. "Every true-hearted citizen of Canada," it says, "who is not swayed by partyism to the extent of the sacrifice of his own independence of character must of necessity feel chagrined at the revelations which have this summer been made at Ottawa. The astounding corruption in the civil service is humiliating in the highest degree, and is subversive of the proper administration of public affairs. It is no justification to say, and to the rightminded man it should be no consolation to reflect, that matters are equally bad in Quebec. Two wrongs do not make a right, and as a matter of fact the greater the spread throughout the Dominion of the iniquitous practices which have crept so insidiously into the civil service at the Federal capital the more cause is there for one to hang down his head in shame and mortification. The greater the evil the more its existence ought to be deplored and the more determined should the people of all parties be to root it out." This is sound talk. The majority of Tory journals fancy that it is sufficient to punish Pacaud and let Sir Hector and the other Ottawa boodlers go unwhipped. Touching this phase of the question the Ottawa Free Press remarks:—"What a brave and chivalrous lot the Tory majority in the Privileges and Elections committee are. They are trying to saddle the sins of Sir Hector Langevin and the government upon the dead (Boyd), the sick (Perley) and the absent (McGreevy), while allowing the chief culprit, the late minister of public works—under whose orders Perley and Boyd acted, and without whose active co-operation McGreevy would have been utterly powerless—to escape. But no intelligent Canadian will be satisfied with such cowardly shuffling.

Quoth the Week:—"One of the strangest and most significant bits of testimony that have been brought out before any of the Parliamently Committees was that given by Mr. Dansereau before the Public Accounts Committee, touching the purchase of presses for the Printing Bureau. That he should have been commissioned by Minister Chapleau to call on the managers of two of the leading firms dealing in such materials, in New York, for the express purpose of warning them beforehand that in case they should be favoured with orders they must not pay commissions to anybody, is indeed suggestive. What could have put such a suspicion of danger into the head of a Minister who, we are expected to believe, had no knowledge of the sharp practices of his chief subordinate? Had he not confidence in the man of his own appointment? If not, why not? Should he not have not put in so responsible a position a man above suspicion of taking bribes? * * * But we are surely justified in saying that unless Mr. Chapleau can discredit or rebut the testimony of his friend Dansereau and prove himself innocent of what is so clearly implied in that evidence, his position will be such that it must be impossible for him to remain in the Government, if it is indeed honestly bent on a radical reform." The Week is thoroughly independent in politics, and its opinion is entitled to respect unimpaired by the effect of partizan impulses.

SINCE the general election of 1886 there have been 123 bye-elections for seats in the British House of Commons, and most of them have been rendered necessary by the death of the sitting member. A mortality of over three per cent. per annum of all the members gives force to the contention that the nightwork of Parliament reduces the average politician's life by many years. The mortality among Canadian members of Parliament is not nearly so high, possibly because our Parliamentarians average younger than those of the Imperial House, but the evil is sufficiently great to warrant our legislators in getting up earlier in the morning and going home earlier at night.

Two Different Kinds of Brute

To the Editor of the Examiner:

I desire, through the cloumns of your paper, to call the attention of the livery men to the brutal manner in which their poor horses are abused by a certain class of their customers. I refer to those young men who when fortunate enough to secure a horse and buggy, imagine they cannot knock the worth of their paitry two dollars out of the poor brute. Many of them, when they arrive at their destination have not the price of a feed of oats, and not humanity enough to offer the poor brute a drink of water. Not only this, but very often a horse engaged for Chemong or Lakefield goes through to Young's Point or Burleigh and back to Peterborough without bit, bite or sup—I mean the horse. Now, Mr. Editor, I know you will agree with me when I say it is high time that steps were taken to put a stop to this brutality. I think the livery proprietors should combine and form a society for the protection of their poor dumb brutes, notify each other of those who are not deserving of a horse, and the first person caught illusing one, bring him up before our magistrate who I am sure will make an example of him. This I consider would be an act of charity, and it is high time that a society for the prevention of cruelty to animals should be established to take this matter up, as many horses from different stables in Peterborough are abused unmercifully.

Yours truly,
HORSEMAN.

NOW IN MONTREAL

Louise Shepard, Who Has Given Her Rings to the Cause, Will Exhort.

MONTREAL, Sept. 22.—The Rev. A. B. Simpson, the New York evangelist, is here on a visit and will hold a three-days' convention next week. He will be assisted in his work by Miss Louise Shepard.

Miss Louise Shepard acquired some notoriety several weeks ago during a religious revival at Round Lake, N.Y. There was a large attendance of worshippers. Miss Shepard made an earnest appeal for contributions to aid in missionary work. At the close of her address she took from her fingers several diamond rings and with other valuable jewelry turned them over to swell the fund. Her example was followed by many persons in the congregation and the contribution plates were soon heaped with diamonds and other jewels presented as gifts to the missionary fund.

Miss Shepard is twenty years old. She resides at a missionary home in this city and is actively engaged in religious work.

THE DICTATOR'S DEATH

Restoration of Peace Throughout the South American Republic.

VALPARAISO, Chili, via GALVESTON, Texas, Sept. 22.—The suicide of Balmaceda Saturday morning in his bedroom at the Argentine Legation in Santiago is the one absorbing and exciting topic of conversation in every part of this city.

There is a mingled feeling of savage rejoicing at his death and of bitter regret that he should have killed himself instead of falling into the clutches of the infuriated citizens, who would have delighted to rend him limb from limb for the long list of cruelties for which they hold him responsible.

It is impossible for anyone not in this country or not a native to realize the intensity of the hatred that was entertained toward the ex-President.

It is the general belief that Balmaceda's death will hasten, in a great degree, the restoration of peace throughout Chili. Now that the chief enemy of the victorious Junta is no more it is likely that his followers will be shown mercy, since without Balmaceda to direct them they are very little to be feared.

Italy, France, Sweden and Norway have followed the lead of the United States in official recognition of the Junta. Germany, it will be remembered, was the second nation to do so. No official recognition has yet come from England. This creates considerable comment.

Toronto's Minister Objects.

SARNIA, Sept. 22. Mr. Wiman's speech at the St. Clair Tunnel banquet Saturday acted like a red flag in a bull's face to Hon. Frank Smith, acting Minister of Public Works, who sat near Sir Henry Tyler's right. "No politics here! No politics here!" he shouted in the midst of Wiman's speech.

A Sarnia Fire.

SARNIA, Sept. 22.—Fire Monday destroyed the shed of James King, containing a large amount of baled hay and damaged a flour warehouse considerably. The dock on which the buildings stood is also seriously damaged. The total loss on shed, contents and warehouse will probably run up to $2500. Fully insured.

The Commission Appointed.

MONTREAL, Sept. 22. Judges Baby, Jette and Davidson of Montreal have received their appointments as Royal Commissioners to investigate the Baie des Chaleurs affair, and the official announcement will be made in a few days.

Pale, drooping girls, worn weary with a burden of disease almost greater than they can bear, should take heart and suffer no longe. Ayer's Hair Vigor

IS the "ideal" Hair-dressing. It restores the color to gray hair; promotes a fresh and vigorous growth; prevents the formation of dandruff; makes the hair soft and silken; and imparts a delicate but lasting perfume.

"Several months ago my hair commenced falling out, and in a few weeks my head was almost bald. I tried many remedies, but they did no good. I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, after using only a part of the contents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best in the world."—T. Munday, Sharon Grove, Ky.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a number of years, and it has always given me satisfaction. It is an excellent dressing, prevents the hair from turning gray, insures its vigorous growth, and keeps the scalp white and clean."—Mary A. Jackson, Salem, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for promoting the growth of the hair, and think it unequaled. For restoring the hair to its original color, and for a dressing, it cannot be surpassed."—Mrs. Geo. La Fever, Eaton Rapids, Mich.

"Ayer's Hair Vigor is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a cure for dandruff."—J. W. Bowen, Editor "Enquirer," McArthur, Ohio.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past two years, and found it all it is represented to be. It restores the natural color to gray hair, causes the hair to grow freely, and keeps it soft and pliant."—Mrs. M. V. Day, Cohoes, N. Y.

"My father, at about the age of fifty, lost all the hair from the top of his head. After one month's trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor the hair began coming, and, in three months, he had a fine growth of hair of the natural color."—P. J. Cullen, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

DRIVEN OFF BY THE STENCH.

Workmen Decline to Search for Bodies of the Toledo Victims.

MADRID, Sept. 19.—The workmen who have been engaged in removing from the buried streets and other places the dead and drowned cattle, have left in a body and positively refuse to resume work. They say that the stench from the bodies is so severe that no human being can handle them. Large quantities of disinfectants are being sent forward and it is expected that the work of cleaning the streets will be resumed this afternoon. The country around the flooded districts is swarming with marauders who seem able to do what they please with the utmost impunity. The [illegible] are blamed for their inaction in this respect, but the [illegible] are employing all the available [illegible] in succoring the destitute and [illegible] ing to clean the wreckage [illegible] the streets and buildings all hours of the day and night, the moon furnishing sufficient light to enable work to go on at night.

One hundred and twenty soldiers have arrived at Consuegra to assist in alleviating the distress there. The Marquis [illegible] has been appointed royal commissioner to superintend the work of repairing the damage wrought by the floods.

The official report of the disaster says 530 buildings in Consuegra have vanished from their sites, while 150 are in a precarious condition and need to be demolished. The [illegible] 18 streets of the town have been literally obliterated. The Queen has reluctantly abandoned her intention to visit Consuegra, the ministers having advised her that she would thereby greatly endanger her health. The national relief funds amount to $500,000. Three hundred persons injured by falling houses at Consuegra are being cared for in a hospital of temporary huts.

Despatches from Consuegra this afternoon announce that the workmen who struck on account of the dangerous stench consequent on handling the dead, have been prevailed upon to resume work. A liberal supply of disinfectants has reached the stricken town, and the work of opening up the streets and clearing away the [illegible] is progressing. The bodies of the dead, as soon as recovered, are taken to immense crematory bonfires, and are then soaked in petroleum and reduced to cinders. Petroleum is also being largely used in feeding the fires used for consuming the dead bodies. The carcasses of cattle, which are found almost everywhere, are disposed of in the same manner. Years must elapse before Consuegra totally recovers from the effect of the damage done.

There is no longer any danger of deaths from starvation or further bloodshed. Sufficient supplies of food are assured and quantities of clothing are arriving from headquarters of the relief committees.

A CHICAGO HOLOCAUST.

Seven Persons Smothered to Death in Their Beds.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—A fire at 549 and 551 Sedgwick street at [illegible] yesterday morning caused the death of seven persons, all of whom were smothered [illegible] by dense smoke. The victims are: [illegible] Burns, 12 or 13 years old; John [illegible], 45 years old; Mrs. Schalk, 42 years old; Annie Schalk, 15 years old; John Schalk, 12 years old; James Schalk, 8 years old, unknown woman; Cynthia Schalk, 17 years old, taken to the hospital; cannot recover.

The Woman Who Went Over the Falls.

NIAGARA FALLS, Sept. 20.—The body of the woman who committed suicide by jumping into the rapids from near Prospect Point, September 10, was identified this afternoon as that of Mrs. Bessie Enders of Brooklyn, wife of [illegible] Enders, musical director of the [illegible] company. Mr. Enders and Mr. [illegible] arrived here at the [illegible] this afternoon and were taken to the vault at Oakwood Cemetery where they identified the body as that of Mrs. Enders. They stated that she was 24 years of age, and that she had had an attack of nervous prostration some time ago, the effects of which had caused a temporary derangement of the mind.

Both Arms Cut Off.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 20.—At Calgary on Saturday Albert Cadman, a young Englishman, had both his arms taken off by a circular saw. He is said to be a son of an English lord. His sister is married to Spofforth, the famous English cricketer.

Wandered Away.

[illegible], Sept. 20.—The wife of William Perry is missing. As she is subject to fits of insanity it is feared she may have committed suicide.

On Suspended Sentence.

[illegible], Sept. 20.—E. Messett, accused of abducting Catherine Kennedy, aged 12, of the same town, was up for trial before Judge Jones yesterday. Messett is a man about 75 years of age. Messett was found guilty but allowed to go on suspended sentence. The evidence of the girl was weakened by that of other witnesses, who testified to her unreliability.

A 6 year old Lad Drowned.

WINDSOR, Sept. 20.—The 6 year old son of W. Raab was drowned in the river yesterday morning. He was playing on the G.T.R. dock with a number of playmates and slipped off a pile of lumber.

Disasters Off Labrador.

ST. JOHN'S, N.F., Sept. 19.—There was a heavy storm in Labrador Sept. 15. Two fishing vessels, the Hattie and the Amazon, returning loaded with fish, were wrecked and seven men were drowned.

In the same gale the schooner Blossom struck Gull Island, Notre Dame Bay, and went to pieces. Four men and one woman were drowned.

A [illegible] was discussing the [illegible] with a [illegible] from Kentucky.

"Sugar," said the Louisianian, "is as much an article of necessity as flour and meat."

"A great deal more so, my dear fellow," responded the Kentuckian. "Without sugar you can't make a whisky toddy."—Texas Siftings.

AN EYE TO THE FUTURE.

A Nervous Passenger Sold Out His Stock in Case of Accident.

The roads were uneven and there were numerous sharp curves, and as the train was running at a high rate of speed it was anything but comfortable for the passengers, says the Chicago Tribune. Sometimes it actually seemed as though all the wheels on one side of the Pullman were off the rail at once. This didn't serve to put any of the passengers at ease, but it seemed to have a particularly bad effect on a little old fellow near the middle of the car. He grew more and more nervous with every jerk of the car, and finally called the porter to him.

"How soon will we reach a place where I can send a despatch?" he asked.

"'Bout ten minutes, sah," was the reply.

"All right. Bring me a telegraph blank."

It was brought and he hastily scribbled the following message to a New York broker.

"Sell all my stock X. and Z. road at once and at any price you can get."

"You don't seem to have much confidence in the road," said the man in the next seat, who had read the despatch over the little man's shoulder.

"I haven't," was the terse reply.

"You don't think it has much of a future, apparently?"

"Future be hanged!" returned the little man. "I was thinking of the present and my family."

"Your family!" exclaimed the stranger. "What has your family got to do with it?"

"Everything, my friend, everything," explained the little man, "and if you were anything of a financier you'd see it. I've got to ride 200 miles on this road yet, and how would it look for my family to sue the road for damages that if secured would practically come out of my estate? No, sir. I'll allow this despatch twenty minutes to reach New York, and I'll allow the broker twenty-five minutes to dispose of the stock. If this blamed car keeps the rails for forty-five minutes more some one else will be stuck for damages if I climb the golden stairs. And if she holds the rails for the whole 200 miles I can buy the stock back if I want it and go back by another road."

Dried Apple Pies.

Dried apple pies must be a drug up in the Granite State, if the following refrain, which we find in the Keene (New Hampshire) Sentinel, is a true rendering of the New Hampshire estimate of them:

I loathe, abhor, detest, despise,
Abominate dried apple pies.
I like good bread, I like good meat,
Or anything that's fit to eat;
But of all poor grub beneath the skies
The poorest is dried apple pies.
Give me the toothache or sore eyes,
But don't give me dried apple pies.
The farmer takes the gnarliest fruit,
'Tis wormy, bitter, and hard, to boot;
They leave the hulls to make us cough,
And don't take half the peeling off.
Then on a dirty cord 'tis strung,
And in the garret window hung;
And there it serves a roost for flies,
Until it's made up into pies.
Tread on my corns and tell me lies,
But don't pass me dried apple pies.
—Good Housekeeping.

Standing, with reluctant feet,
Where womanhood and childhood meet.

'Tis a supreme moment! 'Tis a critical period! No maiden should attempt passing this boundary-line without the aid and assurance of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Its helpfulness in tiding over the perils incident to young womanhood, is universally acknowledged! No mother can put within the hands of her daughter, anything that will prove more valuable in meeting all her requirements! Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is made expressly for all diseases peculiar to women, and is the only medicine of its kind, sold through druggists and guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case, or money refunded. b

Do You Cough?

Don't delay. Take Kemp's Balsam, the best cough cure. It will cure coughs and colds. It will cure sore throat, or a tickling in the throat. It will cure pains in the chest. It will cure influenza and bronchitis and all diseases pertaining to the lungs, because it is a pure balsam. Hold it to the light and see how clear and thick it is. You see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Large bottles 50c and $1. dw

Could Scarcely See.

Mrs. John Martin, of Montage Bridge, P. E.I., writes:—"I was troubled last summer with very bad headaches and constipation and sometimes could scarcely see. One bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters made a complete cure of my case, and I wish you every success.

Ask Your Friends About It.

Your distressing cough can be cured. We know it, because Kemp's Balsam within the past few years has cured so many coughs and colds in this community. Its remarkable sale has been won entirely by its genuine merit. Ask some friend who has used it what he thinks of Kemp's Balsam. There is no medicine so pure, none so effective. Large bottles 50c. and $1 at all druggists. dw

Oft in Peril.

Lives of children are often endangered by sudden and violent attacks of cholera, cholera morbus, diarrhœa, dysentery and bowel complaints. A reasonable and certain precaution is to keep Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry always at hand.

A single scratch may cause a festering sore. Victoria Carbolic Salve rapidly heals cuts, wounds, burns and all sores. dw

A woman who is weak, nervous and sleepless, and who has cold hands and feet, cannot feel and act like a well person. Carter's Iron Pills equalize the circulation, remove nervousness and give strength and rest. dw

What Say They?

In popularity increasing. In reliability the standard. In merits the first. In fact, the best remedy for all summer complaints, diarrhœa, dysentery, cramps, colic, cholera, infantum, etc., is Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. All medicine dealers sell it.

For overcoats and Russian circulars at first-class articles to keep you warm, but they will not prevent the pains of rheumatism. Ask W. R. Greatrex, Druggist, for a bottle of Royal Rheumatic Remedy. dw

You hardly realize that it is medicine when taking Carter's Little Liver Pills; they are very small; no bad effects; all troubles from torpid liver are relieved by their use. dw

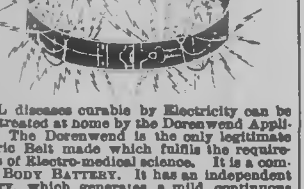
Self Application of Electricity
FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES
BY THE
DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT
And Attachments.
HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto
THE WORLD'S BEST.



ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT OF QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.
Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.
Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.
Send name and address for Illustrated Book on Home Electro-medical treatment and mention this paper. J. D. TULLY, Agent, Peterborough. eod-w

SUN LIFE
ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA.

The attention of our Policy-Holders is directed to the following summary of the leading items of the present report, which speaks for itself as to the progress and prosperity of the Company:—

Life Assurances in force, 1st January, 1891	$16,759,355.92
Increase over previous year	3,421,373.84
New Applications received in 1890	6,371,599.15
Increase over 1889	2,268,888.60
Cash income for year ending 31st December, 1890	889,078.87
Increase over 1889	325,938.35
Assets at 31st December, 1890	2,473,514.19
Increase over 1889	687,691.47
Reserve for Security for Policy-Holders	2,109,222.68
Increase over 1889	567,732.71
Surplus over all Liabilities and Capital Stock	232,175.69
Increase over 1889	75,649.05
Death claims fallen in during 1890	143,961.65

The progress made by the SUN LIFE during 1890 was remarkable. The new business was the largest in the Company's history, and was equalled by but one other Canadian Life Company. The income for the year exceeds $2,000 for each day in the year, Sundays included. The Assets are large and rapidly increasing. They are, moreover, of the highest character, yielding an average interest of 6.04 per cent. The overdue interest is small, and the Real Estate owned under foreclosure is only four per cent. of the amount of mortgages. This is a remarkable showing. The SURPLUS accumulated during the FOUR years of the current quinquennium is nearly THREE TIMES as much as the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail thus to be highly satisfactory. The following are the figures:—

" " " " 1886, "	89,452 97
" " " " 1890, (four years)	282,175 69

About twelve o'clock last night the fire alarm was rung for a blaze in the north end of the town. Geo. Hilliard's shingle mill was totally destroyed, together with a valuable lot of tools belonging to Mr. Sperry. The loss will amount to about $1,000.

The EXAMINER records with great regret the death of Mrs. Chas. Wynn, which took place at Mr. Wynn's summer lodge, Sandy Point, Stony Lake, Monday morning. The deceased lady, whose maiden name was Charlotte Jane Ferguson, of Norwood, has been ill with malarial fever for some weeks, and her death will be greatly mourned in the wide circle of friends she possessed, and whose sympathy will be feelingly extended to Mr. Wynn and family in their great bereavement. The funeral takes place from the family residence, 629 Rubidge street, on Wednesday, Sept. 23rd, at 3 o'clock p m.

The Methodist Cemetery.

The EXAMINER has been asked to state that a meeting of the stockholders in the Wesleyan Methodist cemetery at Peterborough will be held at the council chamber, Peterborough on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 26th, at 2 o'clock, to discuss some matters in connection with the cemetery now closed. It is understood that there is considerable feeling regarding the closing of the ground and as to its ultimate disposed, and some uncertainty as to whether the trustees of the church are as well, the trustees of the cemetery. Those who are moving in the matter are anxious that there should be a full attendance of all who own lots and have relatives or friends there buried. 3d1w

A Relic of Former Times.

An incident which forcibly illustrates the progress of modern times occurred yesterday. About four o'clock an antiquated equipage rumbled through Ashburnham into Peterborough from the direction of Douro. It consisted of an ox-team drawing an old, wobbly two-wheeled cart containing two bags of potatoes and a wisp of hay, surmounted by two small boys who were guiding the oxen. Fifty years ago or less such a sight was more common than the horse-cart of to-day, but this being the year of grace 1891, the vehicle attracted great attention as a relic of by-gone days. Curious crowds of people intercepted the progress of the ox-cart with eager questionings of the boys and close scrutiny of their equipage. Horses took fright and refused to pass the curiosity without whipping. A number of the "oldest inhabiteuts" gathered and exchanged reminiscences of the days of long ago when they used to drive just such turnouts. The boys finally managed to escape from their tormentors and returned home—a distance of 12 miles. They will probably choose some other means of conveyance the next time they come to town, and leave the oxen on the old farm where they belong.

An Insulter of Women Punished.

"Long Jim" Welsh is the second man to be punished in connection with the series of indecent exposures and assaults which have been perpetrated upon the ladies of the town during the summer. As was stated in yesterday's issue, three ladies and two girls were grossly insulted on Charlotte street Saturday evening, information of which came to Chief Roszel's ears, though the victims themselves did not take any steps towards punishing the rascal, but rather sought to hush the matter up. Learning the names of one of the women the Chief made enquiries on Monday and gained a description of the fellow who had laid lascivious hands upon her. The description tallied exactly with that of Jim Welsh, known as "Long Jim," who was in the cells Sunday for drunkenness and had been allowed to go Sunday evening on promising to leave town next morning for the north, where he had work in a camp. Jim made a great mistake in not keeping his promise. As soon as the Chief got his information in the assault cases he felt certain Welsh was the man wanted, but feared the fellow had already got away from town. However, Monday morning Welsh was observed on the streets and he was at once arrested. A special session of the police court was held last night to dispose of him. Welsh was positively identified by one of the ladies as having insulted her, and he was committed to gaol for one month.

Out on the Coast.

The New Westminister, B.C., Ledger recently issued a most creditable midsummer number of sixteen pages, illustrating the phenomenal progress made by the town. In its article upon telephone interests it says:—There are in all 575 subscribers, with offices in Vancouver, Moodyville, Steveston and Westminster, the general superintendent being Mr. H. W. Kent, resident at Vancouver. The New Westminster branch has 180 subscribers and is under the personal management of Mr. George C. Hodge, formerly of Edinburgh, Scotland, whose varied experience in the telephone offices at Peterborough and Toronto, Ont., has specially fitted him for his present responsible position. There are five operators employed as well as two men for repairing and line work. The ground system has until now been in vogue, but the metallic system is shortly to be put in, in order to overcome the induction caused by the electric tramway. Two fine airy apartments 30 feet square have recently been fitted up in the new Armstrong-Young block, on Columbia street, into operating and connecting rooms, manager's office, etc., and like all other enterprises in town, the telephone company is looking forward to its share of the ever-increasing business.

A Complimentary Concert.

It is proposed to give Miss Louise Yokome, the promising young violiniste, a complimentary concert in Bradburn's Opera House on Tuesday evening, Oct. 6th, both as a recognition of the musical services she has rendered the different churches of the town from time to time, and of her decided ability as a performer on the violin. Miss Yokome has spent some time under the instruction of Mons. Francois Boucher, of the Ottawa College of Music, and has done marked credit to his teaching, and while, as yet, she lays no claim to being a finished violiniste, still she possesses a more than ordinary talent for the violin, and an executive proficiency which will make her selections a prominent and pleasing feature of a concert programme. The above concert will be given under especial direction of Wm. Cluxton, Esq., and the kind patronage of the following gentlemen:—His Honour, Judge Weller; His Worship, Mayor Stevenson; Rev. Father Rudkins, Chancellor of the Diocese of Peterborough; John Burnham, Esq., M. P.; J. R. Stratton, Esq., M.P.P.; Jas. Wallis, Esq.; A. C. Dunlap, Esq., W. Cluxton, Esq.; H. T. Strickland, Esq.; Geo. A. Cox, Esq.; H. C. Rogers, Esq.; D. W. Dumble, Esq.; R. A. Morrow, Esq.; Richard Hall, Esq.; R. P. Boucher, Esq., M.D.; J. J. Lundy, Esq.; J. T. Halliday, Esq., M.D.; John Belcher, Esq., C.E.; J. B. McWilliams, Esq.; F. J. Lewis, Esq.; W. Manson, Esq.; T. A. Hay, Esq., C. E.; A. P. Poussette, Esq., Q.C.; J. M. Irwin, Esq., C.E.; Geo. W. Hatton, Esq.; Geo. Burnham, Esq., M.D.; R. W. Grubbe, Esq.; Edg. Pearse, Esq.; J. G. Macklin, Esq., C.E.; R. M. Dennistoun, Esq.; E. B. Edwards, Esq.; H. Calcutt, Esq. The programme will include besides, of course, Miss Yokome, who will contribute two selections by standard composers, Miss M. Trendlees Stevenson, of London, Ont., who created such an extremely favourable impression as a vocaliste during her visit to Peterborough last spring; Miss Strickland, of Lakefield, who possesses a mezzo-soprano voice of sweetness and depth; Mrs. W. J. Morrow, our exceptionally clever pianiste; Mr. T. Dunn, the brilliant baritone, in solo and duet, and others whose engagements will not permit them to give, at present, a positive answer. The Peterborough Amateur Orchestra have promised their kind assistance to the programme, which will be presented on Tuesday evening, October 6th, and which will be in every way worthy of public patronage, and strike the key note of an excellent series of musical entertainments the coming season. The prices of admission tickets have been fixed at 50 and 25 cents.

CENTRAL EXHIBITION.

The Show of 1891 a Success.

Splendid Weather and big Attendance of Visitors—The Entries Ahead of Last Year—And the Exhibits of Better Quality—A Fine Show of Live Stock, Especially Horses and Cattle.

FIRST DAY—MONDAY.

The first day was largely devoted to the placing of the exhibits and the housing of a considerable portion of the stock and the general preparation for the second day's programme.

The secretary and his staff were busied with making entries, which were in general largely in excess even in the first day of the total number last year, the number at that time being 1,392, while last night at four o'clock the entries footed up 1,540, with many more to come in this morning, which swelled the total.

The inside exhibits were largely placed last night and the judges progressed pretty thoroughly with their duties. On the ground floor of the main building was, amongst other things, disposed the display of roots and vegetables, of which there was a very creditable display, much in excess of the exhibit of last year. Potatoes made a very fine showing, the samples being in quality somewhat in excess of the quantity. The Manitoba exhibit of the C.P.R. occupied its old quarters and was up to its old excellence, the show of grain being a bounteous reflex of the bounteous harvest that has this year of grace blessed the Prairie Province.

On the floor also was a splendid display of grain, wheat being exceptionally excellent. There were several samples of winter which scaled 65 pounds to the bushel—five pounds above the standard, while many samples of spring wheat, went up to 64 pounds, Campbells white chaff, spring, however, beating the record with 65 pounds to the bushel, while the red kept it company in weight. The judges remarked that some few samples that would otherwise have been prize winners were barred by being less than a bushel, one especially that was worth of a red ticket, falling 2½ lbs short of the bushel, in the bulk exhibited, though the sample was far above standard.

Dairy produce for a country like this had by no means an adequate representation, there was some good butter and a rather undue proportion of home made bread, and seven or eight boxes of cheese, with pickled vegetables and fruits, and canned vegetables and fruits, honey, etc.

On this floor also were some industrial exhibits worthy of notice. Gough Bros. the wonderful cheap men, had their former holding, tenanted with a splendid stock of the fine ready made clothing that has made their name a household word in this district. Their display comprised about 100 suits of ready made clothing, a hundred pairs of pantaloons and a hundred overcoats, besides a fine array of gents' furnishings, ties, scarfs, handkerchiefs, etc. The display was in charge of and had been very tastefully and effectively arranged by Messrs. J. A. Tully and Stewart Robertson.

Mr. J. D. Tully was on hand with a tastefully arranged display of proprietory medicines, containing electrical apparatus, toilet sundries, etc., etc.

Mr. Thomas Gemmell, proprietor of the Peterborough Carpet Works, occupied a section with a fine display of ingrain carpets, all-wool unions, etc., of very tasteful designs and serviceable texture. This establishment manufactures for the wholesale trade about 2,000 yards of carpet per month.

On this floor also Mr. R. Hull shows a fine collection of horse shoes—from the solid understanding of the plough horse to the slender steel of the trotter.

The exhibit on the second floor was of a more refined variety. The show of apples appeared to be large and firm, though thought by some to be smaller than that of last year. The display of small fruits was, consistently enough, a very small one. There was a magnificent show of cut flowers, the whole floor being perfumed with their delicate and penetrating fragrance.

The fine art department was an improvement in former years, there being some good pen and ink work and some creditable water colors and one or two oils—landscapes of merit. The ladies department was seen to be a decided improvement over last year. There was a fine profusion of exhibits. The work was nearly all new and the style and execution were very creditable. The same remarks apply to the domestic manufactures and plainer specimens of female handicraft. The new articles of exhibits predominating was a matter of favorable comment.

SECOND DAY—TUESDAY.

The second day of the exhibition opened out with beautiful weather rather too hot, however, for comfort. The town was unusually animated with visitors and vehicles, and at an early hour the visitors began to enter the grounds. All the moving the stock exhibits that had not been placed before, came trooping into the grounds and were made ready for the judges, who entered on their duties at half past one.

The attendance for the morning was in excess of others years but it was not till afternoon that the crowds began to move into the grounds.

The travelling dairy in charge of Prof. Dean, was a centre of attraction to all classes of visitors. The morning's operations consisted of testing several samples of milk, with the sulphuric acid test; seven or eight samples were tested and the results shown were very varied, the percentage of butter fat ranging from 1 per cent to 9 per cent; and in operating the milk and cream separator an apparatus which separates the cream from the milk, and conveying the skim milk and cream into separate vessels. Milk fresh from the cow was used and the separation was very completely effected.

At eleven o'clock Prof. Dixon, the man of iron, gave an exhibition on the high wire cable, which met with great applause, his lying down with his balance pole under him being a difficult yet deftly performed feat.

As this report closes the speeding in the ring events are coming on and the judges on stock are beginning their work.

THE OUTSIDE EXHIBIT.

There was a rather meagre display of machinery and agricultural implements. As usual, the Peter Hamilton Manufacturing Company took a long lead. The exhibit was in charge of Mr. A. Nicholls, and it consisted of the following articles:—

The Hamilton Light Steel Twine Binder, the Daisy Seeder, the Crown Mower, Spring Tooth Cultivator, and Tiger Hay Rake. The power ensilage cutter and elevator is a practical supply of the need created by the general adoption of ensilage corn. This machine cuts the corn and elevates it directly into the silo by means of chain carriers, which can elevate to a height of twelve feet. The No. 4 improved starw cutter is made with an improved gearing which permits the cutting of feed into three different sizes, with one wheel this machine is made for either hand or horse power. A powerful grain crusher, Hero No. 10, is capable of crushing from 60 to 100 bushels of oats per hour according to the power applied. A No. 3 hand straw cutter is also shown, as well as a root slicer and pulper, and an improved potato and corn scuffler which has a most ingenious adjustable attachment for hilling up the crop. A root-seed sewer shown, plants, rolls, covers and finishes the planting with once driving over the ground. The new Star gang plough is shown this year for the first time. It has several points of superiority, has steel frame, mould boards and sole shoes both of which are larger than the ordinary make, producing much steadier running. Then there is a collection of fine ploughs, including the Combination, I X L. No. 4 and Champion. A spring toothed harrow with steel frame is adopted especially and one application is more effective than several of the ordinary harrows. The Diamond tooth seed harrow can be used in two, three or five sections, for each of which special whiffletrees are provided. This completes the catalogue of articles exhibited from samples of the products of a manufacturing establishment which turns out farming machinery equal to any made anywhere in the world.

Mr. G. McWilliams, whose factory is on Dickson's Race, Ashburnham, shows Champion Fanning mill and bagger, an I X L fanning mill and a wind engine (the "Queen" wind mill) in operation, furnishing water for the stock on the ground.

Mr. C. C. McDonald showed a Chatham fanning mill and bagger, made by Manson Campbell, Chatham.

Mr. Henry Owens shows, placed in a well ready for use, two samples of his excellent pumps, one force and one lift. He also shows a sample of the Percival.

In the carriage making department there are two creditable exhibits. Messrs. Fitzgerald & Stanger show a Gladstonian carriage, two phætons and several all marked by the fine lines, substantial workmanship and excellent finish which make their carriage building so satisfactory to and popular with the public.

Mr. T. Fitzgerald shows in addition to several buggies and the Empire road wagon, a buggy in the rough in order to illustrate the excellent quality of the material used in its construction. He also shows a new patent body road cart and two O. B. and S. road carts. The stuffed deer and the coal waggon also occupy a place of honour in his collection. There is also a fine string of horse shoes labelled "Made to order for 'Molly Clark' and 'Hiram.'"

The most attractive and one of the most complete exhibits in the grounds is J. J. Turner & Son's array of tents, thirteen in number, of all sizes, shapes and for all uses, together with a large display of water proof clothing, horse covers, camping supplies, folding tables, etc. Turner is becoming known all over the province, and visitors to the exhibition are every year indebted to him for a display that adds very greatly to the attractiveness of the grounds.

NOTES.

The two Edison phonograph's exhibition attracted great attention and interest.

The W.C.T.U. had a booth on the grounds where they served dinners to the hungry public.

J. J. Turner & Sons had a great spread of flags.

The track was in fine condition for the races.

The industrious fakir was present in numerous forms.

The press is much indebted to the genial Secretary for much appreciated assistance.

The Bell Telephone Co. put a telephone in the Secretary's office free of charge. It was a great convenience to those having communications to make with the town.

Personal.

Rev. G. H. Davis continues in about the same condition, there being no noticeable improvement to cheer up the anxious friends who are watching by his side.

Mr. J. C. Conner, amusement manager of Hanlan's Point, Toronto, and manager of S. J. Dickson, the high wire artist who appeared at the exhibition to-day, paid the EXAMINER a friendly call this morning.

Hot Weather for Tea-meetings.

But the Charlotte Street Church People Succeed Just the Same.

A "tea-fight" in such a temperature as afflicted perspiring humanity last night, labors under great disadvantages, and when it attains such flattering success as attended the effort of the Charlotte street people, it shows the attraction is very strong. In fact the good people of the Charlotte street church are without peers as entertainers, and the public knew it. The tea-meeting last night was a continuation of the proceedings occasioned by the opening of the new Sunday school room. It was peculiarly a Sunday school tea-meeting, the whole affair being managed by the officers, teachers and advanced pupils of the school.

From seven o'clock till nearly nine the tables spread in the new school-room were almost constantly filled. An elaborate dinner was served by bevies of charming young waitresses, whose sweetest smiles were dispensed lavishly as a sort of relish for the more material entertainment provided. Each of the four tables was gay with floral decorations. About three hundred people sat down to tea.

It was nine o'clock or better before the meeting in the church was called to order by Rev. Geo. Edwards, pastor. An opening hymn, "Blest be the tie that binds," was sung, after which Rev. Mr. Lewis offered up prayer.

Mr. J. L. Hughes was then appointed chairman, and in the course of a few remarks Mr. Hughes referred to the Sunday afternoon many years ago when the Charlotte street Sunday School was first organized. Of the original promoters of the school he believed there were only two present—Mrs. Morrow and himself. Speaking of the new building, Mr. Hughes said that the school had been cramped for want of room, but now they would be better able to carry out their plans for extending the work and usefulness of the school.

The choir sang an anthem, "The Lord is Good," and Rev. Mr. Toom, of Ashburnham, made a pleasing little speech.

"Nearer My God to Thee," was then rendered by the choir, after which Mr. O. C. Rowse, superintendent of the Sunday school, was called upon. It must have been a proud moment for Mr. Rowse. It was so for all his friends, for one and all realize that it was during his several terms of office the school has grown and prospered so rapidly that the new building became an imperative necessity. Mr. Rowse has laboured faithfully for a number of years in the interests of the school, and it must be satisfactory to him to know that his efforts have been crowned with such magnificent success. He is assisted by a large staff of energetic teachers and officers, who may justly share in the credit.

Mr. Rowse made a financial statement showing the cost of the new building. The contract price was $1,640.00; a furnace would cost $129.00; seven dozen chairs had been purchased for $57.75; extra furnishings had cost $70.00, and incedental expenses amounted to $75.00, making a total of almost $2 000.00. Against this there was the donation of Mrs. Nicholls of $500, leaving $1,500 to be raised by the audience that night.

Suppressed "Oh's" of astonishment were heard from the audience, but they afterwards went determinedly to work and came very near raising the desired amount.

Rev. Mr. Shorey was introduced, and received with prolonged applause. Mr. Shorey promptly attacked the duty before him. The hour was late, and without further parley Mr. Shorey asked for subscriptions. Mr. Rowse, on behalf of the Epworth League, led off with a donation of $100, and a number of other gentlemen responded with fifties, twenty-fives, tens, etc. About $1100 was raised.

Walter Kerr's Assailant.

Matthew Wynn is the name of the man who gave Walter Kerr what may prove his death wound a week ago this morning. After his arrest the prisoner was so agitated and confused he could scarcely speak, and the way he mumbled out his name led to the mistake of his being called McElwains. The prisoner was brought before P. M. Dumble this morning and further remanded for a week, by which time it is expected Walter Kerr's prospects for life or death may be accurately prophesied. At the present he is hovering on the borders of spirit-land. To-day his condition is reported somewhat less favorable. He passed a restless night. There is no immediate danger, however, and the physicians are still hopeful.

No Wonder She Felt Grieved.

On Monday about ten o'clock in the morning a lady was observed by one of our town policeman walking up George street, carrying on her arm a rather large sized bundle and leading by the other hand a small boy, apparently about seven years of age. When she had reached the corner of Hunter street she was observed to stop suddenly, pause for a few moments, and rather hurriedly retrace her steps, all the while weeping bitterly. This was more than our humane gentleman in navy blue could stand. Touching his white helmet with a wave of the left hand he approached her, and the following dialogue ensued:—"What's the matter, my good women?" "Oh, sir, nothing." "Have you lost any near or dear relative?" "Oh, no sir." "Your pocket book?" "N-no, sir." "Is there anything I can do for you?" "Oh, don't bother me, will you! I've been up to Toronto attending the exhibition all week. I've been going around looking to see what I could do in the way of providing for my children. I've lugged this parcel of goods all the way in a crowded train, and might have saved myself all that trouble, and saved money, too, if I bought the goods from j j sheehy. Look right there in that window and see for yourself." Policeman—"Right you are, Eliza."

NIAGARA'S LAST VICTIM

ANOTHER SENSATIONAL SUICIDE AT THE FALLS YESTERDAY.

An Unknown Woman Debarks From a Michigan Central Train and Drowns Herself—Wore Diamond Earrings and Was Plentifully Supplied With Cash.

NIAGARA FALLS, Sept. 23.—About sunrise yesterday as the Michigan Central train from Chicago stopped at the Falls View Station to let the passengers on board see the waters of the cataract, a lady left the train, and, climbing over the railing, disappeared down the side of the steep embankment overlooking and directly opposite the falls.

About noon the body of an unknown woman was discovered by the park police in the water between the entrance to Cedar Island and the pump house. It was removed from the stream before the current could carry it over the Horseshoe Falls, but a few feet away. It was that of a woman about 40 years of age, 5 feet 3 inches, brown hair, dark complexion, with a little hair on the lip, giving the face a slightly masculine appearance.

She had on a dark silk dress, low shoes, and wore diamond earrings. On the fingers were four rings, one in agate and one in moonstone setting. The other two were gold band rings, one heavy. On the inside of the smaller was the inscription Dell to Charlie, Feb. 20, 1864. On the arms were four silver bangles and an enamelled gold bracelet. Attached to the body was a small leather bag, with heavy oxidized silver trimmings, containing $78 in bills and some small change, also black enamelled clover leaf brooch with pearl setting and [illegible] stone scarf pin. A small handkerchief with black embroidered edge and an envelope that had evidently contained [illegible] at sometime had written across one end "Sept. 5, 260." On the face of it was printed "Allan, 375 Allen street." The bag also contained a ticket of the Illinois Central Railway from Woodlawn Park to Pullman dated Sept. 20, and a small piece of The Chicago Inter Ocean bearing date Sept. 21. From the above it would appear she arrived in Chicago on the 20th and left on the 21st. The fact of her having no other railway ticket would indicate her destination was the Falls and the conductor on the train had taken her Chicago ticket up. She has since been identified as the woman who left the train as it stopped at the Falls View Station early this morning. Her footsteps were traced in the soft earth to a point where they entered the water west of Cedar Island and about 300 yards south of the Falls. The water at this point is not over four or five feet deep and a slow current. The clothing worn by deceased indicates she was in deep mourning.

The Body Identified.

A party from Buffalo, who have gone up to Drummondville to view the body of the woman supposed to have suicided this morning, claim she is a Mrs. Dell Rathbun of Buffalo, a widow lady, and who has recently been visiting friends in vicinity of Chicago.

Jumped Into the Red River.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 23.—Mrs. Riley committed suicide at daylight yesterday by jumping into the Red River. She is supposed to have been crazed with grief over the recent death of a child.

Drowned Near Sudbury.

NICKEL CITY, Ont., Sept. 23.—A sad drowning accident occurred on Lake Wahnapitae the other day by which two well known citizens of Sudbury, Anthony McCormick and J. H. Babcock, lost their lives. They were crossing the lake in a canoe when a storm came up and swamped the frail craft. A half breed who was with them clung to the canoe and was drifted to the shore. Both men were "old timers" here and highly esteemed and respected in the community. Anthony McCormick was for some time foreman at the Blezard Mine, and everybody liked him. Ross Babcock had tramped on the range for years struggling to make a strike, but just as he was about to realize on some of his property his wanderings came to a tragical end. He was a quiet, inoffensive hard working prospector.

Thrown From a Railway Train.

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 23.—A. B. Hammond, a grain broker of Chicago, en route to Buffalo to unite his fortunes with J. C. Allan, the well-known Buffalo "bucket shop man" whose extensive operations in Canada were the subject of comment some months ago, met with a very serious accident on the Grand Trunk Railway between Hamilton and St. Catharines. Mr. Hammond had left the smoker and was preparing to enter the coach near here when he missed his footing on the platform and was thrown violently from the train, sustaining injuries which his medical attendant believes will result fatally.

Insane Man Killed.

RIVER DU LOUP, Que., Sept. 23.—Two accidents occurred at the Intercolonial Railway Station yesterday morning. At 3.40 a.m. a young man named Joseph Paquet from Ste. Blandine, county of Rimouski, was run over by a special freight train. He died shortly after. The man was crazy, and had only been released a short time before. About 7 o'clock a young boy named Wilfrid Sancy, messenger at dispatcher's office, had his right hand badly crushed while trying to couple cars.

The Baron Franz Szoutkereszty, chief justice of the Klausenburg tribunal, Hungary, while waiting his turn in the ante room of a noted Vienna physician, suddenly drew a revolver and shot himself dead. The suffering caused by disease is supposed to have driven him to suicide.

"Can a hypnotized person be made to commit crime?" was very emphatically answered in the affirmative by Dr. Voisin, of Paris, in a paper delivered before the British Association. He suggested to a subject under its influence to commit the act of arson while hypnotically asleep, and there was obedience in each case. More than that a woman was recently sentenced in Paris for a succession of acts of robbery. It was ascertained that she had been habitually hypnotized, and upon investigation it was discovered that she had robbed under the suggestion of outside parties.

MORLEY AT CAMBRIDGE.

THE LIBERAL LEADER SPEAKS ON POLITICAL AFFAIRS.

Disastrous Railway Collision in Prussian Silesia—Many Killed and Wounded—Sensational Suicide—General Foreign News of a Night.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—At Cambridge last night John Morley said that the general election would be a straight fight between the Liberals and Tories and there would be no dissenting Liberal party.

Mr. Morley disputed in succession the claims on which the Conservatives would make their appeal to the country. He condemned the indefinite and persistent occupation of Egypt and the methods of government applied to Ireland. The local government and free education measures were merely skeleton bills. The Irish land purchase bill was a measure of destructive rather than constructive statesmanship and the external safeguards and restrictions which it was predicted will accompany the Irish Local Government bill would only prolong and embitter Irish controversies in Parliament. Although he differed from the majority of the labor congress at Newcastle on the eight hour question he hailed discussion with hope and satisfaction, having every confidence in the soundness of the ultimate judgment of the workers of the country, seeking to improve their own welfare. He advocated village councils to manage all local affairs. Before undertaking social reforms, however, the Liberals must fulfil their Home Rule pledges.

A BARONESS' SUICIDE.

The Old Sad Story of Woman's Love and Man's Perfidy.

BERLIN, Sept. 23.—The young Baroness von Kreizewiz, a beautiful and popular lady well known in high social circles in all the large cities of the empire, has committed suicide as the result of an unhappy love affair with an officer of the [illegible]. Yesterday a lady deeply veiled called at the quarters of the officer in question and knocked at the door. She was refused admission. The door was at the same time shut in her face. Instantly the lady drew a revolver and shot herself through the head, falling dead upon the threshold. The young lady was later identified by a relative as the baroness. It was learned that she had been acquainted for a long time with the officer. It finally became necessary to save the lady's reputation that a marriage should take place, and she begged her lover to name a date. He refused and the suicide followed.

THE BRITISH FLOODS.

A Great Tide Causes an Overflow of The River Dee.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—Along the River Dee a tide 20 feet high, driven up the river by the gale, has effectually backed the floods coming down. The result is that the course of the river is flooded for miles, and for long stretches only hedge tops are visible in the country bordering its banks. Reports from all parts of North Wales, England and South Scotland tell of irreparable damage to crops. Trains which started yesterday from Edinburg for Galashiels and London were obliged to return. All the mills are flooded at Galashiels. The damage is immense. At Aberdeen the rain continued to fall for 36 hours. The swelling of the Gala River in Scotland has flooded the valley for sixteen miles.

DIRT AS AN EMBALMER.

Earth Sent From Holy Land to Preserve Rudolph's Body From Corruption.

VIENNA, Sept. 23.—The Archduke Franz Ferdinand at Vienna yesterday received a strange visit from the Vienna representative of an important commercial house in Jaffa, and the gentleman presented him with a sack full of holy earth, which had been taken from the Chapel of the Ascension on the Mount of Olives. This earth they were allowed to take on the express understanding that it was to be placed in the coffin of the late Crown Prince Rudolph.

The Archduke accepted the present and promised to do with it as the donor wished.

It appears there is a widespread belief that this earth preserves bodies from corruption, and it is said that the Campo Santo Cesar is covered with a layer of soil seven feet deep brought from the Holy Land, and the bodies buried in it are still well preserved.

POISONING THEIR POOR.

Unscrupulous Bakers Selling Poisonous Bread to the Peasantry.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 23.—An analysis of the bread sold in many places by unscrupulous merchants reveals the fact that poisonous mixtures are sold. Several merchants have been arrested at Moodmomorshausk and they will be summarily tried. Many specimens of such bread consist of 70 per cent. of earth and sand and 30 per cent. refuse farinaceous products.

What Is Russia Preparing For?

LONDON, Sept. 23.—The Standard's correspondent at Sebastopol says: A party of five generals, ten colonels and eight staff-captains, under Lieut.-General Manken Nevstroff, have been sent from St. Petersburg to survey the whole Crimea and to prepare plans for the War Department. The fact is commented on in military circles.

INTERESTING ITEMS BY WIRE.

Mrs. Hugh Sweeney, wife of a Hamilton livery stable keeper, was thrown from a buggy yesterday and seriously injured.

Frederick McDonald and Frederick Martin were arrested at London with loaded revolvers and a quantity of knives, razors and other stolen property in their possession. The hardware was stolen from Peson Bros. in St. Thomas, where Martin worked two days.

E. J. Steele of Union, while walking along Maitland street, London, was waylaid by two unknown men, who, after rifling his pockets, knocked him down. An M.C.R. train passing at the time went over his hands, mangling them terribly, the fingers of one hanging by threads.

AND NOW IT IS HAGGART

ALLEGED SCANDAL IN CONNECTION WITH "SECTION B," C.P.R.

Mr. Lister Makes Charges Against the Postmaster-General Which the Latter Says He Will Reply To-day—The Debate on the Privileges and Elections Committee Report.

OTTAWA, Sept. 23.—In the House yesterday Mr. Lister rose and declared that he is credibly informed, and that he believes that he is able to establish by satisfactory evidence:

1. That in the year 1879 Messrs. Alexander Manning, John Shields, John James Macdonald, Alexander McDonell, James Ibester and Peter McLaren entered into a contract with the Government for the construction of a portion of the Canadian Pacific Railway, between Port Arthur and Rat Portage, known as "section B."

2. That said contract and the works in connection therewith were completed by the said contractors to whom they were a source of great profit.

3. During the whole period covered by the said contract, the Hon. John G. Haggart, now postmaster-general, and a member of Her Majesty's Privy Council for Canada, was a member of the House of Commons for the South Riding of Lanark, and still is such member.

4. That the said Hon. John G. Haggart became and was beneficially interested in profits of said contract which accrued to the share thereof standing in the name of Peter McLaren, and has received large sums out of said profits, and has otherwise derived direct and substantial pecuniary benefit therefrom.

5. That during the progress of said works, and while Hon. John G. Haggart was interested therein, members of the firm were called upon by members of the Government of Canada for large contributions for political purposes and subscriptions were paid out of moneys of said firm and with the knowledge and assent of the said Hon. John G. Haggart were charged against the profits of the firm and while the said contributions were so demanded and paid the said firm of contractors were in various ways dependent upon the Government by reason of many matters being unsettled and in dispute in relation to the said contract which were at the time of such contributions or subsequently settled not unfavorably to the said contractors.

Asked for a Committee.

Mr. Lister, therefore, moved that a select committee be appointed to inquire fully into these allegations. He said the first witnesses would be the members of the firm and Hon. Frank Smith. The reason he made the motion at so late a period of the session was that the information and evidence had come into his possession only within the past few days. He hoped that the investigation would be concluded in four or five days.

The statement was allowed to stand as a motion to be moved to-morrow.

Mr. Haggart said he was prepared to reply at once, but as it was only a notice of motion he would make his answer to-day.

Mr. Coatsworth on Sir Hector.

The debate on the report of the Committee on Privileges and Elections was continued by Mr. Coatsworth. He pointed out that the Quebec Harbor Commission had more to do with the details of the Quebec harbor works from day to day than had the Public Works Department, and yet it was not claimed that the commission was guilty of complicity in these frauds. Mr. Boswell was the resident engineer of the works, under whom worked the inspectors, who received the sum of $5000 in bribes; yet no one thought of charging Mr. Boswell with complicity in the frauds, but it was charged that it was impossible that frauds, the result of a deep laid conspiracy, could be carried on without the knowledge and connivance of Sir Hector Langevin.

He reviewed the evidence and declared after a three hours' speech in favor of the majority report.

Mr. Davies followed condemning Sir Hector Langevin severely, and concluded by moving in amendment the minority report.

PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE.

The Whitlock Company Had to Pay Commission on Press Sales.

OTTAWA, Sept. 23.—At a sub-committee meeting of the Public Accounts Committee Hon. Peter Mitchell of The Montreal Herald was examined in regard to a press he had purchased for his newspaper. It will be remembered that Mr. Dansereau, when examined before the committee, stated that Hon. Peter Mitchell got a commission on the press purchased for that newspaper from the Whitlock Machine Company, Birmingham, Conn. Monday Mr. Mitchell, on being sworn, replied to Mr. Lister that there was no truth in the statement. Along with the manager of The Herald, Mr. White, he in the fall of 1887 went and purchased three presses, one costing $2105, another $1600, and another $1150 and a cutter for $140. After making the negotiations and having got the company down to what they said were bottom prices, Mr. Ahlstrom, the manager of the company, asked if he (Mitchell) would take the commission or if he had a confidential man who would do it for him. Mr. Mitchell replied that he thought they had got bottom prices then. "Yes," replied Mr. Ahlstrom, "but we generally allow a commission." "That is not customary on our side of the line," replied Mr. Mitchell. "I think you are wrong," was the answer. "The Printing Bureau took a commission on their press." Mr. Mitchell then asked The Herald manager to arrange with the company's manager and get the commission taken off the face of the amount, so that the newspaper would get the benefit of it. This was done. His presses were reduced in price by the amount of the commission, while those of the bureau would be increased by the amount of the commission, owing to its being diverted to another purpose by the parties who made the purchase.

This concluded the evidence and the committee adjourned.

Canadian Officers.

ALBANY, Sept. 23.—General A. O. Woodward, commander of the division of the Atlantic I.O.O.F., to-day made the appointments for division staff for the ensuing four years. The appointments include E. B. Butterworth, Canadian Cantonment, Ottawa, Ont., aide de camp; William Brennan, Kingston, Ont.; F. A. Heaton, Hamilton, Ont., and G. H. Loucks, Belleville, Ont.

Two May Die.

MONTREAL, Sept. 23.—A French Canadian family named Jobin, living at 893 Sanguinet street, partook of cabbage soup at dinner and shortly afterwards the mother and every child were taken seriously ill. A doctor was called in and pronounced the case one of poisoning. The two youngest children are not expected to recover. It is supposed that the cabbage was sprinkled with Paris green.

Accidents to Workmen.

BERNE, Sept. 22.—The International Congress called to discuss the causes of accidents to workmen, the employers liability in such cases and the best means to be taken to prevent such accidents, opened here Monday. Up to this time there are only 100 delegates present, out of the 300 appointed by various labor organizations to discuss the questions referred to. Among the delegates are four Americans. M. Droze, Minister of Foreign Affairs, welcomed the delegates on behalf of the Government. M. Droze said he hoped the deliberations of the congress would result in an improvement in the condition of the existence of working people throughout the world.

Damage Due to a Gale.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—A despatch from Berwick on Tweed, Northumberland, announces that a furious gale has been raging there and that several vessels have been wrecked. In addition, a great amount of damage has been done by the storm to harbor, which has recently been much improved. The crops throughout the borough have also suffered severely.

Fire in Toronto.

TORONTO, Sept. 22.—Last night the premises of Thompson & Co., slaughterers was damaged to the extent of $5000 by fire.

AFTER 25 YEARS.

Remarkable Case Before the U.S. Bureau of Pensions.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—One of the most remarkable and pathetic cases that has ever been brought to the attention of the Bureau of Pensions is that of William Newby, a private of Company D, 14th Regiment, Illinois Volunteers. This regiment was commanded by the heroic Colonel Stephen G. Hicks of Illinois and was conspicuous for its gallantry at the battle of Shiloh. Newby was in this battle on April 6, 1862, and was reported killed in action. It seems, however, that instead of being killed he received a severe wound on the head and was captured and sent to the rear by the Confederate force and imprisoned at Belle Isle, and was afterwards transferred to Andersonville. It seems that Newby was released in course of time and was in poorhouses in various parts of the South. He was finally taken to Key West, Fla., by a gentleman who recognized Newby as a kinsman. Here he remained until some time in 1869, when this relative died.

After Newby was reported as killed in action his wife applied for a pension and it was granted, and she has been drawing a widow's pension from the date of his reported death to the present time. This soldier has filed a claim for a pension, and it is now receiving the consideration of the office, the claim of the widow being suspended in the meantime. No discharge has ever been granted to the soldier, and the consideration of the pension claim is being postponed until such time as the Secretary of War shall grant the man's discharge.

This soldier has been separated from his family for a period of 29 years, they believing all the while that he was dead, and now he turns up a forlorn, demented old man. His case has attracted great attention in the southern part of Illinois, and has excited the sympathy of all who have become acquainted with it. He recently attended a large reunion of old veterans of his country, where the subject was generally discussed. The pension will no doubt soon be granted, and he will receive a sufficient sum to smooth his way to the end of his life.

Newby wandered from place to place and finally turned up at Shreveport, La. While there the colored people made up a purse and he was given passage on a steamboat to Cincinnati. On the way up the river the steamboat landed at Shawneetown, Illinois. Newby, hearing this name called out, seemed to recognize something that was familiar and got off the boat. From here he wandered to Kankakee, Ills., where he was in the poorhouse for a time; leaving this place, he struck out southward and at last reached McLeansborough, in Hamilton county, Ills., and was sent to the poor house. During these years he was in a demented state, bordering on insanity, as the supposed result of the wound in the head. In wandering about he finally went over into White county, and when he got near his old home was seen and recognized by two of his old comrades who had served in the regiment with him. His wife was sent for, and she identified him, as did his relatives and many of his friends and comrades.

HE SAT ON A TACK.

His Girl Heard Him and He Now Wants $2000 for His Hurt Feelings.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 23.—Otto Kramer sat on a tack while traveling in a traction car a month ago. Yesterday he entered suit against the company in the Common Pleas Court for $2000, that being the figure at which he places the injury done to his dignity, for he was with his best girl at the time, and to his person, for the wound inflicted kept him for a week in a hospital.

Otto explains his experience in his declaration filed in court. He says that after seeing his lady friend comfortably seated he sat down himself. There is nothing unusual about that, but the sudden exclamation which Otto gave vent to as he jumped from his seat startled all the other passengers.

No one knew what the matter was until they saw his hand reach down to that particularly tender part of his anatomy which would be likely to come in contact with a tack when he was seated. "Ouch!" was the exclamation used, and it was rendered very expressive, indeed, when he was seen to feel for the wounded spot.

An examination was made that is, an examination of the car seat was made—and the cause of the sudden rising and expression of agony was discovered. It was a vicious, long pointed, dark-looking monster tack, such as upholsterers use.

Otto will testify that the point was sharper than that of the ordinary tack, and he knows, for the injury that resulted was powerful in the extreme, finally resulting in an abscess.

Biennial Conclave of the Sovereign Grand Lodge.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 23.—The biennial conclave of Oddfellows is in session here.

The past year has been one of grace and blessing to Oddfellowship. The number initiated last year, the report reads, was 68,000. The net increase in the United States and Canada during the past 12 months is 37,000. Total membership, 672,339; revenue for 1890-91, $7,244,227. The pecuniary benevolence distributed was $4,000,000.

New grand lodges have been formed in Indian Territory, Cuba and Japan. Reference was made to the growing popularity of the degree of Rebekah, which now numbered 132,000 ladies.

It has been decided to reduce the initiation years from 21 to 18.

Convicts Flogged.

TORONTO, Sept. 23.—Patrick Sheady, aged 26, William Leader, 33, and William Turnbull, 27, received their third and last flogging at the Central Prison. On Sept. 11, 1889, the three prisoners committed an indecent assault on a woman named Eliza Beth Richardson of Guelph. They were tried and sentenced by the late Judge Drew to one year and 360 days' imprisonment and to be thrice whipped with the cat-o'-nine tails in presence of the prison surgeon. During the first month of their imprisonment each prisoner received 10 lashes; after nine months they received another 10, and now a few days before their release the third and last instalment was administered. Sheady is a married man, the others single. All the prisoners shrieked during the process of lashing, and the back of each was covered with huge welts.

Failure in Gents' Furnishings.

TORONTO, Sept. 23.—Mr. J. J. Findley, dealer in gents' furnishings, Yonge and Elm streets, has assigned to Mr. Henderson, bookkeeper for Hyslop, Caulfield & Co. He owes about $7000 and his assets are nominally the same. The business was formerly carried on by Findlay & Code. It was then an extensive concern.

60,000 Home Seekers.

GUTHRIE, O.T., Sept. 23.—A reporter returned from the Iowa Indian reservation yesterday, after a ride of 40 miles. About 30,000 persons entered the reservation from the west promptly at 12 o'clock, and fully that many more went in from the Guthrie side. The wildest excitement prevails.

Ten Killed, Many Injured.

BERLIN, Sept. 23.—At Gleiwitz, Prussian Silesia, a collision has occurred on the railroad connecting Golaczowy with Wolbrom, near the Russian frontier, between two passenger trains. Ten people were killed and many injured.

A later despatch says that four officials and seven passengers were killed and 20 passengers badly injured. The locomotives of both trains were under full steam at the time of the collision, and the crash when they came together was terrific. Both engines were reduced to shapeless masses of metal. Eight carriages were also wrecked. The scattered contents of the shattered engine furnaces quickly set fire to the wreckage, which blazed fiercely.

Natives Attack a Mission Station.

LISBON, Sept. 23.—Advices from Portuguese Guinea say a French mission station in that region has suffered an attack from natives, who killed 10 attaches of the mission. A Portuguese gunboat has been sent to punish the offenders.

NEARLY FIVE THOUSAND

Visitors Patronize the Exhibition on Tuesday.

The School Children Take a Prominent Place—The Travelling Dairy "Butters the Cake"—Well Contested Events on the Track—Record of the Events—Prof. Robertson Visits the Grounds and Makes a Brief Speech.

SECOND DAY—AFTERNOON.

Early in the afternoon the ticket sellers began to be busy and for hours they were kept rushing by the demand for tickets which did not clear till nearly 5,000 visitors had entered the grounds. The weather was bright and exceedingly warm, but that did not seem to daunt the visitors, who took advantage of seeing the splendid exhibit of stock present in the grounds. The exhibition of Dixon, the cable walker, attracted great attention and was witnessed by thousands.

The speeding in the ring took place on the track and the two events run off afforded rattling sport.

SPEEDING IN THE RING.

This was an attraction that was looked for with great impatience by the sporting portion of the crowd, who were compelled to want till Dixon, the man of iron and aerial ambulation did his high wire act, which he did well too.

The races were run off under the direction of the judges, Messrs. G. H. Briggs, Toronto, M. McGregor, Lindsay, and H. C. Winch; Messrs. Gus Sawers, and W. Clancy held the stop watches.

There was a large crowd in the grand stand, and the grounds were flooded with vehicles and pedestrians.

THE OPEN TROT

brought a good field, the following horses being entered.

J. J. Daly's, (Lindsay) black gelding, "Blackstone" driven by his owner.

J. Dickson's, (Toronto), bay mare "Minnie Moore," driven by owner.

A. B. Appleby's bay gelding "Hiram," driven by Mr. C. Chadburn.

E. Philp's, (Port Hope), brown mare "Stathard" driven by owner.

THE FIRST HEAT.—The field went off with a beautiful start but Minnie Moore took the pace, the other horses bunched in the rear. "Minnie' held her own, trotting squarely all the way, and came in under the wire an easy winner in 2.29, with "Stathard" second, "Hiram" third and "Blackstone" fourth. "Hiram" scored second, but was set back for running.

SECOND HEAT.—The field got a good start, but "Hiram" took the lead the first quarter, giving place later to "Minnie" and "Stathard," who scored the half neck and neck, "Minnie C," however, taking first place, which she held to the wire, winning the heat in 2 31, "Stathard" second, "Hiram" third and "Blackstone" fourth.

The third heat resulted like the previous ones. At the first turn "Hiram" cut "Minnie" out of the pole and took the lead, closely followed by the speedy mare, who left her feet for a few moments but quickly got her nose down again. "Blackstone" went up in the air and dropped behind, "Minnie" and "Stathard" tugging for second place. At the third quarter Hiram broke and lost some ground, but maintained his inside position, Minnie crowding him close. Their sulkies brushed each other but neither appeared to lose any thing, and they came down the home stretch neck-and-neck, the Toronto mare leading ing under the wire by a head only. Both drivers claimed a foul, but the heat and race was given to Minnie Moore. Time, 2:32.

Following is the summary of the race:

J. J. Daly's (Lindsay) blk. g. "Blackstone"	4	4	4
J. Dickson's (Toronto) C. M. "Minnie Moore"	1	1	1
A. B. Appleby's (Peterborough) b. g. "Hiram"	3	3	2
E. Philp's (Port Hope) brn. m. "Stathard"	2	2	3

Time—2.29, 2.31, 2 32.

THE FARMERS TROT

brought out four entries as follows:—

R. Croft's (Cobourg) "Billy C,"
G. Blezard's "Bessie B."
J. Lancaster's "Maud L."
J. Craig's (Cobourg) "Farmers Friend."

FIRST HEAT.—Bessie B. led handsomely the first quarter when Maud L. collared her and took a big lead the others forming a procession. But Billy C. forged ahead and came under the wire a winner of the heat in 2.46½, with Maud L. second, Bessie B. third, and the Farmers Friend fourth.

The second heat had to be trotted twice on account of "Billy C.'s" driver pulling his horse. "Maud L." won it, but it was declared no heat. On the second start the horses got well away, the grey mare taking the lead. "Bessie B." lost her feet and dropped behind, and "Billy C." also lost ground by breaking, but both pulled up and the four horses were bunched at the first quarter. At the half "Maud" and "Billy" were neck and neck, "Farmer's Friend" third and "Bessie" breaking badly in the rear. On the second round "Billy" forged ahead, but on the last quarter "Maud" crept up and the race home was exciting. The horse just before reaching the wire left his feet, and though he was a couple of feet ahead of "Maud," he went in the air as he passed under the wire and the heat was given to "Maud." Time, 2.50.

In the third the horses went around the first half in this order:—"Maud L" first, "Farmer's Friend" second, "Billy C." third, "Bessie B." almost distanced. On the last half "Billy C." passed into second place and crept close to "Maud," who was trotting a grand race, never lifting her nose. "Billy C." lost by a break, but came in neck-and-neck with the mare. "Maud" was awarded the heat. Time, 2 54

The fourth heat was also between Maud and Billy, the other horses struggling for third place away in the rear. At the quarter Billy C., who was handled in this and the next heat by Ed. Brown, passed Maud and took the pole, from which time he did great work, trotting without a break, the gray mare also winning praise for her steady work. Billy C. won by a couple of lengths, time 2:42.

The fifth and last heat was a pretty race for some distance between Billy C. and Maud L., the former leading until at the first quarter he was overhauled by Maud. They came around the turn neck-and-neck, so close that their sulkies crashed together. Two spokes of Maud L's sulky were knocked out, and one of Billy C's shivered. At the half the gray mare led Billy slightly, but her driver was evidently afraid to drive hard with his damaged wheel, and he finished the race more leisurely, allowing the others to pass him. The last half was a procession, Billy C. winning easily, Bessie second, Farmer's Friend third and Maud fourth. The driver of Farmer's Friend claimed that he had been worked against by the others and not given fair play during the race.

Following is the summary:

R. Croft's (Cobourg) b. g. "Billy C"	1	2	2	1	1
G. Blezard's (Otonabee) b. m. "Bessie B"	3	4	4	3	2

Ayer's Hair Vigor

IS the "ideal" Hair-dressing. It restores the color to gray hair; promotes a fresh and vigorous growth; prevents the formation of dandruff; makes the hair soft and silken; and imparts a delicate but lasting perfume.

"Several months ago my hair commenced falling out, and in a few weeks my head was almost bald. I tried many remedies, but they did no good. I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, after using only a part of the contents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best in the world."—T. Munday, Sharon Grove, Ky.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a number of years, and it has always given me satisfaction. It is an excellent dressing, prevents the hair from turning gray, insures its vigorous growth, and keeps the scalp white and clean."—Mary A. Jackson, Salem, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for promoting the growth of the hair, and think it unequaled. For restoring the hair to its original color, and for a dressing, it cannot be surpassed."—Mrs. Geo. La Fever, Eaton Rapids, Mich.

"Ayer's Hair Vigor is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a cure for dandruff."—J. W. Bowen, Editor "Enquirer," McArthur, Ohio.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past two years, and found it all it is represented to be. It restores the natural color to gray hair, causes the hair to grow freely, and keeps it soft and pliant."—Mrs. M. V. Day, Cohoes, N. Y.

"My father, at about the age of fifty, lost all the hair from the top of his head. After one month's trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor the hair began coming, and, in three months, he had a fine growth of hair of the natural color."—P. J. Cullen, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

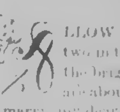
THE WORLD OF WOMEN.

SUGGESTIONS OF VALUE TO GIRLS ABOUT TO MARRY.

Some Good Rules for Sleeping Well in Summer—About the Care of Children—Dainty Lunches for the Picnics—Three Things Worth Knowing.



ALLOW me just a word or two in the ears of many of the bright Journal girls who are about to marry.

Do not marry, my dear, until you and Jack have a small bank account. I take it you have had to work for your own living, therefore you are the more independent, and, to use a Hibernianism, "What is yours, is your own."

The land teems with saving funds. I hope you have a book in one of them, with a good balance in your favor. If necessary, draw out some of this for your house furnishing, but not all; leave a reserve for the rainy-day which may come in the shape of ill-health or we know not what form. Let your furnishing be simple, but tasty; do not devote the greater part to a swell carpet for your parlor, or a walnut suite for your bedroom. Paint your rooms round the edges for about two feet, and have tasty ingrain carpet rugs, and remember there is much light-wood furniture which is inexpensive and really charming.

This suggestion, if followed, will give you excellent effects, less work, and more health in your family. Buy yourself good and durable clothes, and a sufficiency to last for some time, in place of an imitation seal sacque, and a hat surmounted by a cockatoo as big as a young turkey, select a fine cloth coat and, at least, two woollen gowns and plenty of durable underwear.

A young girl of my acquaintance, in very moderate circumstances, was extremely particular to have a black silk dress in her wedding outfit, which was much coveted by her less pretentious friends, but I doubt if she would have been considered such an object of envy had they seen her as I did, six weeks after the wedding, when she entertained me in a much worn "Mother Hubbard" wrapper, and with slip-shod feet, which disclosed all too plainly the holes in her stockings; her face wore a lugubrious air of discontent; she had not found marriage the holiday it promised to be. As I looked at her front door, already covered with finger-marks, I sighed to think what a little industry, combined with soap and water, would effect, and what a miserable future awaited her companion in misery, who, out of the great lottery had drawn such a blank. I will give but one more illustration out of, possibly, a hundred. I knew a young woman who moved out of a nasty little home, because, as she told me, she "would rather have a handsome bedroom suite, and a real brussels carpet, than a whole house to herself." I may add that she lived to miss her husband, as well as her house, for he, having no longer a home of his own, began to look around him and meeting plenty of idle people like himself, he soon found more congenial company than his lazy wife. Remember how much you have in your own power, unless you have married an exceptionally bad man, you can make or mar him. Do not be persuaded to marry unless you can see your way clear before you; then, having joined hands, throw all your heart, courage and determination into your work.

It is for life; make then, I beseech you, an earnest effort to secure your happiness and his. Give him a loving welcome, an attractive home and a well-cooked meal, and, above all, let him find you fair to look upon. Let your eyes be as two jewels for depth and brilliancy, and your soft hair shade a brow whereon sweet content shall rest.—Felicia Holt in Ladies' Home Journal.

Children in Summer.

Every mother knows that summer is a trying time for children who have not finished cutting their teeth. If they are fed upon artificial food, any change in the diet, or want of care in its preparation, is sure to disorder the digestion, and perhaps cause serious illness. Intelligent mothers are alive to the dangers which surround their children and are on their guard against them.

It is not always remembered that older children also require care at this season. The chilly winds of spring and autumn, and the frosts of winter rouse a mother's anxiety and make her watchful, but summer seems to her a time when vigilance may be relaxed without doing any harm. There are some points in relation to dress, bathing, food and sleep which should be carefully attended to, and then an ordinarily healthy child may be permitted to go its own way.

To talk of guarding against cold in summer seems absurd, and yet it is as necessary as in winter. Where the climate is changeable, a hot day is often followed by a cool evening, or a sudden rain storm chills the air, or a cold wind springs up, grateful after the heat, but dangerous to those who are thinly clad unless they are protected from it by proper covering. Cotton is a good conductor of heat and allows it to escape rapidly from the surface of the body. As soon as the surrounding air becomes cooler than the skin it steals the heat which the body requires for its own needs. A fresh supply of heat must be produced, and thus the system is overtaxed to supply the demands of the robber. Flannel is a bad conductor, and guards the tender body more faithfully, retaining the heat.

Children should wear light merino undershirts in summer, as thin as can be procured, but always with an admixture of wool. They can have cotton dresses and as few undergarments as possible, not to overheat them, but flannel next the skin is indispensable. Long stockings should be worn, and these may be of cotton. The shoes must be light, with broad toes and low heels, perfectly fitting, not to cramp the foot. An extra jacket should be provided to wear in damp weather and in returning from expeditions in the evening when the dew is falling.

Young children should wear night-dresses of thin flannel, older ones may have undershirts like those worn in the day, or light jackets of Shaker flannel.

Sleeping Well in Summer.

Comfortable sleep in summer is made more probable if the last meal of the day be light, easily digested food. It is a great mistake to go to bed hungry. A glass of milk, or koumiss, with thin bread and butter, or delicate crackers, or even something more substantial when it can be borne, will prevent wakefulness. The digestion should not be taxed to dispose of rich made dishes.

Before going to bed take a sponge bath in tepid water. Sponge lightly and quickly, and dry the skin without unnecessary friction. If this is impossible, at least bathe the feet. Avoid standing in a draught.

If the sleeping-room is warm, it may be cooled for a time by wringing large pieces of cotton out of water and hanging them before the open windows. Leave the door open, and as the air comes through the wet cotton, it will be cooled. This is a good device for cooling a sick-room; the cloths can then be wet again and again. Keep the gas turned low during the process of undressing, and sleep without a light unless it is a tiny night lamp.

The ideal bed is, of course a woven wire mattress, with a thin hair mattress on it. Folded blankets make a good substitute for the latter. If the sleeper is restless, the corners of the under sheet can be turned under and firmly pinned to the lower side of the mattress to prevent it from maliciously wrinkling itself into creases as the occupant tosses about. In a midsummer night no covering is needed but a sheet, and even that sometimes seems too oppressive. A blanket, however, should always be at hand in case a cool breeze springs up before morning, as it does in many localities. Fold it evenly, tuck one end under the mattress and turn the rest over the foot board not to interfere with the feet.

In summer, as in winter, a quiet mind is essential to repose. Leave the cares and worries of the day to be taken up on the morrow. They will not look as large or as black as if they had been carried all night.

PICNICS

Dainty Dishes Which Are Sure to Please All Fresco Lunchers.

One is very frequently at a loss to know how to give to a picnic menu the variety and delicacy of a home lunch. Yet there are many dainty things which may be readily prepared, and as easily served on a moss table as on a walnut one, and the following are some which I have selected as suitable for picnics.

RIBBON JELLY.

Ribbon jelly is made by pouring different colored jellies one over the other in layers. Yellow is made from lemons and oranges; red from currants; dark colors from dark berries, green from a little spinach-juice added to any light jelly; and crimson by using a little cochineal powder. Each layer must be very hard before the next is poured in. After it has all become hard, turn, and serve in slices cut on the table. Whole fruit, such as cherries, strawberries, slices of pineapple, etc., can be used in it if one chooses. it is delicious served with cream, the whole being just taken off the ice, and a more ornamental dish could not be placed upon the table.

VELVET CAKES.

Three cupfuls of sugar; one cupful of butter beaten to a cream; add the whites and yelks of six eggs, beaten separately and thoroughly; two tablespoonfuls of sweet milk; one-half teaspoon cream tartar, one-quarter teaspoon soda, or one teaspoonful baking powder, sifted with one package of cornstarch; one teaspoonful lemon-juice. Bake in cup-cake pans.

CREAM MERINGUES.

Four eggs (whites only) whipped stiff with one pound of powdered sugar, flavored with vanilla or orange. When very stiff heap in the shape of half an egg upon stiff letter paper, lining the bottom of a baking-pan. Have them at least a half inch apart. Do not shut the oven door closely, as they bake very easily. Watch very closely, and when a light-yellow-brown take them out and cool quickly; slip a thin bladed knife under each, scoop out the soft inside and fill with cream whipped very stiff as for Charlotte-Russe. The oven should be very hot.

CORNUCOPIAS.

Three eggs, one cupful of sugar, one cupful of flour, two tablespoonfuls of cold water, one teaspoonful of baking powder; beat thoroughly. Drop one tablespoonful on a round tin and bake in a moderate oven. When a delicate brown take out, and while hot lap the edges together in form of a cornucopia and hold in shape until cool. Fill them when cold with whipped cream. This receipt makes twelve.

VELVET CREAM.

Two tablespoonfuls of strawberry jelly, two tablespoonfuls of currant jelly, two tablespoonfuls of pulverized sugar, whites of two eggs, beaten stiff. Then whip the cream; fill a wineglass half full of the whipped cream, and fill up with the above mixture beaten to a cream.

A DELICACY FOR LUNCHES.

Two eggs beaten separately and very light; stir in sifted flour until it can be rolled out in molding board. Roll as thin as possible, and cut in strips an inch wide and an inch and a half or two inches long. Fry a delicate brown in very hot fat. Sprinkle either with powdered sugar or salt as you take them from the fat. To be eaten soon after frying. Very nice for lunches or high teas.

Do You Cough?

Don't delay. Take Kemp's Balsam, the best cough cure. It will cure coughs and colds. It will cure sore throat, or a tickling in the throat. It will cure pains in the chest. It will cure influenza and bronchitis and all diseases pertaining to the lungs, because it is a pure balsam. Hold it to the light and see how clear and thick it is. You see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Large bottles 50c and $1. dw

Could Scarcely See.

Mrs. John Martin, of Montage Bridge, P. E.I., writes :—"I was troubled last summer with very bad headaches and constipation and sometimes could scarcely see. One bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters made a complete cure of my case, and I wish you every success.

Ask Your Friends About It.

Your distressing cough can be cured. We know it, because Kemp's Balsam within the past few years has cured so many coughs and colds in this community. Its remarkable sale has been won entirely by its genuine merit. Ask some friend who has used it what he thinks of Kemp's Balsam. There is no medicine so pure, none so effective. Large bottles 50c. and $1 at all druggists. dw

Oft in Peril.

Lives of children are often endangered by sudden and violent attacks of cholera, cholera morbus, diarrhœa, dysentery and bowel complaints. A reasonable and certain precaution is to keep Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry always at hand.

A single scratch may cause a festering sore. Victoria Carbolic Salve rapidly heals cuts, wounds, burns and all sores. dw

A woman who is weak, nervous and sleepless, and who has cold hands and feet, cannot feel and act like a well person. Carter's Iron Pills equalize the circulation, remove nervousness and give strength and rest. dw

What Say They?

In popularity increasing. In reliability the standard. In merits the first. In fact, the best remedy for all summer complaints, diarrhœa, dysentery, cramps, colic, cholera, infantum, etc., is Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. All medicine dealers sell it.

Fur overcoats and Russian circulars are first-class articles to keep you warm, but they will not prevent the pains of rheumatism. Ask W. R. Greatrex, Druggist, for a bottle of Royal Rheumatic Remedy. dw

You hardly realize that it is medicine when taking Carter's Little Liver Pills; they are very small; no bad effects; all troubles from torpid liver are relieved by their use. dw

Self Application of Electricity
BY THE DORENWEND
ELECTRIC BELT
And Attachments.
HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto
THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT OF QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and meta with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

I AM A MAN

"I have been treated by doctors, who had long lists of so-called cured patients, but they could not reach my case, and hope had been murdered in me by fair promises, but on first application of your magical appliance, hope and confidence came flocking in stronger than the combined powers of the four winds. I knew then that you would cure me, and now that I am a man and well again, I cannot thank you sufficiently for the cure. So again I say, use my name as reference whenever you wish. SUN LIFE
ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA.

The attention of our Policy-Holders is directed to the following summary of the leading items of the present report, which speaks for itself as to the progress and prosperity of the Company :—

Life Assurances in force, 1st January, 1891	$16,759,355.92
Increase over previous year	3,421,372.34
New Applications received in 1890	6,371,599.15
Increase over 1889	2,268,888.60
Cash income for year ending 31st December, 1890	889,078.87
Increase over 1889	325,938.35
Assets at 31st December, 1890	2,473,514.19
Increase over 1889	687,691.47
Reserve for Security for Policy-Holders	2,109,222.68
Increase over 1889	567,732.71
Surplus over all Liabilities and Capital Stock	232,175.69
Increase over 1889	75,649.05
Death claims fallen in during 1890	143,961.65

The progress made by the SUN LIFE during 1890 was remarkable. The new business was the largest in the Company's history, and was equalled by but one other Canadian Life Company. The income for the year exceeds $2,000 for each day in the year, Sundays included. The Assets are large and rapidly increasing. They are, moreover, of the highest character, yielding an average interest of 6.04 per cent. The overdue interest is small, and the Real Estate owned under foreclosure is only four per cent. of the amount of mortgages. This is a remarkable showing. The SURPLUS accumulated during the FOUR years of the current quinquennium is nearly THREE TIMES as much as the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail thus to be highly satisfactory. The following are the figures :—

" " " "	1886, "	89,452 97

A Familiar Figure Gone.

Visitors to the post office will miss the winsome face of Miss Georgie Neithercutt from behind the wicket, where she has been stationed for about a year past. The young lady died this morning at her mother's residence on Queen street after an illness of two weeks with fever. Miss Neithercutt made many warm friends by her pleasing and obliging manner in the performance of her duties.

Accident on Brock Street.

Yesterday afternoon Misses Naomi Lewis, May Boucher and a little daughter of Mr. Rackham went out driving in a livery conveyance. On Brock street the horse showed symptoms of momentary fright and all three girls jerked excitedly at the reins, the result being that the buggy was cramped too short and upset. Miss Lewis sustained a fracture of her collar bone in the fall, and the little girl had her ankle badly wrenched if not sprained. Miss Boucher escaped injury.

Fruit Social.

A most enjoyable evening was spent by the Royal Templars and guests at their hall last evening, the occasion being in honor of Miss Brown, who is leaving for Chicago. A standing unanimous vote was passed regretting the necessity of her departure. Eloquent and feeling addresses were delivered by Drs. Stephenson and Goldsmith, Messrs. Loudfoot and McCaffrey, and Misses Sanderson and Turner, bearing upon Miss Brown's departure, and expressing the high esteem and warm regard in which she is held.

The Master Workman Here.

Mr. John Milne, Grand Master Workman, of the Ontario Grand Lodge, A.O.U.W., arrived in town this morning from Belleville, and gave the EXAMINER a call. Mr. Milne will address a public meeting in the Foresters' Hall, Simcoe street, to night, on the subject of the aims and benefits of the Order he represents. This is a matter which practically interests every person, young and old, male and female—and the public are invited to the meeting to-night to hear what the Ancient Order of United Workmen is doing for its members.

The Street Railway Franchise.

The EXAMINER was in error in stating that the electric street railway matter was in abeyance until next spring. Our information came from two councillors, but the chairman of the committee states the franchise will be awarded this fall. As is well know, there are two syndicates applying for the franchise, the one comprising town capitalists and the other principally composed of gentlemen connected with the Edison Co. A proposition is now before the town syndicate upon which they must decide by the first of October, when the matter will be disposed of one way or other.

St. John's Organ Recital.

As a pleasing finale to the harvest festival at St John's it has been arranged to hold on Thursday evening of this week a grand organ recital in the church. Selections of a bright and appropriate character. Proceeds on this occasion in aid of church fund. The decorations will remain in position. 2d

Christian Endeavor Choir.

The first practice of those who purpose forming the Christian Endeavor choir will be held to-morrow (Thursday) evening in the Royal Templars' hall on Hunter street, at eight o'clock. There is now less than a month to prepare for the convention and the choir will need all the practice it can get. Every member is urged to be present tomorrow night.

The Lindsay Fair.

The Lindsay fair begins to-day and lasts until Friday. The steamer Sunbeam will run a special trip from Chemong to Lindsay on Thursday, returning Friday, and making connections at Chemong with the Peterborough train. This will be a pleasant route for visitors to take to the Lindsay exhibition. An advertisement in another column will give full particulars. The Sunbeam makes her last round trip of the season on Saturday next.

Matrimonial Felicitations.

The heartiest felicitations are extended to Mr. B. D. Francis, Canadian sales agent of the Edison General Electric Company, on the occasion of his marriage to Miss Abbie Carr, of Brooklyn, N.Y. The happy event took place on Tuesday, Sept. 15th. The hymeneal knot was tied at Christ Episcopal Church, Brooklyn, N.Y., by Rev. Dr. Warren. Mr. and Mrs. Francis, after making a tour of the principal cities, returned to town on Saturday and they have taken up their residence at Highland Hall, Ashburnham, where the many friends whom Mr. Francis' geniality and attractive personal qualities have won for him hope the newly married couple will spend many happy days. The EXAMINER takes much pleasure in extending the most cordial congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Francis upon the occasion of the most important events of their lives, with the hope that their lives together may be made up of years of unalloyed happiness.

Police Court Items.

Robt. Bell, of Smith, was this morning fined in the police court $5 and costs for cruelly beating his horse at the Exhibition grounds yesterday.

John McClure, of oil well fame, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Chief Rozzel. He was bleeding from a cut over his eye. It seems that McClure had been drinking and either in a fit of temporary insanity or desperation induced by an approaching attack of the d. t's., chased some ladies who were passing on the street near Spalding's Bay. McClure had an open knife in his hand, and might have done some injury had he not been knocked down by a French carpenter, who was working in the vicinity and ran to the women's rescue. This morning McClure was sent up to gaol for a week in order that the condition of his mind may be ascertained.

Lacrosse.

To-morrow the Orillia lacrosse club will be here and cross sticks with their old rivals, the Peterboroughs. Ball will be faced at 2:30 on the P.A.A.A. grounds. There should be a large attendance to encourage the boys. Following will be the Peterborough team:

Christian Endeavor Notes.

The Executive Committee of Local Union met last Monday evening in the lecture room of the Baptist church to receive reports from the committees formed for the carrying out of the great convention to be held in this town next month.

The following committees reported, all of which show that a great deal of work has been done:—Social, Decoration, Reception, Register, Flower, Billetting, Musical and Finance.

The chairman, Mr. Alf. J. Johnson, of the Billetting Committee, reported that as yet only about 250 of the delegates have been provided with billets. It will be necessary that those of our townspeople who can render service in this direction should communicate with Mr. Johnson without waiting to be called on.

Any friends who can loan flags or other articles of decoration, will do a great kindness by communicating with Mr. A. McCallum. Mr. Ketchum has kindly consented to take charge of the music, and all young people who can sing should meet in the Templars Hall on Hunter street, for organization and rehearsal on next Thursday evening. Let there be a good rally of young people to all committees and rehearsals.

The Paterson-Corbin Car Works.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—The ratepayers will be surprised to learn that it was all chaff on the part of the council to make the ratepayers believe that the municipality of St Catherines had offered the above firm $10,000 to stay. This I am able on good authority to contradict. All the firm did ask for to stay at St. Catherines was $3,000, which has not been granted by the council, but is being made up by subscriptions by the citizens, and therefore they have concluded to remain. All the chaff about tenders and other absurd stories about $10,000 have proved to be only dreams of an excited brain. Will the council let the ratepayers know who is paying the expenses of voting on the bylaw?

Yours truly,
W. LEGG

NOTES.

During the afternoon Prof. Robertson, of the Dairy Department of the Dominion Experimental Farm, who had been in town during the day, delivered a short address from an improvised platform at the south of the main building. Space forbids the publication of a summary, which will appear in a later issue of the EXAMINER.

The 57th Batt band was on the ground in uniform and played at intervals during the afternoon.

Dixon's third performance on the high wire had to be cancelled, the supports slackening and rendering another exhibition unsafe. An attempt was made to steady the braces but darkness came on too soon to complete the work.

A Complete Back-Down.

Patterson & Corbin, the St. Catherines Car Makers, Decide to stay Where They are—A Poor Excuse Worse Than None in This Case—Town Capitalists to Take the Matter up.

The difficulty between the town and Messrs Patterson & Corbin, of St. Catherines, has ended in a complete recantation on the part of the latter firm.

Councillor Moore received yesterday an ultimatum from Patterson & Corbin, stating that by and with the advice of their solicitors, McClive & Gilliland, they had come to the conclusion that they "cannot safely accept the proposed by-law without the risk of incurring damages in the case they make default in the terms of the by-law that might practically ruin them." They go on to say that they never agreed to give security that they would expend $16,000 a year in wages in the manufacture of street cars, a condition which they felt it would be impossible for them to strictly carry out, and besides they were informed by their solicitor that according to the terms of the by-law they could not safely carry on at the proposed factory any other business that might prove remunerative in case there should be a failure in the demand for street cars or be unable to compete with large manufacturers, without running the risk of forfeiting all their rights. They have therefore concluded to remain in St. Catherines, where they can engage in any line of manufacture, and where they intend to "enlarge or rebuild their works" (which no doubt means that the city of St. Catherines is substantially aiding them).

The letter concludes as follows:—"We thank you for the consideration we have received from the town of Peterborough and we probably have no right to complain that you require security, but viewing the matter in every light and that we had no anticipation that anything would be required when we first communicated with you, we now beg leave to inform you that we will not be able to accept of the terms of your proposed bylaw. There are other reasons in regard to the bylaw which would make us timid, but this is the particular objection.

"Respectfully yours,
"PATTERSON & CORBIN."

An informal meeting of the town council was called last night to consider the letter, and a reply was framed, which pointed out to Messrs. Patterson & Corbin that these negotiations had been of their own seeking, the town only moving in the matter because Patterson & Corbin stated they were going to leave St. Catharines, and a choice location was what they wanted. Furthermore, no objection was taken to the by-law, though Messrs. Patterson & Corbin were supplied with a copy at the time it received a first reading, and even a month or more later, after the ratepayers had voted upon it, no objections were raised. But when the firm was asked to sign the bonds prepared according to the terms of the bylaw, the first hitch took place, and since that time Messrs. Paterson & Corbin have been gradually retreating until they have finally entirely withdrawn. There is no doubt that the city of St. Catherines has been quietly influencing this decision on the part of Patterson & Corbin, by holding out substantial inducements.

The town's reply to Patterson & Corbin concludes with a request for a check from the firm covering the amount expended by the town in connection with the negotiations.

CAR WORKS JUST THE SAME.

Notwithstanding the failure of Patterson & Corbin to carry out their agreement, the town will likely lose nothing by it. A syndicate of local capitalists is being formed which will step into the breach and do just what Patterson & Corbin were expected to do. They feel there is an opportunity here for a big industry and they propose to push the business and make it large and successful as possible. Peterborough offers unexcelled facilities for manufacturers, and if a Car Works can succeed anywhere in Canada it will here. If this syndicate gets as favorable terms as were voted to Patterson & Corbin, they will at once take steps to establish the new industry. Perhaps the competition of larger manufacturers which Patterson & Corbin fear so much, and which they give as a reason for not removing to Peterborough, will in the near future come from this very town. The ratepayers will be glad to learn that the Car Works agitation will not be without result, for a local company would be of far more benefit to the town than an outside firm like Patterson & Corbin. It's an ill wind that blows nobody good.

Useful Receipt.

To prepare at a small cost a good TONIC WINE, for improving the appetite, aiding digestion and strengthening the system:

Take a 25c. package of Indigenous Bitters, which can be had of all druggists in the Dominion, infuse it in three half pints of boiling water; when cool strain and pass through the marc which remains in the strainer three bottles of sherry wine at from $1 75 to $2 00 per gallon. This wine is very valuable on account of its medicinal properties. It strengthens the stomach, increases the appetite, prevents or arrests nausea, regulates the bowels and invigorates the whole system. If care be had to take it regularly in doses of at least one tablespoonful before or after meals it will prove of wonderful service to all whose stomachs do not perform their proper functions, and everyone knows the importance of the stomach in the human organism. As the Indigenous Bitters are only composed of plants, roots and barks, and contain no mineral drug nor any dangerous medicine whatsoever this tonic wine may be administered without the slightest inconvenience alike to the weak and the strong.

Important notice.—Do not take any thing in place of the Indigenous Bitters. If your druggist has none ask him to get them for you. Without the true Indigenous Bitters this receipt is worthless. And they are not sold by weight, but only in 25c. packets.

HEAD ALIVE, BODY DEAD.

Remarkable Case of a Broken Neck in New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—James Giblan, a steamfitter of No. 450 West Forty-sixth-street, died at Roosevelt Hospital on Saturday. He had lived for twelve days with a broken neck. Giblan was 26 years old and leaves a wife and family.

He struck his head violently against the bottom of a bathing tank at the foot of West Fifty-sixth-street on September 6. The blow crushed the fifth cervical vertebrae and severed the spinal cord. The injured man was taken to Roosevelt Hospital, where Drs. Schultz and Blair, the house physicians and the hospital staff attended him.

Giblan was conscious for nine days. He conversed with his attendants and received nourishment. Below the collar bones his whole body was paralyzed and insensible to pain. He could not move a muscle, excepting the flexors of one arm, but he continued to perform the functions of digestion. It was like a live head on a dead body. The injured man continued to exercise all the organs of his head as well as at any time during his life. He heard the physicians consulting together about his case; he conversed readily and with vigor about what was going on about him; he recognized his wife and little children when they came to see him, and bade them all an affectionate farewell.

His remarkable condition awakened great interest among the hospital physicians, and they spent many hours by his side. There was something weird, fascinating and strange about the case. The head slept at night. The man experienced no pain. It was six days before the faculties that were exercised so easily began to be impaired. The temperature of the body then began to rise. Stupor came upon the faculties, slowly at first, and on the ninth day Giablan was unconscious. He lived for three days after that in a comatose condition. Pneumonia proved too much for the impaired organs, and on the twelfth day after he was injured Giblan breathed his last.

GATHERED THEM ALL IN.

How the Wily Chinamen Slide Over Into the United States.

DETROIT, Sept. 23.—Early yesterday morning the police were given a tip that a party of five Chinamen had crossed the river from Windsor. The stations were all notified at once. Some time afterward Patrolman Hichcock brought to police headquarters Chung Hing, aged 28, who hails from London. Still later Jung Quong-Yung-Mak and Dung Hing, two laundrymen from Vancouver, B. C., and Bun Jung, aged 40, and Ah Sin were brought in. The Chinamen were turned over to the proper authorities this morning. It is stated that there are several more in the crowd that were smuggled in, but so far others have eluded police. It is evident that the men had been coached in all the replies, particularly that in regard to their place of residence. Under Judge Swan's recent decision they cannot be sent back to China for the reason that they live in Canada.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT.

Laughable Plight of a Canadian Woman Arrested for Smuggling at Detroit.

DETROIT, Sept. 23.—Mrs. Annie Willett, wife of a French farmer living near Windsor, Ontario, came across the river this morning. She is a large woman, but her appearance below the waist aroused the suspicions of the custom officers, and she was detained and searched. An inspection showed that suspended from her waist were two large sacks, and in these were found four nice spring chickens, four dozen eggs, and two pairs of heavy woollen home-made men's half hose. The goods were confiscated and sold.

Mrs. Willett admitted that she had been smuggling goods of this kind right along and selling them to a grocer.

Purify Your Blood

Importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is hereditad and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Scratched 28 Years

A Scaly, Itching, Skin Disease With Endless Suffering Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

If I had known of the CUTICURA REMEDIES twenty-eight years ago, it would have saved me $200.00 and an immense amount of suffering. My disease (psoriasis) commenced on my head in a spot not larger than a cent. It spread rapidly all over my body, and got under my nails. The scales would drop off of me all the time, and my suffering was endless, and without relief. One thousand dollars would not tempt me to have this disease over again. I am a poor man, but feel rich to be relieved of what some of the doctors said was leprosy, some ringworm, psoriasis, etc. I cannot praise the CUTICURA REMEDIES too much. They have made my skin as clear and free from scales as a baby's. All I used of them was $5 worth. If you had been here and said you would have cured me for $200.00, you would have had the money. I looked like the picture (No. 2, page 47) in your book, "How to Cure Skin Diseases," but now I am as clear as any person ever was. Through force of habit I rub my hands over my arms and legs to scratch once in a while, but to no purpose. I am all well. I scratched twenty-eight years, and it got to be a kind of second nature to me. I thank you a thousand times.

FURTHER WAR RUMORS

STARTED BY ACTION OF RUSSIAN GOVERMENT IN MOVING TROOPS.

The Famine in Russia Animals Killed for Their Hides Disorders in China The Valley of the Yang-Tse-Kiang in Rebellion—Great Excitement Prevails.

LONDON, Sept. 24. The Daily News correspondent at Odessa reports a steady movement of Russian troops westward. He says: Temporary barracks have been provided in all military centres between here and Warsaw. It is not known, however, where the troops will concentrate. The military officials are reticent and the local press is forbidden to allude to the matter. The movements are directed by General Vladimeroff at Kieff and General Gourkoff at Warsaw, two of the ablest tacticians in the army. The Admiralty has ordered that all the large vessels of the Russian Steam Navigation and Trading Company, as well as the volunteer fleet, be equipped with powerful davits, like men of war. These preparations have given rise to many war rumors.

The whole Russian press is opposed to Lord Salisbury's proposal to have the question of the Dardanelles settled by an international conference.

Germany is Ready

BERLIN, Sept. 24. The Kreuz Zeitung, in a warning article on the westward movements of Russian troops, says: "The cavalry depots on the German frontier are three times as strong as formerly and new depots are being forwarded. Such measures speak for themselves."

The Kreuz Zeitung says it is believed that Russia meditates an attempt to force a passage through Dobrudscha. The King of Roumania intends on his forthcoming journey to ask King Humbert and Emperor William whether Roumania can rely upon the assistance of the Dreibund in the event of a Russian attack. It is reported that Russia is seeking an alliance with Greece in order to obtain the use of the Greek fleet, which has lately been increased in efficiency.

William to Meet the Czar.

BERLIN, Sept. 24. It is reported here that the Czar of Russia and the Emperor of Germany will meet at Swinemunde, in the Island of Usedom, in the Baltic, on Oct. 13.

McCarthyites Win a Victory.

DUBLIN, Sept. 24. A meeting of the National Federation was held here to-day, at which Justin McCarthy presided. Mr. McCarthy said the section of the Irish Parliamentary party of which he was the leader, had virtually won a victory over that section which acknowledged Mr. Parnell as its head. This advantage might be followed and Home Rule for Ireland be an established fact, but it was necessary that funds be raised to meet the expenses of the party, and Mr. McCarthy announced his intention to issue an appeal to both the people of Ireland and Irish Americans to subscribe to such a fund. Mr. McCarthy said that the party had decided to devote what remained of the Paris fund to the use of the evicted tenants, "with whose cause the party absolutely identify themselves."

Turkish Insurgent Successes.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 24. The Governor of Yemen and all Turkish officials have fled from Sana. The insurgents have captured Hodeida, and great alarm prevails here, it being feared that the insurgents will advance to Mecca and proclaim an Arab Caliph.

Hodeida is a seaport town in Arabia, on the Red Sea, 100 miles north-northwest of Mocha. It has a great trade in Arabian produce.

The Famine in Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 24. Reports from Tamboff and adjacent provinces announce that the scarcity of oats and hay is compelling the farmers to sell their live stock at mock prices—for instance a horse for two roubles, a cow for five roubles, and colts for from 20 to 50 copecs. At a recent country fair the skeletons of 30 horses were found by the roadside. The animals had been killed for their skins. Destitution is also staring in the face a large number of people who have been employed upon public works as work upon the latter must stop when the frosts set in.

A Bull Fight Leads to Rioting.

PARIS, Sept. 24. A serious riot occurred during a bull fight at Marseilles yesterday. Displeased citizens drove bulls and toreadors out of the arena, heaped and burned the seats, and were only quieted when repeatedly charged by a force of gendarmes. The building was finally cleared and the flames extinguished. Many arrests were made.

The Bullion to Remain.

LONDON, Sept. 24. Counsel on behalf of the Chilian Government to-day applied to Justice Jeune to restrain the Mail Packet Company owning the steamship Moselle from parting with $750,000 in bullion brought from Montevido recently, except to the Bank of England for storage purposes. The justice decided the bullion should remain on the boat.

Immense Swarms of Locusts.

BUENOS AYRES, Sept. 24. Immense swarms of locusts are laying eggs in the provinces of Santa Fe Cordoba, Corrientes and Entrerios. The greater part of the wheat and linseed crops will be saved, but spring maize and potatoes will be lost.

HAVANA, Sept. 24. Large contributions [illegible] to the fund for [illegible] of the sufferers by the recent [illegible]. The convicts in Havana [illegible] over $2,300 for this [illegible] alone giving $254.

MR. MERCIER REPLIES.

HIS EXPLANATION OF THE BAIE DES CHALEURS AFFAIR.

Letters Laid Before Parliament Yesterday Government Business to Have Precedence Over All Other Matters in Future—Parliament Will Also Meet on Saturdays.

OTTAWA, Sept. 24.—Mr. Abbott yesterday laid on the table of the Senate the answer of Premier Mercier to Lieut.-Governor Angers' demand for an explanation of the Baie des Chaleurs Railway matter. The reply is dated Sept. 15.

Mr. Mercier says his colleagues and himself have decided to act according to His Honor's desire and limit their acts to simple acts of administration till further notice. He denies the jurisdiction of the Senate in the matter and the equity of its proceedings. Mr. Mercier, after reviewing the whole of the transactions revealed by the investigation of the committee at very great length, goes on to explain the manner in which the letters of credit were issued. He maintains that the payment thereunder was perfectly regular and made with the sanction of the Crown. The official procedure, is set forth with great minuteness concluding with an argument that the entire transaction was constitutional and legal.

With respect to the Pacaud revelation, Mr. Mercier says the incident was very much to be regretted. But it was not his duty to condemn the strange bargain made between these two persons (Pacaud and Armstrong). "If my colleagues," he said, "or myself had any knowledge of them the negotiations would have ceased."

With regard to the $100,000, divided into notes of $5000 each, he represents that the products of the notes, with the exception of one or two, were not intended for personal use, but for political purposes. He had endorsed the notes in blank and sent them to Senator Pelletier.

He then quotes the evidence to that effect.

Respecting the note exchanged for a letter of exchange in Paris in favor of Mr. Mercier, producing 25,500 francs, the Premier says he is informed the money was raised on one of the blank notes aforesaid, and continues: "I affirm that when in Europe and wanting this sum I asked it to be sent me, naturally expecting to pay the expense of the transaction, seeing it was for my personal expenses." "I affirm also that in asking for this money I was not aware of the transactions connected with the railway, or of Mr. Pacaud having obtained $100,000 or any other sum."

He then goes on to speak of the conversation referred to by Lieut. Gov. Angers with Hon. Mr. Garneau to show that so far as he was aware everything that took place during his absence had been in good faith. He maintains that the acceptance by Armstrong of $175,000 in payment of his contract was legal.

In conclusion Mr. Mercier says he hopes he has explained satisfactorily and justified the action of the Government in the matters connected with the Baie des Chaleurs Railway.

A. P. Bradley, Secretary of the Department of Railways and Canals, was suspended by the Government, owing to his admission to the Public Accounts Committee that he had certified to his son's work in the department for 12 months at $60 a month, when as a matter of fact the son was away at college in Toronto or Montreal.

Sir John Thompson gave notice to-night that he would move on Friday that the House sit on Saturday and that Government orders have precedence.

Mayor Clarke, D. Creighton (Empire), Frank Turner (President Albany Club), W. R. Brock and W. Beattie Nesbitt, Toronto, arrived in the city this morning.

The debate on the report of the Committee on Privileges and Elections was resumed. It is probable that a vote will not be reached until Friday.

THE YOUNG KING OF ANNAM.

He Carries on an Intrigue With a View of Escaping.

PARIS, Sept. 24. The young King of Annam has caused a sensation in Algeria. Although nominally a prisoner, he lived at the villa called Des Pins, in the village of El Dios, about a mile and a half from Algiers, and has practically had unrestrained liberty. The King is a good-looking young man of 23, wears European clothes, plays a piano and rides a bicycle. His attendants report that of late his bicycle has carried him in the direction of Algiers almost every night, whence His Majesty did not return until the early morning. The authorities decided to investigate the case, and discovered not only a romantic love affair, but a plan of escape from Algiers, which was actually to have taken place the very night following its discovery.

The whole thing had been worked out by the young woman in the case and she was promptly arrested.

To-day an official order was received to transfer him to Mellah.

LABOUCHERE INTERVIEWED.

What the Editor of Truth Had to Say About Canada.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—"What do you think of the future of Canada?" a New York Herald reporter asked Henry Labouchere yesterday.

"Well, if I were a Canadian I am inclined to think that I should cut the connection with England, but being an Englishman I have no wish that Canada should do so. I would rather be master in my own house, even if it were a cottage, than live in a sort of back garden to a nobleman's mansion. The stronger and more powerful Canada becomes the more American it will become, and the more anxious you will become to cut adrift from a European connection. Whether it will be an independent republic or whether it joins the United States will depend very much on the current of popular opinion at the moment of its separation. Were I a Canadian I should be in favor of a union with the United States. It seems to me a very grand idea that one continent should have one government and that government not the despotism of an individual, but the deliberate will of a nation."

A COMMITTEE REFUSED

THE GOVERNMENT WILL NOT INVESTIGATE SECTION B.

By a Majority of 24 the Select Committee Asked for by Mr. Lister to Investigate Charges Against Postmaster-General Haggart is Refused by the House.

OTTAWA, Sept. 24.—In the House yesterday Mr. Lister made the motion of which he had given notice charging that Hon. John G. Haggart was beneficially interested in the firm of Manning, Macdonald, McLaren & Shields which had the contract for constructing section B of the C. P. R., the Select Committee to investigate the matter to consist of Messrs. Mills (Bothwell), Edgar, Barron, Lister (without right to vote), Dickey, Girouard, McLeod and Wood (Brockville).

Mr. Haggart said he wished to give the most explicit and flat denial of the statement that he was beneficially interested in the contract. In 1880 he stated before the C. P. R. Committee that he never had any interest in any contract with the C.P.R., or from the Government and that he never had received a cent from any contractor in connection with the C.P.R. as a member of Parliament. The contract was first left to Fraser, Pitblado & Co. and to the firm of Manning & Co. After the contract was awarded Fraser, Pitblado & Co. withdrew. Peter McLaren was taken into the firm of Manning & Co. to strengthen it financially. He and Mr. McLaren were interested in a number of business transactions together. At Mr. McLaren's request he arranged the terms on which Mr. McLaren entered the partnership and afterwards he assisted in arranging the financial details of the settlement. The only money he got from McLaren was barely sufficient to pay his traveling expenses. In the six years he worked for Mr. McLaren he did not get more than $1500.

Mr. Haggart stated that not to his knowledge did the section B contractor contribute anything for political purposes.

Sir John Thompson said the House should be careful about adopting the motion, because members were interested in considering how far the jurisdiction of the House extended in matters of this kind. He asked what question of privilege was involved in the motion even if it were proven. There was no charge that the rights or privileges of any member were infringed upon. The motion could come only under the heading of "something which had recently occurred or recently come to public notice." Notice of this motion should properly be given and it might then be reached in proper time. He waived this latter point, however, and asked the House to judge on its jurisdiction, keeping in mind the cardinal principle that the House should not create any new disability or enquire into the private transactions of a member. The charge was that the Independence of Parliament Act of 12 years ago was violated. He maintained that the offences, if true, occurred three Parliaments ago and had nothing to do with this Parliament. If any penalty for violation of that act was incurred it was abolished when a man was re-elected and the member secured his seat by a new title. If a man lost his seat by reason of such offences he regained his seat by another election and no stigma could attach to him. The pecuniary penalties provided in the act could not be collected after 12 months after the commission of the offence and he believed that a member could not lose his seat after these 12 months had expired. He maintained that Hon. A. S. Jones, Minister of Militia, and Hon. T. W. Anglin, Speaker, during the Mackenzie regime, when unseated for breach of the Independence of Parliament Act, were absolved when re-elected, and one became a Minister of the Crown and the other Speaker of the House, showing that no stigma clung to them after they regained their seats by a new election.

He said that Mr. Lister had taken no responsibility in regard to the charges because they were indefinite. There was in reality no accusation that the Postmaster-General had ever violated the Independence of Parliament Act. The transactions might have been investigated 10 or 12 years ago but there must be some limit of time within which the charges can be. The charges were not new. A Royal Commission took evidence on this matter 12 years ago and their report was laid on the table of the House. The late stage of the session must have something to do with the will of the House to enter on such an enquiry. If the charges had kept for 12 years they could keep for four months longer until next session. There was no precedent for an investigation of charges so vague.

The present charge does not accuse any one of mis-spending a cent of public money. He appealed to the House especially in view of the period of the session to vote down the resolution.

He therefore moved that, having heard the statement of Mr. Lister and the reply of Mr. Haggart, the House do now proceed to the orders of the day.

Mr. Laurier said that the principal objection of the Minister of Justice was the lateness of the session. This was not a question of expediency but of right and duty, and he was sure that not only the foes but the friends of the Postmaster General wished to have the charges settled at once. The reason the charges were not made sooner was that the information came into the possession of Mr. Lister only a few days ago.

Mr. McCarthy said he for one was glad to see that a stop was put to this system of making charges against members. This case was brought forward merely to make the House a vehicle for abuse and scandal. Granting that the charges are true what is to follow? Can you expel the member? Parliament has not decided so. When a member is re-elected Parliament cannot expel him and disfranchise the constituency. No man who had any regard for the dignity of the House could allow charges of so general a character to be investigated.

After some further debate Mr. Lister replied, stating that he believed there were transactions of the firm of Manning & Co. which would not bear the light of day; that if a committee were granted he could prove that the Postmaster-General received large sums as profits, that members of the Government received large sums of money from the firm, that an eminent lawyer advised them to keep their books clean so that nothing could be proved from them, that when the contract was completed there was a friendly arbitration and the arbitrators were told how much to award each partner.

The division was then taken on Sir John Thompson's amendment to proceed with business. It was adopted by 102 yeas, 78 nays.

MRS. BIRCHALL AGAIN.

A Report From Montreal Which Is Probably a Canard.

MONTREAL, Sept. 24. Mrs. Birchall, wife of the Woodstock murderer, is said to have passed through here recently in disguise for Winnipeg, and it is believed she will make efforts to regain her husband's body.

It Was Mrs. Rathbun's Body.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 24. The body of the woman found in the water near Cedar Island yesterday has been identified as that of Mrs. Charles Rathbun, a wealthy lady of Buffalo, N.Y. Friends have taken it to the latter place to-day.

Mrs. Rathbun was one of the most prominent in Buffalo's circle of wealthy women. Her life since her husband's death had been one of quiet charity and she gave liberally to church works. She had been much worried of late years on account of a stepson who has been in and out of the insane asylum several times.

She had been visiting Dr. William H. Buck in Chicago and left there Sunday, intimating her intention of committing suicide.

Mrs. Fitzsimmons' Trial Begun.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 24.—The trial of Mrs. Lucy Fitzsimmons in the celebrated murder case in which she with her husband, Frank C. Fitzsimmons (who escaped from jail here last Monday), killed Detective Gilkinson on March 24 last, began in the Criminal Court here to-day. The case will likely be given to the jury to-night. The police officials have as yet no trace of her escaped husband.

THE CATHOLIC CONGRESS.

BUFFALO, Sept. 24.—The German American Catholic Congress, clergy and laity in fourth annual session in this city all week, has adopted a general platform.

It expresses fealty to the Roman Pontiff and returns thanks and gratitude for the pontifical blessing. It endorses the papal claims of inviolable rights to the territorial independence of the Holy See at which it says: "No natural or international principle in law, no sovereignty of a people can ever endorse and sanction a usurpation conflicting with the freedom and independence guaranteed to the head of the church by the divine founder and injuring severely and emphatically the sacred interests of two hundred million Catholics. The entirely free exercise of the highest apostolic power according to God's ordinance is intimately connected as well with the welfare of the entire church as with the territorial independence of the Holy See willed by divine providence." After an elaborate argument on this head the congress greets with enthusiasm the idea suggested at the recent Catholic congress held in Germany of an international Catholic Congress for the purpose of urging the restoration of the temporal power of the Pope as an independent sovereign, and expresses the belief that the congress should be held in the United States and an opportune time during the progress of the World's Fair in Chicago.

The platform is emphatic on the question of education and declares that without a religious basis it can but be productive of evil results. A strong protest is made against every interference with Catholic parochial schools. A significant plank in the platform is as follows: "We demand the full right and liberty to retain without interference from any one our German mother tongue, together with the language of the country. At the same time we protest most emphatically that for this reason the cry of foreignism is raised against us and that an attempt is made at denying us equal rights with other citizens."

TROUBLE IN CHINA.

Insurrection in the Valley of Yangtse-Kiang, Shanghai, Threatened

SHANGHAI, Sept. 24.—The situation here is much worse. Disorders are increasing at Ichang, and this is the prelude to other disorders. The valley of the Yang-Tse-Kiang is in rebellion. Wuchang, the central seat of the Viceroy, is ready to revolt, and the towns open to strangers—Hankow and Chungkin—are likely to follow. The latter town is difficult to defend by warships owing to the shallowness of the river. Great excitement prevails. Strangers are fleeing from Shanghai, which is among the threatened towns, but measures of defence are being taken. Three ships of war are at Wung-Chang and the fleets are concentrating at Shanghai. Minister Lemair of France has left here for Pekin.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Sept. 23.—The C.P.R. steamship Empress of China, which arrived here to-day, brings the following Chinese and Japanese advices up to Sept. 11: At Schang, Sept. 3, the American and Catholic missions and Messrs. Cain's, Aldridge's and Dean's houses were burned and Mr. Co[illegible]burn's looted by the anti-Christian Chinese rioters, the Franciscan Sisters and one of the fathers being badly hurt. On the following day the Catholic and Protestant missions were plundered and burned, but the English consulate and customs were left intact. The French sisters were saved with difficulty by the Chinese authorities. The cause of the riot was a stolen child being brought to the convent by some unknown person. There was no warning of any trouble. It is presumed the stolen child was only an excuse for the outbreak, and was taken to the convent by one of the leading plotters, as the outbreak was evidently premeditated and had long been fixed to occur upon that day. The date was a carefully kept secret.

The Threatened Districts.

Wu-chang, spoken of in the above despatch, is a walled town on the Yang-tse-Kiang, in the Province of Hoo Pee. It is the seat of a great native and foreign trade and possesses important native educational establishments. The population is about 800,000.

Kan Kow, in the same province, is a treaty port at the mouth of one of the tributaries of the Yang-tse Kiang and 700 miles from the sea. It is said to be one of the greatest commercial centres of the world. This city constitutes with Wu-chang and Han-Yang the capital of the province, and Huc estimated their united population at 8,000,000.

The total course of the Yang-tse Kiang, or "Son of the Great Water," is from 2500 to 3000 miles. It is crossed by the Imperial Canal, by which it communicates with most parts of China proper. The tide ascends it to Lake Po-Yang, 450 miles from the sea, beyond which it is navigable for 250 miles. It may be navigated to 200 miles from its mouth by ships of the largest class. Coal is said to be plentiful in many places along its banks.

FROM CHOLERA DISTRICTS.

A Dangerous Cargo Said To Be on Its Way to America.

BOSTON, Sept. 24. The English steamer Drewton, from Alexandria, recently took on board 68 bales of unwashed wool, bound for New York, and 1680 bales aboard at Tripoli, Syria, places affected by cholera.

This merchandise, though reported not contaminated, originally came from the districts wherein the cholera is confined. The merchandise is thought to be bound for America, and the health officer has been notified of the facts.

An Alarm in London.

LONDON, Sept. 24. The health authorities of Kilburn, a suburb of London, are investigating the sudden death of a man who is supposed to have died from cholera. The man died after one hour's illness, after apparently suffering from the symptoms of the disease referred to, and the impression has been formed that cholera will be found to have been the cause of death.

AND SO THEY WERE MARRIED

Frank Risch and Lula Rolls Married at Niagara [illegible]

NIAGARA FALLS, Sept. [illegible] Frank Risch of Toronto and Miss Lula [illegible] of St. Catharines, who recently figured in the late sensational Police Court episode in the latter city, were quietly married at Suspension Bridge, N.Y., yesterday and left in the afternoon for parts unknown.

Killed on the Railway.

TAMWORTH, Ont., Sept. 24. A boy by the name of Filchett, 12 years old, was killed by the K. N. & W. train at Marlbank. He jumped on a flat car while in motion, lost his hold and fell between, the wheels passing over both legs and one arm. The train ran back and forth two or three times before he was noticed. Help carried him home and Dr. Clark was telegraphed for. He amputated his legs and arm. The sufferer died at midnight.

Chat from Over the Sea.

London advices from Hawaii say there is no present danger of a revolution in that country.

Seven miners were killed and many seriously injured by an explosion of fire damp in Silesia.

The Belgian Government is seriously considering the project to make the Congo State a penal colony.

Successful experiments at Spezzia make it probable that petroleum will be used as fuel on the Italian war vessels.

The Government prohibition of the Catholic European Congress to be held next Tuesday at Rome has been withdrawn.

Baron Henry de Worms has been offered the position of Under Foreign Secretary in succession to Sir James Fergusson, who has been appointed Postmaster General.

Three travelers who were ascending the Karwendel Mountain in Bavaria, for the purpose of gathering edelweiss, fell into an abyss and were killed.

Why it is Popular.

Because it has proven its absolute merit over and over again, because it has an unequalled record of cures, because its business is conducted in a thoroughly honest manner, and because it combines economy and strength, being the only medicine of which "100 Doses One Dollar" is true—these strong points have made Hood's Sarsaparilla the most successful medicine of the day.

MILLINERY AND MANTLE DISPLAY AT TURNBULL'S

On Tuesday and Wednesday, the 22nd and 23rd Sept.

Our Millinery Showrooms will be open for the Fall Trade, when all the new fall patterns will be on display. As there is considerable change in the styles this season, ladies may expect to see novelties with us. We willl also show an extensive range of Pattern Mantles, and keep a well selected stock of Cloths and Trimmings, so that ladies preferring to leave their order for anything in the Mantle Line will find everything desirable with us.

Our stock of Dress Goods is now complete. We are showing some novelties in Camel's Hair Cloths, Polka-dot and Check Robes, Cheviot Cloths and Fancy Serges. MISS MERCIER, our dressmaker, has returned from a trip to Rochester, Buffalo and Toronto, and is well posted on all the latest styles. We feel we owe an apology to some of our customers for the unpardonable time their dresses were kept before made in the past, but, as with any first-class dressmaker, Miss Mercier got overcrowded. We have made a rule not to take any orders but what can be filled in a reasonable time, so that this will be avoided in the future.

Our stock of Men's Suitings and Overcoatings are well bought and cheaper than ever. We claim to be the best house in town for Ordered Clothing.

Arrived to-day, seven shades of Ladies' Diagonal Suitings (wide) at 15c.; three-quarter Table Napkins, 100 doz.; all the leading makes of Corsets at the lowest prices in the trade.

CENTRAL EXHIBITION

The Last Day in the Afternoon.

The Closing Scenes—The Judges Complete Their Work—The Speeding in the Ring Affords Splendid Sport—The Drawing Match a Drawing Card.

THIRD DAY—WEDNESDAY.

The fine weather of the day failed to bring half as many visitors on Wednesday, as were on the grounds the day before, though there was good amusement provided for the visitors. The splendid exhibit of stock received great admiration and a pleasing feature of this class was the fine exhibits shown by stock breeders outside the district, especially in cattle and sheep, thus giving proof that with a liberal prize list and good management the exhibition can be made to pay as well as entertain.

The morning was dull, as usual, but in the afternoon there was a fair attendance to witness the good sport afforded by the races and the drawing contest.

SPEEDING IN THE RING.

The first event run off on Wednesday afternoon was the race for the "Citizens prize," purse $100, which brought out the following large field:—

"Canadian Gold Dust," R. Gilmour, Port Hope; "Hazel Mac," W. Croft owner, Ed Brown driver; "Essie D," J. Daly, Lindsay; "Minnie S," J. Simpson owner and driver; "Commonwealth," Z. Bull owner; "Billy C," R. Croft owner.

There was a much smaller attendance on the course than the day before, the same judges and officials conducted the speeding in a courteous and capable manner that gave satisfaction to everybody.

THE FIRST HEAT.—Billy C. took the lead after the send off and going the half ahead with Essie D. close after. This position was held till the home stretch when Minnie S. overhauled Essie D. and the horses coming in, Billy C. an easy first, Minnie S. a second and Essie D. a close third, the rest of the field not being "in it." Time 2:42.

SECOND HEAT.—In this heat during the first half of the race, "Essie D," took first place closely followed by "Commonwealth" who did good work which he put in at the wire, under which he came winner, Minnie S. stealing first place for "Essie D," who was slated third. "Hazel Mac," fourth, "Billy Time 2:41.

The pacer was "not in it" the next heat, the contest being between "Essie D," "Minnie S" and "Billy C." Essie D. took the lead at the start after a pretty race with Commonwealth, closely followed by Minnie and Billy. On the next round Minnie and Essie see-sawed for first place, and Billy C, who had lost ground with the pacer, crept up and came in well on the home stretch. Commonwealth stayed in the rear, bunched with Hazel, Mac and Gold Dust. The finish was close. Minnie S. and Essie D. came down neck and neck, and Billy rapidly pulling up in the rear, and passing under the wire almost in a line with the leaders. "Essie" had been doing considerable running and broke just before reaching the wire, and she was put back to third place, Minnie S. being awarded first and Billy C. second. Time, 2:45.

In the next heat a pretty race was witnessed. Billy took the lead but at the first turn went into the air and Essie sailed by with Minnie close at her heels. Billy, Mac and Commonwealth were bunched not far behind. At the half Essie and Minnie were neck and neck, the other three bunched and Gold Dust industriously keeping to her place in the rear. There was a pretty race around the last half, the five horses being bunched with Essie slightly in advance. Billy C was on the outside and was creeping up but went off his feet just before reaching the wire. Essie D. finished first, Commonwealth half covering her sulky, the others well bunched.

FIFTH HEAT.—Hazel Mac did not start and Ed. Brown was transferred to Billy C.'s sulky. The judges start was not satisfactory to the crowd, but they got well away, Essie D. leading all round with Minnie, the pacer and Billy a close second. There was a great heat between Commonwealth and Billy, neither leaving their feet, and on the last quarter they both crept up on Essie, and passed under the wire ahead of the Lindsay mare, Billy C. leading the pacer by a neck only, and Essie D. right on their wheels, with Minnie S. several lengths behind. Time 2:45.

The last heat was a corker. Gold Dust dropped out, leaving only four starters. Essie took the lead by running, (of which she did considerable throughout the race,) Commonwealth 2nd, Billy 3rd and Minnie 4th. This order was maintained round the first half. At the three quarters post the pacer forged slightly ahead of Essie, but broke and fell back to last place. Then was "Billy C.'s" chance. He had been trotting without a skip and pulled up well on the last quarter, finishing only a neck behind Essie, Minnie coming in third. The drivers of the pacer, "Essie D." and Billy each claimed that they had been fouled by the others, "Commonwealth" claiming that his falling behind on the last quarter was due to "Essie" running into him. "Billy C.'s" driver claimed he was jockied by the rest. As he had trotted squarely throughout he was given the heat and race. Time, 2 46.

THE NAMED RACE.

The free-for-all pacing race failing to fill, the named race was substituted, for which there were entered J. J. Daly's "Blackstone," "F.O.P.," Cannington, and W. H. Simpson's "Minnie Bell."

THE FIRST HEAT.—After a good deal of tedious scoring the horses got off. "F.O.P." took the lead, with "Blackstone" close at hand, but he broke badly, as well as "Minnie Bell," both losing every chance for first place, leaving "F.O.P" an easy winner in 2 35. "Minnie Bell" second and "Blackstone" third.

SECOND HEAT.—At the first score "F.O.P" took the pace with "Blackstone" in close company, but not on his best behavior. "F.O.P." won as he pleased, "Minnie Bell" being given second place and "Blackstone" third.

The third heat was won by "F.O.P.," though hard pressed by "Blackstone." Joe Daly's horse covered the ground at a lively rate as long as he kept his feet, but his breaks were disastrous. However, "Blackstone" came up on the home stretch, part of the way on the run, and passed under the wire his nose close behind "F.O.P's." The Cannington horse had trotted without a skip and was given the heat and race, "Blackstone" being put back for running. "Minnie Bell" finished some distance behind. Time 2:37.

J. J. Daly's (Lindsay) "Blackstone"	3 3 3
J Smith's (Cannington) "F.O.P."	1 1 1
W. H. Simpson's (Lindsay) "Minnie Bell"	2 2 3

DRAWING CONTEST.

This contest was for the special prize of a $20.00 set of harness, offered by Mr. W. J. Devlin, harness maker, No. 127 Hunter street, Peterborough.

A lumbering sleigh was freighted with three tons of stone, and the friction of the runners resting on the dry sward made the draw fully equal to four tons.

There were six teams entered for the contest, but only five competed, the last, Mr. M. O'Donnel, not being on hand in time owing to one of his horses requiring a shoe set. The following is the score of the drawing:

Wm. Yelland's team, 15¾ inches.
Jno. McClennan's team, 19¾ inches.
John Hunter's team, Otonabee, 101 ft. and 1 inch.
Edward Lynch's team, Otonabee, 98 ft.
Ed. Archer's team, Smith, 2ft. 4 in.

The high honours and the good harness therefore went to Mr. Jno. Hunter, of Otonabee.

The contest excited great interest among the famers, the controversies started and the theories advanced as to the cause of one team pulling better than another, being sometimes heated, but always amusing. Above all the straining and tugging teams and the surging crowd stood Devlin perched high on the seat of a waggon, smilingly gazing down on the strange scene his special prize had created.

This contest and the races closed the programme, the stock and other exhibits were hurried home and the Central Exhibition of '91 was over.

The press representatives have to acknowledge with thanks the courteous and assistance they received from the president, secretary and directors of the society.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

IS the "ideal" Hair-dressing. It restores the color to gray hair; promotes a fresh and vigorous growth; prevents the formation of dandruff; makes the hair soft and silken; and imparts a delicate but lasting perfume.

"Several months ago my hair commenced falling out, and in a few weeks my head was almost bald. I tried many remedies, but they did no good. I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, after using only a part of the contents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best in the world."—T. Munday, Sharon Grove, Ky.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a number of years, and it has always given me satisfaction. It is an excellent dressing, prevents the hair from turning gray, insures its vigorous growth, and keeps the scalp white and clean."—Mary A. Jackson, Salem, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for promoting the growth of the hair, and think it unequaled. For restoring the hair to its original color, and for a dressing, it cannot be surpassed."—Mrs. Geo. La Fever, Eaton Rapids, Mich.

"Ayer's Hair Vigor is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a cure for dandruff."—J. W. Bowen, Editor "Enquirer," McArthur, Ohio.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past two years, and found it all it is represented to be. It restores the natural color to gray hair, causes the hair to grow freely, and keeps it soft and pliant."—Mrs. M. V. Day, Cohoes, N. Y.

"My father, at about the age of fifty, lost all the hair from the top of his head. After one month's trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor the hair began coming, and, in three months, he had a fine growth of hair of the natural color."—P. J. Cullen, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

He was editor of different French papers in Montreal until 1849. Was a member of the Executive Council, Canada, from March 30, 1864, until the union, and held the office of Solicitor-General, L. C., from March 30, 1864, to November, 1865, and Postmaster General from latter period until the union. Was sworn of the Privy Council July 1, 1867, when appointed Secretary of State of Canada, in which office he remained until transferred to the Public Works Dec. 8, 1869. Was, while at the State Department, ex officio Registrar General of Canada, and Superintendent-General of Indian affairs. Was a delegate to the Charlottetown Union Conference, 1863; to that in Quebec in the same year, and to the London Colonial Conference, 1866-67, to complete terms of union of B.N.A. Provinces. Acted as leader of the L.C. Conservatives in the session of 1873, during the absence in England of Sir George E. Cartier, and elected by the Conservative members, after Sir George Cartier's funeral in Montreal, June 1873, as the Conservative leader in the Province of Quebec. Sat for the county of Dorchester in the Canadian Assembly from general elections, 1867, until union. Returned to Commons by same constituency from the union until 1874, when he retired. He had ceased to be a Cabinet Minister with his colleagues in Nov. 1873. He also represented Dorchester in Local House from 1867 to 1871, when returned from Quebec Centre by acclamation; retired January 1874. Elected for Charlevoix January, 1876; again returned for same constituency April 1877, after being unseated on petition. Contested Rimouski unsuccessfully at general elections, 1878. Sworn as Postmaster General, Oct. 19, 1878. Appointed Minister of Public Works May 20, 1879. Elected by acclamation for the City of Three Rivers Nov. 17, 1879, on resignation of the sitting member, and by acclamation at general elections 1882. Re-elected at general elections 1887, and again in 1891.

Christian Courtesy.

The long illness of Mr. Spurgeon has served to furnish another illustration of the relaxing of mere sectarian bonds. Mr. Gladstone's very warm letter of sympathy has been published, and the wife and daughters of the Archbishop of Canterbury have called to inquire about the health of the arch nonconformist. These are pleasant incidents, because the moment that differences of religious belief are regarded as but honest differences of opinion, and are not deprecated and denounced as imperilling the soul's salvation, the kingdom of Heaven is visibly nearer.

It is this feeling which interprets the late ecclesiastical discussions in this country. The public mind refuses to admit that rectitude of life and intellectual honesty and spiritual aims are not as essential elements of religion as uniformity of speculative opinion or dogma. Without denying that harmony of view may be essential to ecclesiastical co-operation, the good sense of the community holds such co-operation to be wholly independent of the vital religious spirit. To speak of Bishop Brooks as a "dangerous" preacher is to talk nonsense, if the phrase means danger to the essence of religion.

In an old fashioned country community in which there might be two or three different churches when there should have been but one, it was generally true that the members of each differed more warmly as sectaries than they agreed as Christians. As Christians they could not differ about the essential faith. Their divergence was about non-essential forms or dogmas of faith. The wars and persecutions and burnings and unspeakable crimes against God and man that have been wrought in the name of religion have been disputes of such forms and dogmas. But when Torquemada inquires tenderly for the health of a Jew, the millennium is at hand.

Tying Cravats.

One of the oddest ways of getting a living is pursued by the saloniers of Paris, who make a profession of tying gentlemen's cravats. An expert artist in this line can earn $10 an evening, it is said.

A Tame Deer.

A deer which frequents the outskirts of Easton, Me., is so tame that he will allow people to walk up to him and pat him. The animal was probably some one's pet in his youthful days.

A Few Useful Items.

Black and tan silk mitts are worn by misses in the warm weather.

Pale-green trims tan becomingly for a blonde; darker green answers for gray.

Small boys wear blue reefers and sailor hats, trimmed with gilt braid, on cool days.

Mothers tuck the baby's nainsook yokes and guimpes by hand, not with the machine.

Baby caps of wash silk, in rows of drawn-work, are dainty and new for infants under a year.

Brown checked cheviots for misses have a brown or blue silk plastron, and trimming of brown gimp.

Large, black lace straw hats should have a wreath of wild field flowers, and be worn with the little ones' white dresses.

The newest hat for boys of three years is a black sailor of white straw, having a wide brim, high crown, and band of moire ribbon.

LETTERS FROM THE BISHOP.

An Alleged Toronto Clergyman Stricken Down in Detroit.

DETROIT, Sept. 23.—Yesterday a man about 35 years old walked into the business office of The Sun and sat down. Not much attention was paid to him until he suddenly collapsed and fell over on his side unconscious. He was taken to Emergency Hospital where physicians think he is suffering from some mental complaint. He is supposed to be the Rev. Wentworth Meuch, of Toronto. Up to a late hour this afternoon he had not regained consciousness. Several letters were found on his person, all of them addressed to the above name and some in care of the Bishop's Palace, Toronto. It is presumed the man is an Episcopal minister. One of the letters found in his pocket addressed to the Bishop's house contained this significant phrase: "Please accept the enclosed and I trust in God you will use it well at the end of your journey." It importuned the recipient to brace up and be a man.

And Searles Promptly Accepted the Millionaire Widow.

SALEM, Mass., Sept. 23.—In the Searles will case to-day Mr. Searles testified that the first proposition of marriage came from Mrs. Hopkins in the fall of 1883. He did not assent to it for a year, but in December, 1884, he entertained the proposition. He delayed accepting the proposition of marriage to give her a chance to be sure she was satisfied, and after he entertained it, delayed the marriage for three years. In reply to a question he said that he married her for all she had, both love and money—but should never have married her for money alone. The hearing will be continued to-morrow.

Woolen Mill Burned.

HARRISTON, Sept. 22.—Fire broke out in Davis' woolen mill this afternoon. The building is a total wreck, together with machinery on second floor.

Killed In a Saw Mill.

RAT PORTAGE, Sept. 23.—Felix Lozen was fatally injured at Messrs. Cameron & Kennedy's saw mill at Norton. He was shoving lath bolts when one of them caught on the saw and flew back, striking him in the side, inflicting internal injuries, from which he died a little after 9 o'clock the same day.

Dragged to Death

LINDSAY, Sept. 23.—Henry Jackson, a farmer living near here, was driving home, when his horse got frightened, became unmanageable and ran away, throwing out the driver, who got caught in the rigging and was dragged to death.

Fergusson to be Opposed.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—The re-election to Parliament of Sir James Fergusson, the new Postmaster General, will be opposed by Mr. Scott of The Manchester Guardian.

Three Brothers Marry Three Sisters.

QUEBEC, Sept. 23.—Three brothers, sons of Farmer Pomerleau of the adjacent parish of St. Victor de Tring, have just married three sisters, daughters of Farmer Fartin of the same locality.

"Praise be to him, whose wondrous skill
Has conquered every human ill—
And now alone, as victor, stands
The 'Golden' compound of his hands."

So spake a man, with tribute crowned,
Of Dr. Pierce, the "world renowned,"
Whose "Medical Discovery,"
Has vanquished pain and set him free.

One can but speak in praise of a remedy so effectual and unfailing as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Acting promptly and thoroughly, it produces permanent cures, Consumption in its early stages, scrofula, liver and kidney disorders, and all blood diseases, are within the field of its unbounded success.

Do You Cough?

Don't delay. Take Kemp's Balsam, the best cough cure. It will cure coughs and colds. It will cure sore throat, or a tickling in the throat. It will cure pains in the chest. It will cure influenza and bronchitis and all diseases pertaining to the lungs, because it is a pure balsam. Hold it to the light and see how clear and thick it is. You see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Large bottles 50c and $1. dw

Could Scarcely See.

Mrs. John Martin, of Montague Bridge, P. E. I., writes:—"I was troubled last summer with very bad headaches and constipation and sometimes could scarcely see. One bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters made a complete cure of my case, and I wish you every success.

Ask Your Friends About It.

Your distressing cough can be cured. We know it, because Kemp's Balsam within the past few years has cured so many coughs and colds in this community. Its remarkable sale has been won entirely by its genuine merit. Ask some friend who has used it what he thinks of Kemp's Balsam. There is no medicine so pure, none so effective. Large bottles 50c. and $1 at all druggists. dw

Oft in Peril.

Lives of children are often endangered by sudden and violent attacks of cholera, cholera morbus, diarrhœa, dysentery and bowel complaints. A reasonable and certain precaution is to keep Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry always at hand.

A single scratch may cause a festering sore. Victoria Carbolic Salve rapidly heals cuts, wounds, burns and all sores. dw

Timely Wisdom.

Great and timely wisdom is shown by keeping Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry on hand. It has no equal for cholera, cholera morbus, diarrhœa, dysentery, colic, cramps and all summer complaints or looseness of the bowels.

A woman who is weak, nervous and sleepless, and who has cold hands and feet, cannot feel and act like a well person. Carter's Iron Pills equalize the circulation, remove nervousness and give strength and rest. dw

What Say They?

In popularity increasing. In reliability the standard. In merits the first. In fact, the best remedy for all summer complaints, diarrhœa, dysentery, cramps, colic, cholera infantum, etc., is Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. All medicine dealers sell it.

Fur overcoats and Russian circulars are first-class articles to keep you warm, but they will not prevent the pains of rheumatism. Ask W. R. Greatrex, Druggist, for a bottle of Royal Rheumatic Remedy. dw

You hardly realize that it is medicine when taking Carter's Little Liver Pills; they are very small; no bad effects; all troubles from torpid liver are relieved by their use. dw

Self Application of Electricity

FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES

BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT OF QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and meta with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy them, but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

SUN LIFE

ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA.

The attention of our Policy-Holders is directed to the following summary of the leading items of the present report, which speaks for itself as to the progress and prosperity of the Company:—

Life Assurances in force, 1st January, 1891	$16,759,355.92
Increase over previous year	2,421,372.34
New Applications received in 1890	4,311,500.15
Increase over 1889	2,963,555.00
Cash income for year ending 31st December, 1890	889,078.87
Increase over 1889	325,938.35
Assets at 31st December, 1890	2,473,514.19
Increase over 1889	687,091.47

Surplus over all Liabilities and Capital Stock	232,175.00
Increase over 1889	75,649.05
Death claims fallen in during 1890	143,961.65

The progress made by the SUN LIFE during 1890 was remarkable. The new business was the largest in the Company's history, and was equalled by but one other Canadian Life Company. The income for the year exceeds $2,000 for each day in the year, Sundays included. The Assets are large and rapidly increasing. They are, moreover, of the highest character, yielding an average interest of 6.04 per cent. The overdue interest is small, and the Real Estate owned under foreclosure is only four per cent. of the amount of mortgages. This is a remarkable showing. The SURPLUS accumulated during the FOUR years of the current quinquennium is nearly THREE TIMES as much as the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail thus to be highly satisfactory. The following are the figures:—

" " " "	1886, "	89,452 97

An Industrial Strike.

There is a strike on at the moulding shop of the Lock Works—but it's a sun strike—the weather being too hot for the men to work. The equator must have slipped several notches north at the autumnal equinox, and brought us this sweltering weather and delayed the equinoctial blow-out that was due on Sept 21st. But it will probably be on with a vengeance, within the next few days.

Accident.

Those who are moving in the matter are anxious that there should be a full attendance of all who own lots and have relatives or friends there buried. 3d1w

Campers' Reunion.

"What" Camp, numbering 22 young ladies and gentlemen, who spent two weeks at Stony lake this year, were pleasantly entertained at the residence of Mr. John Crane, a member of the party, at 451 Water street last night. The young people found great pleasure in thus renewing camp associations, and spent several hours in the jolly, informal way characteristic of camp life. Mr. and Mrs. Crane were voted as successful hosts in town as they had proved themselves happy comrades at camp.

Gone to Chicago.

Miss Brown, late head milliner for H. S. Griffin & Co., left this morning for Chicago, where she will take a good position. Last night the Epworth League of the George Street Methodist Church, of which she was a prominent and active member, presented her with a farewell token. There were a number of Leaguers present, and Mr. Harrison read a complimentary address, Miss Minnie Frizs presenting Miss Brown with the complete works of Frances Ridley Havergal and a writing portfolio. Miss Brown bears with her the best wishes of a large circle of friends.

Peterborough Grown Peaches.

Fruit growers generally agree that Peterborough is too far north to be in the peach belt. Peaches have been grown here but with a deal of protection that, was not compatible with profit. But Mr. H. Nesbitt governor of the jail has had a different experience. He showed the EXAMINER this morning some splendid samples of seedling peaches, which closely resembled Crawfords in size, general appearance, and flavour. The trees are four years from the seed which was dropped by chance, and they had no protection except that afforded by a high fence to the south. If these peaches are not Crawfords—and they are like enough to be closely related—Mr. Nesbitt has originated a new variety which is worthy the attention of practical fruit growers.

High Fed Horses.

Mr. H. LeBrun, of LeBrun & Co., is now feeding his horse high—on oats at $1 a bushel and weighing 48 lbs. to the bushel, too. Messrs. LeBrun & Co. offered a prize of $6 cash for the best five bushels of oats and $4 for the second best five bushels, the oats to become the property of the donors of the prizes. Mr. William Stillman, of Seymour, won first prize with oats weighing 48 lbs. to the bushel—14 lbs above standard. Mr. Wm. Graham, of Smith, took second money with another splendid sample of oats. The first prize was won with oats grown from seed raised on the Dominion Experimental Farm, Ottawa. LeBrun & Co. ought to be happy—with the best clothing shop in Ontario and the best stocked, and with the best ten bushels of oats in Ontario, and the reputation for selling the best goods and paying the highest cash price for oats—$1.00 per bushel.

A Serious Accident.

Mr. Michael Sanderson, the old and a painful accident yesterday. After dinner he started to drive to town for a doctor to attend his wife, who is very ill. Near Milburn's hill he met a gypsy caravansery comprising two covered waggons filled with jabbering men, women and children and a miscellaneous assortment of domestic articles. The gypsy company was making merry in a boisterous way, and their clatter caused Mr. Sanderson's horse to take fright. The animal bolted into the ditch, throwing Mr. Sanderson out, and after breaking loose from the buggy it ran back home. The leader of the gypsies, a brawny fellow who was put out of the exhibition grounds here Tuesday for trading horses, was evidently in his cups, and after showering curses upon the prostrate old gentleman as he lay in the ditch, passed on without attempting to render the least assistance. Mr. Sanderson's son, Alexander, startled by the unexpected return of the horse and surmising that an accident had occurred, hastened to his father's rescue. Mr. Sanderson, sr., was conveyed home and Doctors Halliday and Scott summoned. It was found his injuries were chiefly of an internal character, one of the lungs being injured and causing hemorrhage. Mr. Sanderson was also cut about the face and head and bruised severely. No fatal results are anticipated, however, and Mr. Sanderson's many friends will hope for his speedy recovery, though the shock will be severe upon a man of his advanced age—76 years. Meanwhile the authorities are taking steps to punish the gipsy for his heartless conduct. It is believed he and his crew were destined for Lindsay, where the fair is in progress to-day. He will be arrested and brought back on a charge of disturbing the public peace.

An Old Resident Gone.

Mr. Jno. Wyatt, father of Mr. Geo. W. Wyatt, jeweller, died at noon to-day after a long illness. Deceased was about 75 years of age and was well known in town. His death was quite sudden, for though there was no hope of his ultimate recovery, it was expected he would live for some time yet.

In Toronto on Tuesday evening Rt. Rev. Arthur Sweatman, Bishop of Toronto, was made a member of the Sons of England. The Ancient Order of United Workmen.

Its Objects and Advantages, and What it Has Been Doing—Mutual Benefit Societies Defended Against Regular Insurance Companies.

An audience of about fifty people, principally Workmen and their wives, gathered in the Foresters' Hall last night to listen to the address of Grand Master Workman John Milne upon the objects, advantages and work of the Ancient Order of United Workmen. Peterborough Lodge of this order has a membership of about 60 at present, and doubtless the Grand Master Workman's visit here will immediately result in a substantial growth of the lodge. The members received much information and encouragement that will be a great service to them in extending the Order.

Mr. D. W. Dumble, a member of the Order, occupied the chair, and in opening made a few remarks pertinent to the occasion, which he designated as pegs for the lecturer to hang his arguments upon.

Dr. Fife, also a Workman, also said a few words approving of the Order and its principles.

The Ancient Order of United Workmen, said the lecturer of the evening, was a fraternal and benevolent society, but different from others in many respects. In America they had 260,000 members, who paid out five millions yearly to widows and orphans of deceased members. In 1879 the Grand Lodge of Canada was organized with only 18 lodges; now there were over 370 lodges with a membership of 23,000, and increasing at the rate of a thousand a year. The speaker referred feelingly to the distressing circumstances of the poor widow and the good work done by this Order in relieving their necessities. He urged the members to work for the advancement of an order which carried out such christian and charitable principles. Their order possessed an advantage over regular line life companies, who were not within the reach of the poor man. He might not be able to pay $30 or $40 in a lump for a years insurance, but in the A. O. U. W. the calls of $1.00 each came at intervals of about a month and could be met without trouble. Other benevolent societies were good also in their way, but he held the A. O. U. W. was the best of them all.

The lecturer then

which are regularly raised against benevolent societies like this. As to their being short-lived, he stated there was one similar society or guild in existence in England which was 718 years old, and he could name 19 others that were established before the year 1800. Further, he believed the records would show that as many line life companies failed, in proportion to their number, as benevolent societies.

Then it was said as the society grew older its assessments would increase at an alarming rate. This argument was confuted with the statement that the A.O.U.W. started with an average of twelve calls a year, and last year, after twelve years existence, they had exactly the same number of calls.

As to the average age of members increasing, the lecturer stated that at the inception of the Order their average was 38 years, and last year it was only 39. In the whole American Order the average was less than 40.

The lecturer went on to point out that insurance in the A.O.U.W. actually cost as much as in a line company, the extra premium in the latter being eaten up by high salaries, dividends, fine buildings and reserve funds, none of which burdened the Workmen.

The insurance companies laid great stress upon their reserve fund. The Workmen had a reserve fund also, in this way. When one jurisdiction suffers from an epidemic of deaths, other more fortunate jurisdictions help them. For instance, if the deaths in Canada exceed 20 per thousand of members, there was a relief law (which no other society possessed), whereby the rest of the Order in America would be called on to pay the balance. That was where the lay—the strong helping the weak. New members coming in could thus be assured that their $2,000 insurance would not cost more than $20 a year. When last year Canada was called upon to make good some deficits in California, there was some talk of seceding from the American but secession would be a mistake. This very lodge in Peterborough, he said, had taken $8,000 out of the beneficiary fund for four deaths, and paid in $5,100. Could this lodge consistently talk of secession, when they were $3,000 ahead? Other lodges had to pay that three thousand. Perhaps in a few years the scales would be turned and Peterborough would have to bear the burden for others. Thus it would be seen that the Order depended upon its being held together for success. That was the chief feature of the Order—there were 260,000 men at the back of each certificate.

The equity of charging old and young members alike, $1.00, for each call had been discussed and no good arguments had been adduced to show why it should be charged. The lecturer concluded with an appeal to the ladies, whom this insurance chiefly benefited, to help extend the Order; and touched upon the charitable aspect of the subject in providing for the needs of the widow and orphan in their hour of affliction.

A vote of thanks to the lecturer was moved by Bro. A. Clegg, seconded by Bro. R. Q. Dench, after which the meeting adjourned.

A short public meeting will be held, when addresses will be delivered by the visiting clergy. Omemee brass band will be present.

Death of Mr. Thomas Syer, Sr.

Mr. Thomas Syer, sr., one of the oldest residents in this district, died at Millbrook on Sunday at the ripe old age of 97. Mr. Syer settled in the township of Cavan over 70 years ago. He was one of the best known and most highly respected gentlemen in the county of Durham. He was a native of England, having been born in the great metropolis. He left eight sons and daughters, Thomas Syer of Manvers; George Syer, of Cavan; Mrs. J. Williams, of Manvers; Mrs. Donald Mckay, of Owen Sound; Robert Syer of Cavan; Edward Syer, of Manvers; Mrs. T. Donaldson, of South Monaghan, and Eben Syer, who is residing on the homestead. The funeral, which took Tuesday was the largest ever witnessed in these parts. The remains were interred in the Cavanville Episcopal cemetery.

Just how an alterative medicine cleanses the system is an open question; but that Ayer's Sarsaparilla does produce a radical change in the blood is well attested on all sides. It is everywhere considered the best remedy for blood disorders.

A Splendid New Music House.

Messrs Crosby & Turner Occupy Their New Premises.

This morning Messrs Crosby & Turner are occupying their beautiful new and commodious music store, 404 George street. The first floor is filled with the finest collection of pianos and organs ever shown in this town. Among these were noticed, an Uxbridge piano, in walnut, with a magnificently finished case to match its exquisite tone; a Dominion piano in walnut, a splendid Gerrhard-Heintzman instrument, three Williams pianos, in burl veneer walnut and rosewood, Stevenson pianos in walnut and rosewood, two Berlin pianos, etc., etc. There is, besides, a fine collection of eight or ten organs of the Uxbridge Dominion and Berlin manufacture, the whole comprising a splendid collection of pianos and organs, to meet the tastes and purses of all classes of customers, and they make a beautiful sight, with their background of elegantly furnished shop and cheerful surroundings. One side of this floor is devoted to shelving and cabinets, upon and in which are shown a large and complete stock of smaller instruments, violins, mandolins, guitars, banjos and every kind of musical instrument in general use, as well as a full stock of musical sundries of every description.

The second floor contains a fine new music hall, which can accommodate about two hundred persons, and can be supplied with any piano desired, which can be elevated from the first floor. The room fills a long felt want of a suitable hall in which to hold choral practices, and recitals and select entertainments. Altogether Messrs. Crosby & Turner's new premises are a credit to the town, and a fitting sphere for the operations of the enlarged business the firm under its new conditions will be certain to push with the energy, enterprise and fair dealing which have marked Mr. J. W. Crosby's business career in the past.

Young's Point.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

After a long and painful illness the wife of Mr. Matthew Young on Friday morning last, entered into her rest, being in her 63rd year. Her nephew, Rev. Father Scollard, and Father Dube had been constant in their ministrations to her. On Sunday last between 300 and 400 neighbors and friends from the village and country around were assembled, and at half past three the procession, led by two boys and two priests in vestments, advanced from her late residence, towards the pretty little church, where for many years she had worshipped Him whom now she sees face to face. Her nephew, Rev. Father Scollard, read the Profundus. The church was soon filled. Prayers for the dead were read by Rev. Father Rudkins, Parish Priest of Peterboro' The choir sang the Miserere, Miss Scollard at the organ. After the service the procession formed and proceeded to the grave, while the choir sang, and many hearts responded to the strains of "Nearer my God to Thee."

By the side of many of her own people her body will lie until at the sound of the last trumpet we shall arise to be forever with the Lord. Meanwhile her spirit is with those of the just, made perfect within the Vail.

MOWAT WINS.

The Local Option Bylaw Upheld by the Court of Appeal.

TORONTO, Sept. 24.—The Court of Appeal gave judgment yesterday in the test case submitted by the Attorney-General of Ontario in regard to the local option prohibition legislation of the Ontario Assembly in the session of 1890. The test case was submitted in view of the fact that Chief Justice Galt had quashed the bylaws that had been enacted by several municipalities in accordance with this legislation on the ground that the legislation was ultra vires of the Ontario Legislature. These decisions were given in April last, and the opponents of prohibition immediately made application to have the prohibitory bylaws set aside. In consequence the Attorney-General submitted the test case. There was a full court, consisting of Messrs. Justices Haggarty, Osler, Burton and McLennan, Chief Justice Haggerty, and Justices Burton and McLennan each read long and exhaustive judgment, agreeing with each other that the legislation was within the powers of the Ontario Legislature and reversing the decision of Chief Justice Galt. Judge Osler also had a judgment prepared to the same effect, but considered it unnecessary to read it.

Makes the Weak Strong

The marked benefit which people in run down or weakened state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves the claim that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength from which there must follow a reaction of greater weakness than before, but in the most natural way Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes creates an appetite, purifies the blood, and, in short, gives great bodily, nerve, mental and digestive strength.

"I derived very much benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I took for general debility. It built me right up, and gave me an excellent appetite." ED. JENKINS, Mt. Savage, Md.

Fagged Out

"Last spring I was completely fagged out. My strength left me and I felt sick and miserable all the time, so that I could hardly attend to my business. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured me. There is nothing like it." R. C. BEGOLE, Editor Enterprise, Belleville, Mich.

Worn Out

"Hood's Sarsaparilla restored me to good health. Indeed, I might say truthfully it saved my life. To one feeling tired and worn out I would earnestly recommend a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. PHEBE MOSHER, 99 Brooks Street, East Boston, Mass.

Scratched 28 Years

A Scaly, Itching, Skin Disease With Endless Suffering Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

If I had known of the CUTICURA REMEDIES twenty-eight years ago, it would have saved me $200.00 and an immense amount of suffering. My disease (psoriasis) commenced on my head in a spot not larger than a cent. It spread rapidly all over my body, and got under my nails. The scales would drop off of me all the time, and my suffering was endless, and without relief. One thousand dollars would not tempt me to have this disease over again. I am a poor man, but feel rich to be relieved of what some of the doctors said was leprosy, some ringworm, psoriasis, etc. I cannot praise the CUTICURA REMEDIES too much. They have made my skin as clear and free from scales as a baby's. All I used of them was $5 worth. If you had been here and said you would have cured me for $200.00, you would have had the money. I looked like the picture (No. 2 page 47) in your book, "How to Cure Skin Diseases," but now I am as clear as any person ever was. Through force of habit I rub my hands over my arms and legs to scratch once in a while, but to no purpose. I am all well. I scratched twenty-eight years, and it got to be a kind of second nature to me. I thank you a thousand times.

TWO RAILWAY WRECKS.

ATTENDED WITH AWFUL LOSS OF LIFE.

Nine Italian Workmen Torn Limb From Limb by a Collision in Pennsylvania—A Spanish Wreck Results in the Death of Several Notables.

MADRID, Sept. 25.—Fifteen persons were killed and 24 injured by a railway collision between Burgos and San Sebastian. The accident was due to a blunder on the part of a switchman.

Among the killed was an Englishman. The rest of the dead are Spaniards and they include several notables of this city. Fifteen dead and 30 injured have been extracted from the debris. Among the latter are the artists Lucas and Long. The collision was due to the blunder of a telegraph operator in signalling that the line was clear. The station master at Burgos has attempted to commit suicide.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—A despatch to The Standard from San Sebastian says: It is reported that Seymour Lucas and Maurice Long, the latter British Vice-Consul at Malaga, were killed in the railroad collision between Burgos and San Sebastian. Several entire families perished, including the Judge of Vitoria, with his wife and daughter. Some Englishmen with tourist tickets were also killed. Most of the passengers were asleep at the time of the collision. Twenty dead and 23 injured, four of whom have since died, were extricated from the debris. Many children were killed. When the Queen received news of the disaster she stopped the fetes in honor of her daughter's birthday and requested the Minister of Justice to send all the details.

NEWCASTLE, Pa., Sept. 25.—At McKinley siding on the Pittsburg & Western Railway yesterday a work train with a force of 40 men was engaged in putting down a new track. The first section of a freight had passed, when the man in charge of the work train, not knowing that a second section was following, pulled on the siding again and commenced throwing off dirt, when the second section of the freight struck their train. The cars were piled in a shapeless mass. The engines were a mass of broken iron and wood and the hot steam and boiling water poured over the unfortunate ones caught in the jam. For a moment after the collision there was silence. Then the air was broken by the shrieks of the dying, making the scene so terrible that one of the trainmen who had escaped injury, fainted from horror. The trainmen and laborers who were not injured began at once to assist those imprisoned in the debris. Several arms and legs were found in several different directions, and the head of an Italian was found 20 feet away from the body. The freight engineer, John Houghton, was found wedged in broken and shapeless iron. By 11 o'clock the bodies of the Italian laborers had been taken from the wreck and, with the killing of Engineer Houghton, this swells the number of killed to nine. There were at least 20 men injured, several of whom cannot recover. All of the bodies were terribly mangled and disfigured. Engineer Houghton was the only American killed. His home is said to be in Allegheny.

KILLED AND MAIMED.

By the Explosion of An Improvised Cannon

NEWARK, N.J., Sept. 25.—Three Italians were killed and 20 injured by the explosion of an improvised cannon during the celebration last night at the feast of St. Rocco. Some fireworks also exploded and there was a panic amongst the spectators. The improvised cannon was a piece of gas pipe filled with dynamite.

POISONED GRAPES.

Large Consignments Seized by New York Health Inspectors.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The fruit dealers are very much excited over an unexpected raid which the Health Department to-day ordered to be made on all the grapes which can be found in the city. Acting Chemist Lederle of the Health Department this morning made an analysis of a sample of grapes bought in a wholesale house and found that the green stuff on the stems of the grapes was copper and finely enough Paris green. At 1.30 this afternoon a force of inspectors from the Health Department swepted down on the wholesale houses at the foot of Barclay street and destroyed a large quantity of grapes. Investigation revealed the fact that nearly all the grapes seized came from Ulster County, N.Y., where worms are causing great devastation to the fruit crops. A solution of sulphate of copper is used to destroy these worms.

AN EXCITING EPISODE.

Destructive Fire in Minneapolis—How a Fireman Escaped Death.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 25.—A fire took place this afternoon in the five-story brick building of the Morwood Carving Wood Machine Company and the building was soon gutted. Elevator "C," immediately behind next took fire. In order to better fight the flames in elevator "C" a score of firemen went on the roof of the annex. There was a sudden explosion and a great stream of fire burst through the roof. The great crowd was appalled as the dozen firemen were shut from view by columns of flame and smoke that rolled up. Four of the men fell or jumped from their narrow footing. Again smoke arose and cleared and there, on the very ledge, stood a fireman, apparently dazed and not knowing what to do. "Slide on the hose" yelled the crowd, and the man heard it and grabbing the big hose at his feet he slid down through the shooting flames and reached the ground without dropping. The work of rescuing the firemen was prompt.

Two or three of the injured are in a precarious condition at last reports. The total loss is placed at $197,500 and the insurance $107,000.

A Sawmill Burned.

BATHURST, N.B., Sept. 25.—The mill of the St. Lawrence Company, one of the largest mills in New Brunswick, was totally destroyed by fire last night, with the greater portion of the lumber in the yard. The mill was worth about $20,000.

BARBER WAS TROUBLED

HE BELIEVED WHITE CAPTURED THE ORDERS THROUGH BRONSKILL.

Another Wrangle in the Accounts Committee—Merchants Who Got Orders and Never Paid Commissions—Strong Speeches.

OTTAWA, Sept. 25.—When the Public Accounts Committee met yesterday Mr. Bowell stated that he summoned two witnesses on a requisition of his and Dr. Sproule's to rebut some evidence in the Napanee postoffice case.

P. A. Harshaw, a local politician of Napanee, said that he did not sell his influence to secure the building of the Napanee postoffice for anybody.

J. R. Barber of the Georgetown Paper Co. was next examined by Mr. Lister. Asked if he ever paid any presents or commissions to Senecal he replied that he had not.

"Any to Bronskill?" queried Mr. Lister.

"I was asked to join another party to give him a present to send his family to the seashore and I gave $50. That was of the five hundred dollars he got. I never gave anything afterwards." Mr. Barber then went on to say that he always imagined Mr. Bronskill, who was on The Montreal Gazette prior to coming to Ottawa, was sent here by Mr. Richard White of the Gazette. Previous to Bronskill coming to Ottawa he had supplied from $30,000 to $35,000 a year to the Government, but since then he had only got small orders. This, he thought, was due to Mr. Richard White being director of the Canada Paper Co., and Bronskill was favoring them.

J. R. Brooks Young of the New England Paper Co. was called and not putting in an appearance, Mr. Lister asked that his disobedience of the subpœna be reported to the House. It was decided that if he did not attend this afternoon this would be done.

Mr. Johnson, commissioner of the Customs, was called in respect to the duty on type purchased by the Government for the bureau. In reply to Mr. Lister, he said he did not know whether the duty on presses was paid or not. He said that type purchased from the Miller & Richard firm in Toronto had to pay duty, but that purchased by the Government direct had not.

While this question of duty was being discussed Mr. Chapleau called Mr. Lister and his companions imbeciles.

Mr. Lister took a hand in, when Dr. Sproule called him (Lister) a rowdy.

"Don't be a miserable sneak," remarked Lister.

SOMETHING NEW IN HANGINGS.

Water Set the Machine in Motion Which Ended Bill Davis' Life.

CANON CITY, Col., Sept. 25.—William H. Davis was hanged in the State Prison here at 8 o'clock last night. The hanging apparatus was very unique, being the invention of Deputy Warden Dudley. In the upper part of a square frame made of four uprights a bucket of water was set, the contents of which, when ready for operations, weighed 29 pounds.

Directly beneath the bucket and connected with it by a rubber hose with a valve, was another bucket, and connected to the upper bucket by a lever was a 40 pound iron ball, which connected again with an iron rod which kept in place, at a height of six feet, the weight of 250 pounds, which, when the water was drawn from the bucket, was allowed to descend, jerked the condemned man off his feet about three feet in the air. From this large weight a rope runs through two pulleys over a partition and then down into the execution room, where it hung directly over a platform three feet square, on which the condemned stood.

Everything being in readiness, Davis was brought in and the noose and black cap were placed in position.

After he had been given an opportunity to say good-bye to those around him, he was told to step on the small platform. His weight on the platform opened the faucet in the upper bucket and the water flowed into the bucket beneath. This allowed the weight to drop and Davis was jerked into the air. His neck was broken and he was pronounced dead in 7 minutes. The crime for which Davis was hanged was the killing of his mother and her alleged paramour in Pueblo in July last.

Suicides at Toronto.

TORONTO, Sept. 25.—Mrs. Graham of 186 Dundas street made a determined attempt to commit suicide yesterday by cutting her throat with a razor. She has been very low-spirited lately. The deed was committed in the bath-room, where she was discovered by one of her children. There is a chance of her recovery.

Jessie Kennedy, a domestic employed in the family of the late John Ferguson, Major street, attempted suicide Wednesday by swallowing a bottle of liniment and turning on the gas in her room. A doctor was summoned and she was brought round. Early yesterday she asked leave to go into the bath room. This being granted she no sooner got inside than she locked the door and hastily swallowed about two ounces of almost pure carbolic acid and again turned on the gas. Mrs. Ferguson was soon apprised of what was going on by the fumes of gas which escaped into the hall. She burst in the door and was shocked to see the condition of the wretched girl. Dr. Carreth was summoned, but the girl only lived two hours.

Pacaud To Be Arrested.

MONTREAL, Sept. 25.—It is rumored that Ernest Pacaud, who is now on his way home by the Allan Liner Parisian, will be arrested as soon as the vessel reaches Father Point.

A Babe Drowned at Play.

BRECHIN, Sept. 25.—The 1 year-old daughter of Michael McGrath, J.P., while playing attempted to fill a small bottle in a wash tub under the cistern pump, partially filled with water, when she fell in and was drowned.

Killed in a Quarry.

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 25.—Wesley Dafoe, a quarryman at Crookston, was so severely crushed between two blocks of stone that death resulted.

A MAJORITY OF FIFTEEN.

THE VOTE ON THE BOODLING REVELATIONS.

The Majority Report of the Privileges and Election Committee Adopted—McCarthy, O'Brien and Davin Vote with the Opposition—An Amendment by D'Alton McCarthy.

OTTAWA, Sept. 25.—The debate on the report of the Committee on Privileges and Elections was resumed yesterday by Sir Adolphe Caron. He declared that if any blame was to attach to Sir Hector Langevin it was that he had undertaken to do too much. In a department of so technical a character the minister was bound to report on the judgment of his engineers.

Mr. Laurier said that Sir John Macdonald once said that if the Government bribed people it bribed them with their own money, and that the late Premier was responsible for all the corruption laid bare. He referred to the boodling of Bigot and his followers in Quebec a hundred years ago, and appealed to the members from Quebec to condemn boodling by adopting the minority report.

Mr. McCarthy said he agreed that Canada occupied a most unfortunate position in the eyes of the world since this investigation began. It was regrettable that so serious a question should be submitted to a popular assembly for decision. He thought a more satisfactory conclusion would be reached if the enquiry had been conducted, as was the Parnell investigation, before three judges. He warmly defended the memory of the late Sir John Macdonald from the aspersions cast on it by Mr. Laurier. He declared that the Opposition majority from Quebec was obtained by means which recent investigation showed might fairly be described as corrupt and scandalous. If the question were merely as to the minister's administration of the department he believed it was indefensible. The important fact was to know whether the minister was cognizant of or participant in the conspiracy which existed to defraud the public. He declared that Mr. Perley was the one man who could tell whether he had duped the Minister or was the tool of the Minister. They all must condemn Perley's acts. Sir Hector Langevin may have been too careful a man to be hoodwinked. On the other hand, he had every right to have confidence in the honesty and integrity of his chief engineer. Mr. Perley alone can tell who is responsible. It was unfortunate that Mr. Perley was stricken with illness at a critical period, which prevented a full examination. Was it fair to condemn Mr. Perley, whose story was not finished? Was it fair to condemn Sir Hector Langevin until the evidence of the principal witness, his chief engineer, was concluded? Judgment should be suspended until this witness could be heard. He for one was not prepared to say whether Mr. Perley had duped the minister or was his tool. He therefore moved in amendment:

1. That from the facts which were made to appear before the committee and reported to the House in support of and in relation to the charges which it was its duty to investigate, the House is convinced that in many of the dealings of the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. with the Public Works Department, and of the Quebec Harbor Commissioners, gross frauds have been perpetrated and the public have thereby been defrauded out of large sums of money.

2. That these wrongs were accomplished by means of a conspiracy on the part of the members of the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. and Thomas McGreevy, a member of this House, and some one or more of the officers of the Public Works Department.

3. That owing to the unfortunate illness of Mr. Perley, which rendered it impossible for the committee to finish his examination, the House does not feel that it ought, in the absence of his complete evidence, to pronounce decisively as to his complicity or otherwise in the conspiracy which the committee finds to have existed, or to determine who among the other officials of the department participated therein. This House, for the like reason, and because respecting some of the matters as to which evidence was given—more especially that relating to the supplemental contract for the completion of the Levis graving dock of 1884—no charge had been made against the late Minister of the Public Works, and the evidence in respect thereof is incomplete, feel unable to decide whether the conduct of the minister in approving and sanctioning the various contracts with Larkin, Connolly & Co., the indulgence granted to them in the performance thereof, and the over payments made in accordance therewith, is to be ascribed to a blind confidence in the integrity and efficiency of his chief engineer—even in that view scarcely to be distinguished from weakness almost criminal—or to a guilty connivance in the spoliation of the public treasury which ought to be characterized in very different language.

4. That as no specific charge of this nature was made against the late minister, this House, while compelled to call attention to this view of the matter, does not think it is required to render any more definite conclusion in the matter.

In addition to the foregoing reasons the House has no hesitation in recording its opinion that judged by the well known constitutional rule which makes the minister responsible to Parliament for the administration of the department over which he presides, the late Minister of Public Works, irrespective of the considerations dealt with in the last preceding paragraph, cannot be absolved from his ministerial responsibility, and in that regard merits the censure of this honorable House.

And the House recommends that in addition to such action as may seem to be called for under the findings hereinbefore expressed such legal proceedings as may be available be taken against those who were concerned in the conspiracy, and for that purpose the books and papers which were before the committee be retained, or so many of them as may be necessary for such prosecution.

Finally, the House desires to record its conviction that the enquiry directed by the House has been rendered unsatisfactory, incomplete and in some respects abortive by what the House cannot help characterizing as wilful perjury of some of the witnesses examined before it, and the committee recommends that Nicholas K. Connolly and Michael Connolly and such other witnesses as the law officers may advise that there is evidence on which indictments for perjury should be preferred, be prosecuted therefor."

Mr. McCarthy added that even if his amendment involved the fate of his friends, he would not hesitate to take the course he did. If this young nation was to be saved the House must rise and say, be the offender high or low, justice must be done.

The division on Mr. McCarthy's amendment was taken at 1.30. It was defeated by an overwhelming majority, only Messrs. McCarthy and O'Brien voting for it.

Mr. Tarte having stated that he would not vote for either report the division was taken on the minority report. This was lost by 83 yeas to 104 nays.

The division was taken then on the motion to adopt the majority report. It was carried by 101 yeas to 86 nays.

Messrs. McCarthy, O'Brien and Davin voted in the negative.

THE CHINESE RIOTS.

Affairs Begin to Look More Serious in John's Country.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—A despatch to The Times from Singapore says: "Shanghai advices to Sept. 12 prove that the Ichang riot was an organized outbreak on the part of the Hannan soldiers. The central government was powerless to quell the riot, except by sending troops from a distance and risking a civil war. As gunboats cannot ascend to Ichang a merchant steamer will take the British marines. Placards issued to students in Nankin accuse Christians of gross crimes. People at the treaty ports say nothing but the landing of a well armed force of foreigners will quell the troubles."

A despatch to The Times from Foo Chow says a regularly organized scheme to capture the arsenal has been discovered by foreigners employed here. The presence of a gun boat is imperative.

Advices from Shanghai state that the highest officials at Pekin and at Nankin expect the European Governments to combine in a demand for redress for the outrages perpetrated upon foreigners in China. The secret society men, it is said, are also expecting such action upon the part of the powers, and they are preparing to act when the right moment arrives.

The London and China Telegraph of this city says it is certain that a very prominent person has been asked to supply war material and drill instructors for use in the lower Yang-Tse-Kiang districts. Many young men of the best Chinese families are connected with these secret societies. A prominent foreign resident of Shanghai, too, the same paper states, has been asked to send estimate to Nankin for organizing a brigade of troops to be disciplined and armed according to the English system, and to be commanded by foreign officers. The same resident, it is also said, has been asked to state the terms upon which he can supply three fast steamer cruisers fully equipped for war, and to be delivered within three months time.

THE PORTE'S CIRCULAR

Tells About the Passage of the Dardanelles by Russia.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 25.—The Porte has sent a circular to the powers in regard to the passage through the Dardanelles of several vessels of the Russian volunteer fleet. The Porte says that for several years past vessels of the Russian volunteer fleet have been running between Odessa and Vladivostock, the port intended to be the eastern terminus of the Trans-Siberian Railroad, and situated on the Sea of Japan. These ships being under the commercial flag of Russia were granted free passage of the straits. It has been found, however, that the volunteer vessels were sometimes carrying soldiers and these ships were detained owing to a mistake as to their real character.

The Porte's instructions given to the officers on duty at the Dardanelles to prevent any further detention of vessels of the Russian volunteer fleet have been wrongly construed by the newspaper press to be a violation of the existing treaties. The note then quotes the instructions given to the Turkish officers on duty at the Dardanelles, the tenor of which has already been published, and concludes with the remark that no new measure has been adopted and that the old one continues in force.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—A letter has been received from Captain Younghusbands, dated Cashgar, in which Captain Younghusbands states that, learning that the Russians had crossed the Afghan frontier despite the protests of the Afghan authorities, and being informed that the Russians were forcing their way toward the Pamirs, he started out to verify these reports. He found that on Aug. 1 the rear guard of the Russians, 100 strong, was at Bozai-Gumbaz, near Chitral or Little Kashgar on the south slope of Hindoo-Koosh. Captain Younghusbands therefore placed himself in communication with the British army post at Gilzhit. The British officials in command there promptly sent 200 Ghoorkas to the scene of the Russian operations. The Russians who had crossed the tablelands, on hearing of the approach of the Ghoorkas, retraced their steps, and, joining the rear guard, the whole force retired across the frontier.

The Hindoo Koosh is a range of mountains in Central Asia, which was known to the ancients as the Indian Caucasus. It separates the Punjaub and Afghanistan on the south from Badakhshan and Koondooz on the north.

An Echo of the Baccarat Case.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—A meeting of the creditors of Ifah Williams, son of General Owen Williams, who was prominently connected with the baccarat scandal, was held to-day. Ifah is supposed to be in Texas. During the proceedings a resolution was passed declaring Williams a bankrupt. It was also stated that if such a course was found necessary a warrant for his arrest would be applied for.

Owes Over $600,000.

MELBOURNE, Sept. 25.—An enquiry made into the affairs of the Australian Mercantile Loan Company shows that institution in a state of hopeless insolvency, owing to a fraudulent system of management. Large sums have been advanced to borrowers without security. The assets are placed at $200,000 and liabilities $600,000.

Irish Affairs.

DUBLIN, Sept. 25.—At a meeting of the McCarthyite Committee to-day it was resolved that the committee should act henceforth with the Finance Committee of the party. Messrs. McCarthy, Sexton and Dillon were appointed trustees to receive and disburse money under instructions from the committee. It was also resolved: That while condemning as cruel and unpatriotic any attempt to make the amnesty question an instrument of faction, we earnestly commend the question to the sympathy of the Irish people. We desire that all meetings adopt resolutions in support of amnesty, and we hereby summon county conventions of the clergy and delegates to the National Federation to consider the case of evicted tenants and our general election policy.

FORT ATKINSON, Wis., Sept. 25.—A farmer named Daub, living near here, has had a peculiar feeling in his stomach for some weeks past. To-day a physician administered a strong emetic which relieved him of a full-grown dead mouse. Daub has been in the habit of taking naps in his barn and thinks that while sleeping the mouse ran down his throat.

MILLINERY AND MANTLE DISPLAY AT TURNBULL'S

On Tuesday and Wednesday, the 22nd and 23rd Sept.

Our Millinery Showrooms will be open for the Fall Trade, when all the new fall patterns will be on display. As there is considerable change in the styles this season, ladies may expect to see novelties with us. We will also show an extensive range of Pattern Mantles, and keep a well selected stock of Cloths and Trimmings, so that ladies preferring to leave their order for anything in the Mantle Line will find everything desirable with us.

Our stock of Dress Goods is now complete. We are showing some novelties in Camel's Hair Cloths, Polka-dot and Check Robes, Cheviot Cloths and Fancy Serges. MISS MERCIER, our dressmaker, has returned from a trip to Rochester, Buffalo and Toronto, and is well posted on all the latest styles. We feel we owe an apology to some of our customers for the unpardonable time their dresses were kept before made in the past, but, as with any first-class dressmaker, Miss Mercier got overcrowded. We have made a rule not to take any orders but what can be filled in a reasonable time, so that this will be avoided in the future.

Our stock of Men's Suitings and Overcoatings are well bought and cheaper than ever. We claim to be the best house in town for Ordered Clothing.

Arrived to-day, seven shades of Ladies' Diagonal Suitings (wide) at 15c.; three-quarter Table Napkins, 100 doz.; all the leading makes of Corsets at the lowest prices in the trade.

Standing, with reluctant feet,
Where womanhood and childhood meet.

'Tis a supreme moment! 'Tis a critical period! No maiden should attempt passing this boundary-line without the aid and assurance of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Its helpfulness in tiding over the perils incident to young womanhood, is universally acknowledged! No mother can put within the hands of her daughter, anything that will prove more valuable in meeting all her requirements! Dr. Pierces Favorite Prescription is made expressly for all diseases peculiar to women, and is the only medicine of its kind, sold through druggists and guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case, or money refunded. b

From the Jaws of Death.

Some surprising effects have been recorded from the use of Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil in the most desperate cases of consumption. When all other remedies have failed Miller's Emulsion nearly always succeeds. It is the best kind of flesh and blood maker, and has been used with marked success by the physicians in the Insane Asylum, Penitentiary, Hotel Dieu, and General Hospital in Kingston, Ont. In big bottles, 50c and $1 at Peterborough drug stores. dw

To be free from sick headache, biliousness, constipation, etc., use Carter's Little Liver Pills. Strictly vegetable. They gently stimulate the liver and free the stomach from bile. dw

A Spring Medicine.

There are few who do not at this season feel the need of a spring medicine, and to all such we recommend Lane's Family Medicine as the best. This is a pleasant herb drink made by pouring boiling water on the dried roots and herbs. Druggists sell the packages at 50c. and $1. It is the best as well as the pleasantest cure for constipation and headache. dw

Could Scarcely See.

Mrs. John Martin, of Montage Bridge, P. E I., writes:—"I was troubled last summer with very bad headaches and constipation and sometimes could scarcely see. One bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters made a complete cure of my case, and I wish you every success.

Purity of ingredients and accuracy of compounding, make Milburn's Aromatic Quinine Wine the criterion of excellence. dw

Regina Ripples.

"I took six bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters for liver complaint, headache and dull stupid feeling, but now I am entirely well and healthy, having also a good appetite which I did not have previously."—Mrs. T. Davis, Regina, N.W.T.

Mrs. Chas. Smith, of Jimes, Ohio, writes: "I have tried every remedy for sick headache I could hear of for the past fifteen years, but Carter's Little Liver Pills did me more good than all the rest. dw

The Safest

AND most powerful alterative is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Young and old are alike benefited by its use. For the eruptive diseases peculiar to children nothing else is so effective as this medicine, while its agreeable flavor makes it easy to administer.

"My little boy had large scrofulous ulcers on his neck and throat from which he suffered terribly. Two physicians attended him, but he grew continually worse under their care, and everybody expected he would die. I had heard of the remarkable cures effected by Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and decided to have my boy try it. Shortly after he began to take this medicine, the ulcers commenced healing, and, after using several bottles, he was entirely cured. He is now as healthy and strong as any boy of his age."—William F. Dougherty, Hampton, Va.

"In May last, my youngest child, fourteen months old, began to have sores gather on its head and body. We applied various simple remedies without avail. The sores increased in number and discharged copiously. A physician was called, but the sores continued to multiply until in a few months they nearly covered the child's head and body. At last we began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. In a few days a marked change for the better was manifest. The sores assumed a more healthy condition, the discharges were gradually diminished, and finally ceased altogether. The child is livelier, its skin is fresher, and its appetite better than we have observed for months."—Frank M. Griffin, Long Point, Texas.

"The formula of Ayer's Sarsaparilla presents, for chronic diseases of almost every kind, the best remedy known to the medical world."—D. M. Wilson, M. D., Wiggs, Arkansas.

TOMMY ATKINS AT PLAY.

THE FUN WHICH OCCUPIES A BRITISH SOLDIER OFF DUTY.

Sports and Diversions of the British Soldier in Camp What he Does to Amuse Himself An Excellent Dancer and a Good Athlete.

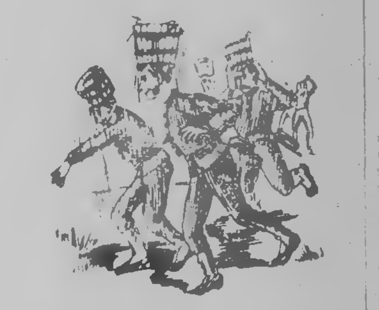
There was a time years ago when almost the only amusement a guardsman had was in getting drunk. This was his one [illegible] only idea of enjoying himself [illegible] even now with a daily diminishing [illegible]. At the [illegible] soldiers [illegible] and no one thought of establishing [illegible] or [illegible]. [illegible] looked upon as they were in those days [illegible] better than outcasts they could get society and recreation nowhere except in low drinking places. [illegible] taken place. [illegible] gradually [illegible] now [illegible] to get a good deal of [illegible] part of which is provided by the authorities and part by himself. In every barracks there is a library and recreation room [illegible] contains a collection of [illegible] novels, supplied from the [illegible] of the station and periodically changed.

The [illegible] is supplied with several kinds of games, and in some regiments where the commanding officers treat the men as men and not as boys, they provide them with billiard tables.

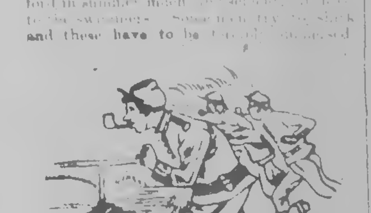
It is a vexed question whether the musical and other kinds of entertainment supplied by the canteens, regimental drinking saloons are beneficial or the reverse. They are encouraged by the authorities who hope that they may have the effect of keeping soldiers out of the saloons that surround all barracks. On the other hand they are thought by many to do harm by leading recruits to suppose that to frequent the canteen is the [illegible] thing to do, and that the total abstinence principles which they have learned as [illegible]. Without going to the canteen at all, [illegible] can often be got in barracks. In many regiments there is a dramatic club, and [illegible] theatrical [illegible] are being continually got up by the members [illegible] who [illegible]. The best [illegible] the part of a lady, he looks so [illegible]

The ladies who witness [illegible] in barracks can scarcely be flattered at seeing themselves as the actors must have seen them in order to reproduce them in this way in their representations. But what "brings down the house" most of all, so to speak, is step dancing. The man who is "handy with his feet," as an Irishman said, is sure of appreciation and applause. Cards and a game called "[illegible]," played with buttons on small squares of differently colored cloth, are the games most often to be seen in barrack rooms. For their own comfort the inmates generally insist on order and quiet being maintained at night, though at times there is a good deal of skylarking. Tricks are played upon recruits, which [illegible] not [illegible] amusing to the [illegible] as they are to those who play them. Barrack room court martials [illegible] occurrences, and sometimes they do good. There is not much conversation in a barrack room, for recruits are [illegible] revealing their experience and the older soldiers have learned that it is not wise for a man to say all that he knows. That soldiers do some beautiful work and make very artistic things, especially in India, where they have to remain so long hours under cover, visitors to Chelsea hospital are aware.

Of out of door amusement there is no want. An alley for skittles and a ball court are provided in all barracks, and in many a rifle range, of late years, where [illegible] themselves at target practice. The several companies in a battalion [illegible] elevens, and if near the sea [illegible]. Bathing parades [illegible] found in summer much [illegible] to the swimmers. Some [illegible] and these have to be [illegible]



THE BUCKET RACE.



THE FIFE RACE.

Many of the [illegible]. In India [illegible] is cheap they indulge in the game of polo.

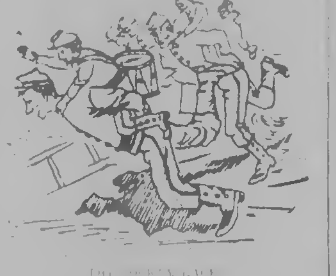
One day of the year almost every regiment no matter in what part of the world it is stationed has a meeting for athletic sports. Even on active service time and occasion for these sports is sometimes found and then they are especially useful in keeping cheerful and contented those who endure many hardships. The day of the sports is as far as possible a holiday for the men, and to the officers an occasion for being "at home" to their friends.

Of these sports perhaps those that excite most interest are the obstacle races and the tug of war. To the former each regiment tries to add some new and original obstacle. "Through a windsail, through barrels with the ends knocked out, through about six rows of nets, over a hurdle, under a net pegged down rather tight, over a commissariat wagon, along the top of a stretched net, with very wide mesh, the feet not being allowed to touch the ground, over a second wagon, under a windsail, under over and again under a pole, masts laid close, very near to each other, and finishing with a [illegible]. In the egg and spoon race each competitor [illegible] his hand at arm's length a spoon containing an egg and the man who [illegible] first to the goal without breaking the egg. Another [illegible] to be seen at all military sports is the bucket race. The runners carry each a bucket of water on his head or shoulder, and the prize is given to the man who comes in first and brings the fullest bucket. Anything but "sweetest sounds of pure harmony" are made by the instruments in the bandsmen's race, for each bandsman has to play an instrument while he is running. The pipe race has no connection with musical instruments. What is meant is tobacco pipes, which during the race are filled and lighted by the runners. They must finish the race which is [illegible] of a mile long, with the pipes still alight. Nothing but the ordinary match is allowed.

At all regimental sports there is a marching order competition. Prizes are awarded to the [illegible] who turn out best [illegible] with the cleanest accoutrements. Other competitions which are frequently to be seen are a three-legged race, a wheelbarrow race, a jockey race, a ball race and a frog race. The first is run by two men abreast each having his near leg tied to the near leg of the other. In the wheelbarrow race [illegible] holds up the feet of [illegible] who walks on his hands [illegible] as the [illegible]. In the jockey race, [illegible] for 100 yards, [illegible] run with [illegible] on their backs. The [illegible] blindfolded, and [illegible] who first catches the [illegible] with the ball. The frog race is run by the boys of the regiment on all fours.

The officers do all in their power to make the sports go off well. They generally have a [illegible], and ride in costumes representing [illegible] and civilized people—costermongers, policemen, sweeps, strong minded women and so forth. Another race which the officers sometimes get up to amuse the spectators is the menagerie race. A considerable number of the pets in the barracks are made to run, handicapped according to their size and kind, so as to be tolerably fairly matched. Among other creatures to be seen in the race are a hen, a goose, a squirrel, kids, cats, dogs and rabbits. A string is attached to each animal, which is held by the officer who runs it. Between the different events the soldiers who are looking on make themselves merry. From time to time they send up paper balloons representing cows, donkeys, night shirts, and other things that will raise a laugh. Scotch reels, Irish jigs, sailors hornpipes and sword dances are [illegible] and there to be seen. Some men blacken their faces and perform as nigger minstrels, getting in this way a good deal of money from the visitors. Others dress up as old women and sing comic songs.

There is generally an "Aunt Sally," who sits in a barrel and pops her head up from time to time to encourage people to have "two shots a penny" with short sticks. One or two [illegible] boys are always [illegible] to [illegible] the boots and shoes of ladies and gentlemen in the role of shoe black, which they assume for the day. The last thing of the programme is the distribution of the prizes, which are of [illegible], and are given to the winners by the wife of the general or colonel.



THE [illegible] RACE.

I have little [illegible] about the amusements of [illegible] except that [illegible] that a large proportion of them like [illegible] into shops when [illegible] and dancing. The [illegible] who takes pride in himself is the [illegible] before [illegible] into town, dresses [illegible] smart, arranging [illegible] what his [illegible] in the barrack room, who take a friendly interest in his toilet, consider the proper angle. [illegible] the form of amusement [illegible] on the evening of [illegible] to enjoy themselves [illegible] middle part [illegible] always very [illegible]—[illegible] Detroit News.

Do You Cough?

Don't delay. Take Kemp's Balsam, the best cough cure. It will cure coughs and colds. It will cure sore throat, or a tickling in the throat. It will cure pains in the chest. It will cure influenza and bronchitis and all diseases pertaining to the lungs, because it is a pure balsam. Hold it to the light and see how clear and thick it is. You see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Large bottles 50c and $1. dw

Ask Your Friends About It.

Your distressing cough can be cured. We know it, because Kemp's Balsam within the past few years has cured so many coughs and colds in this community. Its remarkable sale has been won entirely by its genuine merit. Ask some friend who has used it what he thinks of Kemp's Balsam. There is no medicine so pure, none so effective. Large bottles 50c. and $1 at all druggists. dw

Oft in Peril.

Lives of children are often endangered by sudden and violent attacks of cholera, cholera morbus, diarrhœa, dysentery and bowel complaints. A reasonable and certain precaution is to keep Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry always at hand.

A single scratch may cause a festering sore. Victoria Carbolic Salve rapidly heals cuts, wounds, burns and all sores. dw

Timely Wisdom.

Great and timely wisdom is shown by keeping Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry on hand. It has no equal for cholera, cholera morbus, diarrhœa, dysentery, colic, cramps and all summer complaints or looseness of the bowels.

A woman who is weak, nervous and sleepless, and who has cold hands and feet, cannot feel and act like a well person. Carter's Iron Pills equalize the circulation, remove nervousness and give strength and rest. dw

What Say They?

In popularity increasing. In reliability the standard. In merits the first. In fact, the best remedy for all summer complaints, diarrhœa, dysentery, cramps, colic, cholera, infantum, etc., is Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. All medicine dealers sell it.

Fur overcoats and Russian circulars are first-class articles to keep you warm, but they will not prevent the pains of rheumatism. Ask W. R. Greatrex, Druggist, for a bottle of Royal Rheumatic Remedy. dw

You hardly realize that it is medicine when taking Carter's Little Liver Pills; they are very small; no bad effects; all troubles from torpid liver are relieved by their use. dw

ANTI DANDRUFF
REMOVES DANDRUFF
WITH THREE APPLICATIONS

TESTIMONIALS.

MONTREAL, Aug. 8th, 1891.

Four applications of Anti-Dandruff thoroughly cleansed my head from Dandruff. I have used it two months to promote the growth of hair and am fully satisfied that it is a success for that purpose.

F. P. MOFFATT,
Passenger Agent, Delaware & Hudson Railway.
Telephone No. 1176. Office, 143 St. James.

MONTREAL, Aug. 4th, 1891.

DR. L. A. SMITH & Co., Montreal, P.Q.

I take much pleasure in stating for the benefit of those who may be troubled with dandruff, that for the past five years I could not keep my hair clean of it until, six weeks ago, I began using your Anti-Dandruff and since the third application my hair has been entirely free from Dandruff and the scalp perfectly clean.

Truly yours, E. W. DOWLING,
Clerk at Windsor Hotel.

MONTREAL, 189

In my endorsement of Anti-Dandruff I can say something that I never could before, which is that this preparation is a perfect remover of Dandruff not only in the first stages but even where the plague has become chronic and has merged itself into a disease. Years of experience as a hair dresser, during which time I have experimented with every recommended preparation, not one has (nor, I might say, even all put together) given the satisfaction that Anti-Dandruff has. It positively removes dandruff. It stops falling of the hair. It cools the head. It makes an elegant hair dressing without leaving a trace of its use. I use it daily in my hair-dressing place at Balmoral Hotel, and have yet to find the first customer who was not pleased with it.

J. T. FONTAINE,
Proprietor Barber Shop Balmoral Hotel.

MISS MARY DELAUNAY, Housekeeper Balmoral Hotel, Montreal, P.Q., says:

I was for a long time very severely afflicted with Dandruff from which I could get no relief, in fact the remedies I tried seemed to aggravate the trouble. My hair began to fall and all the life was dying out of it, so that when cut the hairs would split open at the ends, the color was changing from a dark brown to a sickly looking whitish brown. A few applications of Anti-Dandruff produced a wonderful change, the Dandruff was entirely removed, the hair stopped falling out, splitting open at the ends ceased, and it was restored to its natural color.

Was the Devlin Drawing Contest a "Fake?"

There is much high talk about the Devlin drawing contest at the Central Exhibition, many claiming with hot words that it is not satisfactory. The way to settle the controversy is to try a drawing of hawley bro's pure teas—there will be no doubt about their being as guaranteed. dw

We Liked the Sample.

The EXAMINER'S thanks are due to Mr. Robt. Walton, of Smith, for a numerous "sample" of pears grown in his orchard. Mr. Walton has correct ideas on the subject, and when he placed a generous peck of pears upon the editor's table he set a most worthy example for others to follow. The toothsome quality of Mr. Walton's pears can be attested to by our whole staff.

Rheumatism is caused by a poisonous acid in the blood and yields to Ayer's Pills. Many cases which seem chronic and hopeless, have been completely cured by the medicine. It will cost but little to try what effect the Pills may have in your case. We predict success.

Killed in a Lumber Camp.

A telegram received at the Morgan House to-day from Parry Sound, conveyed the sad intelligence that Mr. Fred Crowe, eldest son of Mr. Wm. Crowe, Dummer, had been accidentally killed in the Parry Harbor Lumber Company's camp. No particulars are known. Instructions will be sent to the camp to have the body forwarded here for burial.

Football To-morrow.

A game of Rugby football will be played on the P.A.A.A. grounds to-morrow afternoon between teams representing the town and the Edison Company. The ball will be kicked off at a quarter to four o'clock. There will be an oyster supper to pay for by the losers, and, though it is more blessed to give than to receive, both teams, it is safe to say, will work hard for the privilege of receiving. A small admission fee will be charged gentlemen; ladies are invited free.

The Methodist Cemetery.

The EXAMINER has been asked to state that a meeting of the stockholders in the Wesleyan Methodist cemetery at Peterborough will be held at the council chamber, Peterborough on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 26th, at 2 o'clock, to discuss some matters in connection with the cemetery now closed. It is understood that there is considerable feeling regarding the closing of the ground and as to its ultimate disposal, and some uncertainty as to whether the trustees of the church are as well, the trustees of the cemetery. Those who are moving in the matter are anxious that there should be a full attendance of all who own lots and have relatives or friends there buried. 3d1w

Accident at the Edison Works.

Mr. Walter Gillespie, employed at the Edison Works, was injured this morning. He had taken a leg off the braiding machine and was steadying it, when the ponderous bulk of iron fell to the floor with the young man under it. It required the united efforts of three or four men to raise the piece of metal and free Walter Gillespie from his perilous position. His left side was badly injured, shoulder, arm, side and ankle being bruised but fortunately no bones were broken. His hand was cut to such an extent that a surgeon had to put several stitches in the wound.

Organized for the Season.

If one musical organization more than another deserves encouragement, it is that which cultivates and practices music for the love of the art itself, and such an organization is the Peterborough Amateur Orchestra, which was organized for the season and held first practice on Monday night. The organization consists at present of three violins, 'cello, flute, two cornets and pianoforte, and without doubt other pieces will be added. Amateur musicians should ally themselves, for no better opportunity presents for instruction in and practice and acquirement of proficiency in chamber music of the higher order. The old "stand-bys" in the orchestra deserve great credit for the persistence, energy and musical ability they have shown and acquired.

Accused of Cattle Lifting.

Charles Howsam, a young butcher engaged in business on Rubidge street opposite the south ward school, was arrested to-day on a charge of stealing a heifer from the farm of Mr. Jno. Hutchinson, Otonabee, on Monday night, 21st inst. The arrest was made by P. C. Adams. Howsam is accused of stealing the heifer and, following the practice of the notorious Auburn cattle-lifter, Bowen, cutting it up and selling it as beef in his butcher shop. Howsam is a young man who came here from Woodstock, Ont., during the winter to work for Mr. J.J. Howden, and about three months ago started up in business for himself. Prisoner is to be brought up before P. M. Dumble at five o'clock this afternoon, when he will be remanded probably till next Tuesday.

A New Wareroom.

The Peter Hamilton Agricultural Implement Company are having plans prepared and will commence at once the erection of a new wareroom on King street, over the creek, and behind the wareroom facing on George street. The new building will be 100x50 and three stories high, the doors of the first flat opening on the King street bridge. The large and increasing business of this prosperous establishment make additional room necessary, and this new building will be completed as rapidly as possible. Owing to the increased and increasing demand for the Hamilton Company machinery, the firm intend making up a much larger stock than any year heretofore. It is with pleasure we notice this additional sign of prosperity, and hope that the business may increase so that the whole two blocks will be covered with buildings before many years pass away.

Bold Attempt at Burglary.

When the employes of Mr. H. S. McDonald's drug store opened up this morning, they discovered traces of a burglarious attack made upon the premises during the night. The thief or thieves first forced open the side door on Hunter street leading to Mr. W. H. Manning's dental rooms. The door must have been pushed in, for the lock bolt was still out when found this morning. Off this hall is a doorway into the drug store, but the thieves were evidently aware that it was securely fastened for they did not molest it. They passed on upstairs and attempted to gain entrance into a room in which was a trap door opening into the store below. This trap was made to allow of goods being hoisted from the ground floor into the third story. The midnight mechanics pried off the staple of the lock on this door, but their efforts were foiled, for it was double barred on the inside. There were marks of a chisel where an attempt was made to pry the door open. Then they sought to gain entrance through Mr. Manning's premises. They climbed through the open transom and passed through several rooms, only to find a dead-wall facing them. There was only one door leading into the room, and they had failed at that. Nothing in the dental rooms was disturbed. The thieves were still not balked. They apparently were well acquainted with the plan of the building, and knew there was another trap door in the third story through which they might reach the store. Ascending the second stairs they pried at the door there also, but it too was bolted on the inside, and the thieves had to acknowledge themselves beaten. They took their departure without doing any other damage.

A Serious Charge not Proven.

At Norwood yesterday a young man from Dummer township, Richard Wigmore, was given a preliminary trial on a charge of rape. The complainant was Nancy Grattar, a nineteen year-old girl employed as a servant by Mr. Barry, of the same township. The plaintiff claimed that on the 28th of February last Wigmore came into the house while she was alone and, in spite of her resistance, committed the offence. She did not mention the matter to any one at the time, and since then has been on friendly, but not intimate, terms with the young man. On the evidences of her trouble becoming apparent, however, she laid a charge of rape against Wigmore, who was arrested and tried at Norwood yesteday before Justices of the Peace Breckenridge, Moore and Finlay. Mr. W. A. F. Campbell, Norwood, conducted the prosecution and Mr E. B. Stone, Peterborough, the defence. The presiding justices were not convinced from the evidence that rape had been committed. There was no proof that violence had been used. The fair plaintiff appeared to be a modern edition of Byron's Donna Julia, of whom it was written:—"A little still she strove, and much repented; and whispering I'll ne'er consent—consented." At any rate, whatever grounds there might be for a charge of seduction, the justices did not think the charge of rape was substantiated, and the prisoner was made free. The defence state that they can bring reputable witnesses to prove that the whole charge is false; that Richard Wigmore was not in the vicinity on the day when it is alleged the crime was committed. Wigmore himself denies having any intercourse whatever with the girl.

Obituary.

The Late Rev. G. H. Davis.

This morning Rev. G. H. Davis, whose illness and condition have been frequently referred to in these columns, passed peacefully away to his eternal rest. The deceased reverend gentleman has filled a prominent place in Canadian Methodism for many years and his passing away will be mourned by thousands in the various charges in which he has laboured so faithfully. He is a native of England, having been the son of an Episcopal clergyman. In early life he cast in his lot with the Methodists, and going to London, near which he was born, he was engaged in the dry goods business. At length deciding to go into the ministry he entered the Wesleyan Theological Institute at Richmond. Almost immediately after leaving this school he was sent by the British conference to Canada, his first station being the St. James' Square Methodist Church, working in connection with the celebrated Dr. Ritchie and Dr. Churchill. As a young minister he was unusually successful, and throughout his ministerial career he filled many important pulpits, including those of Montreal, Brantford, Barrie, Brockville, Peterborough, Prescott, and Cobourg, and for a time he was governor of the Hamilton Female College. Several years ago he was placed in the superannuated relation to the Methodist Church and came to Peterborough, where he has since resided. During the time of his residence here he has shown his interest in church affairs by assisting the various pastors in their church work. Rev. Mr. Davis was at all times a diligent student, and being well informed as to theological subjects and zealous for the interests of truth as he saw them, he wielded a powerful, polemic pen, writing with vigour and effect. He was ardently fond of nature and it was his habit to walk into the country and make the woods and fields his study and oratory, there composing his sermons and communing with the God of nature, and it was often noted that on his return home from these excursions his face would be aglow with the transmitted spiritual fire that filled his soul. Rev. Mr. Davis was in the ministerial work between 40 and 45 years. At about the age of 29 he was married to Miss Jeffrey, daughter of John Jeffrey, Esq., Quebec one the largest ship-owners and ship-builders in Quebec at that time. In the earlier years of his ministry he suffered from a bronchial affection but outgrowing this he enjoyed many years of good health. During last winter while walking on the street he had a fall by which he received a severe blow on the head from which he apparently recovered in about three weeks. On Sunday, Sept. 13th, having been asked by Rev. J. H. Locke of the George street Methodist church to assist in the services, he with his usual alacrity consented and after tea went up to his chamber to dress for going out. In a short time the family was startled at hearing the sound of a heavy fall. Rev. Mr. Davis was found on the floor in a semi-conscious condition, from what proved to be an apoplectic stroke, which it is thought was a sequel to the injury to the head of the previous winter. Although everything was done, paralysis of the left side supervened. His condition steadily grew worse but he retained partial consciousness up to within a day or two of the end. During his illness he gave evidence to his family of his supreme trust in Christ as his Saviour—the great hereafter had no fears for him. His end was exceedingly peaceful, his happy soul, borne placidly outward on the receding tide of life, passed into the great beyond. The family of Rev. Mr. Davis consisted of five sons, Mr. A. L. Davis, town; Rev. G. H. H. Davis, of the Montreal Conference of the Methodist church; Mr. J. Arthur Davis, of Bloomington, Illinois, and Charles, who died in Peterborough several years ago, and three daughters, the youngest dying in infancy in Quebec. The surviving daughters are Mrs. James McPherson, of St. John's, P.Q., and Miss Eva Davis who resides at home in town. At the time of his death, Rev. Mr. Davis had reached his 72nd year. The funeral takes place on Sunday, Sept. 32nd, at 3 o'clock p. m, from the family residence to the George street Methodist church and thence to the Little Lake cemetery.

Harvest Festival Organ Recital.

There was a wretchedly inadequate attendance of the congregation of St. John's at the organ recital recital last night—both in respect of the occasion and the magnificent programme presented by Dr. Davies. Three retrogressive conditions of temperature may have given this result—as to the weather, heat, as to the music lukewarmness and coldness as to the interests of the church. The members of other congregations, however, seemed to be more appreciative of good music, as shown by their numerous presence. The first item on the programme was one of considerable interest, as it presented a name new in the musical world—that of Vincenzo Petrali, organist of Bologna, who promises to lead the organ renaissance that seems to be coming to the land of song. The second number appealed strongly to the sentiment of music, being a pathetic discourse between two voice parts, the marked, contrasting tones being admirably brought out by the performer. The overture to Rossini's "Gazza Ladra" was a charming reproduction of a full orchestra. The gavotte from "Ottone" was a sprightly feature of the programme. Cherubini's march from "Medea," with its grand bass movement and contrapuntal effects, formed a delightful contrast to the succeeding number, St. Saen's barcarolle, which is entirely in the free style of composition. Mozart's fugue in C, was marked by a perfect delivery of the subject and contra subjects, the pedal points being rendered as clearly as the manual effects, the burst of the full organ at the stretto point being extremely effective. That weird composition, Fritz Spindler's Marche des Fantomes, with its ghostly suggestiveness, mingled with ripples of exquisite melody, formed a sharp contrast to the grand finale, "Hallelujah to the Father," from the "Mount of Olives." The recital altogether was a musical luxury.

—The worst cases of scrofula, salt rheum and other diseases of the blood, and cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Personal.

Mrs. Robert Brodie, of Guelph is in town, the guest of her doughter, Mrs. A. Mercer.

Mrs. William Spence left for Chicago yesterday, having spent a pleasant holiday with friends in Peterborough.

Miss Sadie Callanane and Miss Minnie of the Stewart House have returned home after a pleasant tour of two months through the Western cities.

Rev. E. R. Roberts, of Cobourg, formerly of Peterborough, spent last night in town and left to-day for New Brunswick, where he attends an important meeting in connection with the Methodist Church in Canada, as representative of the Bay of Quinte Conference.

Just how an alterative medicine cleanses the system is an open question: but that Ayer's Sarsaparilla does produce a radical change in the blood is well attested on all sides. It is everywhere considered the best remedy for blood disorders.

NOTICE.—"The Persian Lotion" is a medicinal preparation, transparent and limpid like water. It radically removes pimples and other eruptions, either by destroying the unhealthy skin, and the parasitic germs which produce the same, or inclosing the pores of the skin, so as to prevent the minute particles of blood or purulent matter from exuding. It disperses freckles and the masque by dissolving and removing the particles of foreign matter which when introduced into the pores of the skin produce these blemishes. It is not the skin which undergoes a change of color but the pores which become filled with the foreign matter, which water will not dissolve, but which, is removed more or less easily by the "Persian Lotion" in proportion to the age of such spots.

King of Medicines

A Cure "Almost Miraculous."

"When I was 14 years of age I had a severe attack of rheumatism, and after I recovered had to go on crutches. A year later, scrofula, in the form of white swellings, appeared on various parts of my body, and for 11 years I was an invalid, being confined to my bed 6 years. In that time ten or eleven sores appeared and broke, causing me great pain and suffering. I feared I never should get well.

"Early in 1886 I went to Chicago to visit a sister, but was confined to my bed most of the time I was there. In July I read a book, 'A Day with a Circus,' in which were statements of cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was so impressed with the success of this medicine that I decided to try it. To my great gratification the sores soon decreased, and I began to feel better and in a short time I was up and out of doors. I continued to take Hood's Sarsaparilla for about a year, when, having used six bottles, I had become so fully released from the disease that I went to work for the Flint & Walling Mfg. Co., and since then on account of sickness. I believe the disease is expelled from my system. I always feel well, am in good spirits and have a good appetite. I am now 27 years of age and can walk as well as any one, except that one limb is a little shorter than the other, owing to the loss of bone, and the sores formerly on my right leg. To my friends my recovery seems almost miraculous, and I think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the king of medicines." WILLIAM A. LEHR, 9 N. Railroad St., Kendallville, Ind.

HAVE NOT LOST A SINGLE DAY

Scratched 28 Years

A Scaly, Itching, Skin Disease With Endless Suffering Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

If I had known of the CUTICURA REMEDIES twenty-eight years ago, it would have saved me $200.00 and an immense amount of suffering. My disease (psoriasis) commenced on my head in a spot not larger than a cent. It spread rapidly all over my body, and got under my nails. The scales would drop off of me all the time, and my suffering was endless, and without relief. One thousand dollars would not tempt me to have this disease over again. I am a poor man, but feel rich to be relieved of what some of the doctors said was leprosy, some ringworm, psoriasis, etc. I cannot praise the CUTICURA REMEDIES too much. They have made my skin as clear and free from scales as a baby's. All I used of them was $5 worth. If you had been here and said you would have cured me for $200.00, you would have had the money. I looked like the picture (No. 2, page 47) in your book, "How to Cure Skin Diseases," but now I am as clear as any person ever was. Through force of habit I rub my hands over my arms and legs to scratch once in a while, but to no purpose. I am all well. I scratched twenty-eight years, and it got to be a kind of second nature to me. I thank you a thousand times.

THE HOUSE ON THE EVE OF PROROGATION.

The Counsel Engaged in the Public Works Investigation Will Receive $4000 Apiece. The Award of the C P R Arbitrators Will Be Handed In in a Few Days.

OTTAWA, Sept. 26.—In the House yesterday Sir Adolphe Caron introduced a bill to amend the Militia Act by providing that civil authorities before calling the troops [illegible] for the preservation of order must put up a deposit [illegible] to pay the expenses of the troops for [illegible] days.

Sir John Thompson, in moving that the House sit on Saturdays, said that he expected prorogation to take place early next week.

Mr. Laurier said that so far as the Opposition was concerned the fighting of the session was over, and an era of peace ought to follow.

Mr. Haggart read a statutory declaration by Senator McLaren which corroborated Mr. Haggart's denial of the charges preferred against him in connection with Section B contracted by Mr. Lister. The declaration further stated that the charge that he was beneficially interested in the contract and drew profits in the name of Peter McLaren was utterly [illegible] and without foundation.

Sir John Thompson said, in reply to Sir Richard Cartwright, that the award of the C.P.R. arbitrators [illegible] be expected at an early [illegible].

In [illegible] Sir John Thompson [illegible] Messrs. Osler and Henry as counsel [illegible] investigation before the Privileges and Elections Committee [illegible]. ADDRESS TO HER MAJESTY.

Adopted by the Senate Yesterday—Mr Abbott's Reference to Fair Trade.

OTTAWA, Sept. 26.—In Senate yesterday Mr. Abbott moved an address to the Queen with regard to the [illegible] from the treaties between England and Germany and England and Belgium.

After explaining the [illegible] of the [illegible] he made reference to [illegible]. He [illegible] presented [illegible].

[illegible] improve trade with the mother country. In theory it seemed to be the germ of a movement which might be [illegible] important to us in the last degree, but the idea of taxing food in England was repugnant to a large proportion of that people. Although protection under the name of fair trade has made some little progress in England, he [illegible] whether it had made a lasting impression. He did not know if England would [illegible] it worth while to impose a [illegible] trade with 350,000,000 of [illegible] people at one sacrifice of her principle. He did not think it probable, though the theory itself was attractive.

Regarding the address he said he thought [illegible] would be [illegible].

After [illegible] the address was adopted.

WHEN THEY WERE TOLD OF IT.

Developments at the Public Accounts Committee Investigation.

OTTAWA, Sept. 26.—There was a slim attendance at the meeting of the Public Accounts [illegible] yesterday. [illegible] The first witness called was Mr. B. Barber [illegible] Paper Company. [illegible] Mr. Barber.

The witness said that in April last he met Mr. Bowell, Minister of Customs, [illegible] Mr. Senecal was in the habit of exacting commissions from parties who had contracts with the Government. He did so in reply to a question put by Mr. Bowell, who said that he heard rumors to that effect, and he informed witness that he would take steps to have it stopped. Mr. [illegible] also asked him if he [illegible] Mr. Senecal was taking [illegible]. Mr. Barber said he would write [illegible] Toronto, not wishing [illegible] Mr. Chamberlain, he [illegible] getting further [illegible]. Had he thought Senecal was to [illegible] would have told Mr. Chap[illegible] [illegible] that he would only [illegible] and that his Bagley's pattern [illegible] would be stopped [illegible].

Mr. [illegible] president of the Conservative Association, Ottawa, was recalled. He said that about a year ago he called on Sir John Macdonald at his residence and told him about Senecal's commission business. Mr. Bowell, who was not in attendance when Barber gave his evidence, arrived after [illegible].

Desperate Fight for Life.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Donald Burns traveled for [illegible] years with Barnum's circus. He now has an establishment at No. 115 Roosevelt street. He supplies animals to circuses and menageries and has in stock a particularly large and ferocious panther. Yesterday it escaped from its cage and Burns tried to [illegible] it. [illegible] then ensued a terrible battle for life. Armed with only a paper file, Burns met the onslaught. Again and yet again he drove the file into the panther's side, but not before he had been terribly lacerated about the face and body. Finally his yells for help brought two longshoremen into the premises and the panther was beaten into insensibility.

THE BOMB EXPLODED.

ELEVEN PEOPLE ARE DEAD AND 30 WOUNDED

An Italian Celebration Results in Frightful Havoc. A Festival of Joy Turned Into a Carnival of Woe In a New York Italian Quarter.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—Eleven people are dead and 30 wounded as the result of the bomb explosion at the Italian celebration last night. The Italian colony residing in the neighborhood of Boyden and N[illegible] streets have for several days been preparing for the celebration of the feast of St. Ro[illegible]. A platform for musicians was erected in the street next door to Marino's saloon and a [illegible] crowd blocked the street. A [illegible] copper casing mortar was used for the bombs. These were filled with colored [illegible] and shot into the air, where they burst, throwing out a shower of [illegible] colored sparks. It was this [illegible] that exploded and caused all the [illegible]. The bomb casing was about five inches in diameter and 30 inches long. About 11 p.m. a large bomb was put in [illegible] and lighted. It is supposed that the [illegible] exploded in it. There were [illegible] of men, women and children [illegible] watching with great expectancy. When it exploded the air was filled with [illegible] of the injured and dying. [illegible] soon followed. A platoon of police [illegible] the scene and they had great difficulty in preventing the frightened multitude from tramping the injured to death. The explosion is supposed to be due to an overcharge of powder.

The names of the dead are: Michael Apollalonio, 19 years old; [illegible] Stewart [illegible], 12; Michael O'Neil, 13; Pasquali R[illegible]; Frederick Weiss, 15; Giuseppi Vanozo; Frank Miller, 8; Arthur Flynn, 11; Lizzie Hughes, 18; Lizzie Murphy, 19; Henry Bargesser, 13.

Rumors were abroad that there had been dynamite in the bomb, but this [illegible].

THOUGHT IT WAS JUDGMENT DAY.

500 Negroes Break For the Door—One Killed and Three Fatally Injured.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 26.—A little before 12 o'clock last night a panic occurred in the Harmony Baptist Church (colored), in which one woman was killed, three received fatal injuries, and about 20 persons were seriously cut and bruised. An all-night revival service was being held, attended by 500 negroes. Suddenly the gaslights began to flicker badly, then went out entirely. One frenzied worshipper shouted: "Judgment, judgment," at which the crowd became wild with fear. A grand rush was made for the narrow doors. The stronger ones trampled on the weak and rushed over their prostrate bodies. Many jumped from windows and were injured in the fall by broken glass. The panic lasted 15 or 20 minutes and when the building was lighted up again over a dozen people lay bruised and bleeding on the floor. One girl, Maggie Clark, aged 18 years, was dead.

EASIER THAN MARRIAGE.

In Twenty Years 328,716 Divorces Were Granted in the United States.

SARATOGA, N.Y., Sept. 26.—"Marriage and Divorce" was the subject of an interesting paper read before the Unitarian Conference here to-day by Hon. Carroll D. Wright, of Washington. After reviewing the marriage statutes in the various States in the Union, Mr. Wright said: "From 1867 to 1886, inclusive, there were granted in the United States 328,716 decrees of divorce, the increase being steady and rapid yearly, showing an increase of 157 per cent. in the 20 years, in which the [illegible] per [illegible]. Of the 328,716 divorces granted in the 20 years specified, 216,176 were granted on the petition of the wives. The duration of the married time is also an interesting study.

"In the period named it averages 8.87 years for the [illegible] and 9.27 years for the women. Less than 20 per cent. of the parties are divorced in other States than those in which they were married. In the number of divorces examined in 57,524 there were no children, and 141,810 the children formed no part of the question arising."

Mrs. Fitzsimmons Found Guilty.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 26.—The jury in the case of Mrs. Lucy R. Fitzsimmons, wife of the Brockville, Ont., murderer, on trial for the murder of Detective David Gilkinson, came into court this afternoon, after being out less than four hours. The Clarks were on trial at the time as accessories after the murder. Mrs. Fitzsimmons was brought in as composed as ever. After the usual formula the foreman announced the jury's decision "Guilty of murder in the second degree." Mrs. Fitzsimmons never changed a feature as she heard the sentence that will send her to the penitentiary.

Faith Cure as a Ground for Divorce.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The practice of curing by faith is the novel ground for an application for divorce filed in the Equity Court here yesterday by Charles H. Perry against Mary A. Perry. He alleges that his life has been made unbearable through his wife's devotion to what he terms the craze of faith cure and her deserting his four sons to travel about the country preaching the doctrines to which she has been converted.

A New Method of Making Whisky.

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 26.—For several months the Distillers and Cattle Feeders' Company has been experimenting with the Takamine process of making whisky. The process was invented by Takamine, a Japanese, who has been here personally conducting the experiments. A queer feature is that a species of bug found on rice is used instead of yeast for the fermenting process.

Water Dearer Than Whisky.

GUTHRIE, O.T., Sept. 26.—Advices from the new settlement show that terrible suffering exists. In some places water brings 25 cents a glass, and horses are dying of thirst.

Snow in Colorado.

LEADVILLE, Col., Sept. 26.—The first snow of the season fell here last night, and snowed all night, but is melting rapidly.

CHINA MAKES ANSWER

TO THE DEMAND OF THE POWERS FOR SATISFACTION.

Perfectly Able to Protect All Foreigners Already Punished the Ringleaders of the Gang and Prepared to Take Further Action.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—The following is a summary of an official Pekin cablegram received on Monday and handed to the Foreign Office authorities on Tuesday: Specific sums have been offered to the treaty powers by China as compensation for the loss of life and property at Wuhie Wusuch, Tang Yang, Wooseih and other places where disorders have occurred. Four leaders of the rioters have been executed and 21 have been banished. Five Mandarians have been adjudged culpably remiss in not adopting measures to preserve order and have been reported to the throne for punishment. The Imperial Government, recognizing its entire responsibility for the preservation of order at the treaty ports and for the protection of missionaries in the interior, have ordered the viceroys of China and Nan-King to despatch the northern and southern squadrons to patrol the Yang Tse-Kiang, and to afford protection wherever the life or property of Europeans is still apparently threatened. Though rumors of further troubles still excite uneasiness in certain places the Government has no doubt of its ability to cope effectually with attempts at fresh breaches of the peace, whether from the operators of secret societies or as the result of local or accidental circumstances. The examinations held last month at Nan King, Woo Chang, Nan Chang, Hang Chow and Foo Chow ended without the disorders often attendant at the assembly of so many students. At Nan King alone the number of students is 20,000 and the number is scarcely less at the other capitals mentioned.

Nothing is known respecting the reports cabled to Europe of an attempt to seize the Foo Chow arsenal, but undoubted evidence of the activity of secrets has been obtained in other quarters. Thirty-five cases of foreign rifles consigned to a British subject employed in the imperial customs office at Chin Kiang have been seized by the customs officers at Shanghai and the consignee has been arrested and sent to Shanghai for the British authorities to deal with. The same man had in his possession a quantity of dynamite, which with the rifles he confessed was intended for the use of a secret society at Chin Kiang. The arms came from Hong Kong. Two other British subjects and six other foreigners (nationality doubtful), residents of Shanghai, are implicated in this transaction, which Sir Robert Hart, the inspector general of customs, and the British consulates at Shanghai and Chin Kiang are investigating.

The communications from the Pekin Government offering compensation to foreigners who have suffered in the recent riots in China, with the strongest assurances of future protection, are received with distrust in the Foreign Office here. Hsu Ching Chang, the Chinese Ambassador to the European courts, has recently been in St. Petersburg, where he succeeded in inducing the Russian Government to withdraw from the joint action projected by the powers. He arrived in Berlin to-day with the view of trying to influence Chancellor Von Caprivi, but it is certain that he will not, after the determination of the German Government to co-operate with the British in taking decisive measures.

The Pekin note as given to the papers, fails to indicate the real character of the appeal made by the ambassador to the European Governments. He has urged that the Imperial Government was entirely honest in deciding to suppress disorders and seeking time to deal with the anti-foreign movement, and that precipitate action on the part of the powers would defeat their object and bring China into an anarchany. His communications distinctly suggest the probability of such a potent political upheaval in China as might overthrow the Mancho dynasty. Panicky feeling existing in Pekin is made known here by urgent telegrams sent through the Chinese embassy imploring Lord Salisbury to instruct the British Minister to China to adopt a more friendly attitude. The latter advises the Foreign Office that persistent diplomatic pressure, combined with a naval demonstration off certain of the treaty ports, will be the only effective means to prevent recurrent outrages.

Chinese Attack Monasteries.

PARIS, Sept. 26.—The officers of the Missions Catholique at Lyons have received advices from China to the effect that natives had attacked the monks at Northern China. Fears are entertained for the safety of the monks and the inmates of the Chinese orphanage.

England's Chief Rabbi to Visit Russia.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—The Rev. Dr. Hermann Adler, chief rabbi of England, on behalf of a number of influential Jews has obtained consent of Hall Caine to undertake a journey through Russia in order that he may study the Jewish question. It is believed that the powerful pen which has already shown itself able to move the public so deeply in favor of the Russian Jews will make even the Russian Government not indifferent to its appeals.

Siberia for the Jews.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—A St. Petersburg despatch says the Czar seriously thinks of sending the Jews in large batches to Siberia. They will not be deported as convicts but are to be presented with land and forbidden to return to Russia.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—The Jewish Colonization Association, although formed but a few days, has already taken hold vigorously, and the object of settling the poor Russian Jews in the United States is to be pursued as rapidly as possible. The association has come to the conclusion to send nearly all the Jewish exiles to the United States and to secure their landing by all lawful means.

It is claimed that the United States has room enough for all the Jews that will emigrate from Russia, and the opportunities for profitable business are not equaled in any other country. The association will, therefore, for the present wholly confine its attention to sending Russian Jews to America and supporting them there.

The Divinity That Doth Hedge a King.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—A Socialist at Dantzic has been arrested for saying that King Otto, the crazy sovereign of Bavaria, was the most useful monarch in Europe, because he spends his time in peeling potatoes. The remark was considered a reflection on the Kaiser and all the other German sovereigns, not one of whom is conspicuous for anything but good living.

The police are more than ever severe in punishing any act or word of personal disrespect for the Kaiser, and in Berlin yesterday two men were warned in the street to stop laughing and talking aloud at the Kaiser's beard. Visitors have been forbidden to come within a certain distance of royalty while out promenading or boating in the vicinity of Potsdam. These orders have been issued in deference to the Empress, who has been annoyed by inquisitive visitors watching her at lunch and possibly commenting on her healthy appetite. In future no one must dare look at royalty except when it chooses to go on exhibition.

Russian Manœuvres Very Secret.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 26.—General Mir[illegible] Kavotch, who is in command of the Fifteenth Army Corps at Warsaw, and is in charge of the Russian army manœuvres in Poland, has issued an order for the immediate arrest of any person endeavoring to witness the manœuvres without a passport from himself, and he is said to be under special instructions to keep out all foreign [illegible] newspaper correspondents. There [illegible] the behavior of the Russian troops under the fire of smokeless powder, about which much curiosity is felt in military [illegible] likely to be known.

The Russian Government is straining [illegible] to keep the army sufficiently supplied with food and thereby prevent discontent among the troops. It is said that the garrison at Kharkoff was on half rations during 10 days of the month, owing to a failure of the supply department to do its duty. The responsible officer was degraded in rank.

PUT HIM TO FLIGHT.

A Canadian Girl's Plucky Fight With An Armed Burglar.

MORRISBURG, Ont., Sept. 26.—On Wednesday night after the family of Duncan McDonald, deputy reeve of Matilda, had retired Miss Jessie McDonald was disturbed by a slight noise coming from under a toilet table in her room, and thinking it was a mouse fired a pillow in that direction to scare the animal away. Imagine her amazement and terror to see a man jump from under the table, with the pillow in one hand a revolver in the other. The villain made straight for Miss McDonald, who sprang up and knocked the revolver out of his hand and grappled with him. The chairs, tables, lamps, etc., were turned upside down, but still Miss McDonald never lost her nerve. The brute got Miss McDonald by the throat and pounded her unmercifully for a time, but it did not have the desired effect, so he bolted down stairs, but was met at the door by the servant girl, who was not anxious for an acquaintance and he passed on. Both Miss McDonald and the girl recognized the scoundrel as a young man who had previously worked for Mr. McDonald, but who during the summer had been hired with Mr. Prunner, just below the village. He left his shoes, revolver and knife behind.

Harry Gale, the young man in question, was captured at Madrid, N.Y., and brought to Morrisburg. A preliminary investigation was held before Police Magistrate Logan, when Gale confessed everything and was committed for trial.

BEFORE HIS MAKER.

The Mount Forest Child Murderer Gone to His Reward.

MOUNT FOREST, Ont., Sept. 26.—The unfortunate man Coutts, whose arraignment a year ago before the coroner here, on the charge of drowning a baby in a cistern, will be remembered, died the other day at the asylum in Hamilton where he was committed after his trial for infanticide. His body was taken to Holstein for interment.

DEATH LURKS EVERYWHERE.

A Newmarket Tanner Poisoned While Handling Hides.

NEWMARKET, Ont., Sept. 26.—Frederick Hartry was poisoned from handling skins in the south end tannery a few days ago, the virus having been conveyed through his system by means of a bruise. Since Sunday he has been confined to his bed and is in quite a critical condition, his medical adviser declaring yesterday morning that he was no better.

OVER THE CATARACT.

Not Known as Yet Whether There Were Any Persons on Board.

NIAGARA FALLS, Sept. 26.—The Maid of the Mist on her first trip yesterday discovered evidence which goes to show that a pleasure yacht of some kind had passed over the falls. The eddy at the foot of the falls and along the Canadian shore was filled with pieces of wreckage. They looked like the upper work of a good sized tug or yacht. Captain Carter picked up several of the pieces. One was a section of a sliding door, with two bronze handles and a lock with the key still in it. No parts of the hull have yet been found.

The Assassin of Rev. Mr Large.

PALMERSTON, Sept. 26.—Mrs. (Dr.) Stewart received a letter from her sister, Mrs. Large, on Tuesday, announcing her safe arrival in Tokyo, Japan. In the letter was enclosed a clipping from The Japan Mail published in that city the day before her arrival, which is as follows: "It was stated some time ago that a man under custody at the principal police station in Chiba Prefecture, had confessed to the murder of Rev. Mr. Large, which event, it will be remembered, took place in April of last year. He was described as a youth of about 20, by name of Isoshima Kurazo, a native of Koito, in the Suzu district of Kazusa province. At first it was supposed that he was insane, but the Myiako Shimbun alleges that the examination conducted at the Chiba magistracy goes to prove him the real murderer, and that the fact was reported to Tokyo on the 25th instant." Mrs. Large knows the prisoner well.

For Libeling Prince George.

MONTREAL, Sept. 26.—After having been postponed from time to time during the past year the trial of R. N. O'Brien, the newspaper correspondent accused of libeling Prince George of Wales, was begun this afternoon before Judge Cross in the Court of Queen's Bench. The article complained of stated that the Prince had gone slumming in the city and been arrested by police.

Had Three Hundred Dupes.

NIAGARA FALLS, Sept. 26.—A sharper the other day went through an excursion train running from Rochester to Niagara Falls and offered bogus tickets admitting the holder to all points of interest at the Falls for $1. He sold 300 before he left the train.

Hotel Damaged at Salem.

SALEM, Ont., Sept. 26.—This morning about 2 o'clock the Salem Hotel, now being repaired and enlarged by I. Korman, was discovered to be on fire in a small kitchen in the rear. The cause of the fire was incendiarism and the loss about $500, with no insurance.

A Somnambulist's Fall.

WIARTON, Sept. 26.—Mrs. J. A. Morton went to sleep on a lounge in the hall upstairs. During the night she got up in a somnambulistic condition and walked to a window and stepped out, falling to the ground some 12 feet below. She was seriously injured.

Died From a Fall.

NIAGARA FALLS, Sept. 26.—John Salt, proprietor of Salt's New Hotel, Niagara Falls, and a well known hotel man, is dead from injuries received by a fall in Toronto on the 16th inst. He was 71 years old and leaves a widow, four sons and one daughter.

Scalded to Death.

OWEN SOUND, Sept. 26.—Herbert, the 2 1-2 year old son of David Brown of Brooke, accidentally pulled over on himself a pail of hot water which had been left on the floor in readiness for scrubbing and was scalded to death.

She Was Searching For Eggs.

KINCARDINE, Sept. 26.—While in search of eggs, Mrs. Daniel Potcher of Paramatta missed her footing and fell from the scaffold to the barn floor beneath, breaking three ribs and a collar bone in the fall. She was found some time afterwards in an unconscious state.

A Yellow Coated Robin.

NIAGARA FALLS, Sept. 26.—A lady from Lewiston yesterday brought a canary across the bridge in a cage. The officer asked what it was. He was twice told. He asked a third time (being hard of hearing perhaps), when the lady told him it was a robin. This answer stirred up all the authority within him, and he seized the bird, valued it at a dollar, and declared that 20c. duty must be paid forthwith, and it had to be paid.

CONDITION OF BUSINESS.

Improvement in General Trade in Canada Collections Also Better.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—While there have been still further increases within the week in the volume of general trade at some of the leading business centres, notably at Chicago, Duluth, Minneapolis, St. Paul, St. Joseph, St. Louis and San Francisco, special telegrams to Bradstreet's do not, on the whole, point to a week of widespread or general increase in the distributive movement in staple lines in the United States.

There is a noticeable improvement in the general trade situation in Canada, particularly in drygoods, hardware and groceries and wheat for export. This characterizes both the provinces of Ontario and Quebec. Collections there are also better. The Dominion reports 34 business failures this week, against 35 last week and 31 this week last year. The total number Jan. 1 to date is 1311, against 1[illegible] last year.

Pale, drooping girls, worn weary with a burden of disease almost greater than they can bear, should take heart and suffer no longe. Dr. Williams Pink Pills are a certain cure for all those diseases peculiar to womankind. They restore the blood, build anew the nerves, and leave happiness and health when used. Sold by dealers or sent on recipt of price (50c. a box) by addressing Dr. Williams Med. Co., Brockville, Ont. dw

From the Jaws of Death.

Some surprising effects have been recorded from the use of Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil in the most desperate cases of consumption. When all other remedies have failed Miller's Dmulsion nearly always succeeds. It is the best kind of flesh and blood maker, and has been used with marked success by the physicians in the Insane Asylum, Penitentiary, Hotel Dieu, and General Hospital in Kingston, Ont. In big bottles, 50c and $1 at Peterborough drug stores. dw

To be free from sick headache, billousness, constipation, etc, use Carter's Little Liver Pills. Strictly vegetable. They gently stimulate the liver and free the stomach from bile. dw

A Spring Medicine.

There are few who do not at this season feel the need of a spring medicine, and to all such we recommend Lane's Family Medicine as the best. This is a pleasant herb drink made by pouring boiling water on the dried roots and herbs. Druggists sell the packages at 50c. and $1. It is the best as well as the pleasantest cure for constipation and headache. dw

Could Scarcely See.

Mrs. John Martin, of Montage Bridge, P. E.I., writes:—"I was troubled last summer with very bad headaches and constipation and sometimes could scarcely see. One bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters made a complete cure of my case, and I wish you every success.

Purity of ingredients and accuracy of compounding, make Milburn's Aromatic Quinine Wine the criterion of excellence. dw

Regina Ripples.

"I took six bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters for liver complaint, headache and dull stupid feeling, but now I am entirely well and healthy, having also a good appetite which I did not have previously."—Mrs. T. Davis, Regina, N.W.T.

Mrs. Chas. Smith, of Jimes, Ohio, writes: "I have tried every remedy for sick headache I could hear of for the past fifteen years, but Carter's Little Liver Pills did me more good than all the rest. dw

It can do no harm to try Freeman's Worm Powders if your child is ailing, feverish or fretful. dw

Clinton Clippings.

"I had for years been troubled with dyspepsia and sick headache and found but little relief until I got Burdock Blood Bitters which made a perfect cure. It is the best medicine I ever used in my life."—Hattie Davis, Mary street, Clinton, Ont.

All ages and conditions of people may use National Pills without injury and with great benefit. dw

The Safest

AND most powerful alterative is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Young and old are alike benefited by its use. For the eruptive diseases peculiar to children nothing else is so effective as this medicine, while its agreeable flavor makes it easy to administer.

"My little boy had large scrofulous ulcers on his neck and throat from which he suffered terribly. Two physicians attended him, but he grew continually worse under their care, and everybody expected he would die. I had heard of the remarkable cures effected by Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and decided to have my boy try it. Shortly after he began to take this medicine, the ulcers commenced healing, and, after using several bottles, he was entirely cured. He is now as healthy and strong as any boy of his age."—William F. Dougherty, Hampton, Va.

"In May last, my youngest child, fourteen months old, began to have sores gather on its head and body. We applied various simple remedies without avail. The sores increased in number and discharged copiously. A physician was called, but the sores continued to multiply until in a few months they nearly covered the child's head and body. At last we began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. In a few days a marked change for the better was manifest. The sores assumed a more healthy condition, the discharges were gradually diminished, and finally ceased altogether. The child is livelier, its skin is fresher, and its appetite better than we have observed for months."—Frank M. Griffin, Long Point, Texas.

"The formula of Ayer's Sarsaparilla presents for chronic diseases of almost every kind, the best remedy known to the medical world."—D. M. Wilson, M. D., Wiggs, Arkansas.

OVER THE FALLS.

Strange Disappearance of Charles D. Provoost of Buffalo

BUFFALO, Sept. 25.—Charles D. Provoost, a clerk in the freight office of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, has been missing since last Sunday.

On Sunday last he left Buffalo to go to Niagara Falls. Provoost told his companion that he was going down to one of the islands near the Falls to join a party of friends who were having a clam bake. His relatives are much alarmed, as they fear he has in a fit of temporary insanity committed suicide.

BUFFALO, Sept. 25.—The funeral of Mrs. Dell Rathbun, who committed suicide at Niagara Falls, took place to-day. Mrs. Rathbun was a wealthy woman and her estate is estimated at from $150,000 to $200,000. It is mostly in Buffalo real estate on the river front, at Humboldt parkway and other parts of the city.

MARRIED THE GROOM.

A Hamilton Woman Who Claims to Be an Earl's Daughter.

HAMILTON, Sept. 25.—One morning about ten days ago there sat in the police court dock a woman who although poorly clad and disfigured by dissipation talked intelligently and in a polished manner. A shawl covered her shoulders, her hair was disarranged and she was hatless. She gave the name of Margaret Truman. The charge against her was drunk and disorderly. It was evident, however, that she was not a common drunk. After the court a philanthropic lady, who heard of the woman's misfortune, interviewed the magistrate, and on promising a [illegible] to make an effort to reform her Mr. Cahill liberated her. Yesterday she told this story: "I am the daughter of an earl. My father was Gladstone's right hand man. My grandfather was the Earl of Ponsonby. I belong to one of the best families in Perthshire, Scotland. When my father died he left me 10,000 pounds. He did not forget the black sheep, although I brought disgrace on the family. My name is Gertrude Mary Ponsonby."

Continuing her narrative, the woman said that in 1868, when she returned from boarding school, she eloped with her father's groom, James W. Thompson. She lived with him in this country till 1873; then he disappeared, and she has never seen him since. "I wish I knew where he was," she said, wiping away a big tear. Ten years after the groom decamped she became a member of the Salvation Army, and when she was in Toronto she married Ransom Truman, notwithstanding that she was not positive her first husband was dead. Truman subsequently left her.

The blue blooded lady says she went to Egypt as a member of the Red Cross corps. Luck has been against her since she struck Hamilton. She lived at 254 Catharine street north, and the day she was arrested the bailiffs got possession of her furniture. "I was in trouble then," said she, "and when I am worried I take to drink. But I am a lady."

The woman is a sister of Lord Kinnaird, but the family disowned her when she married the groom. She has an income of $66 a month.

A Woman's Character

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Sept. 25.—Norman v. O'Connor is an action tried here under the Ontario statute giving a woman a right of action against slander entitling her to recover nominal damages from any person imputing a bad character to her. The plaintiff is a young woman under 21 years of age, of rather more than average comeliness and stylishly attired. She is adopted daughter of a [illegible] dealer in [illegible] and hosiery in the village of Williamsford. The defendant keeps a hotel in the same village. No more vile [illegible] language than that in which it was [illegible] the imputation was ever heard in a court room. The defendant did not very strenuously deny that any such language had been made use of. The jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff of $20 damages.

Cut Off His Leg.

AVENING, Ont., Sept. 25.—While an old and respected resident of this place, George Shepherd, was carrying a grain cradle along the sidewalk he stepped on a loose plank, which tripped him, and he fell with his knee on the blade, completely severing his leg at the knee joint. Being over 70 years of age it is doubtful if he can survive.

The Discovery Turned His Brain

PETERBORO, Sept. 25.—John McClure, the farmer in Monaghan upon whose farm the coal oil strike was made, caused a sensation in the southern limits of the town yesterday. With a knife in his hand he chased three ladies who ran to a house where several carpenters were working. A workman knocked McClure down and disarmed him. It is thought the unfortunate man is laboring under a fit of temporary insanity and he was sent up for a week.

Dragged to Death

LINDSAY, Sept. 25.—Henry Jackson of Ops was driving home in a covered buggy, when the horse took fright and the old gentleman was partially thrown from the buggy and becoming entangled in the gearing was dragged a considerable distance. When found life was extinct. Deceased was aged 70.

Found Dead in a Barn

EMBRO, Sept. 25.—Roderick McKay, a young man who lived on lot 32, con. 6, West Zorra, went out to the barn and did not return when expected. On search being made he was found quite dead.

THE MARKS OF THE STIGMATA.

A Young Catholic Woman Said to Have Them on Her Hands and Insteps.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 24.—Mrs. Mary Stuck, a young Catholic woman, is said to be affected, according to her confessor, Father Bath, with the blessed marks of the stigmata. The most noted instance of modern times is that of Louise Mary Lateau, a Belgian, who died in 1868.

The first manifestations appeared the latter part of May last. The first trance into which she entered, the first emission of blood from the five points described by the Bible in its history of the crucifixion, caused great alarm in her family. She remained in the trance four hours. Then appeared in the palms of her hands, on the insteps of her feet, and in her side, the marks of the crucifixion similar to those upon the body of Christ.

These spots are of a reddish color, something like what are known as birth marks. The edges are irregular and the skin not abnormal. The spots since their first appearance have been visible at all times, but only on Friday do the trance and bleeding recur.

Over eighty cases of stigmatization are recorded, although the marks in many instances were only partial. None was heard of until the 13th century, and that was the case of St. Francis of Assisi, who in 1224 had a vision of a seraph with six wings, between which appeared the image of a crucified one, and on recovering consciousness he found himself marked with the wounds of the crucifixion in his hands, feet and right side.

The case was attested by Thomas a Celano and Bonaventura, and although discredited by the Dominicans generally, was honored by authentication by Popes Gregory XIV and Alexander IV., the latter claiming to have himself seen the marks of the wounds.

The Capuchin nun Verona Guiliani, who died in 1727, was canonized in 1831 as the last person who bore these marks. But instances have occurred in our own time, notably that of Louise Mary Lateau.

Although many of the cases of stigmatization are well attested, it is certain that none have actually occurred. They are attributed generally to the action of the imagination on an enfeebled body, and certain Catholic writers of his time so attributed the stigmata of St. Francis, though that church at large has accepted the verdict of the Popes that they were evidences of "the special and wonderful favor vouchsafed to him in Christ."

Fining and Frothing Beer.

It is hard for the uninitiated to understand that the frothing of beer is a matter of any importance. That it is so considered, however, is shown by a recent patent. It appears that the preparation usually employed for imparting the froth or foam, the depth of which enters so largely into the calculation of the saloon keeper, is saponin, in the form of an infusion or extract of quillai bark; and such preparation is made according to the ordinary methods by first either concentrating an infusion of quillai bark by evaporation, so as to produce a strong liquid, or evaporating such infusion to a paste or dryness, and then adding various ingredients to preserve it and render it convenient in application. The object of the recent patent is to combine in one operation ingredients both for fining and frothing beer and other fermenting beverages, and thereby avoid the use of extraneous matters, and also the need for either concentrating or evaporating to a paste or dryness the infusion containing saponin used for producing the froth or foam.

The Use of Torpedoes.

There is just now a strong reaction against the use of torpedoes in England. Whatever may be the ultimate conclusion with regard to the merits of the torpedo in time of war, the recent manœuvres have demonstrated that the type now used in the English navy will have to be greatly improved before it can be regarded as formidable element in offensive warfare. It is not unlikely that English practice may be modified by the torpedo of American design and make which has during the past week passed most successfully a series of tests as to speed and efficiency, as already reported in The Dispatch. The inventor of this torpedo is understood to be about to exhibit its capabilities before the representatives of the principal European governments.

THUNDER IT DOWN THE AGES
ANTI DANDRUFF REMOVES DANDRUFF WITH THREE APPLICATIONS

TESTIMONIALS.

MONTREAL, Aug. 5th, 1891.
Four applications of Anti-Dandruff thoroughly cleansed my head from Dandruff. I have used it two months to promote the growth of hair and am fully satisfied that it is a success for that purpose.
F. P. MOFFATT,
Passenger Agent, Delaware & Hudson Railway.
Telephone No. 1176. Office, 143 St. James.

MONTREAL, Aug. 4th, 1891.
DR. L. A. SMITH & Co., Montreal, P.Q.
I take much pleasure in stating for the benefit of those who may be troubled with dandruff, that for the past five years I could not keep my hair clean of it until, six weeks ago, I began using your Anti-Dandruff and since the third application my hair has been entirely free from Dandruff and the scalp perfectly clean.
Truly yours, E. W. DOWLING,
Clerk at Windsor Hotel.

MONTREAL, 189
In my endorsement of Anti-Dandruff I can say something that I never could before, which is that this preparation is a perfect remover of Dandruff not only in the first stages but even where the plague has become chronic and has merged itself into a disease. Years of experience as a hair dresser, during which time I have experimented with every recommended preparation, not one has (nor, I might say, even all put together) given the satisfaction that Anti-Dandruff has. It positively removes dandruff. It stops falling of the hair. It cools the head. It makes an elegant hair dressing without leaving a trace of its use. I use it daily in my hair-dressing place at Balmoral Hotel, and have yet to find the first customer who was not pleased with it.
J. T. FONTAINE,
Proprietor Barber Shop Balmoral Hotel.

MISS MARY DELAUNAY, Housekeeper Balmoral Hotel, Montreal, P.Q., says:
I was for a long time very severely afflicted with Dandruff from which I could get no relief, in fact the remedies I tried seemed to aggravate the trouble. My hair began to fall and all the life was dying out of it, so that when cut the hairs would split open at the ends, the color was changing from a dark brown to a sickly looking whitish brown. A few applications of Anti-Dandruff produced a wonderful change, the Dandruff was entirely removed, the hair stopped falling out, splitting open at the ends ceased, and it was restored to its natural color.

Was the Devlin Drawing Contest a "Fake?"

There is much high talk about the Devlin drawing contest at the Central Exhibition, many claiming with hot words that it is not satisfactory. The way to settle the controversy is to try a drawing of hawley bro.'s pure teas—there will be no doubt about their being as guaranteed. dw

Acknowledged the Crime.

Charles Howsam, the young butcher arrested yesterday on a charge of cattle-lifting, was brought before P.M. Dumble last evening. The prisoner pleaded guilty and was remanded till Friday. The punishment for felony of this nature is from two to seven years in the penitentiary, though the magistrate has great scope in dealing out justice in any case. It will be a bad business for the young man, who has a married sister living in town and was himself generally regarded as an honest, industrious person. Howsam, it is said, was engaged to be married in a short time to a wealthy farmer's daughter near Woodstock. Perhaps it was his over-ardent zeal to thrive and appear well in her eyes and in his prospective father-in-law's, which led the young man into his predicament.

An Old Veteran Dead.

The following from the Toronto World refers to a gentleman who was well known here a few years ago:—"Information has been received in the city of the death of Captain T. O. Bridgewater, one of "The Noble Six hundred", at Clanricarde, a small place forty miles north of Peterborough. Formerly he lived in Euclid avenue, near Robinson street, Toronto, but his health failed and he went to Peterborough county, and for the last eighteen months has been in poor health. In former years he was a traveler for a wine merchant named Morrison, whose vaults were under the present building of the Canada Permanent in Toronto street. Captain Bridgewater originally enlisted in the 15th Hussars and volunteered to go to the Crimea. In the famous charge he received several wounds of a serious nature. He died in very humble circumstances, a subscription having been taken up for his burial."

The Coming Complimentary Concert.

The attention of the music-loving public is directed to the announcement of the grand complimentary concert to be given to Miss Louise Yokome, the clever young Peterborough violiniste, in Bradburn's Opera House, on Tuesday evening, Oct. 6th. The concert, being under the management of Mr. Cluxton, and presented by a fine array of talent, gives a guarantee that it will be one of the best amateur concerts ever given in Peterborough. Miss Yokome, the violiniste, possesses marked talent, and her contributions will reflect great credit upon both herself and Peterborough, whose leading citizens, by tendering her this concert, recognize her ability. Miss M. Trengloss Stevenson, of London, who is singing with great success almost nightly concerts in Western Ontario, will delight the most critical by her artistic and sympathetic singing; and her singing in duet with Mr. Dunn, the excellent baritone, will form one of the attractions of the evening; and the latter will give two of his sterling songs, besides. Mrs. W. J. Morrow is a brilliant pianiste, and will, in her numbers, fully sustain the high reputation she has won. Miss Strickland, with a rich mezzo-soprano, will be very highly appreciated. Mrs. Thos. Dunn, possesses that intuitive taste and executive ability as an accompaniste that enable her to give the best effects to the selections she accompanies. Mr. Fred Knowles, the rising young baritone, will give pleasing contributions to the programme. The Amateur Orchestra has been greatly strengthened and will give an introduction that will be highly appreciated. Peterborough, so enterprising in all other respects, should not be slow to recognise and encourage musical talent, and this concert should receive a full house, both on account of the intrinsic excellence of the entertainment it will afford and on account of the worthy object it aims at.

Fraternal Mystic Circle.

The adjourned meeting of the charter members of Peterborough Ruling, No. 279, Fraternal Mystic Circle, was held Thursday evening in the Foresters' hall, Simcoe street, W. R. Bro. Jos. McClelland in the chair. Although the evening for lodge work was exceptionally hot, yet a large number of the brethren was present and assisted in the work of the evening. This Ruling has met with phenomenal success in this town and already has some fifty of our most representative citizens down on its petition for charter. The following gentlemen were proposed and duly initiated into the mysteries of the F.M.C.: Messrs. Jos. Mills, D. Cameron, Geo. J. Early and W. W. Barnett. On motion of Bro. A. Parker, seconded by Bro W. Sailsbury, it was resolved that the charter stand open for two weeks longer and in the mean time a big effort be made to roll up the charter membership to a round hundred, and that the charter membership remain at the low fee as heretofore. It was also resolved that at the closing of the charter on the 8th prox. a banquet be held, and that if possible some of the grand officers of the Supreme Ruling, as well as some of the leading members of Toronto Ruling, be invited to be present at the closing of the charter. The Supreme Deputy, Bro. J. A. McMurty, Toronto, was again present with the brethren, and delivered one of his stirring speeches, in reference to friendly societies and the F. M. C. in particular. The Supreme Deputy again promised to return for the closing of the charter, and as it is the intention of the members of the F. M. C. to invite the members of friendly societies to this banquet. An opportunity will be given to have the supreme officers and other prominent members of the order advocate the lodge system of insurance, and the benefits offered by the F. M. C.

A Word to the Wise.

Reason and science admit that the irresistible craving for liquor, which causes a man to drink to excess, and makes of him an habitual drunkard, is a periodical disease.

The organic decomposition of regular food produces the heat and gases which form the natural stimulant of the human system. Whenever a new supply of this natural stimulant is needed hunger calls for it. But if the organism has been used to receive [illegible] stimulant [illegible] replaced, in some cases, almost completely—by an artificial one, when an uncontrollable thirst for alcohol calls for fresh supplies of the same, and takes the place of hunger.

Habit is a second nature—The organism which has been accustomed to the action of artificial stimulant, is placed in a state of suffering by the sudden cessation, or discontinuance of said action. This suffering is caused by the want and the privation of an artificial stimulant, which has not yet been replaced by the corresponding action of the additional portion of the natural stimulant.

These physiological laws were unknown to medical science until discovered by Dr. H. H. de Pettersen, who has based upon them another discovery, a god-send to humanity, his antidote for intemperance, known since 1878 under the name of the Father Matthew Remedy, which has proved an unfailing cure whenever used according to the directions, and which should now be found in the office of every physician who claims to keep pace with progress.

Just how an alternative medicine cleanses the system is an open question; but that Ayer's Sarsaparilla does produce a radical change in the blood is well attested on all sides. It is everywhere considered the best remedy for blood disorders.

Presbytery of Peterborough.

Last Meeting at Port Hope—Committees Appointed for the Year.

The Presbytery of Peterborough met in Port Hope on the 22nd inst. There were fifteen ministers and five elders present.

The clerk reported that Messrs. Burr, Lvery and Anderson had been duly elected as elders at Janetville, and Messrs. Dr. Allen, Wm Barn and Wm. Magill as trustees of church property.

The next meeting of the presbytery was appointed to be held in St. Pauls church, Peterborough, on the second Tuesday of January at 9 30 o'clock.

A Cavan Wedding.

Nuptials of Mr. Miller Murdock and Miss Mary Bothwell.

An interesting matrimonial event took place at the residence of Mr. John Bothwell sr., near Springville, a prominent and well respected resident of this township, on Wednesday, Sept. 16th. This was the marriage of his daughter, Mary, to Mr. Miller Murdock, a leading solicitor in Washington State, formerly of Lindsay. The ceremony was performed at Mr. Bothwell's residence, in the presence of the immediate friends of the contracting parties by Rev. Mr. Anderson of Lindsay. The duties of bridesmaid were performed by Miss Lizzie Anderson, daughter of Alex. Anderson, Esq., South Monaghan, and Mr. Hunt of Lindsay supported the groom. The high respect in which the bride is held was shown by the large array of elegant and costly presents of which she was the recipient. After an elaborate wedding breakfast, the happy couple took train for Lindsay whence they departed en route by the C. P. R. via British Columbia, to there future home in Washington state, to which the good wishes of hosts of friends for a happy wedded life, follow them.

Gold in Belmont

Mr. A. W. Carscallen and Capt. O'Neill, of Marmora, have, the Register is informed, struck gold in paying quantities on lot 20, con. 1, Belmont, and are actively engaged in mining operations. Two shafts have been sunk and about sixteen men are employed. The property was purchased only a week or so ago from the township authorities for $25, so that if the precious metal is found to be plentiful as the work advances, it will be a cheap gold mine. The shafts have been sunk right on the road between lots 20 and 21. Between the C.P.R., the railroad just started, and the mining operations just going on, Belmont will soon be the peer of any of its sister municipalities.

Grief and Suffering in Our Canadian Homes.

It is said that "grief counts the seconds, and happiness forgets the hours." "Grief" may mean a bitter sorrow for the loss of dear relatives or friends, or grieving for those who are laid low owing to sickness. "Grief" may burden the heart of man and woman when he or she is filled with remorse on account of duties neglected, opportunities lost, or when the hand of suffering is laid heavily on them. In all such cases, and under all such difficulties, does "grief" count the seconds of a time that hangs heavily and oppressively.

In thousands of our Canadian homes "grief" is caused owing to the immense amount of suffering and disease prevalent, but in a large measure unknown to the public and our practicing physicians. In the majority of cases it is silent grief hidden in the depths of the heart, but plainly visible on the countenance; and the visitor or friend of such families, who possesses ordinary intelligence and quickness of perception, can easily detect the symptoms and diagnose the disease.

The majority of such sufferers are victims of nervousness, sleeplessness, headache irritability, lassitude, melancholia, morbidness, neuralgia, dyspepsia and indigestion, brought on by overwork, rush and bustle of business and social position, careless living, excesses, improper dieting, and scores of other causes which tend to increase and propagate human suffering. Many of these sufferers are harboring the impression that nature will work a cure in its own good time; others are using remedies which can only aggravate their sufferings and intensify pain.

It is acknowledged by the medical profession that the great cerebro-spinal system must be toned and strengthened, or, in other words, the brain and nerves must be fed and nourished. The great agent—the proper food to accomplish this desired end is Paine's Celery Compound, which clears the brain, braces the nerves, builds up the flesh and muscle, gives a glow of health to the cheeks, creates bright and sparkling eyes, and gives a strength and elasticity to the step never before possessed. It is then that true joy and pleasure can be felt, and life made worth living.

Paine's Celery Compound brings light out of darkness and suffering, and gives a fresh lease of life, enabling all to drink deeply from those true springs of earthly pleasures that forget the passing hours. The most reliable and strongest testimonials from all parts of Canada prove conclusively that this great remedy is far removed from all the poor and deceitful preparations of the day, and is ranked by the ablest physicians as one of their truest and most important medicines. Give it a trial at once ye who are broken down in body and sore at heart, and ye shall rejoice with joy unspeakable.

Peterborough Canoes Were There.

The Montreal Witness says:—Two large tents, situated between the Industrial and Carriage Buildings, at the Montreal Exposition, contain the very interesting exhibit of the Montreal Canoe and Boat Agency, Walter H. Cottingham, proprietor. The fine display consists of boats built by H. L. Bastien, Hamilton, Ont., Thomas Rickey Kingston, Ont., John Cockburn, Pembroke, Ont., and of boats and canoes built by Day Bros, Ottawa, Ontario Canoe Co. (L't'd.) Peterborough, Ont., N. Sauve, Brockville, Ont., Wm. English, Canoe Co., Peterborough, Ont., Herald Bros., Gore's Landing, Ont. Also canoes built by Thomas Gordon, Lakefield, Ont. An especially handsome and unique piece of work in butternut is a "war canoe" made by the Wm. English Canoe Co., Peterborough, Ont. It is 30 feet long, 50 inches broad, is beautifully finished, and will seat fifteen persons. There is also a couple of very fine racing models made by the same manufacturers; these are about 35 pounds weight, of cedar, and the regulation size, and "decked sailing canoes" with a couple of sails, centre board and steering gear complete. One of these has been sold. A large, grand looking, beautifully and fancifully finished, and richly upholstered family row boat, which has taken two first class prizes, one at Ottawa and one at Pembroke, Ont., is very much admired, and will no doubt sell readily. Herald Bros'. paddling canoes are extremely nice and very popular, having won most of the races at Lachine. All of the above, and many more which have not been mentioned, will be on sale at Mr. Walter H. Cottingham's warehouse, 56 St. Peter street, after the exposition is over.

Dyspepsia

Few people have suffered more severely from dyspepsia than Mr. E. A. McMahon, a well known grocer of Staunton, Va. He says: "Before 1878 I was in excellent health, weighing over 200 pounds. In that year an ailment developed into acute dyspepsia, and soon I was reduced to 162 pounds, suffering burning sensations in the stomach, palpitation of the heart, nausea, and indigestion. I could not sleep, lost all heart in my work, had fits of melancholia, and for days at a time I would have welcomed death. I became morose, sullen and irritable, and for eight years life was a burden. I tried many physicians and many remedies. One day a workman employed by me suggested that I take Hood's Sarsaparilla, as it had cured his wife of dyspepsia. I did so, and before taking the whole of a bottle I began to feel like a new man. The terrible pains to which I had been subjected, ceased, the palpitation of the heart subsided, my stomach became easier, nausea disappeared, and my entire system began to tone up. With returning strength came activity of mind and body. Before the fifth bottle was taken I had regained my former weight and natural condition. I am today well and I ascribe it to taking Hood's Sarsaparilla."

Scratched 28 Years

A Scaly, Itching, Skin Disease With Endless Suffering Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

If I had known of the CUTICURA REMEDIES twenty-eight years ago, it would have saved me $200.00 and an immense amount of suffering. My disease (psoriasis) commenced on my head in a spot not larger than a cent. It spread rapidly all over my body, and got under my nails. The scales would drop off of me all the time, and my suffering was endless and without relief. One thousand dollars would not tempt me to have this disease over again. I am a poor man, but feel rich to be relieved of what some of the doctors said was leprosy, some ringworm, psoriasis, etc. I cannot praise the CUTICURA REMEDIES too much. They have made my skin as clear and free from scales as a baby's. All I used of them was $5 worth. If you had been here and said you would have cured me for $200.00, you would have had the money. I looked like the picture (No. 2, page 47) in your book, "How to Cure Skin Diseases," but now I am as clear as any person ever was. Through force of habit I rub my hands over my arms and legs to scratch once in a while, but to no purpose. I am all well. I scratched twenty-eight years, and it got to be a kind of second nature to me. I thank you a thousand times.

DENNIS DOWNING, Waterbury, Vt.

ROCK SALT.

The undersigned having been appointed Sole Agent for the celebrated "Retsof Rock Salt," Farmers, Horsemen, and all parties requiring Rock Salt for any purpose, should call and examine this Salt, as it is superior in quality and cheaper in price than any salt on the market. Prof. Robertson, of the Agriculture College, Guelph, says:—"Dairy cattle should have free access to salt every day, and the purer the salt the better the results. The Retsof Salt being over 99½ per cent. of pure salt, it is undoubtedly the best for dairy men to use.

BRITISH AND FOREIGN. "VIVA LA CZAR" THE CRY

NEW GERMAN FIELD MARSHAL APPOINTED.

Another English Divorce Case India Becoming Alarmed Over the Russian Encroachments in Afghanistan—Gladstone Spoiling for a Fight

PARIS, Sept. 28. Foreign Minister Ribot at Bapaume Saturday unveiled a statue of Gen Faidherbe. After paying a tribute to the military virtues of the General as an example to the army he traced the phases of the republic since the foundation and said: "Henceforth she is the mistress of her own destinies. Her position has been consolidated through adhesion to the principle of prudence and moderation. Europe, whose attitude was for some time uncertain, has at length rendered France justice. A sovereign far-sighted in pacific designs and as firm as France has publicly manifested the deep sympathies uniting the two countries [Cries of "Vive la Czar" "Vive la Russia!"] and the Russian nation has joined the Czar in extending cordial friendship to France. You know how well those sentiments are reciprocated. The Kronstadt incident found an echo in the smallest of our hamlets as much as in our Government speeches. Nevertheless they have not caused us to forget what went before and what followed. Our hearts have been touched by the sentiments of friendship extended to the French sailors. Wherever they went they found France respected, as was seen in the demonstrations in their honor in Denmark and Sweden and finally Portsmouth, where Queen Victoria received them in person, and accorded them an imposing and courteous welcome. These events have made an impression on the whole world that will not be effaced. France has felt that she is becoming herself in re-entering the European equilibrium, as an indispensable factor affording an additional guarantee of peace. From this state of things a new situation has sprung; but it does not mean a new policy. It is not a moment when we are in a position to cultivate peace with dignity we shall expose ourselves in making a compromise. France, conscious of her strength, is confident in the future and will continue to show qualities of prudence and sang froid, whereby she has gained the esteem of other people. [Cheers.]

At a subsequent banquet M. Ribot in alluding to the entente with Russia, said that the Government had completed a work begun by its predecessors upon a point of the highest importance to the future destinies of France effecting a change in the position which the nation occupied in Europe. [Shouts of "Vive Ribot"] It was a great honor to the minister to have shared in such events and to have paved the way for them in accord with Parliament and public opinion. "The time for the collaboration of the chambers and the Government," he added, "is approaching. Whatever happens we have the knowledge that we have worked well and placed ourselves heart and soul at the service of the Republic." [Prolonged cheers.]

Horrible Crime Perpetrated by Boys

LONDON, Sept. 28. The story of the two Liverpool boy murderers, as detailed at the inquest on the body of their little victim, surpasses in peculiar horror that of any deed in the annals of English crime. The boy Shearon, 9 years of age, having been deprived of his clothes as a punishment for truancy, got hold of a piece of sacking with which he covered his nakedness and then left his home. Having met Crawford, an equally vicious youth of 8 years, the two decided to entice away the first decently dressed lad they could find and rob him of his clothes. They met the lad Eeles, 8 years of age, and induced him to go with them and play on some rafts floating on the surface of a body of water contained in an excavation. Shearon and Crawford delayed their murderous work until other lads playing on the water had left the scene. They then pushed Eeles into the water, the depth of which was 12 feet. Finding it awkward to get at his clothes they helped him out, stripped him, and then pushed him in again. As the victim struggled a great deal he was helped out again and was then taken to a higher part of the adjacent masonry and flung over a third time. The murderers afterward stamped upon his body and watched two hours to see if he moved. They then divided the spoils.

The Spanish Railway Wreck.

MADRID, Sept. 28. The Minister of Justice in an interview to-day said that the enquiry into the recent railway disaster would mark an epoch in railway history and would be conducted with the utmost vigor with the view of fixing the criminal responsibility of the employes and enforcing with unsparing severity the full civil responsibility of the company. A former Minister of the Interior, Senor Candelejas, who was a passenger on the express, says that when his Government ordered the use of pneumatic brakes all the companies appealed and got the decree rescinded.

Smoke, steam and flames issued from the mass of debris for two hours after the collision. A band of toreros on the slow train rendered great assistance in rescuing injured passengers. Their bulls were killed. Three railway officials have been arrested.

An Earthquake in Illinois.

DECATUR, Ill., Sept. 28.—An earthquake shock was felt here at 11 o'clock Saturday night. There were four distinct shocks, and buildings were visibly affected. The shocks were felt at Jacksonville, St. Louis, Mount Vernon, Peoria and other points.

Woman Killed While Logging.

DRESDEN, Sept. 28.—Mrs. Bridal, living near Keith, was assisting her husband at logging on the farm Saturday, when a limb attached to a moving log struck her in the stomach, inflicting injuries from which she died in a couple of hours.

An Anchor Liner Damaged

NEW YORK, Sept. 28. The Anchor line steamer Circassian returned here to-day with a large hole in her starboard bow, having collided Saturday night with the schooner Daylight from Boston for Philadelphia. The collision was due to a misunderstanding in the lights displayed on the schooner. The latter sustained slight damage and proceeded on her journey.

FRANCE IS MISTRESS OF HER OWN DESTINIES.

Says Foreign Minister Ribot Referring to the Nation's Prudence and Moderation During the Past Twenty Years—A Statute to a Dead General.

BERLIN, Sept. 28. Emperor William has appointed the Grand Duke of Hesse-Darmstadt a general of infantry and a field marshal of the Empire.

SKETCH OF THE GRAND DUKE.

The Grand Duke of Hesse Darmstadt is Louis IV. Frederick William Louis Charles, K.G. He is the eldest son of Prince Charles William Louis of Hesse Darmstadt by a cousin of the King of Prussia. He was born Sept. 12, 1837. He married the Princess Alice, second daughter of Queen Victoria, on July 1, 1862, when an allowance of $30,000 a year was settled on the bride-elect, together with $150,000 as a dowry. The Queen granted him the prefix of "His Royal Highness" and created him a Knight of the Garter. He succeeded to the Grand Duchy on the death of his uncle Louis III., June 13, 1877. In the following year the Princess Alice died. A few years later he contracted a morganatic marriage with Mme. Kolomine, but after a short time he divorced her. The Grand Duke has had seven children. His alliance with and divorce from Mme. Kolomine caused considerable talk and gave rise to much scandal.

UNFAITHFUL LADY BLANCHE.

Capt. Hozier, Her Husband, Determined to be Rid of Her

LONDON, Sept. 28. Capt. Henry M. Hozier, secretary of Lloyds, is again having trouble with his wife, Lady Blanche Ogilvy, sister of the Earl of Airlie. Last spring he entered a petition for divorce, naming Mr. Ellis Ashmead Bartlett as co-respondent. The case was settled out of court through the good offices of Mr. Labouchere, on the payment of £5000 to Capt. Hozier, which money was furnished by the Baroness Burdett Coutts, sister-in-law of Ellis Ashmead Bartlett, and the promise of amendment on the part of Lady Blanche.

Lately the captain has had reason to suspect that his wife had not kept her promise. Both have lived apart since the settlement, but the captain has maintained a sharp watch upon Lady Blanche, and believes he has good grounds for an action for divorce, which he has brought in Edinburgh, where it is probable the case will be heard in camera.

Arthur Stanley Wilson Engaged.

LONDON, Sept. 28. Arthur Stanley Wilson, the son of Arthur Wilson of baccarat fame and of the Wilson line of steamers, is engaged to marry the eldest daughter of Lady Filmer, Miss Alice Cecil Agnes Filmer. The Filmer estate, East Sutton Park, Staplehurst, Kent, is one of the oldest in that county. One Miss Filmer was the favorite maid of honor of Queen Elizabeth. The Filmer mansion is rich in ancient carving, rare tapestry and pictures, though the family is not wealthy. Sir Robert Marcus Filmer, Bart., the brother of Miss Filmer, is not yet 14 years of age, and succeeded to the title on the death of his father on Dec 17, 1886.

Gladstone Spoiling For a Fight.

LONDON, Sept 28. Mr. Gladstone is in Scotland just now, a guest in the family home at Fasque, Kincardineshire. On the eve of completing his 82nd year, he starts forth cheerily to catch the night mail for the north. This visit to Scotland is a little expedition on the way to Newcastle-on-Tyne, where this week he will meet the delegates of the Liberal party gathered from all the ends of the Kingdom, and is expected to make a great speech. He is in bounding health and is spoiling for a fight.

Russia and Afganistan

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept 28. Letters from Nijni Novgorod merchants state that Afghanistan has been opened by the Ameer to free commercial intercourse with Russia. The concession is said to have been made in consideration of the excellent quality of Russian products, but is really due to Russian adroitness and to valuable gifts sent from the Czar.

Roumanian Government Alarmed

VIENNA, Sept. 28. Russian troops are practicising forced night marches and other night manoeuvres across the river Pruth, on the Roumanian frontier, with the aid of electric lights. The Roumanian Government has become alarmed at these warlike demonstrations, consequently it has concentrated troops on its frontier and has ordered a force of Roumanian cavalry to Upper Moldavia.

Russian Protectorate Over Persia.

LONDON, Sept. 28. The commercial treaty now being negotiated between Russia and Persia will provide for the relegation of the duty of representing the two countries abroad to a single representative. This implies a Russian protectorate over Persia.

Anxiety in India.

CALCUTTA, Sept. 28.—Much anxiety is felt in regard to Russia's movements in Pamir. It is rumored Lieut. Davis, a colleague of Capt. Younghusband, has been taken prisoner.

Trouble in the Sahara

GIBRALTAR, Sept. 28.—H.M.S. Goshawk, a gun-boat commanded by Commander Edward P. Chapman, has been dispatched to Port Juby, on the west coast of Sahara, opposite Fuerteventura, one of the Canary Islands, where the Moors have rebelled and threaten to destroy a factory owned and operated by British subjects.

A Baby Burned to Death

TORONTO, Sept. 28.—A 3 year old boy named Douglas Ford, whose parents live at 176 King-street west, was fatally burned yesterday morning. He, with an elder brother, entered a vacant store at 174 King street west, and while playing with matches set his clothing on fire. He was terribly burned and was taken to the hospital where he died shortly after noon.

Cracksmen at Brandon Blow Open a Safe, But Miss $45,000—Editor Moyer of The Berlin News Publicly Horsewhipped—Fire at Montreal

BERLIN, Sept. 28.—An exciting encounter, which was the cause of a good deal of merriment to persons who witnessed it, took place in Queen-street near The Daily News office Saturday afternoon. The News, which is edited and published by Mr. Peter Moyer, has been attacking Mr. D. McDougall, ex-registrar of the county, for some 16 months past in a series of articles on his management of the registry offices and his conduct generally as registrar. The News of last evening contained another of these attacks, which the ex-registrar evidently decided to resent by corporal punishment. While in Queen-street near The News office, Mr. McDougall, who was armed with a horsewhip, met Mr. Moyer and lashed him sharply with the whip over the head and shoulders. Mr. Moyer sought refuge in Groff & Co.'s store near by, leaving his hat and spectacles on the field of combat. Mr. McDougall endeavored to follow the retreating editor, but the door was closed against him. He then challenged Mr. Moyer to come out and he would finish the castigation, but the latter did not accept the invitation. After a time, thinking the coast was clear, Mr. Moyer came out to recover his hat and spectacles, but was again met by Mr. McDougall, who was waiting in a doorway next to The News office and again retreated under the swinging horse whip. At this stage the chief of police appeared to prevent any further hostilities. No blood was spilt but the affair created a great deal of excitement.

HOW SAD THEY MUST FEEL.

Cracksmen at Brandon Tackle the Wrong Safe, $100 Instead of $45,000

BRANDON, Man., Sept. 28. At Brandon early yesterday morning two safe crackers entered the Northern Pacific depot here, blew the door off the safe and then helped themselves to the contents, $100. Concussion broke most of the panes in the depot windows and stopped the clock. The robbers evidently were after bigger game, but tackled the wrong safe, as in a smaller safe near the one blown open was $45,000 which had been received the day previous.

Caught in the Act.

BLYTH, Ont., Sept. 28.—About 1.30 a.m. yesterday three crooks attempted to burglarize F. Metcalfe's jewelry store. Constable Davis caught them in the act of forcing the front door. The trio appeared before Magistrates Young and Hamilton this morning and gave their names as James Roberts, Goderich; Thomas Morris, Windsor, and George Taylor, Hamilton.

FATAL COAL OIL.

Another Death Probable from Kindling a Fire with Kerosene.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 28. A young woman named Maggie McMillan, visiting at G. W. Hutchinson's ranch, Springbank, Alberta, was terribly burned on Friday while starting a fire with coal oil. The result was an explosion, in which Miss McMillan was badly burned about the limbs and abdomen. She will die.

SHOT HIS BROTHER DEAD.

A 13-Year-Old Lad's Fatal Handling of a Rifle.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 28. The 13-year-old son of Mr. Clemont, a Union Point farmer, was playing with a gun in a field yesterday during his father's absence. The gun accidentally discharged and instantly killed his brother, aged 5, the charge going through his heart.

Suicide of a Prominent Resident of Sherbrooke While Insane.

SHERBROOKE, Que., Sept. 28. The body of Mr. Robert H. Tylee, who had disappeared from his home last evening about 7.30, was found this morning in the St. Francis in three feet of water face downwards, only three feet from the shore. This was the spot where he was accustomed to go bathing. The coroner's jury found a verdict of suicide while in an unsound state of mind. Mr. Tylee was 37 years of age, of English descent. He has for some time been the warden of Sherbrooke County, a director of the Eastern Townships Agricultural Association and the bursar of Bishop's College.

A Hamilton Woman's Attempt.

HAMILTON, Sept. 28. Louisa DeGear, a young married woman, Saturday took a dose of oil of tansy. Her mother, Mrs. King, with whom she lives, noticed the girl's sickness shortly after the latter had taken the drug and she was sent to the hospital. Mrs DeGear denies that she tried to commit suicide. She is only 19 years of age and was married to William DeGear about a year ago. The couple lived together one month and then separated.

Three Alarms for One Fire.

MONTREAL, Sept. 28.—The firemen were called out no less than three times, once last night and twice this morning, for a fire in Waters Bros.' printing establishment in Craig street, near Victoria-square. Firemen Harry King and R. Wounett fell into the elevator shaft, which had been left open, and fell down several storeys. King received a fearful gash in the face and Wounett had his arm badly sprained.

Escaped Convict Recaptured.

OTTAWA, Sept. 2 . It is generally understood that, unless something unforeseen occurs, the prorogation of Parliament will take place on Wednesday, when the House will have sat just five months and one day. It has been decided that the members of both Houses are to get $500 apiece as extra indemnity for the long session.

A Newspaper Man's Death.

HAMILTON, Sept. 28.—A dispatch was received here to-day announcing the death of James Doherty, formerly reporter on The Spectator staff and for some time special correspondent of The Toronto Empire. Mr. Doherty was troubled with lung disease and went to Denver, Colorado, to be treated.

Coughed Himself to Death.

HAMILTON, Sept., 28. Mr. T. D. Boyes, employed on the G.T.R. here as collector, died very suddenly at his residence, 81 Murray-street east this morning. Mr. Boyes was well and hearty at 7 o'clock this morning. A few minutes later he began to cough badly and his exertions burst a blood vessel in his head.

THE ODDFELLOWS.

The Grand Lodge Settles Some Important Questions at Its Meeting.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 28. In the Sovereign Grand Lodge, I.O.O.F., last night a motion to hold biennial instead of annual sessions was lost. The proposition to extend the insurance clause to the Patriarchs Militant branch of the order was also rejected. It was decided to allow the lodges to use the widows' and orphans' fund for the erection of an orphans' home, and to allow all lodges to make weekly payments to all members, the minimum payment to be $2 per week. The I.O.O.F. building and loan associations were given a cold shoulder by the lodge and it was determined to deny the use of all emblems of the order to promoters of such enterprises.

The Platform Collapsed

GHENT, Sept. 28.—An accident resulting in the killing of several persons and the injuring of many others occurred at a charity fete held here to-day. A platform erected for the occasion became overcrowded, and the manager and a number of workmen went underneath to make an examination. Suddenly the platform collapsed. The men underneath were crushed to death and many who were on the platform had arms or legs broken.

A MISERLY PRINCE.

Frugality of the Late Prince Jussupoff, the Richest Man in Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 28.—Among the richest men in Russia was Prince Nicholas Jussupoff, who died a few days ago. Although the possessor of numerous palaces and estates, his niggardliness was proverbial and absurd. There is no record that he gave a single rouble of his vast fortune to charitable institutions during his long, eventful life, or that any person, save his son-in-law, is much happier because he had lived. He was the last male representative of an ancient family of the district of the Don. His grandfather, Russian Ambassador at many courts, was an art enthusiast as well, and established a museum in St. Petersburg, filled with copies of the works of Raphael and other masters of famous schools. He was a man of culture and an intimate friend of Voltaire, Diderot and D'Alembert. Many of his talents, indeed, as well as his wealth, descended to his eccentric grandson.

The tall, bent figure of the late Prince, clad in shabby clothes, was daily to be seen in the streets of the capital. He preferred to walk, as the maintenance of carriages and coachmen was expensive. He complained continually of the lack of money. Despite his peculiarities, however, the Czar appointed him Master of Ceremonies and treated him with great distinction. As soon as his visitors departed, however, he restored the economic regime which made life so unpleasant for his daughter and household.

Jussupoff's appearance and clothing made him the hero of many unpleasant adventures. A few years ago while walking in the Park of Baden Baden the late Empress Augusta met an old man with melancholy features and dirty clothes. She approached the bench upon which the unfortunate creature sat with bowed head and placed a gold piece in the long, bony hand. The touch of the coin induced the man to raise his head, and the Empress of Germany, to her surprise and chagrin, discovered that she had given alms to Russia's richest son.

A GHASTLY FUNERAL.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 28.—The death of the man who calls himself the rightful head of the Christian church universal is rare, because advancing age commonly gives the incumbent of the Greek Patriarchal chair time to resign before the fatal hour. Hence the funeral of the Patriarch Dionysius called together an enormous concourse of people. Along the whole line of four or five miles traversed by the procession, the streets were packed with men, women and children who might never have an opportunity to see this pageant again. Turkish troops formed the escort of the procession, but were not used to protect it from the mob of Greek sight-seers. It had hardly left the Patriarchal Church at the Fanar when its orderly structure was annihilated by the rush of the rabble bent on seeing the awful thing which the priests had brought out of the church. It was nothing that prince and shoemaker, bishop and boatman, diplomat in cocked hat and pacha in massive gold embroidery struggled together and with the pall-bearers for the right of way. The awful thing, the haunting horror of the spectacle, was the ostentatious parade of the decaying corpse of the white-haired old man, crowned with gold, bedecked with ecclesiastical finery, tied, like a criminal who has been executed by electricity, into a chair, with head left to hang nodding on one side, with one hand held aloft by strings in grim caricature of the attitude of benediction, and with attendants spraying perfumery over the ghastly thing in order to conceal its odor. As if this was not enough, when after several hours of such exposure in the streets the corpse reached the place of sepulture, proceedings were stopped in order that the robes of the defunct might be saved. The poor dead patriarch was thoroughly stripped of his garments. Dressed in a bare white shroud he was seated on a stone in the corner of his last resting place and the place was closed up. Then at length the men who had taken such liberties with his body retired, satisfied with their last homage to their spiritual head.

A NEGRO RIOT.

An Alarming State of Affairs in the Cotton Belt of Arkansas.

MARIANNA, Ark., Sept. 28. Forty armed negroes have appeared in St. Francis township, and have driven all the cotton-pickers from the fields and burned Mr. Bond's gin-house. They threaten to drive all the pickers out and burn all gin houses. The sheriff is on the ground with writs for the leaders. Another posse left Marianna this morning by his orders. Much excitement prevails as a majority of the marauding band is composed of non-residents and the authorities anticipate serious trouble.

Reports received from Marianna say the trouble between cotton pickers near there culminated in a riot yesterday resulting in several negroes being killed and a number wounded. The sheriff of the county quelled the disturbance and has the leader in custody.

The rioting grew out of a strike inaugurated by a number of pickers, who demanded 75c per hundred pounds, an increase of 25 cents. The planters refused their demands. The dissatisfied negroes at once struck and their places were immediately filled by others. The strikers became angered at these proceedings and prevailed on the working negroes to quit. Being refused a general fight ensued—women, men and children participating with hoes, sticks, knives and revolvers. It is reported that two were killed outright.

MILLINERY AND MANTLE DISPLAY AT TURNBULL'S

On Tuesday and Wednesday, the 22nd and 23rd Sept.

Our Millinery Showrooms will be open for the Fall Trade, when all the new fall patterns will be on display. As there is considerable change in the styles this season, ladies may expect to see novelties with us. We will also show an extensive range of Pattern Mantles, and keep a well selected stock of Cloths and Trimmings, so that ladies preferring to leave their order for anything in the Mantle Line will find everything desirable with us.

Our stock of Dress Goods is now complete. We are showing some novelties in Camel's Hair Cloths, Polka-dot and Check Robes, Cheviot Cloths and Fancy Serges. MISS MERCIER, our dressmaker, has returned from a trip to Rochester, Buffalo and Toronto, and is well posted on all the latest styles. We feel we owe an apology to some of our customers for the unpardonable time their dresses were kept before made in the past, but, as with any first-class dressmaker, Miss Mercier got overcrowded. We have made a rule not to take any orders but what can be filled in a reasonable time, so that this will be avoided in the future.

Our stock of Men's Suitings and Overcoatings are well bought and cheaper than ever. We claim to be the best house in town for Ordered Clothing.

Arrived to-day, seven shades of Ladies' Diagonal Suitings (wide) at 15c.; three-quarter Table Napkins, 100 doz.; all the leading makes of Corsets at the lowest prices in the trade.

Prof. Robertson's Exhibition Address.

Much Ground Covered—Matters of Interest to Farmers and Agricultural Operations Discussed.

At the Peterborough Central Exhibition, as mentioned in the EXAMINER before, Prof. Robertson, Dominion Dairy Commissioner delivered a splendid address to the farmers, which we have not had space to deal with before. Below is a full summary of Prof. Robertson's admirable address:

He said that while he was delighted at the opportunity to revisit Peterborough, he had an aversion to speech-making, especially to making a speech in the open air. Before it was over he supposed he would feel as did the young lady whose remark he overheard as he was on the station platform leaving Ottawa. A young man was standing close to her prepartory to bidding her good-bye. Apparently he was begging the favor of something, when the lady snapped out: "No, I won't; my mouth's all worn out now."

PETERBOROUGH IS FORTUNATE.

Peterborough, he said, was unfortunate in its situation, being surrounded and supported by an excellent farming country. Its growth, as a town, has been healthy, steady and substantial. As it had no "boom" it would escape the after calamities which always follow that experience. Many places, in civic affairs, apply a parody of Tennyson's couplet on love, "'Tis better to be boomed and bust than never to be boomed at all." The press of Peterborough—like other newspapers—sometimes indulge the luxury of making comments upon each other in moments of mental aberration that were not strictly complimentary, but they all and always wrote up Peterborough. The Central Fair was an evidence of the enterprise, the persistent enterprise, of the agricultural socities. All over the Dominion the agricultural societies owed their success to the efforts of men of public spirit, who do not shrink from personal inconvenience, and who contributed time, money and enthusiasm. The tendency was for all-absorbing proclivities of the larger places to take in and extinguish the agricultural shows of the smaller places. The country school-houses are needed as well as the universities. Likewise the smaller exhibitions have their own educational value. The main uses and value of a fair arise from

for the masses of the people. The line should be drawn there. The show grounds furnish a great object lesson to all, to stimulate to greater activity in their own spheres of life. The enthusiasm which they engender among farmers is most helpful. From the nature of his calling the farmer is apt to become jealous and suspicious of the prosperity of other classes. That feeling hinders his own success. By seeing how other farmers succeed in stock and grain, and other branches, he is inspired with more confidence in himself. Confidence and hope in oneself and country are the best part of national capital. The development of the country must be, through the growth and extension of towns, as well as the cultivation and improvement of the agricultural areas. Farmers are better off than they used to be, and therefore require a larger city population to furnish the articles, conveniences and service which they wish. Boys did not generally leave the farms when the hard tasks of clearing land were on hand. But when the snug conveniences of modern life became general more workers were needed in town and cities, and the country lads responded. There had been a good deal of maudlin lamentation of late about the growth of towns and cities exceeding that of the rural districts. The town and city growth are neither alarming nor regrettable. They are the inevitable consequence of farmers and their families wearing more and better clothes, living in larger and better furnished houses, and using more of all the necessaries, devices and appliances which minister to physical and mental enjoyment. If the interests of towns and townsmen be not quite identical with those of the rural populace, they are at least harmonious and not antagonistic. The welfare of both classes is

MUTUALLY DEPENDENT ON EACH OTHER.

The Dominion experimental farms are also seeking for the uplifting of the farming community. The range of their usefulness is being enlarged every year. Central Ontario has had the reputation for many years of leading the continent of America in the excellence of its live stock. At the Central Experimental farm, Ottawa, experiments have been conducted to demonstrate the cheapest methods of feeding cattle. Fodder, corn and corn ensilage have proven the most economical. In one case a mixture of corn ensilage and meal, costing 11c. per head per day, gave better results in fattening steers than a mixture of hay, roots and meal, which cost 19c. per head per day. In dairy products the Peterborough district has won an excellent reputation during recent years. A few years ago Peterborough cheese sold from ½ to 1c. per lb. less than those of western Ontario. Now the prices are sometimes in favor of Peterborough. In the growing of grain the distribution of new varieties under the charge of Prof. Sanders has been WORKING MARVELLOUS IMPROVEMENTS.

In going through the exhibition some excellent cattle were observed. The two rowed barley was good, and the display of fancy work in the ladies' department was particularly fine. Peterborough is not behind the rest of Ontario in the culture of the fine arts and all that ameliorates life's toils and struggles and gives zest, brightness and sweetness to its achievements. The best display on the ground was the hearty good nature of the people. In alluding briefly to the prospects for agriculture, Prof. Robertson said that the indications were that the times of agriculture depression are over. The available area, whence to draw the world's supply of food, is mostly occupied except in our own fertile plains and prairies of the North-West. The population goes on steadily increasing. More workers are annually needed to furnish other things which we have come to look upon as being as necessary as food

The low prices of farm products during recent years have, in a large measure, been attributable to the bringing under cultivation of so much additional land in the United States. The area under cultivation there is stated to have increased 32 per cent. between 1871 and 1875; between 1875 and 1880 the increase was 24 per cent.; during the following five years the increase was 19.4 per cent; while during the last five years, 1885-90, the increase was only seven per cent. There is now practically no available and unoccupied grain growing land in the United States. Hence the probability is that the farmers will have better prices and better times during the coming years.

THE FARMERS OF CANADA

should never depend on governments to legislate good times. Painstaking attention to their business will enable them to prosper. The real basis for national prosperity, the sound national policy of the people for the people, is the persevering application of industry with skill, joined to the practising of economical frugality with fair dealing. These, with the blessing of Providence in favorable weather, will provide and ensure lasting prosperity. More attention must be paid to stock raising, to winter dairying and to cheapened production. One farmer near Ottawa had increased the yield of his cows in butter from 78 lbs. per head in 1888 to 203½ lbs. per head in 1890. The value of exports of agricultural products from the crops and stock of 1891 will reach probably $40,000,000. If everybody would try his best to cheapen production and to enlarge production like the farmer in the case cited, the value of exports of agricultural products might reach $100,000,000 within ten years. The employment of machinery to multiply all sorts of things that minister to human comfort and happiness should make the lot of farmers and others better than in the good old times. An effort all along the line should be made to improve the methods of farming, and particular attention should be paid to increasing the production and shipments of beef, butter, cheese and bacon. From Prince Edward Island to British Columbia the Dominion this year enjoys the bountiful blessing of abundant harvests. "May next year's exhibition enable us to look back upon the crop and financial condition of the farmers as even better than they are in 1891." (Applause.)

It is education that makes all the difference between the men who dig in the ditch and the man who bosses the job. It is the superior qualities of Ayer's Sarsaparilla that give it its acknowledged pre-eminence over all other blood-purifiers.

From the Jaws of Death.

Some surprising effects have been recorded from the use of Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil in the most desperate cases of consumption. When all other remedies have failed Miller's Emulsion nearly always succeeds. It is the best kind of flesh and blood maker, and has been used with marked success by the physicians in the Insane Asylum, Penitentiary, Hotel Dieu, and General Hospital in Kingston, Ont. In big bottles, 50c. and $1 at Peterborough drug stores. dw

To be free from sick headache, biliousness, constipation, etc., use Carter's Little Liver Pills. Strictly vegetable. They gently stimulate the liver and free the stomach from bile. dw

A Spring Medicine.

There are few who do not at this season feel the need of a spring medicine, and to all such we recommend Lane's Family Medicine as the best. This is a pleasant herb drink made by pouring boiling water on the dried roots and herbs. Druggists sell the packages at 50c. and $1. It is the best as well as the pleasantest cure for constipation and headache. dw

Could Scarcely See.

Mrs. John Martin, of Montage Bridge, P. E.I., writes:—"I was troubled last summer with very bad headaches and constipation and sometimes could scarcely see. One bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters made a complete cure of my case, and I wish you every success.

Purity of ingredients and accuracy of compounding, make Milburn's Aromatic Quinine Wine the criterion of excellence. dw

Regina Ripples.

"I took six bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters for liver complaint, headache and dull stupid feeling, but now I am entirely well and healthy, having also a good appetite which I did not have previously."—Mrs. T. Davis, Regina, N.W.T.

Mrs. Chas. Smith, of Jimes, Ohio, writes: "I have used every remedy for sick headache I could hear of for the past fifteen years, but Carter's Little Liver Pills did me more good than all the rest. dw

It can do no harm to try Freeman's Worm Powders if your child is ailing, feverish or fretful. dw

Clinton Clippings.

"I had for years been troubled with dyspepsia and sick headache and found but little relief until I got Burdock Blood Bitters which made a perfect cure. It is the best medicine I ever used in my life."—Hattie Davis, Mary street, Clinton, Ont.

All ages and conditions of people may use National Pills without injury and with great benefit. dw

The Safest

AND most powerful alterative is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Young and old are alike benefited by its use. For the eruptive diseases peculiar to children nothing else is so effective as this medicine, while its agreeable flavor makes it easy to administer.

"My little boy had large scrofulous ulcers on his neck and throat from which he suffered terribly. Two physicians attended him, but he grew continually worse under their care, and everybody expected he would die. I had heard of the remarkable cures effected by Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and decided to have my boy try it. Shortly after he began to take this medicine, the ulcers commenced healing, and, after using several bottles, he was entirely cured. He is now as healthy and strong as any boy of his age."—William F. Dougherty, Hampton, Va.

"In May last, my youngest child, fourteen months old, began to have sores gather on its head and body. We applied various simple remedies without avail. The sores increased in number and discharged copiously. A physician was called, but the sores continued to multiply until in a few months they nearly covered the child's head and body. At last we began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. In a few days a marked change for the better was manifest. The sores assumed a more healthy condition, the discharges were gradually diminished, and finally ceased altogether. The child is livelier, its skin is fresher, and its appetite better than we have observed for months."—Frank M. Griffin, Long Point, Texas.

"The formula of Ayer's Sarsaparilla presents, for chronic diseases of almost every kind, the best remedy known to the medical world."—D. M. Wilson, M. D., Wiggs, Arkansas.

THE SOLEMN PASSENGER.

He Approves of the Pleasant Passenger and Makes the Gruff One Stare.

"Well," said the solemn looking passenger in the front seat to the pleasant young man just behind him, "the harvest is past, but the summer is still with us."

"Sure," replied the young man.

"But it's on the wing, though," continued the solemn man. "It's flying!"

"Right along!" said the pleasant passenger.

"Time is fleeting," remarked the other.

"Well," said the pleasant youth, shaking his head, "that depends on how much time you got."

[illegible] the passenger in front.

[illegible] will fleet quicker than three years," replied the pleasant passenger, smiling. "Won't it?" said he to the gruff passenger who sat beside him.

"The [illegible] that's tried it!" said the gruff passenger.

The solemn passenger was silent awhile, and then opened up again:

"These are the days," said he, "that the favored [illegible] spend in idling where the sea roars, or the mountain breezes whisper, or the streams of the valley murmur. You are not bound on idle vacation, I trust, my dear young friend?"

"Well, not exactly," replied the pleasant young man, with a shake of his head.

"You bet your life he ain't!" said the gruff passenger.

"I am pleased to know it!" said the solemn passenger. "But I grieve to hear you suggest my wagering anything upon it, even so worthless and poor a thing as life. So you are not one of the trivial throng who are just now flocking to idle vacations?"

"No, sir! I am not!" replied the pleasant young man.

"You rejoice me!" said the solemn passenger, lifting his eyes, while the gruff passenger chuckled.

"I'm going on a vacation, though," said the pleasant young man, "but it won't be an idle one!" And he smiled at the gruff passenger, who chuckled again and said:

"Right you are! And the next station is ours."

"Ah!" said the solemn man, "and its name?"

"Sing Sing!" replied the gruff passenger. "This young gent stays three years with us for having three wives, and none of 'em dead!"

The gruff passenger, from his manner, apparently thought the revelation would shock the solemn man into speechless horror, and he was shocked dumb himself when the solemn passenger grabbed the pleasant young man by the hand.

"My poor young friend!" he exclaimed. "Another martyr to righteousness and faithfulness to the law! May the spirit of Brigham sustain you!"

When the train stopped and the gruff man and the pleasant passenger got up to leave the car the solemn man pressed a card in the young man's hand. The gruff passenger took it and read it. This was its inscription:

Odd Fellows' Sovereign Grand Lodge.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 26.—The Sovereign Grand Lodge of Oddfellows to-day voted down a proposition made by Lieutenant-General Underwood to the effect that members could become eligible to the degree of Patriarchs Militant without going through the encampment. A resolution was presented to move the headquarters of the Grand Secretary to Baltimore. It was referred to a committee. Efforts were made to have another convention of the degree of Rebekah next year, but the movement was defeated.

[illegible] Man Killed.

W[illegible], Sept. 26.—As a Grand Trunk [illegible] and failed to hear the approaching train.

Gladstone on Temperance.

London, Sept. 26.—Mr. Gladstone has written a letter to the Temperance League saying that the defeat of the measure introduced by the Government and practically endowing publicans was in its first effect negative, but that it really created a movement which has already grown powerful and which will grow in vigor. "The present system," Mr. Gladstone adds, "is a discredit and a calamity to the country and you can depend upon the Liberal leaders using their most earnest endeavors to alter it."

One Czar, One Faith, One Baptism.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 26.—The Russian authorities are preparing [illegible] against the non-orthodox sects, which have been gaining in numbers to such a degree as to alarm the Holy Synod. It is proposed to adopt hard labor and banishment to the remotest parts of Siberia as a punishment for enticing orthodox Russians from the rites and ordinances of the established church.

Dissenters are to be ineligible to any post or employment connected with village administration, and are not to be allowed to employ as domestics anybody belonging to the orthodox faith. Communities of Stundists are to be subject to police supervision, and it is made the duty of the police to see that no orthodox person joins in Stundist worship. Unlike the Jews, the Stundists are not to be driven out of Russia. The Czar wants them, and is trying to convert them.

Due to a Boy.

Madrid, Sept. 26.—Mr. Long, the artist, who was reported yesterday as among the injured in the Burgos disaster, died soon after being extricated from the wreck. The telegraph operator whose blundering brought on the accident is an unsalaried apprentice 18 years old. He confused similar names of two stations, leading the station master to give the fatal signal. Pneumatic brakes are not on Spanish railways.

They Punish Them in France.

Paris, Sept. 26.—The trial of the men charged with the responsibility for the recent railway disaster at St. Mande has been concluded. Caron, the engineer, has been sentenced to two years' imprisonment and De Gurrois, the station master, to four months' imprisonment for negligence.

Mr. Parnell's Guests at Avondale.

Dublin, Sept. 26.—Mr. and Mrs. Parnell are in Ireland entertaining guests for the shooting at Avondale. Mrs. Parnell does not go into society and the house party is confined to Mr. Parnell's intimate friends. Among them is Mr. Harrison, who the other day was unfortunate enough to shoot himself slightly and to singe Mr. Redmond's hair.

A Corpse in a River.

Paris, Sept. 26.—A sensation has been raised at A[illegible] by the discovery of the corpse of a man, a stranger, in the river. It is supposed to be a case of murder like that of the unfortunate notary, Gouffe. Some workmen say they saw a carriage stop at the river a few evenings ago and somebody threw something into the water. Several arrests have been made on suspicion.

Crops in Prussia.

Berlin, Sept. 28.—The official result of the enquiry made in regard to the wheat crops of Prussia shows that the crop amounts to 18,[illegible] double quintals against 17,5[illegible] in 1890. The summer and winter wheat crops together will yield 17,000,000 double quintals over the same crops of 1890.

Chat from Over the Sea.

Twenty-eight farms with all the cattle and stores have been destroyed by fire of incendiary origin at Kezieglow, Russian Poland. To delay the fire engines the incendiary cut the ropes of the bells.

Marie Wilte, a well-known singer, committed suicide yesterday at Vienna by jumping from the fourth story window of a hotel.

The North German Gazette publishes a letter from Dr. Peters, the German explorer in Africa, dated Aug. 8, saying that the country east of Mount Kilimanjaro is delightful in temperature, healthy and fertile. "War," says Dr. Peters, "is a thing of the past," and he adds that he undertakes to "maintain discipline and obedience with 40 soldiers."

A Holy Coat Apostate.

Berlin, Sept. 24.—There is much discussion going on in Catholic and Protestant circles in this and other cities on account of the fact just made public that Prof. Winschild of Leipsic, who belongs to one of the most noted Catholic families of that city, has announced his conversion to Protestantism, owing to his disbelief in the authenticity of the garment known as the Holy Coat, which is now on exhibition in the cathedral at Treves and his conscientious scruples against supporting a church that would lend its sanction to such an exhibition.

Say Sauce.

Take one pound of salt, four ounces of ginger and one half ounce of cloves, all ground, six pods of red pepper, a dozen heads of garlic, cut fine, with a teacupful grated horse-radish. Gather the tender leaves of the black walnut, and chop fine; put a layer in the bottom of a jar, then another of the mixed ingredients. Continue until the jar is full. Cover with strong vinegar, set in the sun for two weeks, bottle and set aside for two months. This is an excellent seasoning for fish or game sauces.

Interesting Items.

"I hear that you are engaged to Lord Hardsquoze," said a belle to her wealthy friend. "Is it so?" "O, no," said the business-like young woman, "I shouldn't say we were engaged, but I—I have an option on him."

A Fight Between Giants.

Both desperate, both determined! The King of Medicines in contest with the King of Maladies! Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery against "Consumption!" It is not the struggle of a day, but the first blows are the fatal blows! In its early stages, Consumption (which is Lung-scrofula) will yield to this great Remedy! This has been proven beyond a doubt by innumeral successes! Acting directly upon the blood, its scope includes all scrofulous affections, Liver and Lung diseases. As a blood-purifier and vitalizer, it stands unequaled. a

Do You Cough?

Don't delay. Take Kemp's Balsam, the best cough cure. It will cure coughs and colds. It will cure sore throat, or a tickling in the throat. It will cure pains in the chest. It will cure influenza and bronchitis and all diseases pertaining to the lungs, because it is a pure balsam. Hold it to the light and see how clear and thick it is. You see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Large bottles 50c and $1. dw

Every Lady Uses It.

Dyer's Jelly of Cucumber and Roses for chapped hands or lips as it effectually cures in every instance. Try it. Druggists keep it. W. A. Dyer & Co., Montreal. 6d63

His Family did not Know Him.

A Belleville man has for many been bent and crippled with a lame back, but after trying the OR, Kidney cure, he could walk like a boy again and his neighbors could hardly recognize him. This remedy is for sale by all druggists and the OR, Kidney Company, Belleville. dw

Ask Your Friends About It.

Your distressing cough can be cured. We know it, because Kemp's Balsam within the past few years has cured so many coughs and colds in this community. Its remarkable sale has been won entirely by its genuine merit. Ask some friend who has used it what he thinks of Kemp's Balsam. There is no medicine so pure, none so effective. Large bottles 50c. and $1 at all druggists. dw

Oft in Peril.

Lives of children are often endangered by sudden and violent attacks of cholera, cholera morbus, diarrhœa, dysentery and bowel complaints. A reasonable and certain precaution is to keep Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry always at hand.

A single scratch may cause a festering sore. Victoria Carbolic Salve rapidly heals cuts, wounds, burns and all sores. dw

Timely Wisdom.

Great and timely wisdom is shown by keeping Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry on hand. It has no equal for cholera, cholera morbus, diarrhœa, dysentery, colic, cramps and all summer complaints or looseness of the bowels.

A woman who is weak, nervous and sleepless, and who has cold hands and feet, cannot feel and act like a well person. Carter's Iron Pills equalize the circulation, remove nervousness and give strength and rest. dw

What Say They?

In popularity increasing. In reliability the standard. In merits the first. In fact, the best remedy for all summer complaints, diarrhœa, dysentery, cramps, colic, cholera, infantum, etc., is Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. All medicine dealers sell it.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Fur overcoats and Russian circulars are first-class articles to keep you warm, but they will not prevent the pains of rheumatism. Ask W. R. Greatrex, Druggist, for a bottle of Royal Rheumatic Remedy. dw

You hardly realize that it is medicine when taking Carter's Little Liver Pills; they are very small; no bad effects; all troubles from torpid liver are relieved by their use. dw

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head

ACHE is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail.

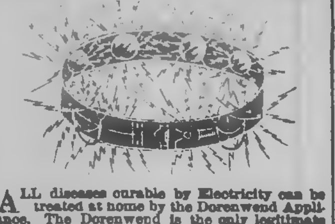
Self Application of Electricity
FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES
BY THE
DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT
And Attachments.
HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto.
THE WORLD'S BEST.



ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete Body Battery. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a Current of Quantity, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for Indigestion, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Liver and Kidney Troubles, Weak Back, Spinal Disease, Heart Disease, Nervous Debility, Paralysis, Vertigo, Female Complaints, Impotence, Sexual Decline and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the Dorenwend Belt is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy them but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

SUN LIFE

ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA.

The attention of our Policy-Holders is directed to the following summary of the leading items of the present report, which speaks for itself as to the progress and prosperity of the Company:—

Life Assurances in force, 1st January, 1891	$16,759,355.98
Increase over previous year	2,421,372.84
New Applications received in 1890	6,371,599.15
Increase over 1889	2,268,888.60
Cash income for year ending 31st December, 1890	889,078.87
Increase over 1889	325,938.25
Assets at 31st December, 1890	2,473,514.19
Increase over 1889	687,691.47
Reserve for Security for Policy-Holders	2,109,222.68
Increase over 1889	567,732.71
Surplus over all Liabilities and Capital Stock	232,175.69
Increase over 1889	75,649.05
Death claims fallen in during 1890	143,961.65

The progress made by the SUN LIFE during 1890 was remarkable. The new business was the largest in the Company's history, and was equalled by but one other Canadian Life Company. The income for the year exceeds $2,000 for each day in the year, Sundays included. The Assets are large and rapidly increasing. They are, moreover, of the highest character, yielding an average interest of 6.04 per cent. The overdue interest is small, and the Real Estate owned under foreclosure is only four per cent. of the amount of mortgages. This is a remarkable showing. The SURPLUS accumulated during the FOUR years of the current quinquennium is nearly THREE TIMES as much as the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail thus to be highly satisfactory. The following are the figures:—

" " " " 1886, "	89,452 97
" " " " 1890, (four years)	232,175 69

The winter class in mechanical drawing, geometry and freehand, will be formed at the Mechanics' Institute, Water street, at an early date. Mr. A. McCallum, draughtsman of the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Co., will conduct the class, and those intending to join are requested to leave their names with the librarian at the Institue without delay. Information regarding the class may be obtained from the librarian.

Sneak Pilfering.

Another sneakthief was reported to the police on Sunday. A diamond ring and $10 in cash was stolen from the residence of Mr. Robert Lundy, Brock street. It is believed that the theft was committed on Saturday afternoon, when the house was unoccupied for some time, and the supposition is that the sneak thief got in through an open upstairs window by climbing over the kitchen shed.

Runaway Accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Humphrey Crowley, of Dummar, were in town on Saturday. They started for home at five o'clock. At the Smith street bridge their horse took fright and ran away. Both occupants of the buggy were thrown out. Mrs. Crowley's right arm was broken near the wrist and she was severely shaken up and bruised. Mr. Crowley escaped with some cuts and contusions. A surgeon reduced the fracture of Mrs. Crowley's arm, and she went home with her husband about an hour after the accident occurred.

"Micky" Was a Tartar.

There was an exciting encounter at the corner of Hunter and Water streets shortly after three o'clock this afternoon. Bailiff Jos. Griffin undertook to arrest a young carpenter named Michael Burns, against whom a warrant of committal had been issued by Judge Weller for his neglecting to attend a court in obedience to an A. J. S—which, being interpreted, means after judgment summons. Burns resisted arrest, and P. C. McGinty lent his assistance to the bailiff. Burns fought like a tiger and was only subdued after a hard struggle. He was finally hand cuffed and taken up to gaol.

THE OLD CEMETERY WAR.

An Exciting Meeting of Interested Persons.

Hot Speeches Made on Both Sides—A Committee Appointed to Deal With the Matter—Statements Made and Denied.

A meeting of the plot-holders in the old Methodist cemetery in the north end of the town was held at the town buildings Saturday afternoon. This matter has been before the public for some time. The plot-holders claim that their rights are not being respected and that the old city of the dead is being desecrated, in a manner which is made plain in the discussion as reported below. Of late years the cemetery has fallen into disuse and disrepair, and the church authorities took steps which they claim were for the purpose of preserving the old burying ground, but which the lot-holders claim is practically the obliteration of the graveyard. The matter was pretty thoroughly threshed out at the meeting.

There were between fifty and sixty persons present. On motion Mayor Stevenson was called to the chair, and requested Mr. T. E. Bell to explain the object of the meeting.

THE LOT-HOLDER'S CASE.

Mr. Bell said a requisition had been presented to him asking that a meeting of lot-holders of the cemetery be called, and the meeting had been accordingly called. Mr. Bell then entered into a history of the cemetery in order to lead up to the discussion. He said he had a grave subject to deal with—not only were the graves of his ancestors there, but there were grave difficulties in the way. They had to contend with the Methodist church and with the town council. Fifty years ago this cemetery was purchased from Mr. Benson, and in 1868 Mr. Sheridan, Sec.-Treasurer, handed the papers over to the trustees of the George street Methodist church, with $400 accumulated funds, which he understood Mr. Stevenson got, and which was to be expended on the cemetery. As far as he could learn Mr. Stevenson had only paid out about $20 of this amount—$12 to Mr. Brown, caretaker, and $8 to Mr. Gamble. When the fences went down he (the speaker) went to Mr. Stevenson and asked him why the fences were not kept in repair. Mr. Stevenson replied that he had spent all the money he had on it and wished he had nothing to do with it. Mr. Dumble too was spoken to, but he said he could do nothing and wished the church had nothing to do with it. Then the town council passed a resolution closing up the cemetery, which he claimed they had no right to do, as he himself held the lease of it. The cemetery was for the purpose of burying the dead, and he thought the object of this meeting was to compel the George street church to open up the cemetery for purposes of burial. As yet there had been no trustees nor an associate committee appointed to control this cemetery nor any meeting held, which he held was not fair treatment. He claimed that an injunction should also be put upon the Nicholls Hospital authorities to compel them to give up control of the property.

A STRONG CONTRADICTION.

Mr. Stevenson in reply said he too had relatives buried in the cemetery and had taken as active an interest in it as any one. Mr. Bell had made misstatements. He (Mr. Stevenson) had personally gone to meetings of the George street church and urged them to spend money on the fences, but did not succeed. As to his expending the money, he would say he had spent over $20 on it. Mr. Gamble had received more than $9. Mr. Stevenson said he himself tried his best to keep the fences in repair, but there was no money coming in and they had very little money to spend on them. Mr. Stevenson said he never gave a note himself, and never received a cent of the $400 from Mr. Sheridan. All the money he handled was what Mr. Sheridan gave him—$27. The note he never saw. He was not sure the trustees of the church gave the note, but the amount received from Mr. Sheridan, something over $300, was down on the church books. As to the shutting up of the cemetery, Mr. Stevenson claimed the corporation had power to do so if they chose. It happened that the Nicholls Hospital was built alongside the cemetery, and he told the authorities of the hospital that the property would be partially turned over to them if they would agree to keep up the fences and maintain the grounds in order. He thought that was the best thing to do, but as soon as this was done these complaints were made, though whilst the cemetery was open and it was a cow pasture no complaints were heard. Mr. Stevenson reiterated the statement that he never handled any money except the $27 he received from Mr. Sheridan. He thought it was to the interest of everyone concerned in the cemetery to allow the Nicholls Hospital to keep up the grounds on condition that they may use it as a walk for convalescent patients.

There was some further argument between Mr. Bell and Mr. Stevenson as to what the latter had said and what he hadn't, and Mr. Brown, the veteran caretaker of the cemetery, gave his recollection of a former conversation, which was of little importance.

Mr. Bell claimed that the cemetery was in the township of Smith and the town could not touch it.

A TRUSTEE SPEAKS.

Mr. D. W. Dumble said he found in the records of the Methodist church that the George street church had purchased the cemetery and given a note for it. The deed was produced. The cemetery was church property. Mr. Dumble read a deed from the church authorities to a plotholder giving him a right to bury therein forever, subject to the laws of the land. The law was that the town council had the privilege of closing up the cemetery in the public interest. Mr. Dumble thought it better to have the property taken care of than allowing it to go to waste, as had been done, and the Nicholls Hospital authorities had been given a lease for 15 years on condition that they kept it in repair and respected the rights of plot-holders. Mr. Dumble read the terms of the lease. The trustees of the church believed they had done just what the plot-holders would like. If the plot-holders do not wish it so, the lease was not yet signed, and it was not too late to withdraw. He hoped the meeting would discuss the question and come to some conclusion which would guide the trustees in carrying out the wishes of the plot-holders. Mr. Dumble replied to Mr. Bell's questions regarding the appointment of trustees and an associate committee, and said there was on the minutes of the church books a claim for £70 by the cemetery against the church. There was no record of any note being given.

Mr. Robt. Weir, in reply to a question, was informed that the property was sacred to the dead and could not be used for any other purpose. He endorsed the action of the trustees, but thought they should have consulted the plot-owners.

Mr. Stevenson replied that he had called several meetings of those interested but could not get a quorum.

A LEGAL OPINION.

Mr. Geo. Edmison held that the church, according to the deed, owned the cemetery as much as the ground upon which the church building stood. The rights of the plot-holders extended only to the graves; the trustees could use unsold portions for any purpose. The individual plot-holders had no legal claim upon the cemetery as a whole. They could bury their dead there as long as it was not prohibited by the corporation, which was the case in this affair, and which he thought the corporation had the right to do.

Mr. Graham Weir asked who had instigated the action by the council.

Mr. Dumble replied that the cemetery was thought to be dangerous to public health.

Mr. Henry Denne said the cemetery had been a public disgrace for 25 years and he had himself tried to get the plot-holders to contribute a dollar each to keep it in better repair. He proposed that a committee be appointed to meet the trustees of the George street church and report at another meeting.

Mr. F. J. Bell supported Mr. Denne's proposal, and said he was of opinion that there was something radically wrong. The church had never paid principal or interest on the money it had received.

Mr. Geo. Elliott expressed the opinion that this thing would result in the town getting possession of the property before the lease was over.

Mr. T. E. Bell said both Methodist congregations in town had an interest in the cemetery, and to which would the committee apply? Mr. Bell laid stress upon the fact that the lease had not been signed, and implied that there was some object behind it all.

A WARM REPLY.

Mr. Dumble made a heated reply. He said Mr. Bell's remark was a malicious aspersion upon the characters of the trustees of the church. It was this very trouble raised by Mr. Bell and other plot-holders which was the cause of the lease not being signed. Mr. Dumble went into the merits of the case at considerable length, justifying the action of the trustees in this matter.

Mr. Bell said he did not intend to asperse the character of anyone.

A Babel of voices took up the discussion, and the different sides of the case came from all sides of the house at once. The plot-holders argued that as the lease stated the property was to be used as a burying ground "forever," the town could not legally close it up.

Mr. W. J. Mason took up the cudgels on behalf of the Trustee Board, and said Mr. Stevenson was out of pocket on account of his efforts to keep the cemetery in repair. Those who were now raising the objections were not willing to do anything themselves.

Mr. Dumble cleared Mr. Stevenson by stating that the Mayor did not receive the $70 from Mr. Sheridan.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED.

Mr. Bell's motion was seconded by Mr. Denne, and the following committee was named to meet the trustees of the church with a view to arriving at a settlement of the present dissatisfaction in regard to the Methodist cemetery:—Messrs. T. E. Bell, John Bennett, Samuel McKibbin, Wm. Langford, R. S Edmison, Geo. Elliott and the mover and seconder.

After some further desultory discussion the resolution was adopted and the meeting adjourned.

Croup frequently finds a household unprepared for its visit, while the rapidity with which it develops calls for instant treatment. For this dangerous disease Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is an admirable remedy. It saves many lives every year. Keep it in the house.

The Army in Trouble.

The Salvation Army was out in full force Saturday night. The corps stationed itself on the corner of Hunter and George streets, as it has been in the habit of doing. The usual proceedings took place and a large crowd gathered. A merchant in the immediate vicinity telephoned Chief Roszel that if the Salvation Army was allowed to continue its open-air meeting he would have to close up his shop. It killed his business, he said. The chief has hitherto allowed the Army full swing. As long as the citizens did not grumble he was satisfied. But when the call came Saturday night he felt it his duty to interfere. So he ordered the Salvation Army people to move on. They refused to do so. They said they had never been molested before and they were doing nothing unusual then to bring down the law upon them. They felt themselves justified in holding the fort. Chief Roszel could not very conveniently arrest the whole party, and asked the leader his name. Instead of replying the blood and fire warrior and his comrades shouted and beat their instruments the more fiercely. Perhaps they did not understand the question. The Chief caught the red-jersied officer by the arm and drew him out of the circle. Then the officer gave his name as David Steele, after which, like David of old, having beaten off Goliath with his sling of obedience to orders, he was allowed to return triumphantly to his comrades. When they returned to the barracks the soldiers prayed for Chief Roszel. An information has been laid against Ensign Steele for obstructing the streets. The Salvation Army people believed they were in the right, or doubtless they would not have acted as they did. The matter will be tested in the police court one day this week.

A Brutal Assault.

A small house on the corner of Water and London streets contains a select family. On Sunday evening about eight o'clock a little grandson of Mrs. Robert Graham, who lives next door, was playing in front of this house on London street when a man rushed out of it with his children at his heels, and with one accord they fell on Mrs. Graham's little grandchild, who is about eight years old, and, as an eye witness avers, most cruelly abused the little fellow. After the children had slapped him the father deliberately knocked him off the post he was sitting on with one or two savage blows and then, when the little chap was lying on the ground, this monster drew back his foot and gave him a fearful kick. Mr. Welsh, who lives next door, happened to be an eye witness of the shameful affair and hurried out. At this the man, Kelly, fled. The boy was picked up and carried trembling and faint with pain and fear into Mr. Welsh's house. Though badly shaken up and bruised it is hoped that as soon as he recovers from his night-mare of dread he will come round with care. There is no doubt but for the providential interference of Mr. Welsh, this wretch, who was preparing to repeat his blows, and his family would have carried out the fiendish threats which the father, mother and family have frequently indulged in. Why this condition of things is allowed to continue is beyond the ken of the average citizen. This place has, it is alleged on good authority, afforded a scene for indecent exposure, awful language and brutal assaults, and it is earnestly hoped that a drastic remedy will be applied. A warrant has been issued for Kelly's arrest, and he was locked up at noon.

IN MEMORIAM.

Service Over the Remains of the Late Rev. G. H. Davis.

A Solemn Gathering in the George Street Methodist Church—An Occasion in which the Whole Town Took an Interest—A Farewell Tribute of Respect to the Venerable Dead.

The funeral of the late Rev. George H. Davis Sunday afternoon was solemnly impressive. All denominations and all classes of the community united in showing their regard for the kind, upright, and universally beloved patriarch, who had just been gathered unto his fathers. As a Christian minister and as a good citizen Rev. Mr. Davis won the sincere respect of all who knew him, either personally or by report. Therefore after a long life devoted to the service of his Master, and the best interests of his fellow men, it was eminently fitting that in his burial all possible honor should be shown to the memory of one who had lived for the sole purpose of aiding in bringing the world to a knowledge of the truth. To the widow, the family and relatives of the deceased, the spontaneous public expression of sympathy with them in their grief must afford great consolation. It is gratifying to see a community unanimous in esteeming a man at his worth, and it is safe to say Rev. Mr. Davis had not an enemy anywhere. One could not help loving and revering the warm hearted, friendly and thoroughly Christian old gentleman, who was ever ready to extend the helping hand to unfortunate humanity, and the people, realizing what a loss they, mere strangers, have sustained by his death, can feel the more deeply for the bereaved family who enjoyed his daily intercourse and guidance. The memorial service was a most solemn occasion, and conveyed a touching lesson.

A short service took place at the residence, London street, after which the flowered casket containing the remains was placed in the hearse, and, followed by the pall-bearers, mourners and others,

CONVEYED TO THE CHURCH.

Rev. Jos. H. Locke, pastor of the George Street Methodist Church (of which Rev. Mr. Davis has been a member since his superannuation); Rev. Isaac Tovell, of Hamilton, a former pastor of the church and a warm personal friend of the deceased; Rev. E. F. Torrance, pastor of St. Paul's Church, and who, it is said, was looked upon by Rev. Mr. Davis as a son—these were the clergymen who conducted the obsequies. The pall-bearers were Rev. E. F. Torrance, Rev. A. MacWilliams, pastor of St. Andrew's Church; Rev. Geo. Edwards, pastor of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church; Mayor Jas. Stevenson; Messrs. Wm. Cluxton and Geo. Hilliard.

The chief mourners were the three sons of the deceased—Rev. G. H. H. Davis, Mr. A. L. Davis and Mr. J. Arthur Davis; Mr. James McPherson, of St. John's, P.Q., son-in-law; Mr. George A. Cox, Mr. Aaron Cox and Mr. W. G. Morrow. Rev. J. C. Davidson, Rector of St. John's, Messrs. Edg. Pearse, J. E. Belcher, C E. and John McKee, warm personal friends of the deceased, also accompanied the remains on foot as a mark of respect.

The church was filled with an attentive and sympathetic congregation. The galleries were occupied mainly by Sunday School children. The pulpit, choir-railing and organ were draped in black.

During the funeral period the flag of St. John's church floated at half mast. The flag of the George street church was at half mast from Friday morning until after the funeral.

As the funeral cortege entered the church the organist (Mr. John Crane) played a slow, sad air. Proceeding slowly up the aisle, the ministers preceded the casket, the pall-bearers and mourners following—

THE SCENE HAD A SOLEMN IMPORT.

The casket was rested in front of pulpit, where it became the centre of hundreds of sorrowing eyes. Handsome floral tokens covered its top, beautiful symbols of the christian life of him whose remains they rested upon. Rev. Mr. Tovell in his subsequent address made the flowers tell the story of a life in simple yet affecting language.

The floral cross so feelingly referred to by Rev. Mr. Tovell, was the offering of the members of the choir of the Charlotte street Methodist church, and the equally beautiful floral anchor was the gift of the officers and teachers of the Charlotte street Methodist Sunday school, both touching evidences that the high veneration in which the late father in Israel was held, was by no means confined to the congregation of the church where he usually worshipped.

Proceedings were begun by the singing of the beautiful hymn No. 855, the first stanza reading as follows:—

> Servant of God, well done,
> Thy glorious warfare's past;
> The battle's fought, the race is won,
> And thou art crowned at last.

Then Rev. Mr. Torrance offered up prayer. After the choir had sung an appropriate anthem, Rev. Mr. Locke read the 13th and following verses of the 4th chapter of Thessalonians I.

Hymn No. 601, "Give me the wings of faith to rise," was sung by the congregation, after which Rev. Jos. H. Locke, pastor of the church, made a BRIEF BUT FEELING ADDRESS.

He said he would miss the dear departed father very much from his accustomed seat in the church; he would miss his valued assistance at church services, and he would miss his kindly counsel and advice. He loved him for his beautiful Christian character and life—"I loved him more than I can express; I revered him and esteemed him as I do very few." Continuing, Mr. Locke related some of his earliest remembrances of the late Mr. Davis. The deceased was chairman of the district where he (Mr. Locke) received his first station as minister, and he received his first two appointments from Rev. Mr. Davis, who took a great interest in him and encouraged him by so many acts of kindness that he was at a loss to account for them. Deceased wielded a mighty power in the pulpit and exerted a benign christian influence over every community in which he lived. The reverend father had died as he had lived—firm in the faith. He died enjoying the universal esteem and confidence of the whole town. The last time he was in this sanctuary was two weeks ago Sunday morning, and Rev. Mr. Locke referred at some length to this last public service which the deceased had attended. In conclusion he said: "The reward which he cherished so long he has realized today."

Hymn No. 606 was then sung, "Come let us join the friends above that have obtained the prize," after which Rev. I. Tovell, of Hamilton, a former pastor of the George street church and a warm friend of the deceased, pronounced the benediction.

THE MEMORIAL ADDRESS.

He said his heart had been deeply touched when he received intelligence of the death of Rev. Mr. Davis. He felt as if he had lost a father. The deceased was amongst the pioneer Methodist preachers in Canada, who labored that they might establish the kingdom of God, and the majority of whom have been called to their reward. We feel lonely in their absence, said the speaker, but they are not gone, they are with us in spirit. Rev. Mr. Tovell then briefly outlined the ministerial career of the deceased. He dwelt upon the marvellous power and revival spirit of Rev. Mr. Davis' early ministry, when hundreds of souls were brought to Christ through his efforts. The same features had characterized his ministry all through. His ministry will long live in the memory of the people. Amongst the principal characteristics of the deceased, was his excellent spirit. How kindly, charitable and genial it was. But one of his best characteristics as a Christian minister was his passion for saving souls. How he loved to see a soul come to Christ! Then he was a man strong in the faith of the old gospel. He did not have much sympathy with what is known as progressive theology. He stood by the old doctrines with full confidence in the power of the Holy Ghost, and because of this full, strong, simple, pure faith, God blessed his ministry. He was, too, of a conservative frame of mind. He was conservative of all that was good, but progressive at the same time. In political questions, he was always opposed to impurity and corruption. No matter in which party it was observed, he would not shield any man, but he would speak out and denounce wrong-doing regardless of who was hurt. Rev. Mr. Davis labored in various parts of Canada, and wherever his name was spoken there will be found some to speak of his kindness and his fidelity to them in time of trouble. He took an active interest in the church at large. He was broad in his sympathies with almost every form of Christianity, but

LOVED HIS OWN CHURCH.

He had been a wide reader and held tenaciously to the principles he cherished as being the best of any. Then he was a patriotic gentleman. He kept himself informed on public matters and took a deep interest in the country's affairs. We think of him to-day, said the speaker, not dead, but living; not here but yonder; never to be in this world again, but forever to be with the Lord. The flowers upon the casket were beautifully emblematical of his life. There was the cross, the source of his spiritual life; the anchor, teaching us that his soul was anchored to Christ; the sickle, conveying a double meaning—having clung to the cross and anchored his soul in Christ, he grasped the sickle of truth and went to labour in the vineyard, or, like the ripe sheaf of grain, he has fallen before the sickle of the Great Harvester; there was the archway and the gate ajar, compelling us to think that on Thursday at the midnight hour, the gate was swung wide open and welcome broke upon his soul from Jesus, whom he loved and trusted. The crown of flowers betoken the crown of glory which the dear departed was wearing to-day. To the family of the deceased, the speaker said they had every reason to cherish the memory of their father and friend, and if they trusted in the same God there would be a meeting time again. Rev. Mr. Tovell's closing remarks were pathetic and touching, and many moist eyes in the congregation testified to the general feeling of solemnity and regard for the deceased on the part of the people.

After a fervent prayer, the service was over, and the casket, accompanied by its mournful attendants, was returned to the hearse, the solemn strains of the Dead March in Saul issuing from the organ. The funeral procession then directed its course to the Little Lake Cemetery, where the solemn burial rites of the Methodist church were read, and the remains were deposited in their last resting place.

The Central Exhibition.

The exhibition is now over and, everything considered, was a fair success. For the amount of success achieved, much of the credit is due to the energetic young president, Mr. Geo. E. Elliott, and the board of directors. Mr. Elliott is a young man, and he threw himself into the work with all the energy of a young man anxious for the promotion of the interests of the exhibition, and the ample experience of the other members of the board, including the obliging and efficient secretary, contributed to making the encouraging success that was achieved. But the best management is neutralized by the lack of certain conditions such as a strong prize list financially and the active and energetic co-operation of those whose help and encouragement, if freely given, would bring success. It is time that some new arrangement was under discussion. The lease of the present grounds has only two more years to run, and some general and concerted plan of action looking to the establishment of the exhibition on a permanent and substantial basis, should be adopted. In such a matter the earnest co-operation of the business men of the town with the prominent farmers of the riding is necessary to make the Central Exhibition a success worthy of the success which Peterborough is accustomed to bring about in all other matters. It would, it seems, be a practical suggestion to have the farmers and business men hold a joint meeting to discuss the matter of adding to the importance and success of the Central Exhibition. It would be a good matter for the Farmers' Institute to take hold of and discuss. With these elements at work during the winter, arrangements could be made for the holding of a grand exhibition next year, worthy of the town and country. So many diverse elements enter into the success of the modern exhibition, that the co-operation of all classes is necessary to make it "go."

A Crushed Foot.

Mr. Chas. Fitzpatrick, a young man of Dummer, is lying in St. Joseph's hospital with a shattered foot. He was at Mr. Wm. O'Leary's place, Douro, last Wednesday, while threshing was taking place, and somehow his foot got caught in the machinery. A compound comminuted fracture of the left leg was the result, which means that the bones of the left leg just above the ankle were crushed into small particles. There was also a gash on the foot three and a half inches long. Proper surgical treatment has been given and the limb will be preserved.

Rugby Football.

Saturday's Game was a Great Success—The Sport as Popular as Ever—A Win for the Peterboroughs.

The revival of Rugby football in Peterborough Saturday afternoon was attended with all the excitement and enthusiasm of former times. The match between teams representing Peterborough and the Edison Works aroused the keen interest of all lovers of sport, and the partisans of both teams were there in full force to cheer on their favorites. The ladies, too, arrayed in their brightest colors and most fascinating smiles, favoured the boys with their presence. It is unnecessary to say that the kickers on the field played their prettiest in consequence. The fact that an oyster supper hung in the balance also doubtless spurred the boys on to redoubled efforts.

The teams lined up as follows, in an astonishing variety of uniforms:—

EDISONITES.		PETERBOROUGH.
W. C. P. Heathcote	back	G. Boucher
E. P. Teel E. W. Beall R. L. D. Mackie	halfback	B. Boucher W. D. Parker W. J. Drope
W. B. Alexander	quarter back	F. A. Lount
W. E. Wiggett Lev Dunford F. McCullough A. Pomfret G. W. Parks W. C. Morris W. H. McCallum A. Dixon F. Adams	forwards	C. W. Forbes F. H. Brennan L. M. Hayes W. F. Johnston C. H. Allison M. Poussette H. Dumble F. Paxton A. Stevenson A. Crofton

Referee, Vernon Halliday.

The match was more one-sided than had been anticipated. The Peterboroughs swept everything before them. Their forwards rushed the ball from the start, and had scored 22 points before their opponents got a chance. The Edisonites, it must be stated in justice to them, were handicapped from lack of practice, and were a man short on the field, playing fourteen against fifteen. In spite of these odds, and the fact that some of their team knew comparatively nothing of the game, they worked like Trojans and deserved the applause they frequently received. Messrs. Alexander, Teel, Wiggett and the fleet-footed Adams were especially active.

For Peterborough, Dr. Brennan was like a stone wall in the scrimmage, and sent his weight through the crowd when he got the ball with almost irresistible force. Mr. Lount, behind the scrimmage, engineered the play with great skill, and Drope and Paxton behind him scarcely failed to get the ball after every scrimmage. "Pack" made two or three brilliant runs down field and scored every time. When the ball occasionally got past the forwards the Boucher boys always relieved the danger. Capt. Parker played in his old-time form. Several war-horses of the old Peterborough team, which existed several years ago, again entered the contest with spirit. Messrs. Hayes, Johnston, Stevenson and Forbes repeated their exploits of former days. All suffered more or less from lack of practice, but now the game has been started again it should not be allowed to lapse till the season is over.

The forwards were always in the thick of the fight, tackling and rushing in lively style. The Edisonites played on the defensive most of the time, but at times made a spurt and showed their metal. It was a good fast game from the spectators standpoint, and ringing cheers were given for every noticeable play. Two or three players were hurt, but not sufficiently to compel them to leave the field. Accidents were accepted in good part, for "he must take his show for a bruise or so, who follows the jolly football."

The Peterboroughs scored 22 points, made up of five touch-downs and two rouges. Within a minute of time call the Edisonites secured a safety touch—2 points.

TO THE VICTORS BELONG THE SPOILS.

Defeat was accepted gracefully, and now the Edisonites are looking for satisfaction. It is likely another match will be played next Saturday when a different result may be obtained.

The losers of the match, according to agreement, invited the winners to an oyster supper at the Palace Restaurant Saturday evening. About half-past nine o'clock the thirty foot-ballers, stiff, sore and redolent of liniment, gathered at the place of rendezvous, and a couple of pleasant hours were spent around the festive board. The friendly rivalry of the field gave place to the cheerful bonhomie induced by the congeniality of the occasion. Toasts were proposed and honored, songs galore were sung, and "they are jolly good fellows" was the sentiment all round. The oysters were good, of course, and in the gayety of the moment the kickers forgot all about their sore spots, their stiff-joints and their bandages.

For the past year I have been troubled to a very great extent with dandruff, also, a dullness of color in my hair, and through the advice of a friend (who spoke from experience) I tried your Anti-Dandruff, which upon the application of less than a bottle of your liquid I find my head not only thoroughly cleansed but a vast improvement in the color and growth.

I have, and do recommend it as highly beneficial to the profession and public generally as an agreeable and welcome innovation in the remedies put forth for public favor.

Dyspepsia

Intense Suffering for 8 years—Restored to Perfect Health.

Intense

Suffering

8 Years

Few people have suffered more severely from dyspepsia than Mr. E. A. McMahon, a well known grocer of Staunton, Va. He says: "Before 1878 I was in excellent health, weighing over 200 pounds. In that year an ailment developed into acute dyspepsia, and soon I was reduced to 162 pounds, suffering burning sensations in the stomach, palpitation of the heart, nausea, and indigestion. I could not sleep, lost all heart in my work, had fits of melancholia, and for days at a time I would have welcomed death. I became morose, sullen and irritable, and for eight years life was a burden. I tried many physicians and many remedies. One day a workman employed by me suggested that I take Hood's Sarsaparilla, as it had cured his wife of dyspepsia. I did so, and before taking the whole of a bottle I began to feel like a new man. The terrible pains to which I had been subjected, ceased, the palpitation of the heart subsided, my stomach became easier, nausea disappeared, and my entire system began to tone up. With returning strength came activity of mind and body. Before the fifth bottle was taken I had regained my former weight and natural condition. I am today well and I ascribe it to taking Hood's Sarsaparilla."

N. B. If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to buy any other.

FURTHER TROUBLE IN BURMAH THREATENED.

The Sultan of Turkey to Break up Brigandage—Russia Said to be Advancing Money for Cruisers for Montenegro—An Imposing Russian Funeral

LONDON, Sept. 29.—A Vienna dispatch says that the order from Montenegro for the building of three volunteer cruisers in English yards is the subject of considerable discussion in official circles. By the terms of the treaty of Vienna Montenegro has no right to a separate navy. Her vessels must fly the Austrian flag. The vessels ordered will be men of war to all intents and purposes and very handy for Russian use should the latter need a naval force in the Mediterranean. As they are to ply between Odessa and Montenegro's only seaport they would be useful to act the part of the Trojan horse in an attack on Constantinople, as they would be less subject to suspicion than Russian vessels.

There is no doubt whatever that Russia advances the money to pay for these vessels, so that they will be virtually Russian ships of war going and coming in the Mediterranean. It is well known in Vienna that Montenegro is in a miserable condition financially. The wretched peasantry have been squeezed to the utmost, and the Prince is not able to get money together for his household expenses, much less to pay for building a navy. It is obvious, therefore, that Russia, having no naval depot on the Mediterranean, is using Montenegro for that purpose.

The Sigri Incident

LONDON, Sept. 29. An official English report on the Sigri incident states that the manœuvres were carried on by permission of the Turkish officials and that the usual mining operations were executed. Twelve electro-contact mines were placed across the harbor's mouth and connected up to their junction with the boat stations and to protect the work. The British landed eight guns.

DUBLIN, Sept. 29. James Stephens, the Fenian leader, has arrived in this city. [illegible] he has the Government's permission to remain here for the rest of his life. [illegible] interview Stephens said: "I am a supporter of Mr. Parnell and I have not [illegible] my mind as to Irish claims for [illegible], or the road to enforce those [illegible] as the majority of Irishmen are [illegible] to try constitutional agitation I have concurred in that plan."

Dacoits Rising in Burmah

[illegible], Sept. 29. Despatches from Rangoon, the capital of British Burmah, announce that great anxiety prevails there. Natives who arrived here report a gathering of Dacoits taking place about Wuntho, under the leadership of Isawha, and every precaution is being made to repel an anticipated attack upon the garrison at Wuntho. Several minor conflicts have already occurred, and news of more serious fighting is expected.

A New Chicago Scheme

CHICAGO, Sept. 29. A few months ago William C. There was no one but a boy there, so apparently the lads thought it a good opportunity to examine a gun which they found in a shed attached to the house. As is usual in such cases, the boys did not know the gun was loaded until it went off, shooting the little fellow in the [illegible]

SHAKEN BY AN EARTHQUAKE.

No Fatalities Are Reported, but Several Are Badly Injured.

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 29.—Seven western and southern States were visited by an earthquake shock Saturday night shortly before 11 o'clock, but the damage done was comparatively small, being confined principally to the cracking of buildings, some of which, however, may be so badly injured as to necessitate their being torn down. The States visited were Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Ohio, Tennessee, Missouri and Kentucky.

From the reports received here the general direction of the seismic disturbance seems to have been from the northwest to the southeast, Galena, Ill., in the northwestern part of this state, near the Wisconsin line, being the extreme northern point.

Telegraphic reports say that in some cities three distinct shocks were felt, but in the majority of towns heard from but two were experienced. The duration of the disturbance was from three seconds to one minute, although St. Louis telegraphs that the shock lasted fully two minutes.

In Chicago a slight oscillation was experienced in the southern part of the city, but it was not of sufficient violence to awaken sleepers. Many persons who were awake noticed it, but did not think enough of it to report the fact.

Severe at Keokuk.

In the west Keokuk, Iowa, on the Mississippi River, suffered the most. Three distinct shocks were felt there about 11 o'clock, every building in the city being severely shaken. The greatest damage done there was to the residence of J. C. Hubinger, which is situated in the outer portion of the city, on a high bluff. For a period of about four seconds the mansion trembled as though it was going to topple over into the Mississippi River. On the banks of the river just below the residence, Mr. Hubinger operates an electric plant. Occurrences similar to those at the house took place here, and the entire plant was in immediate danger of being destroyed. The Government building trembled from the force of the shock. Some of the structures shaken may be permanently injured.

All through Iowa the shock was felt. Nearly every town in Illinois was affected except those in the northeastern section. At Quincy one severe shock was felt, the disturbance being so severe as to awaken many people out of a sound sleep, and in some cases they were badly frightened. Buildings were violently shaken all over the city, and in many instances the occupants rushed out into the streets in their night clothes under the impression that their houses were tumbling down.

This was the case in the vicinity of Sixteenth and Vermont-streets, and the police report that in Maiden-lane, between Third and Fourth-streets, there were at least 20 persons—men, women and children—on the streets in their night clothes. The shock was particularly severe on the top floors of tall buildings.

At Vandalia, Ill., scores of people, awakened from a sound sleep, rushed into the streets, and the alarm was not quieted for fully an hour. At Springfield, the capital of the state, there were two distinct oscillations closely following each other, and the vibration lasted fully one minute in each case. Buildings were shaken, windows and stoves rattled and suspended electric lights swayed sharply.

The shock was general throughout the central part of Illinois. Mount Pulaski reported a heavy shock. At Jacksonville the shock was lighter than at Springfield, while at Lincoln it was more severe. At Mount Vernon, Ill., which was almost destroyed by a cyclone three years ago, many people thought the disturbance the effect of a cyclone, but they soon had their fears allayed. The electric lights went out, and some few people were thrown out of their chairs. The rumbling was plainly heard for several seconds. Houses rocked to and fro, but no great damage was done to the buildings, although several had large chunks of plaster shaken from the walls and ceilings. The large new Methodist Church was damaged more than any other building and may have to be taken down.

Throughout Central Indiana great alarm was occasioned, both in the cities and farming districts. At Indianapolis the shock was of eight seconds' duration. Judge Martindale of the World's Fair Commission, said he had not gone to sleep when the shock came. His bed rocked, he said, for fully five seconds. The sensation was so marked that he got up and prepared himself for whatever might come next. Terre Haute reports a shock lasting about 30 seconds, during which buildings rocked, glassware and crockery were shaken from the shelves and persons asleep were awakened by the rumbling noise. The people who felt the shock and were able to distinguish the direction say it was from the northwest to the southeast.

The telegraph operator at New Palestine, not far from Indianapolis, on the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton road, reported the shock as generally felt along the line. According to notices received from other operators the people generally were much frightened, windows throughout a wide range of territory being violently rattled. Numerous chimneys were toppled over, the effect being the same as a heavy wind. No casualties are reported.

At Vincennes the people in hotels and [illegible] rushed into the streets in alarm [illegible] and many people were aroused from their slumbers. Buildings vibrated and windows rattled for fully 30 seconds. The shock was felt at Evansville, Olney, Washington and various places. The Vincennes, Ohio and Mississippi freight depot rocked to and fro so plainly that the yardmen were appalled and rushed from the building.

St. Louis, Mo., reports that the shock there was of fully two minutes' duration, being most severe in the western section of the city. In the west end people were awakened from sleep and rushed to the streets in their night clothes.

Found Drowned

[illegible], Sept. 29.—The body of an unknown man was found floating in the river here this morning. Deceased was five feet four inches in height, of a rather stout build and about 60 years of age, with sandy hair, turning grey, and whiskers shaved off his chin. He wore two white shirts, a suit of dark material and over the first coat a frock coat of corded cloth. A small comb and five cents were the only things found on the body. It seems to have been about two weeks in the water.

Tried to Hang the Deputy

GADSDEN, Ala., Sept. 29.—W. T. Bentley, John Bentley, alias Cagee, Harvey Thomas, James Cross and Buren Lethrow, members of a desperate gang of robbers, in jail under sentence for robbery and train wrecking, overpowered Deputy Sheriff Melton this morning. They put a rope about his neck and were hanging him when Policeman Roper appeared and fired on the prisoners. They fled back to their cells and it was afterwards found that two of them were wounded. The rope was hurriedly taken from Melton's neck and he was found to be still alive. He will recover.

For the past year I have been troubled to a very great extent with dandruff, also, a dullness of color in my hair, and through the advice of a friend (who spoke from experience) I tried your Anti-Dandruff, which upon the application of less than a bottle of your liquid I find my head not only thoroughly cleansed but a vast improvement in the color and growth.

I have, and do recommend it as highly beneficial to the profession and public generally as an agreeable and welcome innovation in the remedies put forth for public favor.

Yours, &c., WM. P. WOLFE,
Advertising Agt, "Frank Daniel Co."

Ask Your Friends About It.

Your distressing cough can be cured. We know it, because Kemp's Balsam within the past few years has cured so many coughs and colds in this community. Its remarkable sale has been won entirely by its genuine merit. Ask some friend who has used it what he thinks of Kemp's Balsam. There is no medicine so pure, none so effective. Large bottles 50c. and $1 at all druggists. dw

What Say They?

In popularity increasing. In reliability the standard. In merits the first. In fact, the best remedy for all summer complaints, diarrhœa, dysentery, cramps, colic, cholera, infantum, etc., is Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. All medicine dealers sell it.

His Family did not Know Him.

A Belleville man has for many been bent and crippled with a lame back, but after trying the OR, Kidney cure, he could walk like a boy again and his neighbors could hardly recognize him. This remedy is for sale by all druggists and the OR, Kidney Company, Belleville. dw

Oft in Peril.

Lives of children are often endangered by sudden and violent attacks of cholera, cholera morbus, diarrhœa, dysentery and bowel complaints. A reasonable and certain precaution is to keep Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry always at hand.

A man's wife should always be the same, especially to her husband, but if she is weak and nervous, and uses Carter's Iron Pills, she cannot be, for they make her "feel like a different person," so they all say, and their husbands say so too! dw

Timely Wisdom.

Great and timely wisdom is shown by keeping Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry on hand. It has no equal for cholera, cholera morbus, diarrhœa, dysentery, colic, cramps and all summer complaints or looseness of the bowels.

Every Lady Uses it.

Dyer's Jelly of Cucumber and Roses for chapped hands or lips as it effectually cures in every instance. Try it. Druggists keep it. W. A. Dyer & Co., Montreal. 6d63

Fur overcoats and Russian circulars are first-class articles to keep you warm, but they will not prevent the pains of rheumatism. Ask W. R. Greatrex, Druggist, for a bottle of Royal Rheumatic Remedy. dw

Must not be confounded with common cathartic or purgative pills. Carter's Little Liver Pills are entirely unlike them in every respect. One trial will prove their superiority. dw

The Safest

AND most powerful alterative is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Young and old are alike benefited by its use. For the eruptive diseases peculiar to children nothing else is so effective as this medicine, while its agreeable flavor makes it easy to administer.

"My little boy had large scrofulous ulcers on his neck and throat from which he suffered terribly. Two physicians attended him, but he grew continually worse under their care, and everybody expected he would die. I had heard of the remarkable cures effected by Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and decided to have my boy try it. Shortly after he began to take this medicine, the ulcers commenced healing, and, after using several bottles, he was entirely cured. He is now as healthy and strong as any boy of his age."—William F. Dougherty, Hampton, Va.

"In May last, my youngest child, fourteen months old, began to have sores gather on its head and body. We applied various simple remedies without avail. The sores increased in number and discharged copiously. A physician was called, but the sores continued to multiply until in a few months they nearly covered the child's head and body. At last we began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. In a few days a marked change for the better was manifest. The sores assumed a more healthy condition, the discharges were gradually diminished, and finally ceased altogether. The child is livelier, its skin is fresher, and its appetite better than we have observed for months."—Frank M. Griffin, Long Point, Texas.

"The formula of Ayer's Sarsaparilla presents, for chronic diseases of almost every kind, the best remedy known to the medical world."—D. M. Wilson, M. D., Wiggs, Arkansas.

A Bigamous Drummer's Punishment

MEMPHIS, Sept. 28.—F. J. Rawlings, a drummer from Mobile, Ala., was convicted Thursday of bigamy and given eight years in the Penitentiary. In the spring of 1890 the following advertisement was published in a Ch[illegible] matrimonial paper:

"[illegible] Tennessee. Young lady of the brunet type wishes to correspond with gentleman of intelligence and good business qualifications, between the age of [illegible] and [illegible]."

It was inserted by a pretty girl of North Mississippi and brought in response a number of letters. The correspondent who most pleased the young lady signed himself "Joe." His letter was replied to and resulted in a continued correspondence of several months. The two became so intimate that it was agreed upon [illegible] they should greet each other with a kiss. The young lady who advertised was Miss Annie Benton of Lake View, Miss. The young man who answered it was F. J. Rawlings. A short time after [illegible] he married Miss Benton and the couple [illegible] to Memphis. Their married bliss was of short duration. Rawlings skipped out and left his bride to take care of herself. He took her watch and other jewelry with him. The girl went to friends, who put the police on Rawlings' track and he was arrested on a charge of bigamy, the [illegible] having received a letter from Mobile stating that Rawlings had a wife there. These facts were proved. The jury deliberated about 15 minutes after getting the case, then returned a verdict of guilty.

He left his shoe, revolver and knife behind.

Harry Gale, the young man in question, was captured at Madrid, N.Y., and brought to Morrisburg. A preliminary examination was held before Police Magistrate [illegible] when Gale confessed everything and was committed for trial.

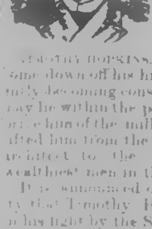
A FIGHT FOR MILLIONS.

THE HOPKINS WILL CONTEST WHICH INVOLVES $40,000,000.

Portrait of Timothy Hopkins, the Adopted Son Who Was Cut Off Without a Penny. The Very Formidable Preparations for the Great Contest.

On the 8th notice was filed in the Massachusetts Courts of an intention to contest the will of the late Mrs. Hopkins Searles, who cut off all her relatives, including her adopted son, and gave $40,000,000 to her second husband, Edward Searles.



TIMOTHY HOPKINS.

Preparations of a formidable character indicate the contest in which the adopted son, Timothy Hopkins, is joined by twenty-two more or less nearly related connections of the dead woman.

Searles, who at first maintained an attitude of defiance, has come down off his high horse, and is apparently becoming conscious of the fact that it may be within the power of the Courts to decide which of the millions which in a few years lifted him from the obscurity of a country [illegible] to the position of one of the wealthiest men in the country.

It is announced on pretty good authority that Timothy Hopkins will be backed in his fight by the Southern Pacific people, and Searles' attorneys are evidently weakening and manifest a disposition to compromise matters.

The father and mother for the principal contestant, Timothy Hopkins, were Mr. and Mrs. Hogan. They lived in Sacramento, Cal. They were poor people. It is said that his mother, reduced to penury and deserted by her husband, earned a livelihood at the washtub. Mrs. Hopkins knew the family, adopted Timothy, brought him up and made him treasurer of the Southern Pacific. He married one of Mrs. Hopkins' nieces; the other niece married Mark Sibley Severence. They have joined to break the will.

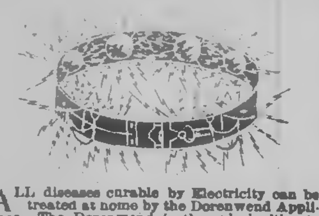
Self Application of Electricity FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES BY THE DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.



ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT OF QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM, but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

SUN LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA.

The attention of our Policy-Holders is directed to the following summary of the leading items of the present report, which speaks for itself as to the progress and prosperity of the Company:—

Life Assurances in force, 1st January, 1891	$16,759,355.92
Increase over previous year	2,421,372.84
New Applications received in 1890	6,371,599.15
Increase over 1889	2,268,888.60
Cash income for year ending 31st December, 1890	889,078.87
Increase over 1889	325,938.35
Assets at 31st December, 1890	2,473,514.19
Increase over 1889	687,691.47
Reserve for Security for Policy-Holders	2,109,222.68
Increase over 1889	567,732.71
Surplus over all Liabilities and Capital Stock	232,175.69
Increase over 1889	75,649.05
Death claims fallen in during 1890	143,961.65

The progress made by the SUN LIFE during 1890 was remarkable. The new business was the largest in the Company's history, and was equalled by but one other Canadian Life Company. The income for the year exceeds $2,000 for each day in the year, Sundays included. The Assets are large and rapidly increasing. They are, moreover, of the highest character, yielding an average interest of 6.04 per cent. The overdue interest is small, and the Real Estate owned under foreclosure is only four per cent. of the amount of mortgages. This is a remarkable showing. The SURPLUS accumulated during the FOUR years of the current quinquennium is nearly THREE TIMES as much as the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail thus to be highly satisfactory. The following are the figures:—

" " " " 1886, "	89,452 97
" " " " 1890, (four years)	232,175 69

A Fine Musical Organization.

The Peterborough Amateur Orchestra had a fine and successful practice last night in the Olympic club rooms. There were fourteen pieces represented, comprising three first class violins, piano, 'cello, double bass, two clarionets, two cornets and two tympani and trombone. An excellent practice was held, and the proficiency of the orchestra was very pleasantly demonstrated. The public will have an opportunity at the coming complimentary concert on Oct. 6th, to hear what really fine music the orchestra can produce.

A Promising Concert

The complimentary concert to Miss Louise Yokome on Oct. 6th is attracting great attention, and promises to be, in point of merit and enjoyment, as it will be in point of time, the leading musical event of the winter, and a most auspicious opening of the concert season. Miss M. Trengloss Stevenson is singing in western Ontario with great success, and receives an ovation wherever she appears. She will sing at the coming concert two solos, one with violin obligato, and a brilliant duet with Mr. Dunn. The other contributors to the programme will give first-class selections, which will be announced in a day or two. Be sure to arrange to attend this fine musical entertainment on Oct. 6th—the opening concert of the season of '91-2. Those who wish to secure good seats must be prompt in marking them, as the plan is fast filling up. Plan of hall at Peterborough Bookstore.

Police Court Paragraphs.

Wm. Flynn, charged with drunkenness, was discharged.

Richard Kelly was brought up under arrest, charged with assaulting, beating and ill treating a nine year boy, Harold Lovekin. Mr. J. Hampden Burnham appeared on behalf of the prosecution, and Mr. R. R. Hall for the prisoner. The boy himself, John Welsh, Mrs. Graham and Miss Hewie gave evidence as to the nature of the assault and the lad's injuries. On behalf of the prisoner evidence was given by his wife, Mrs. Kelly, two children of the family and the prisoner himself, their several stories being consistently uniform. The magistrate commented severely on the brutal nature of the assault, and sentenced the prisoner to one month in the common gaol.

William Parker, step-son of Kelly, was charged with indecent exposure of his person at the house where he lives. The charge was dismissed, the accused receiving the benefit of the doubt.

Matthew Wynn, the prisoner accused of stabbing Walter Kerr, was remanded for one week, Walter being too ill to appear.

Benjamin Yelland was charged with keeping a vicious dog, which was alleged to have bitten Francis Vinette. Judgment was reserved.

Cornelius Ryan, charged with assaulting his wife, was discharged, his wife not appearing to prosecute.

Frank Perry, a vagrant from Toronto, was given the smallest possible time the law allowed to get out of town.

THE NINTH LINE, DUMMER

Charges Re Expenditure of $100 Road Grant.

The Investigation Now Under Way—Richard Crowe's Charges Against A. R. Kidd Being Investigated by the County Judge—Sketch of the Case—The Charges Formulated—Witnesses for the Prosecution.

COURT HOUSE,
PETERBOROUGH, Sept. 29th.

The investigation into the charges preferred against Mr. A. R. Kidd, Reeve of Dummer, in connection with the expenditure of a county appropriation of $100 for roadwork on the ninth line of Dummer, in 1884, was opened this morning at the Court House before His Honor Judge Weller, a session of the County Court (without jury) being held for the purpose. The trial will last all day, and probably into to-morrow, there being a large number of witnesses to examine.

Mr. R. E. Wood, C. C. A., conducts the prosecution, and Mr. John Burnham, Q. C., appears for the private prosecution. Mr. E. B. Stone is counsel for defendant.

Before commencing proceedings the witnesses for the prosecution, at the instance of the defence, were excluded from the court room.

THE COUNTY RECORDS.

Mr. EDG. PEARSE, clerk and treasurer of the county, was the first witness. He said there was a record in the county books of a sum of money granted by the county in 1884, to be expended on the 9th line of Dummer. He read the clause of the report of the Road and Bridges with reference to this matter, as follows:—"That a special grant of $100 be given for the road on the 9th line of Dummer." That report was adopted on June 4th. Defence here admitted that Mr. Kidd, the defendant, received the money about the end of June, as reeve of Dummer and commissioner to expend the money. There was a charge made against Mr. Kidd in the county council with reference to this money. Witness produced some letters bearing on the subject, as follows:—

THE CHARGES FORMULATED.

PETERBOROUGH, June 15, 1891.

To the Warden and members of the County Council:

GENTLEMEN,—At the last meeting of the County Council I made certain charges against Mr. A. R. Kidd, reeve of Dummer. Among other charges was one that on the 28th day of June, 1884, he drew the $100 appropriated for repairs on the 9th line of Dummer; that the expenditure of the government money was completed on the 6th of November, and that up to that time he had never done a day's work on account of the county money. Being a ratepayer of the county and believing that the money was spent, I asked for an investigation and offered to deposit $50 or $100 to cover the expense in case I was wrong. At your January meeting a resolution was passed calling on Mr. Kidd to file statement and vouchers for that expenditure. Although he professed to have the vouchers with him at that time and had an article published in one of the papers showing he had furnished the vouchers yet he had not complied with your instructions although he has had five months to do so.

I am told that he claimed to have spent the money between the 6th and 13th of November. Should he file a statement that the work was done during that time, I ask for an investigation where evidence can be taken under oath, and have every reason to believe that I can show that the work was not done at that or any other time. So positive am I on that point that I offer the same terms as in my previous letter, viz.:—to deposit $50 or $100 which is to be forfeited if Mr. Kidd can prove his statements to be true.

Yours truly,
RICHARD CROWE.

P. S.—Since writing the above letter I have learned that Mr. Kidd has handed in a statement showing to whom he claims to have paid the money, and have no hesitation in saying that it is not correct. Already three of the parties he claims to have paid money to say they never received a cent from him after the 6th of November, when the Government money was paid. I stand by my offer to deposit $50 or $100 for an investigation.

RICHARD CROWE.

To the Warden and members of the County Council:

GENTLEMEN,—I learn that Mr. A. R. Kidd, has filed a statement with the County Treasurer in which he states that he paid me for work done on the ninth line of Dummer between 6th and 13th November, 1884. I never did any work or received any money from Mr. Kidd for working on the ninth line after Mr. McWilliams paid me when the Government money was expended.

*WINFIELD LEASON,
*HENRY HUGHES,
SAMUEL SMYLIE.

(*Witnessed by Samuel Leason and Wm. Armstrong.)

PETERBOROUGH, 18th June, 1891.

F. Elmhirst, Esq., Warden of the County of Peterborough:

DEAR SIR—Mr. Richard Crowe has shown me a copy of a statement given to the County Treasurer by Mr. A. R. Kidd, of the expenditure on the north line of Dummer in fall of 1884. In that statement Mr. Kidd credits himself with $3 50 for going over the road with Mr. Blezard and himself. I cannot see how Mr. Kidd can include any such charge in connection with the county money, as we had nothing to do with it. Mr. Kidd did go over the road with Mr. Blezard and myself, for which I paid him out of the government money and hold his receipt.

If ever Mr. Kidd spent that $100 it was not between the 6th and 13th November, 1884. There is no difficulty in proving by reliable witnesses residing on the road that he left there before the 7th and never returned.

Yours truly,
J. B. MCWILLIAMS.

Continuing witness said Mr. Kidd filed a statement shortly before the council met in June, in response to the resolution passed at the January meeting of the county council, requesting a statement from Mr. Kidd, a copy of which was furnished by Mayor Stevenson, when the statement was made by Mr. Kidd in February.

Mr. Stone.—There have been moneys granted similarly, for which some Reeves made returns and some did not. Mr. Kidd got this money in June, 1884. The Reeve sometimes drew their money before the work was done.

Mr. J. B. McWILLIAMS was called and produced some papers he had received from the Crown Lands Department, containing the pay list for $500 granted by the government for expending on this same road in 1884. The work was begun 16th September, 1884, and ended on 6th November 1884. Witness was superintendent of the work (being Colonization Roads Agent), and this money was expended by him. Mr. Kidd was his foreman. Prior to this arrangement witness, Mr. Blezard and Mr. Kidd met at Warsaw and went over the road. Mr. Kidd got his instructions from witness at that time. The report of the Department was made up from Mr. Kidd's time-book, at the time the money was paid for the work. In this pay-list every working day of Mr. Kidd and his son is entered. Mr. Kidd and his son received for their services $209.00 out of a total of $602.75 expended. Witness visited the road three times altogether. The last time he was there (Nov. 5th) Mr. Kidd told him he wanted to get away home for the present to fix up things for the winter, when he would return and spend the county money. They discussed the expenditure of the county money and when it was to be expended.

To Mr. STONE—I did not think Mr. Kidd and his son received more than they were entitled to, according to the time they said they worked. Mr. Kidd as foreman had a right to take on his son and team if he chose. Would not say I did not suggest it to him. Mr. Robb and Mr. Kidd went over the road on Sept. 8th and located the work, for which Mr. Kidd was paid. The day of the making out of the first half of the pay-list Mr. Kidd was paid for taking witness and Mr. Blezard out to that road. He never expected Mr. Kidd to charge for this, because Mr. Blezard and himself had their own rigs at Warsaw, but he asked them to ride with him.

Q—Who was it first induced Mr. Crowe to begin this action?

A.—It was Mr. Kidd's own statements that caused the whole thing.

Q.—Did you tell Mr. Crowe to do it.

A.—No, I did not. Mr. Kidd stated at a public meeting in Warsaw a year ago last spring that he spent $800 on this road—$500 government money, $200 township money and $100 county money. I denied that statement then and there and said I could prove it by copies of my pay lists which I had there. He denied that they were copies of the pay lists and accused me of falsehood. I offered to pay expenses of himself, the other four Dummer councillors and Mr. Darling, clerk of the municipality, to Toronto, to examine and compare my copy with the original lists, and pay $100 to any charitable institution in the county if there was $1 difference. I said I would either make him admit he told a falsehood in denying these lists, or I would prove it. I do so now by producing the original lists signed by himself and son for all money they received and signed by him as witness for all men who could not write their name.

Q—I understand you have indemnified the Crowes against loss in this case?

A.—I have not.

Q.—You furnished money to bring witnesses here?

A.—Not a cent.

Q—When did you first ascertain the $100 had not been expended?

A.—In conversation with Mr. Blezard some time before the election. I expected Mr. Kidd had gone back and done the work as he intended.

Continuing, witness stated he paid the men off on Nov. 5th; the date was on the pay list. Any work done on the 9th line after Nov. 6th would not be Government work.

Mr. Stone introduced some documents which had been in circulation concerning this matter for the purpose of showing animus on the part of Mr McWilliams. The latter admitted authorship of one but repudiated the other. His Honor Judge Weller did not think they bore on the case.

Mr. JAS. ROBB said he lived on the 8th concession, adjoining the 9th line of Dummer. He had the expenditure of some county money in 1884 in that township, and for that purpose wanted some tools. He got them from Bertram's hardware store, Peterborough. Got the tools jointly with Mr. Kidd. He had the expenditure of $200 township money, and knew there was some government and county money to be expended, and proposed to Mr. Kidd to get the tools jointly, so they could both use the same tools and save expense. They drove to Peterborough together and got the tools, Mr. Kidd saying they would do him after he (witness) got through with them. Witness paid for the tools, giving $10 he had received from Mr. Kidd and the balance from his own pocket, afterwards charging the county with that balance. After using the tools he sent them by his son to Warsaw, and the tools were left at Dan. Kidd's blacksmith shop for Mr. A. R. Kidd. Witness afterwards got part of the tools. Got them on the road where Mr. Kidd had been using them. That was the 6th of November. Witness produced a memorandum book containing a list of tools and date they were received. He wanted the tools for use the next season. There was no work done by Mr. Kidd or any other person on the 9th line after he took away the tools on 6th of November. Witness remembered going with Mr. Kidd before the work was done in September to point out the centre of the concession. He had heard Mr. Kidd say something about the Government pay sheets.

Whistling.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

About three years ago several letters appeared in our local papers on the nuisance which had been for some time perpetrated by the two railway companies in the way of annoying and, to a great extent, unnecessary locomotive whistling. "Honest" John Douglas and Mr. W. H. Moore were then councillors, and they took the matter in hand, and brought it before the town council, who endeavored to put a stop to the intolerable nuisance, but failed. Through the persistency of the two gentlemen named reference was made to the Railway Committee of the Privy Council, and directions were given that the whistling was to be reduced to a minimum. For a time these instructions were seemingly carried out, but for some time past they have been about ignored, for the whistling which seems to be indulged in apparently in many instances as a pastime by the engineers, or as an expression of their tempers, is something terrible and torturing. Bad enough is it for those who enjoy good health to be disturbed at all hours, or nearly so, of the night, but what must it be for the invalids, children, and the many wearied (in mind and body), who want all the rest and sleep it is possible to get, but which is broken in upon by this abominable whistling? The programme begins at about 12.30 a.m. by the arrival of the C. P. R. train from the west, then very frequently freights or specials till up time until the arrival of the C. P. R. train from the east at about 5 a.m., then [illegible] on the G.T.R. [illegible]. The G.T.R. train arriving about 7.10 makes itself heard; the train from Port Hope also. Then the C.P.R. at about 6 p.m. ditto; then the evening G.T.R. and the C.P.R. train herald their approach by a long screech frequently, to the annoyance and disturbance of scores, if not hundreds, of our citizens, young and old, who have gone to their "little beds." One of your former correspondents suggested that if the nuisance was abolished that a monument such as was proposed to be erected in honor to Sir John A., should be erected to his honor here. So far nothing of the kind has been warranted. I hope that the town council will again take the matter up and take steps to have the nuisance permanently stopped, and they will, I am satisfied, earn the gratitude of a very large proportion of the entire population of our good town.

So much for the locomotive whistling. In addition to this there are a number of factory whistles which blow from early morn at intervals until 6 p.m., when happily they are hushed until 6 a.m. These are of various tones, some shrill, some medium, such as the Auburn Mills, Lock Works, G.T.R., etc., and last, though not least, is the one recently placed at the Edison Works, which is, I am informed, guaranteed to be heard twenty miles off, when blown by the full power. At present it is about half as loud as it will be later on. It is only fit to be banished to Cape Race or some far off point to sea. It seems to be the order of the day that factories, large and small, shall have their whistle to be sounded at times and seasons to suit the several establishments. Now why should this be tolerated? For the signalling of a comparatively few, nearly the whole town is aroused and annoyed at different times during the day. The effect of all these disturbances upon the nervous systems of people generally is bad. As to this the medical profession could no doubt speak. Suppose the merchants, professional men, &c, were to adopt some method of their own to call their clerks together, say at six a.m. and different times during the day, what a din there would be, and how busy the chief and his force and our worthy police magistrate would have to be to dispose of the disturbers of the peace, for such they would be construed to be, and properly so; but, forsooth, locomotive and factory whistles are allowed to blow off as much as the pullers of the bobbin please.

Agitate the matter and the power of the press may be felt for the permanent stopping of what is in most quarters complained of, and then the good people may make sure of freedom from disturbance and enjoy

QUIET REPOSE.

A Warning.

Advice to Our Young Men and Women.

A wise writer says:—"The excesses of our youth are drafts upon our old age, payable with interest about thirty years after date." The young men and women of our age are too unmindful of health. They imagine that the strength and robustness of youth are inexhaustible, and therefore they feel themselves able to dive deeply into every round of pleasure and excitement. Late hours, insufficient sleep, bad ventilation, sudden transitions from heat to cold, over-indulgences and excesses, the bustle of fashion, and rush after social position and wealth, are heavy drafts upon their health which will certainly drag them down to ruin and decay before they attain middle age.

Any ordinary physician can easily point out on the street, market place, or in the church, such subjects as we now refer to. The pallid cheek, the sunken eye, the emaciated body, the unsteady and trembling hand, the nervous disposition, the weak and irresolute step—all are sad, painful indications of youthful follies and excesses. God forbid that such men and women will ever become the fathers and mothers of the next generation. God help our dear Canada if such be the case. We take it for granted that our young men and women are too proud of the history of their fathers and grandfathers, and love their country too well, ever to allow such a contingency to arise. They have heard of what science has accomplished for them; they know that from the lap of nature there has been culled a true elixir, a rejuvenator, a health-giving preparation now known as Paine's Celery Compound, which can restore the glow of health to the now pallid countenance, sweep away all forms of nervousness, restore lost vitality, revive the drooping spirits, clear the clouded brain, build up anew the body in flesh and muscle, and give new hopes, new joys, and new ambitions.

Why delay the use of this God-given remedy? Why will ye longer walk in the bitter road of disease and suffering? This grand and effectual remedy—Paine's Celery Compound—is now within reach of all; a remedy that the best physicians of our land are now prescribing and recommending. Will you, in the face of such powerful evidence, go on for a few short months or years a burden to yourself and a stumbling block to others, or will you take hold of this great life restorer, and become a blessing to your family and a benefit to your country?

THREATENED INVASION OF RUSSO-JEWISH REFUGEES.

Cases at Various Assize Courts—A 12 Year Old Girl Commits Suicide—Toronto's Engineer Resigns—Traffic Receipts of the Trunk Lines.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—News reaches me on high authority that Canada is in imminent danger of a large influx of Russo-Jewish refugees. I am told the agents of some of the great steamship lines running to Montreal are busy booking large numbers in Europe, and in order to avoid a renewal of the trouble with the Government inspectors at Montreal the emigrants are being booked through to various points in Canada. The agents naturally care chiefly for their commissions on tickets, but those concerned with Canada's best interests think the Government should intervene and inform the steamship companies that landing will be refused to those without visible means of support, or otherwise undesirable.

Examination showed that she was shot through the groin and evidently dragged herself along till loss of blood brought the end.

Toronto's City Engineer Resigns.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 30.—City Engineer Jennings has handed his resignation to the Mayor as a consequence of the action of the council last night in depriving him of the controlling power over the subordinates in his department. In his letter of resignation he accuses the Executive Committee of breaking faith with him. The general opinion at the City Hall is that Mr. Jennings will on no account withdraw his resignation. He is well to do, and his resignation again causes his name to be associated with the position recently held by Mr. Perley in the Public Works Department at Ottawa.

Body Discovered.

WINDSOR, Sept. 30.—Henry McKenzie and others in the sail boat Vulcan discovered the body of a man in an advanced state of decomposition in the river yesterday. It was that of a middle aged man, and the clothes had once been of fine texture and good make.

Cut the Horses' Tails Off.

STRATFORD, Sept. 30.—Mr. D. W. Clark, North Easthope, has an imported Clydesdale brood mare and colt. Last night some person cut the hair off the tails of both animals within about an inch of the flesh. The work is supposed to have been prompted by spite. Mr. Clark is offering a reward of $100 for the arrest of the guilty party.

A Monster Iceberg.

MONTREAL, Sept. 30.—The Dominion steamer Peveril on her last trip to Montreal sighted an extraordinarily large iceberg east by north of Belle Isle. The berg was 150 feet high and was moving south at a rate of about two knots an hour.

Avenged in Blood.

PARIS, Sept. 30.—A despatch from Courneroive, Department of the Seine, states that while many persons were drinking in a cabaret there last night, a dentist named Mavehide rushed to a table at which an army surgeon, Dr. Mantin, was sitting and shot Mantin dead. Mavehide escaped. He suspected Mantin had been criminally intimate with his wife.

An Imposing Ceremony.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—An imposing religious ceremony took place yesterday in St. Paul's Cathedral, the occasion being the consecration of five bishops of the established church. The Archbishop of Canterbury officiated and performed the ceremony of consecration. The new bishops and the incumbents of the sees of Truro are Lichfield and the Bishops-Suffragan of Coventry, Southwalk and Zululand. Six thousand persons were present at the celebration of communion.

RUSSIAN DESTITUTION.

GAUNT FAMINE STALKS THROUGH THE LAND.

Peasants Threaten a Revolution Unless the Czar Comes to Their Relief—Women Selling Themselves to Save Their Children From Starvation.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The Telegraph's St. Petersburg correspondent says: Despatches from the interior are more alarming. The August frosts destroyed the barley crop, the staple food in Archangel. The extreme north crops have been spoiled by rains. Straw from the thatched roofs is utilized for fodder. Cattle are dying by the wholesale on the roadside. Various ministers have issued conflicting orders, resulting in utter chaos. The grants of seed corn have been stopped. Immense tracts of land are lying waste, and a scarcity of corn is threatened in 1892. The cattle plague has broken out in many places. Peasants in Sojowsky attacked some veterinary surgeons, who had been sent to destroy infected cattle, and several were wounded in the skirmish.

Clergymen are becoming beggars, women are selling themselves to support their children and no work can be procured by the starving persons.

A large budget deficit is certain, and to make matters worse a million loads of rye, promised by the governor of a neighboring province, on which the Ministry had relied, do not exist. This discovery has caused consternation.

The famine is expected to reach its height in November. The peasants threaten a revolution unless the Czar gives them relief from private resources. Partial risings are reported in Yekaterinosky, Nijni Novgorod and Kasan.

Not for centuries has such widespread distress been recorded. The trouble is chiefly due to the Government, which delayed action to relieve distress.

The distress has been intensified by an enormous number of unusually disastrous fires. In many districts entire villages have been destroyed. The inhabitants, weak from lack of food, made an attempt to check the flames.

The cattle plague has caused incredible havoc in these districts. Thousands of cattle perished and many families lost their only means of subsistence. What little food the peasants obtain is of the vilest description.

In Saratoff the land owners made bread of mill refuse and sold it to the peasants. The bread of finely chopped straw and bran with a small quantity of rye is considered a godsend. In many districts the peasantry live on "hunger bread," which is said to be made of dried dung, the powdered bark of trees and ground pigweed.

Heavy rains have fallen and the ground is so soaked that potatoes are rotting. The price of potatoes has doubled.

In 13 governments the people are completely famine struck and in eight a partial famine prevails.

The great annual fair at Nijni Novgorod was a failure this year owing to the enormous number of bankrupts.

Hundreds of peasants are begging on the highways. In many cases the seed corn furnished the peasants by the Government has been eaten.

Taxes continue to be extorted from the starving people. Frequently peasants who are unwilling to pay taxes are flogged.

A Certain Place is Paved With Them.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—An identical note has been issued by England and Germany in response to the note issued by the Chinese Government in which the Pekin authorities promised to protect the lives and property of foreigners in China. In this note England and Germany state that they accept the assurances of China's good intentions but declare they will be compelled to consult their ambassadors at Pekin in regard to the ability of the Chinese Government to carry out its intentions. The note says that only the evidence of accomplished facts will satisfy the powers.

Advices from China say: "In the riot at Ichang the premises of the Catholic and American missions and Messrs. Cain's, Aldridge's and Dean's houses were burned, while Mr. Cockburn's house was looted. All foreigners are on board the steamer Pacha and the customs officers are under arms. The men-of-war Swift, Aspic, Archer and Inconstant have been despatched to the scene of the trouble."

BERLIN, Sept. 29.—Dr. Von Boetticher, Prussian Minister of Commerce, delivered an address before the Rhenish Agricultural Association at Remischeid yesterday. During the course of the address the minister said that the welfare of agriculture depended upon the preservation of the golden gift of peace. It had been apprehended in many quarters, he said, that the peace of Europe was endangered, but notwithstanding these apprehensions, apart from the changes that are always possible, peace was never surely guaranteed as at the present time.

Spanish Amazons in Battle.

MADRID, Sept. 30.—A Carlist faction at Puenta De La Reina, in Navarre has risen against the Old Carlists of Citanqui Mineru. The two parties headed by women and armed with fowling pieces and old muskets marched into the open to-day and exchanged fire, several persons being wounded. The combatants were finally dispersed by gendarmes. Isolated fighting, however, is continued.

A Mother's Unavailing Heroism.

LEBANON, Pa., Sept. 30.—Paul Bomberger, aged 4, this morning wandered on the track of the Lebanon Electric Railway as a car was approaching. His mother, Mrs. Thomas Bomberger, rushed on the track to save him, when the car struck both. The mother was instantly killed and the boy will die.

An Airship Vanishes in Mid Air.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 30.—Pennington's airship, which was under a tent at the fair grounds in readiness for a trial to be made Saturday, was caught up by the storm yesterday and blown away. No trace of it has been found. The ship cost $20,000.

Maiming Cattle.

STRATFORD, Sept. 29.—A young man named McGuire is in custody here, charged with the serious offence of maiming cattle in Logan.

A LONG SESSION OVER.

PARLIAMENT PROROGUED THIS AFTERNOON.

The Members Voted Themselves $500 Each as Extra Indemnity and Unanimously Decided to Expel Thomas McGreevy From Parliament.

OTTAWA, Sept. 30.—In the House Tuesday afternoon Sir John Thompson said that the conclusion of the Committee on Privileges and Elections and the minority report as well left him no alternative but to ask the judgment of the House on the Hon. Thomas McGreevy, member for Quebec West. Irrespective of offences which might come under the criminal law that member was found guilty of offences against the House. He therefore moved that Thomas McGreevy having been found guilty of contempt of the authority of the House in having failed to attend in his place and having been judged guilty of the offences charged against him on May 11 last be expelled from the House.

The motion for expulsion was carried without remark, except that Dr. Ferguson shouted "No!"

Sir John Thompson then moved that the Speaker issue his warrant for a writ for a new election in Quebec West. This motion, too, was adopted without discussion.

Sir John Thompson moved that an address of the Parliament of Canada be presented to Her Majesty praying that Her Majesty will be graciously pleased to invite such legislation in the Parliament of the United Kingdom as will remove the doubts as to the power of the Parliament of Canada to legislate on the subject of copyright and explicitly confer upon the Parliament of Canada the power to legislate in the interests of the people of the Dominion on all matters relating to that subject, without regard to the statutes which may have been in force when the Parliament of Canada was established; and further, that in order to give full effect to the act of the Parliament of Canada of 1889 notice may be given by Her Majesty's Government of the withdrawal of Canada from the Berne Copyright Convention.

The motion was adopted without discussion.

Supplementary estimates, granting members an extra $500 sessional indemnity, were laid on the table.

Mr. Foster, in moving the House into Committee of Supply, said that the session had been an unusually long one, lasting over five months; that the session was held at a season particularly inconvenient to business and professional men; that strong representations were made by both sides of the House in favor of the proposal. He did not regard the $500 in any sense as compensation for losses suffered in business on professions, but as some compensation for the extra personal expenses entailed by members while here attending to their duties.

Mr. Laurier approved and endorsed the proposition and Sir Richard Cartwright said he was prepared to share the responsibility and justify the action of the Government in the matter.

Mr. Mulock said that the Minister of Finance in justifying the proposal by referring to the unsuitable season of the session was reproving the action of the late administration in bringing on the session at the time it did. The weak point about the matter was that members of the House were passing judgment on their own claims. He regretted that the Government had thought fit to introduce this resolution. He thought there should be legislation on the statute book referring to such extraordinary sessions, so that all may know in advance what to expect. The Government should introduce next session legislation dealing with the subject and to come into force the following session. He hoped it would be the last time members had to deal with a case of this kind.

After some further discussion the estimates passed.

Sir John Thompson said in reply to Sir Richard Cartwright that the Government would pay the legal expenses of Mr. Geoffrion for his services in connection with the Committee on Privileges and Elections. The House then adjourned until 11 o'clock this morning, when the business of the session will be concluded. Prorogation will take place at 3 in the afternoon.

Sir Francis De Winton, military secretary to Lord Lorne while Governor General of Canada, is a guest at Rideau Hall.

A Bit of Shell in a Philadelphia Man's Throat Kills Him.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30.—Death often knocks at life's doors clothed in a strange garb, but seldom does he adopt the disguise in which he visited Robert H. Adams of No. 1626 Green street. In the early part of the summer Mr. Adams was dining one evening at a down-town cafe. Among other tempting delicacies which he had selected was a deviled crab. He had eaten scarcely a quarter of it when he discovered that a small particle of the shell had lodged in his throat. All efforts to dislodge it proved fruitless. Upon examination the doctor found that the piece of shell was still firmly imbedded in the back of the throat. Every effort made to extract it proved unavailing and last night he died.

A Strange Family Affliction.

LATROBE, Pa., Sept. 30.—Logan A. Weppler, 12 years old, son of John Weppler, was buried yesterday. He died from hemorrhage of the gums. The boy had a tooth extracted, which it appears had been bleeding for 10 days, and as a result the hemorrhage resulted from the cavity. There seems to have been a peculiarity in the family of Mrs. Weppler in the inclination of fatal hemorrhages; five of her brothers died from this cause and two of her children died from it previous to the death of Logan. The trouble is known as hemorrhage diathesis and arises from some traumatic cause that destroys or lessens the coagulating power of the blood, causing a constant danger of fatal hemorrhage.

France Buying Grain in America.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—It is reported that the French Government during the last three weeks has quietly picked up an enormous amount of grain and meats in this country. The orders for flour are said to amount to 2,000,000 barrels and for grain to 25,000,000 bushels.

Whisky in Both Cases.

BUFFALO, Sept. 30.—Alexander Noble, a Swede, suicided by shooting this morning, and John Hamp, a shoemaker, shot and killed himself at 9 o'clock this morning. Whisky in both cases.

A Baby in a Quart Cup.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 30.—A remarkable midget child is attracting attention here. The child was born to Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Perkins a month ago and now weighs only two and a quarter pounds. The child is only seven inches in height and has been put with ease in a quart cup. Both parents are of the average size.

Hot Water for Stiff Shoes.

Hot water is getting up a reputation as a panacea for all earthly ills. One of the latest suggested is the following: If your new shoes are stiff—of course they are not tight—stand in two or three inches of hot water for a few moments, then rub your shoes dry and keep them on. You will find that you can do so with comfort.

Hailstorms and Fire in China.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 30.—Chinese advices say: Terrible hailstorms are reported in parts of Song Chow doing great damage. Heavy rains and a cyclone at Shanghai recently unroofed houses and blew down trees. Five lives were lost. A terrible fire has occurred at Chung King and another at Nanking. Over 100 of the best shops in Nanking were destroyed.

Scottish Home Rule.

ABERDEEN, Sept. 30.—A meeting of the Scottish Home Rule Association was held here to-day. Mr. Gladstone sent a letter in which he said that since he had last spoken in Aberdeen, which was in 1870, the wants and convictions of Ireland had been made known in the most emphatic manner. He thought the Scottish people were as well entitled as the Irish to form judgment on their own affairs.

TWO TORONTO SUICIDES.

Laudanum and Rough on Rats the Means That Were Adopted.

TORONTO, Sept. 30.—David Hamilton, for some time a porter at the Union House, has been drinking heavily of late and concluded to wind the whole thing up with a dose of "Rough on Rats." Accordingly about 9.30 last night he took three-quarters of a box and wandered into the International Hotel, where he fell on the floor in a fit. Hamilton was removed to the hospital. On his arrival there a stomach pump was applied, but the poison had seized too firm a hold of the man's system.

At 1.15 this morning he recovered consciousness, and opening his eyes said, "Well nobody knows about it but me," and having said these cabalistic words he died.

An Englishman named Jesse Worboys, aged 42, and living at 25 Victoria-lane, died yesterday morning from the effects of laudanum. For some time Worboys, who is a hatter by trade, has been out of work and drinking heavily. On Monday last he purchased a vial of laudanum from Schofield's drug store at 166 Chestnut-street. Some time the same day he went to the Park, where he drank the poison. Afterwards he removed to Victoria-lane. There he complained somewhat of pains in the stomach. About 11 o'clock yesterday he was seen alive. In the afternoon the patrol wagon was called and the body of the man was removed to the morgue.

CONFESSED THREE MURDERS.

Terrible Death-Bed Admissions of John Giroc, a Hungarian.

HAZLETON, Pa., Sept. 30.—After confessing three murders to Father Warnofski, the Shamokin Hungarian priest, John Giroc, a Silverbrook Hun, died yesterday after quite a long illness. Each of his three victims was killed for plunder, and each disappeared mysteriously. He killed a fellow-countryman named Olacz at Shamokin seven years ago; then had a man named Ward assist him in murdering Olacz's indignant brother at Reed Station, and finally, in October, 1885, [illegible] a man named Hornwell near [illegible] Colliery for $310.

ELOPER SHEARN'S

His Rearrest Drives Him [illegible], and Miss Williams is [illegible].

NANTICOKE, Pa., Sept. 29.—The sensational rumor has been circulated about the mine operator, J. B. Shearn, who recently eloped with pretty Miss Nellie Williams, [illegible] back with his reconciled [illegible] to be arrested and held in $1000 bail, that he has gone to Canada and will not appear for a further hearing to-morrow. Certainly he bought a ticket for Niagara Falls on Friday night.

The elopement, as recently disclosed letters show, took Shearn and Miss Williams to England, where he has a rich father. The father, learning the facts, sent the couple back to America, giving Shearn funds with which to gratify Miss Nellie's musical ambition and educate her at the Conservatory of Music in Boston. There, it is believed, he left her.

SHE NEVER KNEW HIS LOVE.

Anyhow He Died Because He Could Not Marry Beatrice Cameron.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—A man who gave his life for the woman he loved, and that woman never knew of his love, is the queer case told by The Sun in a London cablegram. Joseph Barker, cashier a year ago in Low's Exchange, fell violently in love with Beatrice Cameron. He never annoyed her by avowing his passion, though he told Mr. Low and Manager Glanville that she was the only woman he could ever love. He was discharged from the exchange, went crazy and blew out his brains.

Went Down to Death.

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 30.—A cab, with horse, driver and two passengers, plunged into the Chicago River last night from an unprotected approach at Washington-street bridge. Carrie Green and the driver, Rufus Perry, were drowned. The other passenger, John Sheldon, was fished out unconscious and will probably die. All three are colored.

Circus Tent Blown Down.

MUNCIE, Ind., Sept. 30.—The first rain for a month fell last night. It was preceded by a heavy wind storm, doing considerable damage. The large tent of a circus collapsed during the performance, falling on 200 people. Pandemonium reigned, and several persons, including a woman, were badly bruised. Several children were trampled upon.

Wanted to Kill Her Mistress.

SHAWNEETOWN, Ill., Sept. 30.—Miss Belle Jamieson was shot and killed yesterday by Mrs. Robert White, wife of a well-to-do farmer living 12 miles from here. Miss Jamieson had been working for Mrs. White, but was dismissed. This angered her and she attacked Mrs. White with a club. Being disarmed she secured a revolver and fired at Mrs. White, but missed her. Mrs. White then took the weapon away from Miss Jamieson and shot her twice. The coroners jury justified Mrs. White.

Killed by a Woman.

ALTON, Ill., Sept. 30.—George E. Cochrane, a traveling man of Mellberry Grove, was instantly killed here last evening by Cecilia Phillips because he tried to enter her house against her protest, and the woman gave herself up.

Dr. Briggs May Not be Tried.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—The trial for heresy of Professor Charles A. Biggs, of the Union Theological Seminary, is to begin in the New York Presbytery a week from to-morrow, unless the present plans are changed. A rumor is current that there might be a compromise. It is said that a number of the more moderate of the conservative members of the Presbytery are willing to favor a dismissal of the case if Dr. Briggs will make a public recantation.

Riotous Negroes.

MARIANNA, Ark., Sept. 30.—Bands of riotous negroes have almost taken possession of Lee County. The killing of Tom Miller, a white man and agent for J. F. Frank, by the rioters and strikers here precipitated a serious state of affairs.

An Anglo-Italian Alliance.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—Signor Crispi's recent speech at Palermo has caused a sensation throughout Europe, as it virtually proclaims an Anglo-Italian alliance as a fact. Ministerial organs in Rome ask what impression the speech will make in England, the Government of which country has repeatedly denied the existence of an Anglo-Italian alliance.

A Widow's Damaged Heart.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The heart of Charlotte Kean, a widow of 27, is damaged, and she wants William Cohen, who is 53 years old, and manufactures mineral waters, and lives in a fine house, to pay her $25,000. A pair of Shatchens brought the couple together. Cohen made the proposition of marriage and then recanted. He is worth over $100,000, and says nothing kind of Shatchens now.

A Woman Hanged.

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 29.—Henrietta Murrell, colored, was hanged to-day at Smithsville for the murder by drowning of her 8-year-old child. She confessed the crime, her defence being that she could not obtain work and support herself and offspring.

Aliens Sent Back.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Sept. 29.—Immigrant [illegible] at Ogdensburg, N.Y., [illegible] to the treasury department [illegible] be sent back into Canada [illegible] entered this country in violation of the alien contract labor law.

What Does it Mean?

"100 doses one dollar" means simply that Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most economical medicine to buy, because it gives more for the money than any other preparation. Each bottle contains 100 doses and will average to last a month, while other preparations, taken according to directions, are gone in a week. Therefore, be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla, the best blood purifier.

J. J. SHEEHY'S ANNOUNCEMENT

TO THE PURCHASING PUBLIC OF PETERBOROUGH.

Six Years ago I started in Business in this Town with a Small Stock of Dry Goods and a Smaller Capital, but buoyed up with the hope, that by Diligence, Energy and the Strictest Possible Attention to Business, that business would grow and prosper as the town progressed and I am delighted to be able to say, that my fondest hopes in this respect have been realized, for, as Peterborough has gone ahead (which fact there is none to dispute and the evidence of which we see around us on every side) so has my business progressed, and to-day I am in a position to ask the purchasing public to call and examine a Stock of General Dry Goods, which for Variety, Quality and General Excellence is not surpassed by any in the Town of Peterborough. Now, bear in mind, that I do not for one moment pretend to say that I carry the largest stock of Dry Goods in town; but this I do state most emphatically, that, to any purchaser starting out with a view of purchasing their Fall Dry Goods for cash, be that purchase One Dollar or One Hundred Dollars, there is no establishment in the Town of Peterborough that is in a better position to offer Greater Inducements than I offer to the general public to-day. As my business has grown in the past, so I intend it shall in the future, if any efforts on my part will have the desired effect, and in order that the month of October may become the Banner Month of the six years, I propose making the following Offer. My Stock throughout the entire store has been bought at the closest possible figures. My entire stock has been marked at the lowest living prices. Now this is my offer: during the month of October, to every purchaser of One Dollar or upwards, I offer a Discount of FIVE PER CENT.

I extend a cordial invitation to every one of my old customers who have dealt with me steadily during the past six years, and also to those whom I might call my occasional customers; and finally to those with whom I have not yet had the pleasure of doing business. Yours respectfully,

J. J. SHEEHY.

DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS FOR PALE PEOPLE

ARE NOT a Purgative Medicine. They are a BLOOD BUILDER, TONIC and RECONSTRUCTOR, as they supply in a condensed form the substances actually needed to enrich the Blood, curing all diseases coming from POOR and WATERY BLOOD, or from VITIATED HUMORS in the BLOOD, and also invigorate and BUILD UP the BLOOD and SYSTEM, when broken down by overwork, mental worry, disease, excesses and indiscretions. They have a SPECIFIC ACTION on the SEXUAL SYSTEM of both men and women, restoring LOST VIGOR and correcting all IRREGULARITIES and SUPPRESSIONS.

EVERY MAN who finds his mental faculties dull or failing, or his physical powers flagging, should take these PILLS. They will restore his lost energies, both physical and mental.

EVERY WOMAN should take them. They cure all suppressions and irregularities, which inevitably entail sickness when neglected.

YOUNG MEN should take these PILLS. They will cure the results of youthful bad habits, and strengthen the system.

YOUNG WOMEN should take them. These PILLS will make them regular.

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 30, 1891.

THE END IS NOT YET.

The "Kidd" Investigation Continues To-day.

Contradictory Evidence on Both Sides—Report of the Proceedings up till Noon To-day.

Following is the continuation of Mr. Jas. Robb's evidence from where it left off yesterday. Witness had stated that he heard Mr. Kidd say something about the expenditure on this road :—

Q.—How did that happen?

A.—It was at election time. He was going to hold a meeting at our place and he came to see me. This money matter was talked of, and in talking of the expenditure of this money Mr. Kidd had made the statement (so I have been informed, though I did not hear him myself) that he had expended the $200, which I had myself expended, of township money. The conversation came up and he asked me if I had expended it, and I said that I had. He said that there must be some mistake, as he was under the impression he had expended that money. He said that when Mr. McWilliams came to make the last payment to the men of the money, that the work had overrun — the timebooks showed more work done than the Government paid for, and he just drew a line across the pay sheet, and went on and paid the balance of the money. Those were the words as far as I can recollect. He did not say what the money was. That was the only statement Mr. Kidd ever made to me.

Q.—What moneys were you talking about then?

A.—The Government money. He said the work had already overrun the Government money, and Mr. McWilliams drew lines across and paid the balance of the money. He did not mention that it was Government money, but I understood that he referred to the Government money. He said Mr. McWilliams went on and paid the balance of the money. I understood him to mean by this the balance, the $100 county money.

HIS HONOR. That Mr. McWilliams had paid that?

A.—Yes, that is the way I understood it.

Mr. BURNHAM.—Your are positive no work was done on that line after the 6th of November?

A.—Yes.

Mr. STONE. You are willing to swear to it positively?

A.—Yes, without any hesitation.

Continuing, witness said he made arrangement with Mr. Kidd for him to leave the tools in the gravel pit if he was not there. He would swear positively he got 4 shovels from that place about five o'clock on the 6th of November. Got all the shovels and all the tools. He took them home, and next season sold them to parties working on the road. He gave Mr. Kidd a report of how the tools were disposed of. Witness applied for the position Mr. Kidd got, and offered his services for less than Mr. Kidd. Receipt for $10 received from Mr. Kidd, on account of tools, was produced.

To Mr. Burnham—Government work extended from lot 20 to lot 27. The township money was expended on lots 27, 28, 29 and 30. There was no work done from the north of the government work.

HENRY HUGHES testified that he lived in Dummer township in 1884. He did some work on the 9th line. He could not remember the year. Mr Kidd was foreman. He knew the money expended came through Mr Blezard and Mr. McWilliams. He was there when the men ewre paid up. It was Mr. McWilliams and Mr. Blezard paid him. Mr. Kidd was there. The work was finished the next day after they were there. Witness worked part of the following day. When he got through he helped Mr. Kidd load up his plough and material, and saw him drive home. Mr. Kidd told him he would come back and fetch his (witness') plough back with him and do some more work on road that fall. Witness did not know what money was to be expended, but understood Mr. Kidd was to work on the same line. Witness was to go back to work with Mr. Kidd, but never did. Next summer witness worked with Mr. Robb, but never afterwards with Mr. Kidd. Never noticed any work being done on that road in 1884 after 5th November. He would have seen the men working there if there had been any.

To Mr. Stone witness said his brother was married to Mr. Crowe's sister. Did not recollect getting any money or any pork from Mr. Kidd. Was sure he got no money but could not swear as to the pork. Did not recollect getting $5 from Mr Kidd to pay on a horse he bought from Mr. Lloyd. The only money he recollected getting from Mr. Kidd was $3 or $3.50 for the use of his plough. Mr. Kidd took it home with him and was to bring it back, giving him this money on the plough. Counsel produced receipt from witness to Mr. Kidd for $3.50 for "work done on 9th line," dated 13th November. Witness did not remember making his mark to this receipt, but said he got the money from Mr. Kidd the day after Mr. McWilliams was there and paid them. He never got any money from Mr. Kidd after that day—that is, the day following the date Mr. McWilliams paid them. The plough in question had been on the road during the whole work.

CORROBORATING WITNESS.

Mr. WINFIELD LEASON said he was employed on road-work on the 9th line of Dummer. He could not remember the year, but worked only one season with Mr. McWilliams and Mr. Kidd. He was paid off by Mr. McWilliams and Mr. Blezard. Mr. Kidd was there. It was in the afternoon, but he could not fix the date. There was about a day's work yet to do. Mr. McWilliams paid him some money, and said Mr. Kidd would pay the balance when he got through the work. Witness finished next day. Mr. Kidd told witness he was going to leave some tools for Mr. Robb, and asked witness to wait there until Mr. Robb came for them, which he did. That was the day following the visit of Mr. McWilliams and Mr. Blezard. When he quit work Mr. Kidd paid him the rest of his wages. Witness signed a paper to Mr. McWilliams and one to Mr. Kidd when they paid him up, but signed nothing after that day for work done on the Ninth line. Never saw any further work done on that road that year.

To Mr. Stone witness repeated his previous statements, and said Samuel Smiley had a team on that work. Nelson Emory had also a team there besides Mr. Kidd. Witness said he was satisfied he received all the money due him, but could not say how many days he worked or how much money he received.

To Mr. BURNHAM—I don't know how much was left in Mr. Kidd's hands to pay me when the work was finished.

Mr. JOSEPH GRANT said he worked on the Ninth line of Dummer some years ago. Only worked there once. Mr. Kidd was boss. Witness was hired with Mr. Smiley to drive Mr. Kidd's team, could not say how many days he worked. Remembered Mr. McWilliams and Mr. Blezard coming up and paying the men. Witness signed the pay-sheet for money Mr. McWilliams paid to Mr. Smiley. That was the day before they finished the work. There was no further work done on the road that fall. Witness often went up and down the road and saw no work done. Witness worked on house Mr. Smiley was building alongside the road where the work was done, immediately after road work was done.

To Mr. STONE—Smiley's team was not brought on until the latter end of the work. Could not remember how much money they received. He signed the pay-sheet but never got the money himself, he being hired by Mr. Smiley, and Mr. Smiley got his money. Witness once asked Mr. Kidd how that was, and Mr. Kidd replied that he had to have every man's signature for the work performed.

It is estimated there are five thousand different kinds of pills on the market. Should one be able to test the entire lot for a perfect specific in sick headache, foul stomach, habitual constipation and liver complaint then only one would be found: McGale's Butternut Pills, they cure where others only relieve. Price 25 cts.

For the past year I have been troubled to a very great extent with dandruff, also, a dullness of color in my hair, and through the advice of a friend (who spoke from experience) I tried your Anti-Dandruff, which upon the application of less than a bottle of your liquid I find my head not only thoroughly cleansed but a vast improvement in the color and growth.

I have, and do recommend it as highly beneficial to the profession and public generally as an agreeable and welcome innovation in the remedies put forth for public favor.

Yours, &c., WM. P. WOLFE,
Advertising Agt, "Frank Daniel Co."

St. Benoit, County of Two Mountains,
Feb. 1st. 1882.

Mr. S. Lachance.— Sir, a thousand thanks for Dr. Sey's Remedy, which I bought at your Drug store, it is a medicine which is worth ten times the price you sell it for. With a single bottle, I cured myself of an affection of the stomach which prevented me from working; I have in addition cured three of my children who suffered from bile and indigestion. It is the best purgative I have ever seen.

Widow JOSEPH LEDUC.

Ask Your Friends About It.

Your distressing cough can be cured. We know it, because Kemp's Balsam within the past few years has cured so many coughs and colds in this community. Its remarkable sale has been won entirely by its genuine merit. Ask some friend who has used it what he thinks of Kemp's Balsam. There is no medicine so pure, none so effective. Large bottles 50c. and $1 at all druggists. dw

What Say They?

In popularity increasing. In reliability the standard. In merits the first. In fact, the best remedy for all summer complaints, diarrhœa, dysentery, cramps, colic, cholera, infantum, etc., is Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. All medicine dealers sell it.

His Family did not Know Him.

A Belleville man has for many been bent and crippled with a lame back, but after trying the OR, Kidney cure, he could walk like a boy again and his neighbors could hardly recognize him. This remedy is for sale by all druggists and the OR, Kidney Company, Belleville. dw

Oft in Peril.

Lives of children are often endangered by sudden and violent attacks of cholera, cholera morbus, diarrhœa, dysentery and bowel complaints. A reasonable and certain precaution is to keep Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry always at hand.

Oh! What Beautiful Hands.

Dyer's Jelly of Cucumber and Roses will cure chapped hands and make them soft and smooth. Try it. Druggists keep it., W. A, Dyer & Co., Montreal. 6135

A man's wife should always be the same, especially to her husband, but if she is weak and nervous, and uses Carter's Iron Pills, she cannot be, for they make her "feel like a different person," so they all say, and their husbands say so too! dw

Timely Wisdom.

Great and timely wisdom is shown by keeping Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry on hand. It has no equal for cholera, cholera morbus, diarrhœa, dysentery, colic, cramps and all summer complaints or looseness of the bowels.

A Suitable Gift.

A tube of Dyer's Jelly of Cucumber and Roses for making the skin soft and smooth will be acceptable to any lady. Druggists keep it., W. A. Dyer & Co., Montreal. 6175

Worth Nearly a Million.

A million dollars in gold is considered a large sum, but when a man is doubled up with rheumatism, until life is a burden, Royal Rheumatic Remedy is worth more than his gold. It relieves him of pain and gives him a new lease of life. dw

Must not be confounded with common cathartic or purgative pills. Carter's Little Liver Pills ar entirely unlike them in every respect. One trial will prove their superiority. dw

The Safest

AND most powerful alterative is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Young and old are alike benefited by its use. For the eruptive diseases peculiar to children nothing else is so effective as this medicine, while its agreeable flavor makes it easy to administer.

"My little boy had large scrofulous ulcers on his neck and throat from which he suffered terribly. Two physicians attended him, but he grew continually worse under their care, and everybody expected he would die. I had heard of the remarkable cures effected by Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and decided to have my boy try it. Shortly after he began to take this medicine, the ulcers commenced healing, and, after using several bottles, he was entirely cured. He is now as healthy and strong as any boy of his age."—William F. Dougherty, Hampton, Va.

"In May last, my youngest child, fourteen months old, began to have sores gather on its head and body. We applied various simple remedies without avail. The sores increased in number and discharged copiously. A physician was called, but the sores continued to multiply until in a few months they nearly covered the child's head and body. At last we began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. In a few days a marked change for the better was manifest. The sores assumed a more healthy condition, the discharges were gradually diminished, and finally ceased altogether. The child is livelier, its skin is fresher, and its appetite better than we have observed for months."—Frank M. Griffin, Long Point, Texas.

"The formula of Ayer's Sarsaparilla presents, for chronic diseases of almost every kind, the best remedy known to the medical world."—D. M. Wilson, M. D., Wiggs, Arkansas.

PUBLIC ACCOUNTS.

Senecal Writes from Buffalo Exonerating Chapleau.

OTTAWA, Sept. 29. The Public Accounts Committee met at 10 o'clock Monday, when Mr. P. A. Crosby, manager of the Dominion Type Foundry, was recalled. The Dominion Type Founding Company sold 65 tons of type in all to the Government, the price being $58,231. This was from the 1st of January, 1888, to the present date. The commission allowed was 10 per cent, or $5,823, the cash received was $52,478.

Mr. Somerville asked Mr. Crosby if he ever gave money to any one else in the Bureau but Mr. Senecal. Mr. Crosby replied that he did not.

"Did you not give some to Mr. Hillaire, who receives and weighs the type?" queried Mr. Somerville.

"I did, now that I remember. I gave $10 to Hillaire down at Mr. Chapleau's banquet to treat the boys."

Mr. Hillaire was called and corroborated the statement, saying that the money was given to him at the banquet given to Mr. Chapleau by the workingmen in the city of Ottawa, after the election of Mr. Lepine in Montreal. This was all the money he remembered receiving.

From Across the Line

Mr. Chapleau put in an affidavit from Mr. Senecal which he said he had received from certain members of his family this morning. He did not know before where Mr. Senecal was, but as he had received this letter he thought he should hand it to the chairman. It read as follows.

United States of America, State of New York, county of Erie. Andre Senecal, etc., doth depose that for the past four years up to about a month ago, he was the superintendent of the Printing Bureau of the Canadian Government; that various times during his continuance in said office he received presents in the way of a bonus from the parties from whom he purchased the plant of the printing bureau, but that he never, either directly or indirectly gave any sum whatsoever out of said presents to the Hon. J. A. Chapleau; that although he sent at various times money to the Conservative Association at Montreal, this was never done at the suggestion or request or with the knowledge of the Hon J. A. Chapleau, that the letter sent by deponent to the president of the Public Accounts Committee was not inspired or dictated by or with the knowledge of the Hon. J. A. Chapleau. Deponent further says that he made this affidavit without the suggestion of said Hon. J. A. Chapleau, with the desire to correct certain rumors now in circulation respecting that person, which said rumors this deponent verily believes to be malicious and unfounded. Signed Andre Senecal. Sworn and subscribed Sept. 25, at Buffalo.

Mr. Somerville protested against putting in this from an absconder, and Mr. Chapleau admitted that it was not evidence.

Bronskill to Clarke Wallace.

Ex-Superintendent of Stationery Bronskill read a letter sent by him to Clarke Wallace, dated 21st inst., in which he disclaimed any responsibility. Had he been after money he would have had no difficulty in getting it. He read also a long statement, in which he denied that he had feathered his nest. He emphatically denied that, for when dismissed he had not $50 in the world. This was not much when it was considered that he had purchased for the bureau about $741,000 worth of goods. He denied that Mr. Chapleau had influenced him to make the report. He had never received any commission or asked for any.

Mr. Bowell made a statement in reference to the conversation he had with Barber of the Georgetown Paper Mills regarding Senecal and Bronskill. He said that after Mr. Barber had told him of Senecal's boodling exploits he (Bowell) informed Sir John Macdonald. He had no doubt had Sir John lived he would have gone further into it.

On motion of Mr. Somerville the evidence in the Printing Bureau in the Public Works case was ordered to be reported to the House. This closed the proceedings of the committee for the present session.

Couldn't Be Found

BUFFALO, N.Y., Sept. 29. An attempt to find L. A. Senecal last night proved unavailing. All the principal hotels were visited and a close search of their registers made, but no trace of him could be obtained.

A Doctor's Duplicity

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Sept. 29. About three years ago Dr. Metcalf, then a school teacher, courted Miss Ella, daughter of Henry Knox of Sidney township. They were married amid great pomp and given wedding presents by the bride's father worth $1500. Before this Dr. Metcalf entered into medical partnership with Dr. Tiffney of Detroit. When the latter died Metcalf bought the practice and continued to live in Dr. Tiffney's house, the widow of whom, with her little daughter, kept rooms in their old home.

In the course of time the young doctor became so much infatuated with Mrs. Tiffney that he neglected his wife and induced her to sign an agreement of separation, proposing to marry the widow. Mrs. Metcalf returned to the home in Detroit, having visited her father, and found the husband, furniture, widow, and all gone and the house sold. A draft for $2000 was left for Mrs. Metcalf. She will prosecute her husband.

Three Things Worth Knowing.

Very often is the short hint or suggestion that we read somewhere, which proves a mountain of help at some critical time.

HOW TO WIPE THE FACE.

Thousands of people when drying their faces after washing, wipe them downward; that is, from forehead to chin; This is a mistake. Always use upward—from the chin to the forehead—towards the ear—motions. Never wipe any part of the face downward.

HOW TO STOP A HICCOUGH.

A very good authority gives as a very simple remedy for hiccough:—a lump of sugar saturated with vinegar. In ten cases, tried as an experiment, it stopped hiccough in nine.

A COOL CLOTH WITHOUT ICE.

One of the most useful hints for sick-room attendance is very seldom known outside of a hospital ward, and not even there in many cases; the hint is how to obtain a cold cloth without the use of ice. Every one knows that in fevers, or weakness, a cold cloth on the forehead or face, or base of brain, is one of the most comforting things in the world. In the tropical hospitals, and where ice is scarce, all that is necessary is to wet a linen cloth, wave it to and fro in the air, fold it, and place on the patient. Have another cloth ready, waving it to and fro, just before applying it: these cloths have a most grateful and lasting coldness than those made so by the burning cold produced by ice.

Say, Mister!

Is it possible you are suffering from catarrh, and have not used Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy? All the terrible consequences of catarrh in the head may be averted if you'll but make the effort! You know, too well, its distressing symptoms! You possibly know, if neglected, it invariably goes from bad to worse, and is likely to run into consumption and end in the grave! Here is a way of escape: Its makers are willing to take all the risk, and make a standing offer of $500 for an incurable case of this loathsome and dangerous disease. You can get $500 or better—a cure! c

When all other remedies have failed Miller's Emulsion nearly always succeeds. Self Application of Electricity
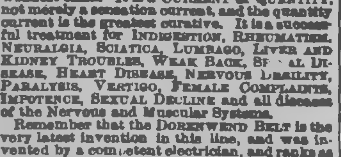
FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES
BY THE
DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT
And Attachments.
HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto
THE WORLD'S BEST.



ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT OF QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

There was a very large attendance at the rehearsal of the Cantata of "Joseph in Bondage," at Crosby & Turner's music hall last night. There were sixty-five singers present in the chorus, a few persons being absent from other engagements. A most successful rehearsal was held. The next rehearsal will be held on Wednesday evening, Mr. Ketcham and the chorus, in the spirit of true musicians, kindly postponing their rehearsal on account of the complimentary concert to Miss Louise Yokome in Bradburn's Opera House on their regular rehearsal night, Tuesday evening, Oct. 6th.

Plain Unvarnished Truth.

In this issue of the EXAMINER will be found an advertisement from the pen of J.J. Sheehy to which we feel called upon to make reference. As Mr. Sheehy states, six years have elapsed since his opening out business in this town on his own account, and a time, too, when the times were not of the most encouraging nature. But push, tact and principle were then, and have been since, the prominent features of his career, and the splendid store at 385 George street, filled from cellar to ceiling with one of the choicest stocks in Peterborough, is a standing monument of Mr. Sheehy's past business career. The public will do well to read the advertisement and take advantage of his special offer during the month of October.

WHAT MR. KIDD SAID.

JOHN WATSON, Norwood, said he lived in the second concession of Dummer in 1884. He remembered hearing of the expending of money on the 9th line of Dummer. He met Mr. Kidd coming home and asked him if he was through with the 9th line yet. Mr. Kidd replied, "I am through on the government grant but I have got $100 of the county money to spend yet." That was all he said. Witness did not know whether Mr. Kidd went back or not.

To MR. STONE—It was in October or beginning of November, he did not know which. It was seven years ago this fall coming. Mr. Crowe came to his place about this conversation. Witness did not tell Mr. Crowe of it until the latter asked him.

ANOTHER BAD MEMORY.

WALTER EMORY said he worked on this 9th line road with Mr. Kidd about seven years ago this fall. Remembered Mr. McWilliams coming out to the road twice. The last time he (witness) received about $14, and signed his name on the pay sheet. It was about the middle of the day. Witness could not say whether he then received pay for the next day's work or not. Quit work next day, and since the work was finished he did not know of any more being done.

To Mr. Stone—Mr. Kidd and his son were camped out on the road before witness got there. Witness said he earned something over $35. Did not recollect giving Mr. Kidd any receipt. Mr. Stone showed witness a receipt which witness could not say at first whether it was his or not. After glancing at it he said he thought it was. The receipt was for $5.50, dated Nov. 5th, 1884.

Q.—Did you sign that on the last day you were on the road?

A.—If I did, it has passed my memory.

Q.—If you got $5,50 from Mr. Kidd you got more than $34 or $35 altogether?

A.—Yes, I suppose so.

Q.—If you tell the truth you will tell us you know you got money from Mr. Kidd the last day you were on the road?

A.—I cannot remember of getting any money from him. If he has it marked against me I cannot deny my own handwriting. I got some pork from him.

Q.—What for?

A.—For working on the road.

Q.—Then you will try to make it appear that the money you received as recorded on the Government paylists is all you received for work on that road?

A.—I don't remember of receiving any money.

To Mr. Wood—Witness could not say whether the whole $14.25 down on the pay lists he received at the last payment or not.

WHERE DID THE HUNDRED GO TO?

Mr. J. B. MCWILLIAMS was recalled by the prosecution.

Q.—Did you advance any money to Mr. Kidd to pay the men?

A.—I gave him $100 before he commenced work at all. I could only be there once in a while to pay the men, and I did not want to keep the men waiting for their pay, so I gave him the money to pay the men as the work progressed. Then when I went up I used to take the signatures of the men that they received the whole amount of their pay, on Mr. Kidd and the men themselves stating that the money had been paid and received. The second time I was there, when the first pay-list was signed, I left more money with Mr. Kidd to be advanced to the men in the same way.

Mr. STONE—Why didn't you tell us this this morning?

A.—Because it was not asked. I don't think Mr. Kidd will deny receiving the money.

Mr. STONE.—Mr. Kidd will deny it. He will say you never gave him any money.

WITNESS.—I can show his receipt for it.

Mr. STONE.—You can! Let us see it!

Mr. MCWILLIAMS produced a bundle of papers from an inner pocket and drew out a receipt for $100, dated 10th Sept., and endorsed by A. R. Kidd. Mr. Stone showed it to Mr. Kidd, who frowned and shook his head vigorously in the negative.

Mr. STONE.—Mr. Kidd says he has no knowledge whatever of such a receipt.

WITNESS.—He can't deny the signature.

In reply to Mr. Stone's question as to whether Emory got the $14.75 in a bulk that pay-day, Mr. McWilliams said he could not swear. Emory might have been paid like some of the other men, getting money from Mr. Kidd from time to time and signing for the whole on the pay sheet.

Witness continuing, said he advanced Mr. Kidd more money on 11th October. He could not say what amount. The money he thus advanced to Mr. Kidd he considered was represented in the pay lists. As to the date of his last visit, he was positive it was the 5th of November, because he had to drive to Norwood and catch the train there in order to get to Peterborough in time to attend an important Orange meeting that night.

COULDN'T RECOLLECT.

ELLSWORTH EMORY said he worked on the 9th line of Dummer once some years ago. Mr. Kidd was foreman. He remembered being paid by Mr. McWilliams on two occasions. Witness did not know of any more work done on that line that fall.

To Mr. Stone witness said he signed the pay sheets, but did not put his mark on any other paper. He denied ever having told anyone he gave a receipt to Mr. Kidd. The only money he got on the 9th line job was from Mr. Williams. Swore he did not receive any money from Mr. Mr. Kidd.

Mr. Stone produced a receipt to Mr. Kidd, dated 13th November, for $5.50, signed by Ellsworth Emory's mark. Witness did not recollect anything about it whatever.

To Mr. Wood, witness stated that he was not with Mr. Kidd a week after he quit work on the road.

RECEIPT WHERE RECEIPT IS DUE

NICHOLAS COLLINS said he worked on the 9th line Dummer road with Mr. Kidd in 1884. He remembered being paid, but could not say positively whether it was from Mr. Kidd or Mr. McWilliams. He was paid on two occasions, and remembered seeing Mr. McWilliams the last time, which was the day before they finished the work. He understood the men were paid in full that day, but they worked the next day too. Witness never earned any money after that time. Gave Mr. Kidd a receipt for a few dollars this spring. Mr. Kidd came to him and asked him to sign it. He did so because he considered as he got the money for doing the work and Mr. Kidd was entitled to the receipt. Witness could not state positively whether this occurred last spring or fall. Witness said he signed the receipt without reading it or even looking at the date. Witness did not remember of doing any work on the road after the day following Mr. McWilliams last visit.

To Mr. STONE—Witness said he thought he received about $27.50 in connection with that job. Mr. Kidd, taking up the pay-lists said they represented $22 received by him which with the $5.50 received from Mr Kidd would just account for the whole $27.50.

To Mr. BURNHAM—Witness said he could remember very little of the interview between Mr. Kidd and himself last spring, or in fact very little of anything else connected with the case. He only repeated that he thought Mr. Kidd was entitled to the receipt as he (witness) had got pay for all the work he did. Witness could not remember whether he worked after the 6th of November that year, but said he did not work any longer than the rest of the men. He did not remember working after the day following Mr. McWilliams' visit to the road.

TWO COUNCILLORS GIVE EVIDENCE.

W. J. DOUGHTY, Warsaw, said he had been a member of the Dummer Council for two years. Some time last year, at the August meeting, there was some discussion in the council meeting regarding an expenditure by Mr. Kidd upon the 9th line road. Mr. Crowe brought in a resolution asking the Clerk if any returns as to this work had been forwarded. Mr. Kidd replied that if he could obtain copies of the Government pay-lists he could put in vouchers for the work. He said that at the bottom of the paylist the amount of county money expended was recorded. Mr. Kidd further said that he had tried to obtain the paylists but had not succeeded.

To Mr. Stone witness said he attended a sale at McIntosh's and saw some shovels and tools sold there, and heard it remarked, perhaps by Mr. Kidd himself, that they had been used on the 9th line road.

Mr. THOS. WEBSTER, a member of the Dummer council last year, also recalled the discussion which took place at the August meeting. Mr. Richard Crowe got up and asked Mr. Kidd what about those returns he should have put in to the county treasurer concerning the money spent on the 9th line road. Not much was said then, but at the next meeting Mr. Kidd said the reason he had not put in his returns was because he could not get the government pay lists. The amount expended on the county grant, he said, was marked on the bottom of the pay sheet.

Mr. STONE—Was it not the "time book" he said, instead of the "pay sheet," that had black marks on it.

WITNESS—No, he said pay sheet.

This closed the case for the prosecution.

The Defence.

Mr. A. R. KIDD, the defendant, said he did some work on the ninth line road. In June he went out with Mr. McWilliams and Mr. Blezard, with his horses and carriage and lunch. They went over the road. The two days marked to A. R. Kidd, which Mr. McWilliams says are charges for this trip, Mr. Kidd denied. He said they were charges for services performed on the road before the regular work began. Witness said he never got paid for this trip, but said Mr. McWilliams had received pay for two trips according to the Department returns. On the 15th September, 1884, he began work, but on the 8th, in company with Mr. Robb, witness went out and located the work. The men came to work on the 15th and quit work on the 13th day of November at noon or a little after. The receipt from Samuel Smiley for $15.75, dated 13th November, 1884, was correct. It was paid to Smiley on the road the last day they worked. That was in addition to any money included in these pay-sheets. It was county money. Nelson Emory's $10 50, for which receipt was produced, was given the same date and place as the other, and was also county money. The same with W. Leason's $5 25; Walter Emory, $5 50; Ellsworth Emory, $5.50; James D. Rustan, $8 12, and Nicholas Collins, $5.50. (These two receipts were dated December, 1890, the original receipts being lost and new ones made out.) Witness credited himself with six days, $12 00—from 6th November to 13th inclusive. Witness said he worked from the 6th to 13th Nov., 1884, with the men under him. R. Kidd and team, 6 days, $2 50 a day, $15 00, was for the same time. A trip to Peterborough for tools, $2 50, and $3.50 for going to the ninth line, were also charged. This made a total of $113.19. Witness said he overran the amount of the county grant to that extent because he wanted to finish up the job and do it properly. Mr. Smiley's team worked on the road, but it is not down on government pay list, for the reason that prior to the 6th of November Smiley did not have his team on the road. His team came on after the government money was paid out. The government pay sheets show that Smiley drew pay for himself alone, so if Smiley received pay for his team it must have been for work after November 6th. Mr. McWilliams was not there on the 5th day of November, 1884. Nor Mr. Blezard either. They came there to the best of witness' knowledge on the 12th. Witness swore positively it was not the 5th. Mr. Robb did not get the tools he mentioned until afternoon on the 13th. But he did not get any shovels. Witness took the shovels home himself, and Robb did not get them. One he (witness) sold to Mr. Collins and the rest at McIntosh's sale. Witness would not swear there were not more than four or five shovels, but he believed there were not more than half a dozen. Robb got a drill hammer only from him while they were working. It was certain he did not get the tools till after Nov. 13th. Witness swore he expended the whole county grant of $100 on the 9th line of Dummer in 1884. He spent more than he got. The first complaint he heard of this matter was during his campaign against Mr. Blezard. Witness said he was offered the position of Road Commissioner, and Mr. Stone was asking witness questions along this line, when the judge interfered and said he did not think this matter had any bearing on the case.

Mr. WOOD.—What became of the $100?

A.—I can't say anything about it. That puzzles me.

Q.—You have a poor memory?

A.—I have a good memory.

Q.—Yet you thought you spent the $200 township money?

A.—I stated it only once and I believed at the time I stated the truth.

Q.—But you had to go to Robb to find out if your memory was good?

A.—I went to him to satisfy myself.

Q.—Would you have sworn in the witness box that you never got the money if you had not seen that paper?

A.—I believe I would.

Q.—And that is your good memory. Yet you got the $100?

A.—I don't believe I ever did.

Mr. WOOD, (showing the receipt previously produced—That is your signature?

A.—I don't say it is my signature, nor I won't say it is not. I will just say I have no recollection of getting the $100 at all.

Q.—Then what you say now is, that Mr. McWilliams paid the whole amount of the pay-list on the 11th of October?

A.—I suppose he did. I know nothing to the contrary.

Q.—What grounds have you for saying that Mr. McWilliams was not there on the 5th of November?

A.—It was the day before we finished the work.

Q.—And how do you fix that date?

A.—By the receipts. I recollect the date besides; I had been away from home exactly two months.

Continuing, Mr. Kidd said he did not go home between the time of finishing the Government work, Nov. 6th, and beginning the county work. What the other witnesses had stated in that respect was false. Witness also contradicted Mr. Robb's statement concerning the tools. He said Mr. Robb did not get the tools on the 6th, shovels and all were on the road every day from the 6th to the 13th. Witness said he did give Ellsworth Emory money, and paid Walter Emory, too, giving the latter bacon also.

Q.—Then you contradict every witness where their statements conflict with yours?

A.—I do.

Continuing, witness said Mr. Robb was wrong in saying he happened to meet him (Mr. Kidd) at Warsaw when he went to Peterborough for the tools. They met by appointment.

Q.—What business have you charging this $3 to the county for taking Mr. McWilliams and Mr. Blezard out over the road?

A.—Well, when I was looking through the Department papers after this pay list I found Mr. Blezard got his expenses for the day, so I put in my claim.

Q.—Charged it to the county?

A.—Charged it to my returns.

Q.—Was the government work on the Ninth line all done when Mr. McWilliams was there the last time?

A.—Yes, and more than done. It was finished on the 6th, and he was there on the 12th.

Q.—Then those witnesses are perjuring themselves when they say they were paid for a day's work on the government job after Mr. McWilliams was there.

A.—They are, sir, every man of them.

Mr. Burnham then cross-examined the witness, who stated that after the 6th, work was done on the road opposite lots 21-26. That was work performed on ground covered by the government pay-lists, with the exception of one day. Witness went into particulars as to work done on the road, bridge, blasting, etc., also as to who drew pay and how much. Reverting to Watson's evidence, witness swore positively he never said what Watson had stated he said, viz., that he had expended the government grant and had the county grant yet to expend. He could not have said so because there was no gap between the finishing of the one and the beginning of the other. The plough previously referred to he was told belonged to Hughes, and he (witness) repaired it for the use of it. As to getting a copy of the pay-sheets, Mr. Kidd said he had some trouble, but he went to Toronto last fall and the department let him see the papers. He copied what figures he wanted off them.

Q.—You found there was no black line on them then?

A.—No, not then.

Mr. Kidd's accounts were then taken up. Witness stated his account of money expended in this connection was made up since the trouble arouse. His book of receipts was not the original. The original had fallen to pieces, and he had taken the leaves and pasted them in the book produced. The original memorandum-book, or rather what was left of it, was produced and examined. Witness said he would give a flat denial to what other witnesses had stated different from his evidence. He had not a very good opinion of them. Mr. Doughty and Mr. Webster stated that he said "pay-sheet." If he did say that, he meant "time book."

Witness remembered there was a black mark on the time book, which was made in this way. The county work followed right on after the government job, the same men being employed, and when they were making out the pay-sheets, Mr. McWilliams lined off about enough work from the bottom of the time book to account for the $100 expended by the county, keeping the first part to be paid by the government. Witness said Winfield Leason's statement regarding his being left in charge of the tools was correct, except that the day was the 13th instead of the 6th.

The court then adjourned till morning.

Wednesday Morning

upon resuming, Mr. Kidd continued his evidence as follows:—I see by the government pay list that Byron Emory's team came on to work the 3rd Nov., and Smiley's the 6th. No gravelling was done prior to this. We did about 500 yards. Two teams could not do half the gravelling that was done between the 3rd and the 6th, between which dates there were just my own and Emory's team working. One team would gravel only about 30 yards a day on the average.

Witness denied having a conversation with Mr. McWilliams, in which the latter had reported him as saying he wanted to get away home for a while to fix up for the winter. There was no gap between the two jobs.

To MR. WOOD—Could not recollect being in Peterborough on the 8th of November. The pay-sheets were made up off the time-books. He could not say where the old time-book was now, it had disappeared. The receipt book which he had produced in the county council was the original. In it there was no receipt from Albert Ray. This book was first produced he thought last January, after he went to Toronto to look into the department papers. Witness would deny Jno. Maloney, J. J. Crowe or any one else who said he showed receipt from Albert Ray for work done in county work, or that he said he had such a receipt. He made no claim that Ray did county work for him. Did not state at the Warsaw council meeting that Albert Ray had received money from county grant, nor did he tell Mr. Doughty he held Ray's receipt for it.

MRS. A. R. KIDD, wife of the defendant, said she remembered well her husband working on the ninth line road in 1884. He went there on the 15th September and came home on the 13th November, being there continuously with the exception of Saturday nights.

To Mr. Burnham's question as to how she fixed the date, Mrs. Kidd said she had the dates fixed in her mind. She had no memorandum. Mr. Kidd came home every Saturday night and went away again Monday morning. Witness did not know that year he was working there, she just observed the dates and months. Could not remember his doing any other work on any other road that same year, seven years ago. Could not remember where he was on 20th June, 1884, or any other short periods, but remembered this two months because she had to get up early and attend to the chores. Was sure she was not in town with Mr. Kidd on Nov. 8th.

THE SON SPEAKS.

Ritchie Kidd, son of A. R. Kidd, said he worked with his father on the ninth line of Dummer in 1884. Smiley's team was not on during the time the government work was being done. His team came on about the 6th or 7th November. Emory's team had been on two or three days prior to Smiley's. There had been no gravelling done before Emory's team came on. The work was finished on Nov. 13th. He and his father went there on 15th Sept. and staked out the road the day before the regular work began. They were there continuously till the last, and he remember the men on the 13th November receiving pay from his father at the gravel pit on the road, and signing receipts therefor. His father measured the gravelling done and it seemed to him there was about 525 yards finished.

To Mr Wood, witness said he remembered Mr. McWilliams being there the last time on the 12th November, 1884. Witness was then only 14 years old at the time. If Mr. McWilliams went into the witness box, and showed he purchased a ticket for Hastings, and was not on that road on that day, he would contradict him. Witness could not say whether Mr. McWilliams was there on the forenoon or afternoon of the 12th. Could not say he did not pay the men for the day following his visit. The Government work was completed on November 6th. He knew they finished the Government work on Saturday, and Smiley's team came on on Monday. Witness knew that there was money to spend for the county after the Government work was finished. He fixed the date by the pay sheets, and besides witness knew they were on the road two months all but 2 days. Each team drew from about 20 to 25 loads a day, making probably 45 loads per day for the two teams.

To the Judge witness gave as his reason for knowing the dates, that after he went back to school the boys were asking him how long he was away and he had said two months. No more was heard of it until this question arose, when he came to think the matter over.

To Mr Burnham witness said he had talked with his father time and again about this work on that road, and he frequently saw the book of receipts and looked at it. He also saw the day book and remembered the government time was by itself and the county time by itself. The book lay around the house for some time. When this question came up they looked for these books, but only found one. At the municipal nominations in Warsaw last winter he heard his father making a statement of the county money expended. Albert Ray worked on the road. Could not say whether from the 6th to the 13th or before. Did not hear his father mention Ray's name.

Witness also answered some further questions of Mr. Burnham's concerning the amount of work done on the road.

AN OBDURATE WITNESS.

Mr. C. W. SAWERS, Secretary of the West Peterborough County Orange Lodge, was called. He was asked by Mr. Stone if he had the records of the County lodge in his possession. He replied in the affirmative, but would refuse to give them up or expose their contents. Mr. Stone asked him if there was any meeting of the County lodge held on 5th November. Witness replied that he would not answer the question.

THE JUDGE—Why won't you answer it?

A.—Because I am sworn to faithfully preserve what is in the books.

The Judge said there were no secrets being asked. They did not want to know what was done at any meeting, but simply if a certain meeting took place.

Witness stated that he was not a member of the Order in 1884, and he could not disclose any past records which might now be in his possession without the sanction of the County Master, Mr. Alex. Hamilton.

THE JUDGE—You will have to.

WITNESS—I am willing to telephone the County Master and have an informal meeting called for the purpose, and if they say I am to do it I will, and if not I won't.

THE JUDGE—But I am not going to wait for that.

Witness said he had been subpoenaed only this morning. If he had been subpoenaed yesterday he would have had this all arranged.

The Judge held that as the witness was not asked to disclose the contents of the books, but simply to fix a date, it was absurd to object to produce the books.

WITNESS—I have taken the obligation.

The JUDGE—It is a question if a citizen has the privilege of taking an obligation which places him beyond the reach of the law.

There was some further discussion, Mr. Burnham and Mr. Wood pointing out that Mr. Sawers was not a member of the Order in 1884, and the books being confided to his keeping he considered them sacred. If Mr. Sawers personally knew anything of this matter no doubt he would be willing to tell it.

The Judge held that it was important to have the question as to whether there was an Orange lodge meeting on the 5th November, 1884, settled, but the witness declining to answer the questions, he was allowed to step down.

ORANGEMEN GIVE EVIDENCE.

ROBT. WEIR testified he was a member of L.O.L. No. 49, of which Mr. J. B. McWilliams was a member. The books of the lodge (produced) showed a meeting to have been held on November 6th, when Mr. McWilliams was placed on the entertainment committee as chairman. It was probable that committee would meet soon afterwards to make arrangements for a lecture by Rev. Father Chiniquy. But there was no lodge meeting on the 5th.

To Mr. Wood witness said he did not feel bitter against Mr. McWilliams. There were other Orange societies in town. On the 5th of November they sometimes had gatherings and there may have been something of the kind in 1884.

W. J. GREEN, secretary of L.O.L. No. 80, and the District Lodge, said that according to the books (produced) there was no meeting of these lodges held on Nov. 5th, nor was there anything in the books showing any entertainment or meeting in connection with the Orangmen on that day.

Mr. Wood stated that the prosecution admitted that there was no meeting of any Orange society in Peterborough on the night of Nov. 5th, it being Guy Fawkes' night.

This concluded the case for the defence.

Furniture to England.

Hello! where are you sending to now? was the question asked the other day, as Mr. Clegg's men were loading two heavy packing cases addressed to Brighton, England. These contained two handsome large pieces of furniture specially designed and manufactured by Mr. A. Clegg for a lady in Brighton. Mr. Clegg's reputation for good work is spreading, this is the second order from England, and he has during this year sent goods east to Halifax, and west as far as Calgary. 1d77 1w40

Mr. Edwards, of Wiarton, assisted in the discussion. The subject for next evening will be "Our work, past, present and future."

It is education that makes all the difference between the men who dig in the ditch and the men who bosses the job. It is the superior qualities of Ayer's Sarsaparilla that give it its acknowledged pre-eminence over all other blood-purifiers.

Weekly Concert.

The weekly concerts in the Royal Templars hall are attaining a very high degree of excellence. The event of last evening was no exception to the rule. Miss Sherlock delighted the audience with a most ably rendered recitation, which was followed by a vocal duet by Misses Coe and Turner. The event of the evening was a literary catechism, provoking laughter and thorough enjoyment. An instrumental solo by Miss Jewett in her usual able manner closed a most successful programme. The committee promise a grand treat for next Tuesday.

Scratched 28 Years

A Scaly, Itching, Skin Disease With Endless Suffering Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

If I had known of the CUTICURA REMEDIES twenty-eight years ago, it would have saved me $200.00 and an immense amount of suffering. My disease (psoriasis) commenced on my head in a spot not larger than a cent. It spread rapidly all over my body, and got under my nails. The scales would drop off of me all the time, and my suffering was endless, and without relief. One thousand dollars would not tempt me to have this disease over again. I am a poor man, but feel rich to be relieved of what some of the doctors said was leprosy, some ringworm, psoriasis, etc. I cannot praise the CUTICURA REMEDIES too much. They have made my skin as clear and free from scales as a baby's. All I used of them was $5 worth. If you had been here and said you would have cured me for $200.00, you would have had the money. I looked like the picture (No. 2, page 47) in your book, "How to Cure Skin Diseases," but now I am as clear as any person ever was. Through force of habit I rub my hands over my arms and legs to scratch once in a while, but to no purpose. I am all well. I scratched twenty-eight years, and it got to be a kind of second nature to me. I thank you a thousand times.

BOULANGER'S SUICIDE.

ON THE TOMB OF HIS MISTRESS HE BLOWS OUT HIS BRAINS.

Immense Sensation in Paris—Talk of a Public Funeral—Serious Trouble May Result should the Remains be Interred on French Territory.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 1.—General Boulanger yesterday committed suicide at the [illegible] of his late mistress, Madame Bonnemain. The suicide took place about noon. The General stood alone by the grave of his mistress for some time, appearing to be deeply affected by sorrowful recollections. An attendant who had respectfully remained at some distance suddenly heard a sharp report. Hastening to the spot he found Boulanger lying dead upon the ground with a revolver clutched in his right hand. A hasty examination of the body showed that he had placed the weapon to his right ear and fired. The future held out no hope to him, and his remaining friends became as cold as they had once been warm. Of these [illegible] he was conscious and they preyed on his mind. To this is to be added the morbid love or infatuation which he felt for the late Mme. de Bonnemain, to whom he was undoubtedly greatly attached. Madame de Bonnemain accompanied the General to England after his flight from France and only in July last she was dangerously ill in Brussels, suffering from consumption. In spite of the efforts made to [illegible] her Madame de Bonnemain died July [illegible]. At the height of Boulanger's career she lived in the Rue de Berri, Paris, where she was continually visited by the General. Spies kept track of the General's movements and discovered that they were very intimate and Mme. Boulanger was informed of the fact but refused to apply for a divorce. She had inherited $1,500,000, all of which she devoted to Boulanger's cause.

[illegible] of the [illegible] working in the cemetery at Ixelles [illegible] the latter when he entered the cemetery gate at about 11.30 o'clock [illegible]. Boulanger at once proceeded to the grave of Mme. De Bonnemain, which is near where the men were working, but which was hidden from their view. About three-quarters of an hour after the General had passed the men were startled by the loud report of a revolver and rushing to the grave found Boulanger lying beside it. He was dead. His hand was tightly grasping a revolver. The ball had entered his temple and had passed through his head. The body was taken to Boulanger's late residence. Boulanger came here from London a few months ago. Recently he had not occupied his residence in the Avenue Louise, but owing to reduced means had been compelled to live in a small hotel. The General's friends say he has been inconsolable since the death of Mme. De Bonnemain. He had aged perceptibly and grown much thinner.

Another account of the suicide says he has been gloomy and nervous recently, but did not betray his intention to his friends. To-day he did not receive any visitors and at 11 o'clock drove with [illegible] and secretary in an open carriage to the cemetery at Ixelles. The General entered the cemetery alone, his companions remaining in the carriage outside the gate. They did not hear the shot and were first notified of what had occurred by the cemetery keeper. The General's niece fainted when she heard of his death. The body was placed in the carriage and was driven to police headquarters. After necessary depositions had been made the body was taken to the General's late residence. The French Minister here telephoned the news to Paris. Crowds of people gathered outside the house where the dead man recently resided.

General Boulanger's friends say the General [illegible] letters [illegible] the danger [illegible] and so impressed were they [illegible] demeanor that [illegible] they [illegible] was to cause all the weapons found in his apartments to be taken away and hidden. Gen. Boulanger must have noticed the precautions which were being taken to save his life, and unknown to his niece and her husband he must have managed to secure and hide from them the pistol with which he eventually shot himself. Even the General's valet, who had been instructed to use his utmost endeavors to [illegible] possession of any weapon the General might have bought, seems to have been cleverly deceived.

[illegible] Boulanger [illegible] Mme. De Bonnemain. His friends now recall all the fact that when the coffin was finally closed over the remains of his mistress he kept on repeating aloud in low broken tones: "Au revoir et à bientôt."

Every day at [illegible] in the afternoon since Mme. De Bonnemain's death the General has gone to the cemetery at Ixelles and has deposited some [illegible] flowers, generally a crown, upon her grave. He would stay by the grave sometimes for an hour, either engaged in prayer or in deep thought. Over the grave the General had caused a pretty tombstone to be erected.

A few days ago the unfortunate General deposited on the grave a handsome crown of flowers, bearing on it the words: "A Bientot, Marguerite."

The family of the General were therefore somewhat surprised when they received [illegible] saying that to-day he would go to the Ixelles Cemetery at 10 in the morning instead of at 4 in the afternoon. They paid little attention to the change in the General's plans and nobody seems to have had the slightest idea that he intended to commit suicide.

The General was accompanied by his valet and not by his secretary, as at first announced.

[illegible] in Brussels at the present time [illegible] of Boulanger's most attached adherents. His name is Alfred Dutens, and he had come here from Paris upon receipt of a letter from General Boulanger about a week ago announcing that he intended to commit suicide at an early date. Dutens came to Brussels for the express purpose of endeavoring to persuade the General to alter his mind. They had several long interviews. Boulanger listened to all his friend had to say, and Dutens thought that his arguments had caused the General to refrain from taking his own life.

The General's niece, after his departure for the cemetery, became alarmed and communicated her fears to Dutens, and together they started for the cemetery. In the meantime General Boulanger had left the landau and walked slowly and alone to the tomb of Mme. Bonnemain. He remained there for [illegible] cemetery still thinking deeply. According to the first reports received, the General walked about the cemetery for [illegible] hour and a half before he returned to Mme. Bonnemain's tomb.

All reports agree in the statement that as soon as the General reached the tomb a second time he immediately placed the pistol to his head and shot himself. Death must have been instantaneous. The weapon which Boulanger used to destroy himself was a revolver of large calibre. The dead man held this weapon tightly grasped in his right hand and it was seen that the bullet had entered the General's head near the right temple, had passed through his head and left it by the left temple.

As the police were bearing the General's body away from the tomb of his mistress with the intention of placing it in the landau for conveyance to Brussels, the dead man's niece, accompanied by M. Dutens, reached the cemetery. The niece fainted upon hearing the news, and M. Dutens' grief at being too late to save the life of his friend was excessive.

The body now lies in the General's bedroom in the Rue Montoyer. It has been prepared for burial, but it is only being viewed by the intimate friends of the family. The latter desire that the funeral shall be of the most simple order. Some of the General's political friends are in favor of a public demonstration.

The remains are clad in a black frock coat, upon the breast of which are several decorations, notably the cross of the Legion of Honor, conferred upon the General after he had been wounded in 1859 at Turbigo in Algeria. The wounds in the General's temples caused by the fatal shot have been hidden by pieces of broad white silk ribbons, so pasted on the head as to almost completely conceal the cause of death.

The General's features are placid, and upon them there is not a trace, except the dimly seen white ribbon, of Boulanger's sad ending.

The relatives decline to furnish the public with any definite information as to the written declarations which the General has left behind him. Yet it is known that the dead man prepared several documents for publication in view of his sudden death and that he had written and placed on his desk a number of telegrams announcing his suicide, which he intended should be sent to the persons to whom they are addressed as soon as the [illegible] committed.

Shortly after Mme. De Bonnemain's death General Boulanger's wife wrote offering to forgive the General and to share his exile, but her letter was left unanswered.

The News in Paris.

PARIS, Oct. 1.—The suicide of Boulanger has caused an enormous sensation here. The morning papers are unable to meet the demand made upon them. Nothing else is talked of. The members of the patriotic league are talking of a public funeral for the General, and they propose to inter the remains in France. It is believed such a step will lead to serious disturbances. The [illegible] manner in which the General [illegible] touched the hearts of the [illegible] expressions of sympathy for the dead [illegible] heard.

All the evening papers contain obituary articles, but none, with the exception of Le Jour, reflect upon the political aspects of the General's life.

The news of the suicide was a bombshell in the Boulangist camp. The absent leaders were requested by telegraph to return to Paris for a party meeting to decide upon the issue of a manifesto to the public. The manifesto will probably announce the continuation of the revisionist policy.

BOULANGER'S CAREER.

George Ernest Jean Marie Boulanger, French ex-Minister of War, was born at Rennes, 1837. His mother, who is still alive, is a native of Wales. In 1856 he was appointed sub-lieutenant in the 1st Regiment of Algerian Tirailleurs. From that time his military career was very distinguished, and his advance in his profession unusually rapid. In 1857 he took part in the Kaybyle expedition. In 1859 he was wounded at Turbigo, and received the decoration of the Legion of Honor after three years' service. In 1861 he was with the expedition to Cochin China. During the Franco-Prussian war he was with the army of Paris, and was [illegible] at Champigny. In 1880 he was appointed Brigadier General, and subsequently General of Division in Africa. In 20 months he returned to the War Office as Minister. His appointment was regarded as a concession to the power of M. Clemenceau. His Republican sympathies were shown by the energy with which he urged forward the expulsion of the princes from France. He was an energetic and capable organizer, and was, before his downfall, described as the rising hope of the party of "La Revanche" in France, and was idolized by the populace. At the election of 1888 the General was elected for the Nord.

Alleged Imitation of Kansas Methods.

BRUSSELS, Ont., Sept. 30.—The stage driver who carries the mail north to Wroxeter from Brussels and also carries the Dominion Express reports having been set upon by two robbers on the highway a few miles south of Wroxeter. The robbers seized him from behind and ransacked the express bag, taking therefrom a parcel containing $109.13. No trace of the robbers.

Seven Years.

CORNWALL, Oct. 1.—Joseph Morpeau, charged with committing rape on Elizabeth Butler, aged 13, of the township of Cateteburgh, was found guilty at the assizes to-day and sentenced to seven years imprisonment.

THE SCENE AT THE END.

LAST DAY OF THE SESSION AT OTTAWA.

The Speech from the Throne—His Excellency's Reference to the Recent Scandal and Various Other Affairs—Closing Business of the Session.

OTTAWA, Oct. 1.—In the House yesterday the Speaker announced that he had issued the writ for a new election in Quebec West. In reply to Mr. Laurier Sir John Thompson said the election would not be held until the new voters' lists were ready.

The Northwest Territories bill was dropped because unanimous consent was necessary. Hon. Mr. La Riviere objected to the reduction in the representation from Saskatchewan in the Territorial Assembly.

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon His Excellency the Governor General proceeded in state to the Parliament buildings, and the members of the House of Commons having been summoned to the Chamber of the Senate His Excellency was pleased to prorogue the first session of the seventh Parliament of the Dominion of Canada with the following speech:

Honorable Gentlemen of the Senate, Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

I desire to convey to you my high appreciation of the earnestness and assiduity which you have devoted to your parliamentary duties during this protracted session.

I have also to express my sympathy in the regret which you and the whole Dominion must feel, and which I sincerely share, for the lamented loss of the late Prime Minister, the Right Hon. Sir John Macdonald, who died full of years and honors in the midst of your deliberations, and I congratulate you and the country upon the moderation and patriotism which you manifested in that crisis, and which enabled the legislative business of the country to be continued without serious interruption.

An agreement was made in June last between Great Britain and the United States for the practical cessation of seal fishing in Behring Sea during the past season for the benefit of the protection of seal life, pending an investigation by experts, in which this country has taken part, into the question of the necessity of measures for preventing its extinction. The report of the experts has not yet been received, and the negotiations for the settlement of the questions which have arisen on the subject are proceeding, but are still incomplete. I am pleased to observe that an anticipation of a friendly conference with the Government of the United States on the subject of the extension and development of our trade with that country and other important matters, the provisions of the protocol of 1888, known as the modus vivendi, have been extended.

The measures you have concurred in passing are important and useful. The reorganization of the Legislature of the Northwest Territories and the readjustment and increase of its powers are just tributes to the eminent capacity for self government which that important and rapidly increasing section of Canada has manifested.

The acts for the improvement of the law respecting elections will, I hope, be found beneficial by simplifying procedure and facilitating the repression of corrupt practices.

The measures respecting the cattle trade; the loading of ships, registration of trade marks and the vice-admiralty courts will prove advantageous to trade, commerce and shipping.

The enactments respecting the inspection of ships must prove of great value in the protection of the lives of persons employed upon them, while the act respecting the foreshores of the Dominion and the obstruction of navigable waters will remove a possible source of discussion between this Government and the provinces.

Notwithstanding that the result of the census shows a less important increase in population than was expected it is satisfactory to observe the evidence of the general prosperity of the country, and the bountiful harvest with which Providence has blessed us this year will give a fresh impetus to the settlement of the Northwest and to the enterprises and interests of the country generally.

It is gratifying to perceive that you have felt justified in reducing the duty upon sugar to the extent of about three millions of dollars, thus materially lessening the cost of an article of universal consumption, and that you have not judged it necessary to provide for replacing the revenue to the extent of more than half the reduction thus made. It is a further recommendation of this important measure that, while it has largely reduced the cost of a necessary article of food, it provides for supplying the consequent loss of revenue by the imposition of duties on luxuries only.

The extensive frauds upon the Government by a group of contractors, and the irregularities of certain persons in the Civil Service, which have been discovered in investigations by your committees are much to be regretted. The punishment with which many of them have already been visited, the steps which are to be taken in regard to others, and the operation of the statute you have passed for their repression in future, will, I trust, have the effect of preventing their recurrence, and it is the intention of my ministers to procure the issue of a commission to investigate the organization of the Civil Service and report as to measures for its improvement.

The question of the restriction or prohibition of the liquor traffic has also been occupying the attention of my ministers, and a commission will issue during recess to enquire into and report upon this important subject.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

I thank you for your liberal provision which you have made for the requirements of the public service.

Honorable Gentlemen of the Senate, Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

In taking leave of you for the present it is with an earnest desire for your happiness and prosperity in your several homes.

The House discussed the address to Her Majesty adopted by the Senate, praying the Imperial Government to do away with the "most favored nation" clauses in the commercial treaties between Great Britain and the kingdom of Belgium and zollverein, which are an obstruction to the expansion of Canada's foreign trade.

Messrs. Laurier and Mills proposed amendments, embodying the principle that Canada should make her own commercial treaties, and striking out from the address the affirmations approving of the Government's policy of protection.

These amendments were negatived and the address in its original form passed.

Express Train Robbed.

UTICA, N.Y., Oct. 1.—Special American express train No. 31, due here at 3.10 a.m. to-day, was robbed between here and Little Falls. The robbers brought the train to a standstill a mile east of this city by applying the air-brake by means of the valve in the car, and then escaped in the darkness. The express agent in charge of the car was A. B. Moore, who resides in Buffalo. It is not known how much was taken, but one package of $5000 in currency was concealed by Moore, and was therefore saved.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 1.—The Novoe Vremya, semi-official paper, declares that unless Great Britain wants war she should avoid interference with the Russian Government on Pamir, where she will only meet with a check if her claims are not supported by arms.

Why Russia Failed to Co-Operate.

VIENNA, Oct. 1.—A St. Petersburg correspondent telegraphs that the reason for Russia's declination to co-operate with the rest of the powers in calling China to account for the recent outrages upon foreigners is that Russia does not desire to strengthen England's influence in Asia, and also because the Russian Government is of the opinion that the disturbed condition of China will assist in extending Russian commerce in the direction of the projected Siberian railways.

Killed Himself and a Policeman.

MARSEILLES, Oct. 1.—A violent prisoner escaped from the hands of the police to-day by making an unexpected attack upon his captors with a carving knife. Before he could be recaptured he had been chased through the town and had killed one policeman and cut himself so severely with a sword that he died. Besides, three policemen were dangerously injured.

A Sickening Sight.

LONDON, Oct. 1.—The British steamer City of Lincoln, Steele, at Dundee from Montreal, collided with the river wall and did considerable damage to it. The steamer herself sustained no damage. The City of Lincoln reports that she encountered severe weather on the passage. On Sept. 25 she ran into a hurricane. The sea was running high and several heavy seas came aboard. Her cattle fittings on deck were smashed and many of the cattle in the deck pens were washed overboard. Others were killed and a number were injured. It is estimated that over a hundred head were lost. There are still a few carcasses on board. Some of the injured cattle are in such a condition that it will be necessary to kill them before they are taken from the steamer. The vessel presents a sickening sight.

An Insane Physician Poisons His Wife.

BERLIN, Oct. 1.—Dr. Moritz Meyer, an eminent physician at Wiesbaden, recently developed an intense nervous irritation as the result of too close application to his business tasks. To-day his trouble terminated in an insane attack, during which he poisoned his wife and attempted to commit suicide. A servant struggled with him to prevent the self-murder and finally succeeded. Both Meyer and the servant were slightly wounded in the strife. The doctor was taken to an asylum.

Reports from fishing stations in Southwest Ireland indicate a complete breakdown of the mackerel curing industry, which furnishes a supply to the American markets. This industry was only established a few years ago. It added $50 a year to the earnings of some 30,000 fishermen. The failure of the industry is due to bad packing and bad curing.

It is said that in the province of Saratoff, Russia, a marshal of the nobility quarreled with the president of the Zeemstvo, and the president boxed his ears. As a result the marshal was forced to resign and inquiries into further official robberies are impending.

The bulk of this has gone to the United Kingdom. This amount of export business is at least twice as heavy as has ever before been seen here. The demand still continues and there is a large amount of wheat yet to go forward. In the last six weeks the output of flour here has been about 100,000 barrels and probably about one-quarter of this has been exported.

J. J. SHEEHY'S ANNOUNCEMENT

TO THE PURCHASING PUBLIC OF PETERBOROUGH.

Six Years ago I started in Business in this Town with a Small Stock of Dry Goods and a Smaller Capital, but buoyed up with the hope, that by Diligence, Energy and the Strictest Possible Attention to Business, that business would grow and prosper as the town progressed, and I am delighted to be able to say, that my fondest hopes in this respect have been realized, for, as Peterborough has gone ahead (which fact there is none to dispute and the evidence of which we see around us on every side) so has my business progressed, and to-day I am in a position to ask the purchasing public to call and examine a Stock of General Dry Goods, which for Variety, Quality and General Excellence is not surpassed by any in the Town of Peterborough. Now, bear in mind, that I do not for one moment pretend to say that I carry the largest stock of Dry Goods in town; but this I do state most emphatically, that, to any purchaser starting out with a view of purchasing their Fall Dry Goods for cash, be that purchase One Dollar or One Hundred Dollars, there is no establishment in the Town of Peterborough that is in a better position to offer Greater Inducements than I offer to the general public to-day. As my business has grown in the past, so I intend it shall in the future, if any efforts on my part will have the desired effect, and in order that the month of October may become the Banner Month of the six years, I propose making the following Offer. My Stock throughout the entire store has been bought at the closest possible figures. My entire stock has been marked at the lowest living prices. Now this is my offer: during the month of October, to every purchaser of One Dollar or upwards, I offer a Discount of FIVE PER CENT.

I extend a cordial invitation to every one of my old customers who have dealt with me steadily during the past six years, and also to those whom I might call my occasional customers; and finally to those with whom I have not yet had the pleasure of doing business. Yours respectfully,

J. J. SHEEHY.

The Late Hugh Drain.

(Norwood Register.)

It is with feelings of regret that we chronicle the death, on Friday last, of Mr. Hugh Drain, for some times past a worthy citizen of this place, and a gentleman who was well and favorably known throughout the entire county. His demise though not unexpected, is none the less sad. Deceased was born in Glenoe, county Antrim, Ireland, in the year 1819, and emigrated to Canada with his parents and three brothers in 1831, settling on a farm in the township of Dummer. In 1839 he married Mary Ann Noble, with whom he spent 52 years of married life and who still survives him. Their issue was seven sons and seven daughters, of whom are still living six sons and five daughters. In the early part of his life deceased took a great interest in municipal matters. He was a member of the Dummer council for 12 years and was assessor and collector for that municipality for 16 years. In 1870 he was appointed Justice of the Peace and discharged the duties of that office for 21 years. He also acted as agent for several insurance and loan companies for over 23 years. In 1874 he removed to the township of Asphodel, and shortly afterwards was appointed License Inspector for East Peterborough, which office he held for nearly ten years. In politics he was a staunch Reformer from boyhood, until six years ago, when he severed his connection with that party and gave up politics. In religion he was a Baptist. He conformed to the rules of that church and remained firm in that faith until death. In March last he was attacked with la grippe and a light stroke of paralysis, which kept him confined to the house until June. Signs of dropsy then appeared and medical advice pronounced him a hopeless victim of that dread disease. He grew gradually worse, and during the last five weeks of his life suffered intensely. As the end drew near he assured those that watched by him that he was happy—that he had all things done and only waited for the Master's call. The funeral took place on Sunday and was very largely attended—prominent men from all parts of the county being present to pay their last tribute of respect to one who, in life, was so universally esteemed and respected. The bereaved wife and relatives have the sincere and deep sympathy of the entire community. Requiescat in pace.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC—The picnic of Cold Springs Union Sunday School to Jubilee Point on Thursday, Sept. 17th, was one the most successful events of the season. The weather was most favorable, and the trip was enjoyed by all who were present. Jubilee Point was reached a few minutes after twelve o'clock, and after attending to the wants of the inner man, a programme of sports was carried off as follows: 40 yards race for boys under 10—1st Bert Huston, rubber ball; 2nd Oscar Matchett, two bottles of perfume. 40 yards race for girls under 10—1st Audrey Speare, large doll; 2nd Minnie Long, two bottles of perfume. Boys under 13—1st Adam Thompson, book; 2nd Fred Kennedy, rubber ball. Girls under 13—1st Ada Rose, pair of vases; 2nd Nettie Stewart, card receiver. Girls under 17—1st Maggie Gillespie, plush covered perfume bottle; 2nd Annie Guthrie, pair of swinging clubs. Married women's race—1st Mrs. Adam Thompson, card receiver. 100 yard race, open to all—1st W. Matchett. 40 yards race, for boys under 17—1st Alex. Thompson, necktie; 2nd Albert Frost, baseball. Vaulting with pole, open to all—1st James Rose and Percy Kennedy equal. Running high jump, open to all—1st W. Matchett. Running hop, step and jump, open to all.—1st James Rose. Running high kick open to all, W. Matchett. — 1st W. Matchett. Best average in the open to all events.—1st W. Matchett, pair of lacrosse shoes. The judges, after careful consideration, awarded the pair of slippers presented by Mr. R. J. Kidd, for the best looking young lady at the picnic, to Miss J. Ambrose. The boat reached the locks in good time, and all went home well satisfied with the day's outing. The thanks of the school are due to the following who contributed prizes:—Messrs. Taylor & Macdonald, Thompson & Co., B. Shortly, H. LeBrun & Co., R. J. Kidd, J. D. Tully, Geo. Carton, Salsbury & Co., Crosby & Turner, Macfarlane Wilson, Mr. York, Mr. Giles, and Misses Ambrose and Robertson.

Harvey Items.

Mr. W. J. Dempster preached his farewell sermon to a very large audience last Sabbath. During Mr. Dempster's short stay he has made for himself a host of friends who wish him success in all his undertakings for the Master's cause. Mr. Dempster is a student of the Presbyterian church and is originally from County Down, Ireland. He is an excellent preacher, clear voice and anyone could listen to him for a considerable time without the slightest effect of dullness resting upon the mind. He leaves here to resume his studies.

Mrs. Robert Renwick is visiting friends in Peterborough.

Mrs. W. P. Chase has got over her short illness, which we are very glad to hear and also trust that she may long continue so.

It is education that makes all the difference between the man who dig in the ditch and the man who bosses the job. It is the superior qualities of Ayer's Sarsaparilla that give it its acknowledged pre-eminence over all other blood-purifiers.

Harvey.

A Promising Young Agriculturist.

Master John Renwick, son of Mr. Robert Renwick, Harvey, though he may not be aspiring to the position of Minister of Agriculture, is certainly bound to be a thriving and successful farmer. He has set up a branch of the Dominion experimental farm in Harvey, and is conducting quite an ambitious series of practical experiments. Last spring he procured from the experimental farm three pounds of Campbell's white chaff spring wheat, and from that he grew, on fairly fertilized clay loam, 95 pounds of fine spring wheat, a sample of which was forwarded to the experimental farm on Saturday, together with notes of the experiment. Mr. Renwick, sr., regards this as a very successful experiment and thinks that Campbell's white chaff spring wheat will prove to be admirably adapted for culture in this district. At the time Master Renwick received his three pounds of seed wheat, the farm authorities sent a three pound sample of the "Multiplier" peas—a small white field pea, very handsome and very prolific, as shown from Master Renwick's experience. From this three pounds sown alongside the spring wheat, he grew 180 pounds of peas—a bushel to the pound of seed—an extraordinary yield, which stamps the "Multipliers" as an undoubted success and well worthy the attention of the farmer. They have plenty of straw, mature early, (ahead of the Golden Vine) and seem in all respects to be a pea splendidly adapted to the cultivation in this county. Master Renwick's enterprise deserves encouragement, and if he perseveres as he has begun he will make one of that class of farmers who win success, bring honour to the profession, and raise successful crops of everything—except farm mortgages.

It is estimated there are five thousand different kinds of pills on the market. Should one be able to test the entire lot for a perfect specific in sick headache, foul stomach, habitual constipation and liver complaint then only one would be found: McGale's Butternut Pills, they cure where others only relieve. Price 25 cts.

For the past year I have been troubled to a very great extent with dandruff, also, a dullness of color in my hair, and through the advice of a friend (who spoke from experience) I tried your Anti-Dandruff, which upon the application of less than a bottle of your liquid I find my head not only thoroughly cleansed but a vast improvement in the color and growth.

I have, and do recommend it as highly beneficial to the profession and public generally as an agreeable and welcome innovation in the remedies put forth for public favor.

Victoria Carbolic Salve is a wonderful healing compound for cuts, wounds, bruises, burns, scalds, boils, piles, pimples, &c. dw

Ask Your Friends About It.

Your distressing cough can be cured. We know it, because Kemp's Balsam within the past few years has cured so many coughs and colds in this community. Its remarkable sale has been won entirely by its genuine merit. Ask some friend who has used it what he thinks of Kemp's Balsam. There is no medicine so pure, none so effective. Large bottles 50c. and $1 at all druggists. dw

What Say They?

In popularity increasing. In reliability the standard. In merits the first. In fact, the best remedy for all summer complaints, diarrhœa, dysentery, cramps, colic, cholera, infantum, etc., is Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. All medicine dealers sell it.

His Family did not Know Him.

A Belleville man has for many been bent and crippled with a lame back, but after trying the OR, Kidney cure, he could walk like a boy again and his neighbors could hardly recognize him. This remedy is for sale by all druggists and the OR, Kidney Company, Belleville. dw

Oft in Peril.

Lives of children are often endangered by sudden and violent attacks of cholera, cholera morbus, diarrhœa, dysentery and bowel complaints. A reasonable and certain precaution is to keep Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry always at hand.

Oh! What Beautiful Hands.

Dyer's Jelly of Cucumber and Roses will cure chapped hands and make them soft and smooth. Try it. Druggists keep it., W. A. Dyer & Co., Montreal. 6335

Worms cause much sickness among children. Freeman's Worm Powders prevent this, and make the child bright and healthy. dw

A man's wife should always be the same, especially to her husband, but if she is weak and nervous, and uses Carter's Iron Pills, she cannot be, for they make her "feel like a different person," so they all say, and their husbands say so too! dw

Timely Wisdom.

Great and timely wisdom is shown by keeping Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry on hand. It has no equal for cholera, cholera morbus, diarrhœa, dysentery, colic, cramps and all summer complaints or looseness of the bowels.

A Suitable Gift.

A tube of Dyer's Jelly of Cucumber and Roses for making the skin soft and smooth will be acceptable to any lady. Druggists keep it., W. A. Dyer & Co., Montreal. 6375

Worth Nearly a Million.

A million dollars in gold is considered a large sum, but when a man is doubled up with rheumatism, until life is a burden, Royal Rheumatic Remedy is worth more than his gold. It relieves him of pain and gives him a new lease of life. dw

Must not be confounded with common cathartic or purgative pills. Carter's Little Liver Pills are entirely unlike them in every respect. One trial will prove their superiority. dw

Never allow the bowels to remain constipated lest serious evil ensue. National Pills are unsurpassed as a remedy for constipation. dw

Sufferers

FROM Stomach and Liver derangements—Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Sick-Headache, and Constipation—find a safe and certain relief in Ayer's Pills. In all cases where a cathartic is needed, these Pills are recommended by leading physicians.

Dr. T. E. Hastings, of Baltimore, says: "Ayer's Pills are the best cathartic and aperient within the reach of my profession."

Dr. John W. Brown, of Oceana, W. Va., writes: "I have prescribed Ayer's Pills in my practice, and find them excellent. I urge their general use in families."

"For a number of years I was afflicted with biliousness which almost destroyed my health. I tried various remedies, but nothing afforded me any relief until I began to take Ayer's Pills."—G. S. Wanderlich, Scranton, Pa.

"I have used Ayer's Pills for the past thirty years, and am satisfied I should not be alive to-day if it had not been for them. They cured me of dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since."—T. P. Brown, Chester, Pa.

"Having been subject, for years, to constipation, without being able to find much relief, I at last tried Ayer's Pills, and deem it both a duty and a pleasure to testify that I have derived great benefit from their use. For over two years past I have taken one of these Pills every night before retiring. I would not willingly be without them."—G. W. Bowman, 26 East Main st., Carlisle, Pa.

"Ayer's Pills have been used in my family upwards of twenty years, and have completely verified all that is claimed for them. In attacks of piles, from which I suffered many years, they afforded me greater relief than any medicine I ever tried."—Thomas F. Adams, Holly Springs, Texas.

LONDON'S LORD MAYOR.

THE HIGH OFFICIAL OFFICE OF THE GREAT CITY EASY TO REACH.

He is a Common, Everyday, Business Sort of a Man, Who Earns His Salary and a Trifle More—His Gorgeous Equipage—What His Duties Are.

THE Lord Mayor of London is a very great man. There are those in London who believe that he sits on a small throne. There are those in the country districts who believe that he feasts on nightingales' tongues and lives a life of sybaritic ease. So much has been said about the gorgeousness of the Lord Mayor's parade that some fancy him to be unapproachable to the common people.

The lord mayor is perhaps a little above the average height and not much past middle age. There is but little hair on the top of his head. His moustache, which is neatly but not too closely trimmed, is dark, and so are the [illegible] whiskers. Without being noticeably striking his face is both strong and sensible, while his bearing is sturdy and simple, and so on the whole he impresses one as being a matter-of-fact common-sense business man of good abilities, able to hold his own in any position not calling for absolute genius. And, indeed, that is about what his fellow-men there say of him. There is the glow of health on his cheeks. His handgrasp is hearty. You can tell that he is fond of out door exercise, as indeed he is, for in his youth he was an expert at cricket, and a strong man at the oar. My welcome could not have been more cordial, nor do I know of any official in this country who is more easy of access.

"Sit down," he says heartily, as he draws a chair for me near the fire.

"I am always glad to see Canadians. What a wonderful country Canada must be!"

With this he stretched himself out in his easy chair until his toes touched the fender. He threw his hands back of his head and for a moment seemed in a brown study.

"I should like to go to Canada."

"Well, why don't you?" I suggest.

"All my life I have been too busy, but I may go as soon as my term of office expires here."

"If you see every one who calls you are kept busy?"

"Well, I am a busy man. In a few minutes I have to hold court in a little room opposite this one. Then there are no end of meetings that I must attend, and there are speeches to be made, and great banquets where, on account of my official position, I am called upon to preside. But with it all I find time to work, and read, and study."

"What of England at present?"

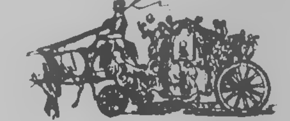
"Remarkably tranquil. The Queen is dearly beloved by all. Our statesmen are wise and our country is prosperous. I think there is less crime than formerly and the poorer people are better educated and better clothed. England has much to be thankful for."

The talk ran on for a few minutes longer and then the lord mayor arose to go to court. He invited me to accompany him and I was conducted to a room across the broad hallway. It was not an imposing room. It was overcrowded with spectators and lawyers and was but dimly lighted. When the lord mayor appeared he wore a judge's gown over his shoulders and there was deep silence until he took his seat and opened court. This appearance of the highest public official of a great city like London presiding over a petty criminal court seems somewhat strange. I watched the lord mayor at work for some time and the sight was not uninteresting.

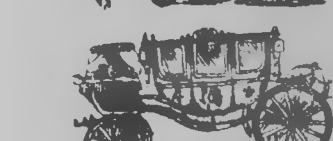
One rough-looking character was brought to the bar charged with the heinous crime of having stolen a pair of boots valued at four shillings. He did not seem to care much, and was remanded without any waste of time. William Gard, a sheepish looking omnibus driver, pleaded guilty to having been drunk. The lord mayor remarked to William that he had no right to get drunk when in employment, and forthwith fined him ten shillings. A youth named Fisher was then arraigned for throwing stones from Blackfriars bridge. He couldn't deny his guilt. The lord mayor said gravely that this was a serious offence, as stones sometimes fell with great force, and persons might be crippled for life by being struck with them. He therefore fined the young man two shillings and six pence.

There was more of the same kind, but these cases will do as well as others for examples.

At later hours than those on which I saw him at the mansion house court, you would find the lord mayor pursuing other duties with the same steady industry and perseverance that he displays when sitting in a petty criminal court. As lord mayor he is connected with all the civic boards that have to deal with the finances of the city, and he has to dispense the hospitality of the city to those persons whom it may care to honor. He is a member of the school board for London, an almoner of Christ's hospital, a governor of the Royal Holloway college, chairman of the Princess Helena college, and a governor of the United Westminster schools. Then again he is governor of Queen Anne's bounty and the Royal hospitals. Besides these he is a church warden of the historic church of St. Mary's Woolnoth, a prominent member of the ancient and honorable gild of goldsmiths, a conservative, and a member of Primrose league.



1. LORD MAYOR'S STATE CARRIAGE.



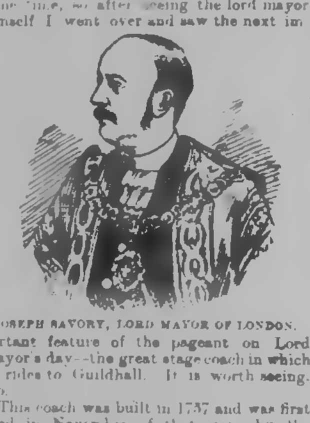
2. LORD MAYOR'S COACH.

For all this the lord mayor is paid $50,000 a year, while to keep up anything like the dignity of the office he must spend at least $25,000. He can serve but one term of one year. Most lord mayors indeed spend a good deal more than this, for they do not elect poor men to be lord mayors in London, and as the honor is considered a great one by London merchants, rich aldermen are willing to spend a deal of money once they reach the high position of chief magistrate of the city.

Mr. Savory was a good while climbing to his present prominence. His father was a respectable business man in the goldsmith line. He mounted up by easy stages. He joined his father's guild and that gave him a start. Later he was elected a sheriff. Next he was elected an alderman to represent Langbourn. All this was done slowly, but once he became an alderman his way to the lord mayoralty was clear, provided he could live long enough. No one but an alderman can become lord mayor, and it is the aldermen who elect him. In accordance with an old custom, if not a rule, it is the senior alderman who is each year elected, so once an alderman—you must be worth $2,000 at least to be one—it is only a question of time when you will be lord mayor. But many a good and worthy citizen of London has wearily waited for the years to roll round and has died before the time came when his ambition would be satisfied.

But Londoners hold the position of lord mayor in high respect because of its history and of the traditions that are connected with it. In a sense it represents the ancient as well as the present rights of the freemen of the city of London—rights that they have had to fight for, with varying results, for some eight centuries, and they have been sturdy fighters always, these men of old London town, and awfully tenacious. More than one king has seen fit to abolish the offices of lord mayor, aldermen, sheriff, and the like, and even to send the lord mayor to the tower. But they always repented of it before they got through with the stubborn Londoners.

There will not be a Lord Mayor's day for some time, so after seeing the lord mayor himself I went over and saw the next important feature of the pageant on Lord Mayor's day—the great stage coach in which he rides to Guildhall. It is worth seeing, too.



JOSEPH SAVORY, LORD MAYOR OF LONDON.

This coach was built in 1757 and was first used in November of that year by Sir Charles Asgil, knight, lord mayor. It was built out of a fund made up by the aldermen personally, and thereafter every alderman upon his election had to subscribe £60 towards another fund to keep it in repair. Every lord mayor elected had to put up £100 for the same purpose. Later the corporation took the affair in hand and now attends to the coach, so it looks well despite its age. Of course it has been repaired from time to time, and its present wheels are comparatively new—they were put on in 1828.

But the way it is gilded, and carved, and decorated, and painted and becushioned would surprise you. It must in a sense overpower the lord mayor, together with his chaplain, and sword bearer, and mace bearer when they ride on it on Lord Mayor's day. Nor is it any small affair either. It weighs three tons 1,600 weight, and is drawn by six horses. The horses wear a superb state harness made in 1833. That on each horse weighs 106 pounds. Of course the lord mayor has a state coach of his own, and I was able to see that, too, and it is a fine modern affair in green and gold and gilt and brass. It is decorated with the royal crown, with the arms of London, the arms of the lord mayor, the arms of the various guilds to which he belongs, and other things. It must have cost Mr. Savory a pretty penny.

"Feak and Weeble."

A friend of mine had an odd way of mixing her words. Perfectly unconscious of it, she would often make folks laugh. She would speak of feeling "feak and weeble," for weak and feeble, and "Castor ill poils," for castor oil pills. But she was weak and feeble, until she took that powerful, invigorating tonic, "Favorite Prescription," which so wonderfully imparts strength to the whole system, and to the womb and its appendages in particular. For overworked women, run-down women, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is unequaled. It is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, exhaustion, prostration, hysteria, spasms and other distressing, nervous symptoms, commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

It is a Very Sad Thing

To see young and beautiful people die when they might just as well live and enjoy health and strength. Many who suffer with coughs, colds and lung troubles, leading to consumption, imagine there is no hope for them, when in reality there is every hope if Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is taken regularly. Spread the news everywhere that this great emulsion will make flesh and blood, cure coughs, colds, bronchitis, sore throats and lung troubles tending to consumption. In big bottles, 50c. and $1. At Peterborough Drug Store's. dw

A Spring Medicine.

There are few who do not at this season feel the need of a spring medicine, and to all such we recommend Lane's Family Medicine as the best. This is a pleasant herb drink made by pouring boiling water on the dried roots and herbs. Druggists sell the packages at 50c. and $1. It is the best as well as the pleasantest cure for constipation and headache. dw

Could Scarcely See.

Mrs. John Martin, of Montage Bridge, P. E.I., writes:—"I was troubled last summer with very bad headaches and constipation and sometimes could scarcely see. One bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters made a complete cure of my case, and I wish you every success.

Do You Cough?

Don't delay. Take Kemp's Balsam, the best cough cure. It will cure coughs and colds. It will cure sore throat, or a tickling in the throat. It will cure pains in the chest. It will cure influenza and bronchitis and all diseases pertaining to the lungs, because it is a pure balsam. Hold it to the light and see how clear and thick it is. You see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Large bottles 50c and $1. dw

Self Application of Electricity
FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES BY THE
DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT
And Attachments.
HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto
THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT OF QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM, but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

The "White House."

Not the Presidential mansion in Washington; but a comfortable, cosy, tidy and well regulated hotel, and giving as much comfort to guests as the home of the President of sixty millions of people gives to its guests. White's new hotel, Charlotte street, though out of the builder's hands for some time, is in complete running order now. From the outside, the eye sees a fine, three story building of red brick, neatly tuck-pointed, with arcade leading to a large, roomy stable yard, gravelled, ornamented with large shade trees, and as tidy as a lawn, and clean enough to suggest a clean and well-cooked dinner within. The stables have ample room for horses, besides that devoted to Mr. White's old, established livery business, and spacious sheds. Within the visitor sees a wide, airy hall, on the first flat, floored with oak, as are all the rooms on this floor, flanked on one side by the public sitting room and the neat, well-lighted dining room on the other. A fine oaken staircase leads to the second floor, on which a corridor extends from end to end, with fine well finished and home-like bedrooms, parlours, bedrooms and bridal chamber, on either side, with a central parlour opening on a large balcony. The second floor is similar to the first, only, if anything, better, with similar rooms, well lighted and ventilated. The bedrooms are all furnished uniformly, with ash suites, and are exceedingly home-like and comfortable, a feature that marks the house throughout. On the first floor off the hall is the wash room, with city water laid on, and on the second floor are bathroom and lavatory elegantly fitted up. The "White" House is a model hotel, and is meeting, as it should do, with liberal patronage. As a neat, tidy, clean, comfortable, home-like hotel it has no superior in the Midland district.

9th LINE DUMMER ENQUIRY

The Case Concluded and Judgment Postponed.

His Honor Judge Weller will Report to the County Council—The Evidence About Equally Divided—One Little Date to be Settled.

Evidence in Rebuttal.

J. B. McWILLIAMS, recalled, said:—Mr. Kidd made a report to me of work done on that road, (report produced). There is no date on it, but I think I got it shortly after I was there, as I told him to measure up and send a report to me. I had to have this report in order to make up my return to the government. It is as follows:—

WORK ON THE 9TH LINE, DUMMER.

Blasting rock and stone, breaking them on road, and grading, grubbing stumps and trees, etc.	3,254
Gravelling graded road	204
Gravelling and brushing old bridge	460
New bridges built, gravelled and brushed	370
Bridges built but not gravelled	99
Stone bridges and stone approaches	136
Total number of yards	4,523

DEAR MC,—I hope the particulars given will answer to frame your report from. I have taken a "fellen" on the thumb of my right hand and can scarcely write at all.

Yours truly,
A. R. KIDD.

This report showed 830 yards of gravelling done. Mr. Kidd stated there was no gravelling done before the 3rd, and the government work was finished on the 6th. Counsel enquired if all this gravelling was county work, why did Mr. Kidd report it to Mr. McWilliams to make up his government report?

Witness said he made up his government report on this report.

Witness produced his cash book showing that on 12th November, 1884, he was in Hastings. An entry showed he bought a return ticket to Hastings that day, where he had business with Mr. Fowlds. The day he went to Dummer he went by Norwood where he met Mr. Blezard. There were entries in his letter book to show he was in Peterborough on the 11th and 13th of November. His check book showed a check made out on the 3rd Nov. for $275 00, the amount of the last pay list being $266, he taking the balance for expenses. Witness went by C P.R. train from Peterborough to Norwood.

Cross-examined, witness said there was no entry for a railway ticket purchased for Norwood on the 4th. Witness went to Hastings on the 12th and did not drive from Hastings to Norwood in order to get to Dummer. Witness said there were no entries made for railway fare in connection with government work, so the trip to Norwood on Nov. 5th was not entered. Mr. Stone called his attention to an entry for railway fare to Norwood on October 11th, the day of his first visit to pay the men.

The JUDGE—So you have some entries for government expenses after all.

To the Judge Mr. McWILLIAMS stated his expenses in connection with government work were not entered in that book, but sent in to the government; but it seemed to be entered in this instance.

Mr. STONE pointed out that only two days were allowed to elapse between the time of Mr. McWilliams' making the first payment and the date of sending off the return; while between the second payment and time of making the report to government nine days elapsed, the report being sent away on the 14th.

Mr. McWILLIAMS said it would depend on circumstances how quickly he sent away the report.

To Mr. STONE—Out of the first pay-list the $100 advanced to Mr. Kidd was deducted.

MORE WITNESSES.

Mr. JAS. ROBB, recalled, stated Mr. McWilliams and Mr. Blezard were up to his house the day before witness took the tools away, and had dinner there.

J. J. CROWE, sworn, stated he was at the municipal nomination last year, and this question came up for discussion. Mr. Kidd had a book, and read the names of parties from whom he claimed to have receipts for work done on the 9th line for the county. Among the names were Smiley, Leason, Hughes and Albert Ray. At the time, these names were impressed on witness' mind because Ray had been drowned, and he said "they were good witnesses Mr Kidd was bringing to prove his case—dead men." Then witness said he charged Mr Kidd with wrong doing and Mr. Kidd said he made his returns on the bottom of the Government report, the county money being divided from the government by a black line.

Cross-examined by Mr. Stone, witness said he did a good deal of stumping against Mr. Kidd in his last campaign. Mr. Kidd had beaten him twice for reeve, but he bore no hard feelings. This examination created considerable amusement, Mr. Stone and Mr. Crowe indulging in some keen bantering.

The court adjourned till afternoon.

Wednesday Afternoon.

Mr. WEBSTER, being recalled, said he remembered that at the Warsaw meeting he heard Mr. Kidd reading or speaking of a receipt of Albert Ray's.

Mr. W. J. DOUGHTY recollected the occasion of the municipal nomination last fall, when Mr. Kidd was on the platform speaking. He heard some remark by Mr. Crowe to Mr. Kidd about Albert Ray's receipt, and that dead men tell no tales. That was all he could distinctly remember, as there was considerable confusion at the time, and he was 30 feet from the platform.

Mr. J. B. McWILLIAMS was asked the nature of the meeting which he came back to attend on the 5th of November, 1884. He replied that his recollection was it was some little social gathering in the lodge room. It was not a regular meeting, as Orange lodges do not usually meet on Guy Fawkes' night.

To the Judge, witness said it was not to attend a meeting in connection with Father Chiniquy's lecture. He would not make any special effort to get home to any ordinary committee meeting, and his recollection was that it was just a little social gathering, which he wished to attend because his sons were to give recitations. He would not swear to this, but he believed that it was the case.

The Judge asked if the statement of work sent by Mr. Kidd to Mr. McWilliams was supposed to be a statement simply of the work done with government money. There was no memorandum to show which it was.

Mr. WOOD—Mr. McWilliams had nothing to do with the county money.

Mr. STONE—He had in this way. The money granted by the government was granted on condition that the county gave some assistance on the same road. Mr. McWilliams had to give a report for the work in order to show that the conditions were fulfilled.

This closed the evidence and the counsel addressed the court.

FOR THE PROSECUTION.

In summing up Mr. Wood said the whole case rested on the fixing of a certain date, as to whether the government work was finished on the 6th or 13th of November, 1884. The evidence on this point if it stood alone was overwhelming that it was finished on the 6th. If the visit of Mr. McWilliams could be fixed on the 5th of November, the case could be proven. Mr. Wood pointed out the check which was signed on the 3rd, Mr. McWilliams going to Norwood the night of the 4th, and visiting the road on the 5th. It was beyond comprehension that a business man should make out a check on the 3rd for money to be paid on the 12th. Then Mr. McWilliams gave other reasons for his being able to fix the date. Then the men employed say Mr. McWilliams paid them up to the time they had worked and for one day longer. They worked the next day after Mr. McWilliams was there and then went home. That the work was completed on the 6th was admitted, and therefore if what the men say is true, that they were paid for their work by Mr. McWilliams the day before they ceased, Mr. McWilliams must have been there on the 5th. Then there was the conversation between Mr. Kidd and Mr. McWilliams, which, however, Mr. Kidd denies. And Hughes says Mr. Kidd told him he had more county money to expend, and Watson states positively that Mr. Kidd made the representation to him that he had the county money to expend and was going back to work. These witnesses had no object in giving biased evidence, and were reliable. Mr. Wood then dwelt upon the evidence of Mr. Robb, which he considered was the strongest of any. Mr. Robb was a Justice of the Peace. He showed no animus, and only a year and a half ago, long since these things happened, supported Mr. Kidd in his campaign. Mr. Robb's evidence is, that on the 6th of November, the day following the visit of Mr. McWilliams and Mr. Blezard, he went and got the tools according to arrangement between Mr. Kidd and himself, and that very evening made an entry of it in his memorandum book. Then Ellsworth Emory states all the money he received was from Mr. McWilliams, and not from Mr. Kidd. Mr. Wood next took up Mr. Kidd's evidence, on which he held the defence mainly rested. He apprehended His Honor did not place much reliance upon Mrs. Kidd's evidence, because she could not remember any other dates but these in question, and the conclusion was that she had heard these dates talked over and had come to believe them herself. Then the evidence of the son contradicted the father's in some matters, therefore Mr. Kidd's evidence stands wholly unsupported except by the receipts. Mr. Wood then investigated the reliability of Mr. Kidd's evidence. He pointed out that Mr. Kidd had stated he spent $200 on the road, and had to go to Mr. Robb to find out that he hadn't. Then Mr. Kidd either forgot or did not want to remember about the $100 he got from Mr. McWilliams. If in these important matters he had no good recollection, his remembrance of smaller things must also be unreliable. Then there was the evidence of Mr. Webster that Mr. Kidd read Albert Ray's name as having received county money. Mr. Kidd denies now having made any such statement. Mr. Collins had been talked into giving a receipt to Mr. Kidd, not because Collins knew it was right, but because he thought as he had received his pay some one ought to get a receipt. The other man who admits giving a receipt is Walter Emory, and as he had other dealings with Mr. Kidd, it may have been for these outside transactions. This was the only evidence of any value, but it was too flimsy to have any influence upon the report which His Honor would make to the county council.

FOR THE DEFENCE.

Mr. STONE then gave his address for the defence. In dealing with this matter he said they could not get around the animus that had caused it. They were asked to find Mr. A. R. Kidd, Reeve of Dummer, and a hitherto respectable man, a criminal, upon the evidence of Mr. J. B. McWilliams, almost uncorroborated. The trouble began when Mr. Kidd appeared in the political campaign, when he was hounded around the county by J. B. McWilliams and the Crowe's. The document which Mr. McWilliams admitted part authorship of, a document which was circulated, contains the very charges on which this case is brought. Yet he says he is a disinterested witness. Mr. Crowe is so much interested in the county that he tries to make out Mr. Kidd embezzled the county's $100, but he does not do so until Mr. Kidd comes out against Mr. Blezard. And it was very desirable to Mr. McWilliams that Mr. Kidd should not represent the east riding. As to the expenditure of the money, Mr. McWilliams as Commissioner of the roads, was as much interested in seeing that the $100 was expended as the $500, because the government money was expended on condition that the county granted the $100. Then Mr. McWilliams had stated that he fixed the date by reason of his having to attend an Orange lodge meeting, though he denied having used the expression. It was proved there was no lodge meeting in Peterborough that night, so Mr McWilliams comes out with a cock and-bull story about it being a gathering where his sons were to recite. Mr. Stone went on to account for Mr. Kidd's statement that Mr. McWilliams was there on the 12th. Mr. McWilliams' books did not show that he was away from home on the 4th or 5th, but they did show he was in Hastings on the 11th. The conclusion is that he met Mr. Blezard at Hastings, and Mr. Blezard drove him over to Dummer. Then it was proved that Smiley's horses were on the road after the Government money was paid. This evidence had not been controverted. Smiley was not paid for his horses by the Government but by Mr. Kidd. Smiley was subpœnaed as a witness for the prosecution, but he was not called. Why was he not? Smiley's receipt for $15 75 was in the books, and Smiley was here to explain it away if the prosecution thought he could. There was also Robb's receipt, which was not denied. Those three receipts represented a considerable amount of money. Nicholas Collins says he earned $27.50 on the road, he got $22 from the Government, and there was produced a receipt to Mr. Kidd for the balance, $5.75. Four men—Smiley, Hughes, Robb and Collins—were absolutely clinched. There was nothing to say against them. In the book also was a receipt for $10 50, signed by Nelson Emory, which was not controverted. Leason says he got some money from Mr. Kidd the last day, and admits he made his mark to a receipt for $5.25. Walter Emory does not deny his signature. The only man in the lot who denies getting money is Ellsworth Emory, and counsel asked his Honor to accept Mr. Kidd's evidence in preference to Ellsworth Emory's. The only evidence the prosecution had outside of J. B. McWilliams to convict A. R. Kidd of a felony, is that of Jas. Robb, who says he made a memorandum in his book that he got tools from Mr. Kidd on the 6th of November. Counsel could only say the old gentleman was mistaken. The evidence against him was strong. It was shown that Smiley's team worked on the road after the 6th, and the tools were certainly used while the teams, Smiley's and the others, were doing the gravelling. Then the evidence of Mr. Kidd and his son agreed, though the counsel for prosecution tried hard and they did not. Mr. Stone referred to Mr. Kidd's denial that the two days extra charged were for a trip over the road, but instead were for two days actual services. Mr. Stone believed that Mr. Webster and Mr. Doughty had heard others speaking about Albert Ray so often that they came to believe they had heard Kidd say it. But he held Mr. Kidd had never made the statement. Counsel again emphasized the point that Smiley's team was on the road after the 6th of November, and if Smiley's team was there the whole lot of men were there also—this had been proven. Mr. Stone said this was a persecution of Mr. Kidd set on foot by J. B. McWilliams and the Crowe's, when Mr. Kidd opposed the Grit nominee. He asked His Honor to find that the money had been actually and honestly expended by Mr. Kidd that was voted by the county council for that purpose.

MORE EVIDENCE IN REBUTTAL.

Mr. Jno. Moloney, Reeve of Douro, and Mr. Thos. Blezard, M.P.P., two witnesses for the prosecution who came in after the addresses were begun, were called.

Mr. MOLONEY stated that the question of the expenditure of this $100 came up before the council last June, when Mr. Kidd produced some receipts. At a meeting of the Roads and Bridges Committee about a year ago Mr. Kidd also produced some receipts. Mr. Kidd was very anxious for the committee to see these receipts, but Mr. Burnham remarked it was no matter for the committee to deal with. Witness saw the receipt book in Mr. Kidd's hands, and remembered reading the names of two Emorys, Albert Ray and Smiley.

Mr. STONE—Do you pledge your oath, sir, you read Albert Ray's name on a receipt produced by Mr. Kidd?

Mr. MOLONEY—Yes, sir, I do.

Witness did not know whether any other member of the committee saw these receipts or not. He was himself sitting beside Mr. Kidd at the end of the table when Mr. Kidd showed him the book. Did not tell Mr. Crowe this until last winter, when he heard some charges were being made against Mr. Kidd, and he had said there must be some mistake, as he had seen some of the receipts and he gave the names of these men. Witness did not distinctly remember being in the county treasurer's office and examining Mr. Kidd's receipts with Mr. Crowe, but would not say he hadn't. When witness first saw the receipt book the receipts were pasted in the book.

Mr. BLEZARD said he remembered going with Mr. McWilliams in the fall of 1884 to the 9th line of Dummer. He met Mr. McWilliams at Norwood in the morning, but could not say whether he met him at the station or the hotel. Did not drive to Hastings for him. He thought they had their dinner at Mr. Robb's. He left Mr. McWilliams at the C.P.R. station in Norwood that evening. Mr. McWilliams was in a hurry, saying he had some meeting to attend. They drove at a furious rate and just caught the train.

To Mr. Stone, witness could not say whether it was October or November he drove Mr. McWilliams out there, but he thought it was in November.

To Mr. Wood—Was out there twice, once when they went over the road and when they made the last payment. He understood the last payment was being made on this occasion referred to.

ANOTHER LEGAL ADDRESS.

Mr. BURNHAM then addressed the court with reference to some of Mr. Stone's statements. This action was not brought at the instance of Mr. Crowe or Mr. McWilliams. The investigation was to enlighten the County Council. Mr. Stone says they are trying to convict Mr. Kidd of felony. If Mr. Kidd was exonerated then some other person would have to be convicted. Mr. Robb is positive in what he says, and all the witnesses agree there was no work done on that line after Mr. McWilliams paid them off. Mr. Burnham then took up the receipt of Hughes, which Hughes states was for money on account of a plough. Collins says he got his money in a lump sum from Mr. McWilliams but gave Mr. Kidd the receipt because he thought as he had got paid some one should have a receipt. On Nelson Emory's receipt there was no evidence but Mr. Kidd's. Leason says he received no more money for work on that road than Mr. McWilliams gave him. All these men say the same thing. Mr. Kidd's statement is contradictory. In regard to gravelling, Mr. Kidd and his son say there was no gravelling done until after 3rd September. If the statement of work done, in Mr. Kidd's handwriting, is correct, the bulk of the gravelling must have been done previous to the day Mr. Kidd fixes for the finishing of the government work Nov 6th. The evidence regarding Albert Ray is important in that it tends to discredit Mr. Kidd's statements. The statement of Mr. Kidd before reliable witnesses was, if he had the government pay sheets he could make out his report. That he said pay-sheets was proved by the evidence of Mr. Webster and Mr. Doughty. These gentlement had no animus against Mr. Kidd. It was perhaps important to Mr. Kidd that he should get the government pay sheets. His story was that the work was continuous from the 6th to the 13th. He (Mr. Burnham) could easily understand it was convenient for him to get the pay-sheets and drop Albert Ray as not being one of the men who should have a receipt, for Ray had not worked for some time previous to the finishing of the government work. Mr. Blezard was not certain as to the time when he was there with Mr. McWilliams, but the men all swear the last time Mr. McWilliams was there Mr. Blezard was with him, and so that fixes the time as being when the men were paid off. It also struck him (the counsel) as extraordinary that if Mr. Kidd had overrun the $100 he did not apply to the county council for the balance. Mr. Kidd says he had hard work to get the grant and thought it would be useless for him to apply for more. But that was not what a business man like Mr. Kidd would likely do. He would apply for the balance and try to get it anyway. If the book which they claim has a black mark on it, separating the county work from the government work was forthcoming, it would settle the whole matter. But it was not. As regards Smiley, he could have been called by Mr. Kidd as well as the prosecution. Smiley's work and Mr. Robb's receipt for $10 were touched upon by Mr. Burnham before he closed.

HIS HONOR asked counsel for prosecution if they had any explanation of the fact that Smiley's team was not down on the government pay sheet, while it was proven the team had worked on the road after the 6th November.

Mr. Wood said nothing more than that Mr. McWilliams' report was made up from Mr. Kidd's statement of work done.

HIS HONOR—I have as yet found nothing on which I can form an opinion upon this matter. There is a great deal of evidence on both sides. There is only one point to settle—the date of Mr. McWilliams' last visit to the road. I don't want to give a hasty decision, but want to satisfy himself and the council, so I will take time to consider it and make a full report to the county council as soon as I can.

Live Lakefield's Successful Show.

Fine Exhibition of the Smith, Ennismore and Lakefield Society—Splendid Weather—Excellent Exhibits—Large Attendance—An Exceedingly Successful Show—A Credit both to the Directors and the Village.

Lakefield is worthy of all congratulations. It furnished one of the best agricultural exhibitions ever given in Peterborough county. It was an all round success, financially and otherwise. When the citizens of Lakefield co-operate with the live farmers of the two townships represented we see a success like that of Wednesday.

The first day's proceedings were largely of course of a routine character, devoted principally to the placing of exhibits.

The second day witnessed a grand gathering of visitors. At least 1,200 persons passed the gates and enjoyed the fine exhibits in the exhibition buildings and on the grounds. The skating rink was used for the inside exhibition, and a very commodious place it makes.

The inside exhibit was very creditable, the ladies making a fine display.

The fancy work department was very well filled with fine specimens and the fine arts though not largely represented were of much merit. Ladies domestic manufactures were creditably filled also. Fruits made a good showing and dairy and domestic products held their own. Roots and vegetables were excellent, but the show of grain was not as large as it might have been, owing to many farmers having their grain still in the straw, but the quality of the grains shown was superb.

In manufactures, Mr. Thos. Gordon showed two fine cedar rib canoes.

Mr. Joseph Succee, of Bridgenorth, had quite an ambitious display of carriage work, including a road cart and three top buggies. One buggy deserved attention, from the fact that every part of it was the workmanship of Mr. Succee himself. The wood work, the iron work, the painting and turning, all of first class quality, were the product of his own clever hands, and it does him great credit.

Mr. J. H. McWilliams showed a fine buggy and farm waggon and Mr. David Smith an iron harrow.

Mr. R. Chapin had a good display of ash furniture.

Mr. J. W. Crosby, of Peterborough, had a splendid Gerhard Heintzman pianoforte in the hall, and its fine tone was beautifully brought out by a clever pianiste, Miss Gryll's and other ladies.

OUT ON THE GROUNDS.

Outside in the grounds there was a very fair show of fine stock—principally Durhams and good grades.

Sheep were represented by Leicesters and a few Southdowns.

The show of horses was exceptionally fine, especially in the roadster, carriage and agricultural classes. There were some splendid colts, and many fine drivers, both single and double.

The horse ring being newly covered with gravel was rather heavy, but it was the scene of good sport. A novel and very successful feature was the driving of the single horses by ladies. It was a fine sight to see the ribbons over eight or ten spanking flyers drawn by the fair hands of the ladies, who, however, held firm reins and guided their horses with great skill, none of them achieving the triumph of knocking out a dozen stakes, as some gentlemen drivers have been known to do on similar occasions.

Among those present inside the horse ring were Mr. Geo. E. Elliott, the president of the Central Exhibition, and the octogenarian exhibition enthusiast, Mr. Isaac Garbutt, sr., who is regarded as the father of the great Lakefield show, as far as securing its permanent location in the village is concerned. He sat in a carriage and said the sight of so fine a display gladdened his eyes.

Though the attendance was large, yet the directors say that they would have strained a point to accommodate inside the grounds several persons who, perched on wagons and fences outside, enjoyed the show without contributing to the expense of the entertainment.

The Lakefield Brass Band was present and contributed liberal selections of good music.

The exhibition altogether was a great success and the directors were warmly congratulated. The prize list will be printed in a future issue.

Pretty Decorations.

St. John's School House has been very prettily decorated by the ladies of the Woman's Auxiliary, for their social entertainment to be held there this evening.

A Splendid Programme.

Will be furnished at the complimentary concert to Miss Louisa Yokome in Bradburn's Opera House. It will be varied and of high quality; as will be seen when it is published in a day or so. The concert is eminently worthy of patronage, for the enjoyment it will afford, and the young lady for whose benefit it is given deserves encouragement in her efforts to advance herself to the front rank as a violinist, and her services as a contributor to programmes, willingly rendered on behalf of nearly all the churches, deserves the hearty recognition of which this concert affords a most enjoyable opportunity. Kindly remember the date, Bradburn's Opera House, Oct. 6th. Reserve seat plan at the Peterborough Bookstore.

Murder Will Out.

After Sixteen Years a Murderer Confesses His Crime.

Mr. T. J. Doris, of the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company, has received a letter from his sister, which, as it is of local interest, he kindly hands over to the press. The letter encloses a clipping concerning the murder of Edward Sullivan, a young man who formerly worked in Stethems hardware store here and will be well remembered. Following is the paragraph:—

ALPENA, MICH., Aug. 12.

Word has just reached here from Rogers City, Presque Isle County, of the the unravelling of a sixteen year old mystery by a confession. Albert Molitor was then treasurer of Presque Isle County, and was called the King of the County. One night he in company with his book-keeper, Edward Sullivan, was in the office, when the window glass was shattered by a bullet and both fell dead. The crime was a mystery until today. William Repke confessed to participation in the murder, and in the confession implicates a number of prominent citizens of Rogers City, among who are August Goslin, Carl Pogler, August Forest, Fred Bruda, Henry Jacob, Gottlieb Taulbert, Herman Rienzi, Chas. Wesselgart and A. Thurman. The crime was committed Aug. 12th, 1875, and Repke says he confessed because bad luck has followed him in the past few years, his children dying, his sleep being broken and his property burning, all on account of the crime.

Social Entertainment. To-Night. St. John's School House. Orchestra and Vocal Music. Refreshments.

Association Football.

The Collegiate Institute and Business College football teams tested their strength again on the P.A.A.A. grounds Wednesday afternoon. The result was unsatisfactory, in that the Collegiate Institute team claimed the match by one or two goals to nothing, while the Business College team claimed the game was a draw, one goal each. Another match will probably take place to settle the dispute.

Makes the Weak Strong

The marked benefit which people in run down or weakened state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves the claim that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength from which there must follow a reaction of greater weakness than before, but in the most natural way Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes

That Tired Feeling

creates an appetite, purifies the blood, and, in short, gives great bodily, nerve, mental and digestive strength.

"I derived very much benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I took for general debility. It built me right up, and gave me an excellent appetite." ED. JENKINS, Mt. Savage, Md.

Fagged Out

"Last spring I was completely fagged out. My strength left me and I felt sick and miserable all the time, so that I could hardly attend to my business. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured me. There is nothing like it." R. C. BEGOLE, Editor Enterprise, Belleville, Mich.

Worn Out

"Hood's Sarsaparilla restored me to good health. Indeed, I might say truthfully it saved my life. To one feeling tired and worn out I would earnestly recommend a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. PHEBE MOSHER, 90 Brooks Street, East Boston, Mass.

THE DEAD BOULANGER.

HE LEAVES A LETTER EXPLAINING HIS SUICIDE.

Could Not Live Without His Mistress—Who the Woman Was and the Growth of the Dead General's Infatuation—Arrangements for the Funeral.

PARIS, Oct. 2.—The property left by Mme. Bonnemain had been [illegible] tied up to prevent her bequeathing [illegible] to Gen. Boulanger. The first sojourn of the pair in Brussels and in London cost $200,000. Another $200,000 was frittered away over the paper and election funds. M. Constans, Minister of the Interior, on hearing of Boulanger's [illegible] genuinely grieved over the General's death. In other political quarters it is remembered to the General's credit that he practically made the foundation of the entente with Russia. There is little doubt wounded vanity caused him to suffer keenly after his fall. Nobody was more fond of praise and approbation. Boulanger left a will and political testament in his desk. It is stated that the latter [illegible] confidence in his party, enjoins his friends to prosecute the great aims he always had in view, and ascribes his own death solely to inconsolable grief over the loss of Mme. Bonnemain.

Mme. Boulanger, wife of Gen. Boulanger, was [illegible] when informed of her husband's tragic [illegible]. She fainted [illegible] within a short [illegible] and is at present [illegible] depressed.

The funeral of Boulanger will take place [illegible] afternoon.

The General's Will.

[illegible] I shall kill myself to-morrow. I am convinced of the future of the party to which I have given my name. I cannot bear the [illegible]

To-morrow I shall be a dead man. [illegible] power have always refused [illegible] was not possible. [illegible]

[illegible]

Boulanger's Cousin.

In December, 1889, Mme. de Bonnemain inherited a fortune of $1,500,000. Then it was said that the General would marry her. But the ecclesiastics would not permit it. Mme. Boulanger always refused to seek a divorce. "Some day my husband will need me," she always said.

There is no doubt that it was Mme. de [illegible] which caused Boulanger to leave Paris. The fear of separation from her was the ruling thing. They [illegible] a happy life in Jersey. She made him forget much that he had lost. Now and then he would make a rapid journey to Brussels to consult some of his old followers.

Early this year Mme. de Bonnemain contracted a cold in Brussels. It developed [illegible] consumption. She died in Brussels on July 16 in the General's arms, expressing to the last her unshaken faith in [illegible] ultimate triumph. There was [illegible] throng at her funeral [illegible] walked bareheaded [illegible]

Marguerite's Photograph.

The room in which the body of the dead man lies is sumptuously furnished [illegible] draped in blue silk and adorned with [illegible] portrait of himself, his daughter [illegible] de Bonnemain. A large photograph of Mme. de Bonnemain was found in the [illegible] clothing next to his heart. The photograph was stained with blood from the [illegible]. There were no documents on the body.

In addition to the photograph of Mme. de Bonnemain a lock of white hair woven into the shape of a heart was found next to Boulanger's heart. His remark in the presence of his valet, "Though I am abandoned by everybody I still know what to do," appears to confirm the report that the real cause of his suicide was the stoppage a few days ago of political subsidies from supporters, indicating that his career was finished.

The General's mother, aged 86, [illegible] He had written a long letter to her announcing his departure on a long voyage and bidding her not to be uneasy. She is still firm in the belief that her son went to a fete and has not yet returned. His sturdy Welsh mother has always worshipped him ever since when wounded at Turbigo [illegible] in 1859 [illegible] had pushed across France to Navarre, leaping from train to train, in a white muslin dress, trimmed with green satin, to nurse him back to health and when he was convalescent to hold his tunic up with pride to visitors and point out the fact that Georges was not shot in the back.

Gen. Boulanger leaves two daughters. The elder of these is [illegible] and the younger, Marcelle, is the wife of Capt. Driant of the Fourth Zouaves, who is at present at Tunis and who was once the General's A.D.C. Mme. Driant has three children, the youngest of which was born only recently.

His First Exploit.

Boulanger's military heroism we find on a page that without a trace of the bombast which later marked his paper exploits. It is a letter to his father from his first school, and a wonderfully touching little letter it [illegible] read to-day in the light of that pistol [illegible] in the cemetery of Brussels. It runs:

I am working as well as I can, so that you may be satisfied with me, and in order that you may send me to the Polytechnic School. I hope one day to be Marshal of France and to have the Cross of Honor. I embrace you with all my heart. Your little son who loves you very much,

GEORGES BOULANGER.

[illegible] who loves you very much. [illegible] any tears for Boulanger, [illegible] here on this picture of this bright, earnest schoolboy as he sits with head bowed close to his desk and laboriously scrawls to his father, whom he "embraces with all his heart," that he hopes to be Marshal of France and wear the Cross of Honor.

Immediately on word being received of the death of General Boulanger M. Rochefort stood for a moment overwhelmed, exclaiming, "Le pauvre homme! Le pauvre homme!"

Then he said:

"Our adversaries had the audacity to speak of him as 'General la Venette.' The wretches [illegible] Yes, he was con[illegible]

"Mme. de Bonnemain's death had touched him profoundly, very profoundly. I noticed his fondness for her when he came to see me with her last May, and since losing her he has [illegible] not been the same man as when [illegible] upon him.

"Could anything be more profound than my grief, it would be the rage I feel in remembering the various indignities heaped upon our brave and worthy friend by obscene wretches who made France their prey and their victim.

"Hannibal, when he slew himself, had at least been vanquished by Scipio.

"Boulanger succumbs to the blows of German Hebrews, thieves and routiers.

"These wretches combined to call him 'General La Venette,' and the brave concessionnaire, this concessionnaire had robbed the Ministry of a sum sufficient only for the purchase of a revolver, and 'General La Venette' went voluntarily to his death.

"He had his fill of disappointments, abandoned by his own followers, insulted by an ignoble press, by many of those whom he rescued from want and bankruptcy; he expires upon the tomb of the woman who sacrificed her life to him."

A GAMBLER ROBS A GRAVE

HENDERSON, Ky., Oct. 2.—It is a well known fact that gamblers are among the most superstitious of men. Charley Clay had been playing in hard luck for some days. A few nights ago he conceived the idea that if he were to open the grave of Mrs. Henderson, who was recently buried, and take from her finger a gold ring which was buried with her it would change his luck. He dug up the body and secured the ring, and was caught wearing it. He was arrested and confessed.

And This Is the End.

OTTAWA, Oct. 2.—Part of Sir Hector Langevin's furniture has been removed to Quebec to-day. Several large trams laden heavily with cases of goods were shipped by C.P.R. Sir Hector himself expects to leave on Saturday.

Advantages of a Twisted Neck.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 2.—Barney Baldwin, a dime museum freak, who is known as "The Living Man with the Broken Neck," attempted to end his life last evening by taking poison. Owing to the kink in his oesophagus all the poison did not reach his stomach, and he is now recovering.

BROKE UP IN DISORDER.

THE ANNEXATION MEETING AT WINDSOR.

Grave Robbers in Bruce—Several Canadian Fires—A Plethora of Accidents—A Newspaper Correspondent Convicted of Libel—Strange Suicide of an Unknown.

WINDSOR, Oct. 2.—A meeting was held here last night to discuss annexation to the United States under the auspices of the Continental Club. F. B. Boutellier, county warden, was elected chairman. Speeches were made by Dr. O'Brien, ex-M.P. for South Essex, and Sol White. A letter from Goldwin Smith was read by ex-Ald. Nash. The question was pretty fully discussed by the speakers and was listened to by an audience of about 1000. At the end of the speech by Sol White B. G. Davis, ex-alderman of Windsor, read a resolution favoring annexation and when the chairman put the motion the meeting immediately broke up in confusion with cries for and against.

GRAVE ROBBERS AT WORK.

A Sensational Discovery in a Bruce County Village.

KINCARDINE, Ont., Oct. 2.—Quite a sensation has been caused by the discovery that the old burying ground lying a quarter of a mile north of the mouth of Pine River has been robbed lately of most of the remains of the bodies interred there. It is likely that the bones are taken for the purpose of fastening together again for scientific purposes, under the connivance of medical students or physicians.

Two parties visited the burying ground for the purpose of having the remains of a relative exhumed and taken to Kincardine cemetery, when to their amazement they found the grave had been robbed, and nothing but some [illegible] and the boards of the coffin remained to show where the body had been. Other known graves were found on inspection to have been dug over and robbed.

O'BRIEN CONVICTED.

A Prosecution Which Will Have a Tendency to Subdue Newspaper Liars.

MONTREAL, Oct. 2.—R. N. O'Brien, the Montreal correspondent of Dunlap's Cables News Agency, who has been on trial in the Court of Queen's Bench here for the last five days on a charge of libelling Prince George of Wales by means of a "fake" despatch to his agency, representing that the Prince had gone out on a debauch while in Montreal, was declared guilty by the jury to-night.

The case was given to the jury at 5.30 this afternoon and the court adjourned until 9 o'clock to-night, when the jury returned with a verdict of "guilty" with recommendation of mercy.

Counsel for the prosecution then announced that as public justice had been vindicated the crown would agree to a suspension of sentence. The court thereupon suspended sentence, and O'Brien was released on his own recognizances to appear for sentence whenever called upon. The verdict gives general satisfaction, as it is expected to put an end to the fake despatches that are constantly being sent to the American papers by such people as O'Brien.

IN A BOAT LOAD OF STONES.

Supposed Suicide of an Unknown Man Near Colborne.

COLBORNE, Ont., Oct. 2.—Tuesday a singular circumstance took place on Lake Ontario, south of Colborne, which has the appearance of suicide. As Mr. Smith, who resides on the Cole farm, was in the yard at the house attending to his work he chanced to look out upon the lake when he discovered a man standing in a boat, apparently about half a mile from shore. After a few minutes man and boat suddenly disappeared. Other members of the family saw the same man and boat, as also did some of the neighbors, so that the chances for being mistaken or deceived in any way are very few. Mr. Smith went out in a boat as near as possible to where the man disappeared, but the water being deep no trace of man or boat could be found. The supposition is that the man, whoever he was, intended to make a sure thing of it and loaded his boat with stones, secured himself to the boat and when far enough from shore put holes through the bottom and went down.

Snow in the Northwest.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 2.—Reports from the west say it is snowing in Montana and over a large portion of the British possessions. Last evening the temperature was two degrees below freezing at Helena and a cold wave was rapidly moving eastward.

OSHAWA, Ont., Oct. 2.—Fire at midnight completely gutted Thomas' restaurant and billiard room, Butland's butcher shop, Jones & Coughlin's millinery, McLean's furniture wareroom and the kitchen of the Central Hotel.

Soldiers as Firemen.

HALIFAX, Oct. 2.—Fire broke out to-night in J. C. Merlin's planing mills on Taylor's wharf and extended to half a dozen other wharves. The military authorities have called out 200 soldiers for fire protection purposes.

For Killing Her Babe.

TORONTO, Oct. 2.—At the assizes yesterday Annie Stover, alias Long, was charged with the murder of her two months old baby boy. The prisoner is a petite young woman with a pretty face and figure and is but 20 years of age. She was tastefully dressed in black and grey and wore a black [illegible] with flowers. The evidence showed that the woman had given birth to a babe and that afterwards the child had been found in the bay at the foot of Lorne-street.

The jury failed to agree.

Killed on the C.P.R.

LOCUST HILL, Oct. 2.—A farm hand named Leonard was killed on the Canadian Pacific track by the eastern express at 8.30 this morning. Leonard was deaf and was struck by the cowcatcher of the engine before he had time to get off the track.

BOMBS FOR AN EMPEROR.

ATTEMPT TO DYNAMITE AUSTRIA'S RULER.

Morley's Significant Speech at the Newcastle Congress—Proposal to Abolish the House of Lords—Rising in Barcelona—A Schooner Sinks With All Hands.

VIENNA, Oct. 2.—A profound sensation has been created by a despatch from Reichsenberg, Bohemia, which, while announcing the safe arrival there of the Emperor Francis Joseph, also brings the startling news that during the night an attempt was made to blow up the bridge at Rosenthal, a suburb of Reichsenberg, by means of a bomb. Fortunately the plot was discovered and frustrated. It is supposed that the bomb was placed where it was discovered in the hope of killing the Emperor, whose train crossed the bridge in question. No arrests have been made.

The official investigation shows that two bombs charged with nitro-glycerine were placed in the gutter of the tunnel of the bridge. Attached to these bombs was a time fuse, evidently calculated to cause an explosion at the moment the Imperial train was passing. The fuse, however, acted several hours before the train drew near. The explosion destroyed the masonry above and about the bridge tunnel. The railroad officials soon had the road in good repair.

The investigating officials profess to believe the explosion was intended merely as a demonstration of disapproval with some of the Emperor's acts. Now that it is officially admitted that bombs have been used along the line of the Emperor's journey the utmost indignation prevails.

A despatch from Reichensburg says the Commission of Inquiry has discovered 13 bombs at the Rosentha lrailway bridge.

The Liberal Platform.

NEWCASTLE, Oct. 2.—The great National Liberal Federation Congress formally opened in the town hall, Newcastle which was packed. Dr. Wattson was re-elected president. John Morley, M.P., addressed the federation. The city is crowded with visitors, all attracted by the congress. Mr. Gladstone arrived last night.

When Mr. Morley began to speak there was a large number of members of the House of Commons on the platform. Mr. Morley said Ireland had vindicated the confidence the Liberals had placed in her by refusing to follow a leader the Liberals could not conscientiously work with.

In regard to the temperance reform question Mr. Morley said that it was not the Liberals' fault if they had not legislatively advanced it, for as usual the Conservatives had blocked the way. On this, as on most of the other questions the Liberals had at heart, they must boldly face the enemy. There was a prospect, however, that even if victorious the members of the House of Commons would find to all such measures unyielding obstacles to progress in the House of Lords. Therefore it became a matter of serious consideration as to how long that privileged house, non-representative and unreformed as it was, out of sympathy and out of touch with the majority of the representative chamber, was to endure. [Loud and prolonged cheers.]

Alluding to the obstacles existing in the exercise of the franchise the speaker said that he did not know how the voice of the workmen could be heard with full effect in Parliament until England followed the example of every other country in having a constitution and by placing some moderate subsistence within the reach of those aspiring to serve the people in Parliament. (Loud cheers.)

Sir Edward Grey moved a resolution to the effect that the National Liberal Federation declares its perfect trust in Mr. Gladstone, and its belief that no wise or durable settlement of the Irish question can be effected except by the establishment of an Irish legislative body for the management exclusively of Irish affairs.

Mr. Broadhurst, M.P., seconded the resolution, which was approved with cheers.

Dr. Spence Watson, president of the National Liberal Federation, referring to the discussion carried on recently by the delegates to the Trades Union Congress on the eight-hour question, defended the attitude which the Federation's council had taken upon that subject, namely, that its definite adoption as one of the Liberal party's planks depended upon the degree of unanimity reported on from the local Liberal associations of which the federation is the ultimate voice.

Resolutions in favor of disestablishing the Welsh church and to amend free education by increasing the popular control of the schools were passed.

An Unknown Schooner Lost.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—During a severe storm last evening an unknown schooner in distress was discovered off Sennen, Cornwall. Owing to the heavy sea eight members of the lifeboat crew refused to put out to her assistance. Seaside visitors from London thereupon volunteered to take the men's place and the lifeboat started for the distressed vessel. It failed to reach the schooner, which probably foundered with all on board. The men in the lifeboat had a terrible experience, being tossed about all night on the waves. The boat finally reached St. Ives in safety.

OTTAWA, Oct. 2.—It is reported here that objection has been raised to Mr. E. F. Clarke as superintendent of the Printing Bureau that he cannot speak French. J. J. SHEEHY'S ANNOUNCEMENT

TO THE PURCHASING PUBLIC OF PETERBOROUGH.

Six Years ago I started in Business in this Town with a Small Stock of Dry Goods and a Smaller Capital, but buoyed up with the hope, that by Diligence, Energy and the Strictest Possible Attention to Business, that business would grow and prosper as the town progressed, and I am delighted to be able to say, that my fondest hopes in this respect have been realized, for, as Peterborough has gone ahead (which fact there is none to dispute and the evidence of which we see around us on every side) so has my business progressed, and to-day I am in a position to ask the purchasing public to call and examine a Stock of General Dry Goods, which for Variety, Quality and General Excellence is not surpassed by any in the Town of Peterborough. Now, bear in mind, that I do not for one moment pretend to say that I carry the largest stock of Dry Goods in town; but this I do state most emphatically, that, to any purchaser starting out with a view of purchasing their Fall Dry Goods for cash, be that purchase One Dollar or One Hundred Dollars, there is no establishment in the Town of Peterborough that is in a better position to offer Greater Inducements than I offer to the general public to-day. As my business has grown in the past, so I intend it shall in the future, if any efforts on my part will have the desired effect, and in order that the month of October may become the Banner Month of the six years, I propose making the following Offer. My Stock throughout the entire store has been bought at the closest possible figures. My entire stock has been marked at the lowest living prices. Now this is my offer: during the month of October, to every purchaser of One Dollar or upwards, I offer a Discount of FIVE PER CENT.

I extend a cordial invitation to every one of my old customers who have dealt with me steadily during the past six years, and also to those whom I might call my occasional customers; and finally to those with whom I have not yet had the pleasure of doing business. Yours respectfully,

J. J. SHEEHY.

"A Good Conservative."

That is the Verdict on Mr. Cochrane—A True Man of the Party—Big Whitewash Meeting at Brighton—Speeches by the Whitewashed, N. Clarke Wallace, Dr. Sproule, and Dr. Willoughby.

BRIGHTON, Sept. 30—The Conservative half of this town and the surrounding county turned out with enthusiasm and torches this evening to honor Mr. Edward Cochrane, beloved representative, the whitewashed of Ottawa. When the train arrived the procession was standing with open arms to receive the representative who had been washed clean by the vote of the majority. The inevitable brass band was there and led off, followed by a carriage containing Mr. Cochrane and the enthusiastic chairman of the Public Accounts Committee, Mr. N. Clarke Wallace. Then came citizens on foot with and without torches, and a number of enthusiastic ladies who endorsed the course of the hero of the hour by bearing flaming torches in the procession. And thus they all proceeded to the Town Hall. Within the neat edifice everything was in order for the reception worthy of the hero of the canal locks. The floor was covered with pine shavings and the chairs were crowded close together. The decorations that had been put up for the memorial service in honor of the late Premier were still in the hall, and over the stage was the motto, "Our chieftain, full of years, full of honors." The chair was taken by the President of the local Conservative Association, Wm. Wade, who, in a short flow of laudation, brought forth the lion of the evening, the representative who had been tried and whitewashed by his peers. Mr. Cochrane started out with a speech at high pressure and maintained it for a considerable time. He was proud of the way he had been exonerated, from the charges made against him, through a free majority vote in the House. No telegram had been sent to ask any man to whitewash him. No man had been asked to whitewash him. He seemed to think that the whitewash had been applied freely and with a lavish brush. He grew eloquent in denouncing the story that the canal lock had been sold to Johnston for a horse, a hog and a cow. He contended that the affair was not brought up for the purpose of purifying politics. He was not particularly pleased with the affair in general, and maintained that if men were allowed to be arraigned in such a manner, no one in public life would be safe. In Ontario, he said, party feeling was stronger than in any other province, and consequently the Grits had chosen on the investigating committee three men from Ontario, Messrs. Cameron, Mulock and German, while the Conservatives had chosen three men of judicial minds from the Maritime Provinces. The Opposition trade policy was denounced, and the late Premier eulogized. Although they might mourn his loss the principles that he had inculcated into the party still lived, said Mr. Cochrane. They would live though men might die. His shadow had been over the parliament during the last session, and there never was a party more united than the Conservative party of Canada at the present time. The vilest and the most malodorous scandals could not prevail against it.

MR. CLARKE WALLACE.

The next speaker was N. Clarke Wallace, M.P., who, of course, was pleased to be there, and to express his approval of the course of his friend, Mr. Cochrane. He first poured out the vials of his wrath on the heads of Messrs. Mulock, Cameron and German. Then the case was ventilated from his point of view, and the chairman, Colonel Tisdale, was commended for having thrown out the evidence of Arundel Simpson. In a flight of oratory he declared that the Conservative party was strong enough and honest enough to purify the public life of this country, and they were going to do it, although he failed to state when they intended to commence the operation. Sir Hector Langevin, he said, was the victim of circumstances, and had been the prey of a gang of thieves and robbers by whom he had been surrounded for years and for the trifling eclipse of his vigilance had been reduced to the position of a private member. Wherever any thing corrupt had been discovered the offenders had been punished. And thus whenever the speaker discovered a soiled spot in the Ministerial household he touched it with the whitewash and passed on. Then came the old flag, and he waved it until it was worn threadbare and frayed at the edges, concluding with an eloquent eulogy of the old policy of protection to manufacturers from ocean to ocean.

DR. SPROULE.

Dr. Sproule was next introduced, and paid some pretty compliments to Mr. Cochrane on his alleged retention of the confidence of his constituency. He was pleased, he said, too see the ladies interested in the good and important work, and also the young men, who would supply the ranks of Conservatism during the time of the next generation, and who were now being indoctrinated in the principles of the party. The speaker was eloquent even to the length of quoting Shakespeare in praise of the Tory leader at Ottawa, while Mr. M. C. Cameron he denounced as a prevaricator of the truth. He used the brush with taste and discretion. He had plain, ordinary whitewash for Cochrane and Sir Hector Langevin, kalsomine for Chapleau and Haggart, and when it came to Sir John Thompson and Premier Abbott he spread on frescoes of the richest hues, painting their abilities and powers in glowing tints. Mr. Haggart's case came in for special mention, and the fact that his scandal was outlawed was strongly emphasized. In conclusion he said a great many pretty things about the ladies and the elevating influence they were shedding on Canadian politics by endorsing with their presence the cause of their representative in Parliament. He also spoke of the great necessity of educating the youths of the country in the principles and practices of the Conservative party. He politely thanked every one for the reception that had been given to their member, Mr. Cochrane.

DR. WILLOUGHBY'S LITTLE BRUSH

Then came a voice from the Provincial Legislature and Dr. Willoughby came on the carpet. He felt the utmost confidence in the member who had fought the many battles in the riding and had always come out victorious. How that member must have felt his heart beat with joy when he approached the station wondering how he was to be received by his constituents, and found an enthusiastic crowd with music, torches and cheers, ready to endorse the course that he had pursued during his Parliamentary career. The speaker was sure that if an election were to be held to-morrow Mr. Cochrane would be returned again. He was one of the true men of the Conservative party, able to carry on the affairs of the Dominion on true British lines. Then there was a general denunciation of the advocates of commercial union, after which Dr. Willoughby retired from the platform and the audience cheered for Mr. Cochrane and the Queen and departed to their waggons, their homes and hotels. Throughout the whole operation both the whitewash and the jubilation were of a general nature, and no one showed any disposition toward stating a belief in the innocence of their representative in relation to the particular charges that had been made against him. It was a case of "not proven, and the less we say about it the better."

Never allow the bowels to remain constipated lest serious evil ensue. National Pills are unsurpassed as a remedy for constipation. dw

Sufferers

FROM Stomach and Liver derangements—Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Sick-Headache, and Constipation—find a safe and certain relief in Ayer's Pills. In all cases where a cathartic is needed, these Pills are recommended by leading physicians.

Dr. T. E. Hastings, of Baltimore, says: "Ayer's Pills are the best cathartic and aperient within the reach of my profession."

Dr. John W. Brown, of Oceana, W. Va., writes: "I have prescribed Ayer's Pills in my practice, and find them excellent. I urge their general use in families."

"For a number of years I was afflicted with biliousness which almost destroyed my health. I tried various remedies, but nothing afforded me any relief until I began to take Ayer's Pills."—G. S. Wanderlich, Scranton, Pa.

"I have used Ayer's Pills for the past thirty years, and am satisfied I should not be alive to-day if it had not been for them. They cured me of dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since."—T. P. Brown, Chester, Pa.

"Having been subject, for years, to constipation, without being able to find much relief, I at last tried Ayer's Pills, and deem it both a duty and a pleasure to testify that I have derived great benefit from their use. For over two years past I have taken one of these Pills every night before retiring. I would not willingly be without them."—G. W. Bowman, 26 East Main st., Carlisle, Pa.

"Ayer's Pills have been used in my family upwards of twenty years, and have completely verified all that is claimed for them. In attacks of piles, from which I suffered many years, they afforded me greater relief than any medicine I ever tried."—Thomas F. Adams, Holly Springs, Texas.

A Three Days' Fight, in Which Over 500 Lives were Sacrificed

CITY OF MEXICO, Sept. 30.—Despatches indicate that in Guatemala riot was a serious affair after all. It appears the people were celebrating their national holiday and President Barillas personally appointed the orators of the day. To this the masses took exception and the orators took the rostrum. It was [illegible] storm of stones, which [illegible] being pursued across the big plaza by a raging mob, shouting "Down with the government!" "Down with [illegible] and tyranny!" "Down with Barillas!" The [illegible] and Barillas [illegible] a battalion of infantry into the large square for the purpose of [illegible] the mob. They with fixed bayonets attempted to carry the plaza by [illegible] were met by a shower of stones and [illegible] from revolvers. This unexpected action of the mob put them to ignominious flight, leaving many dead and wounded on the plaza. The uproar was something to be long remembered. Numbers of the mob shouted, "Let us storm the National Palace!" "Kill Barillas and restore a Republican form of Government!" "Guatemala should not be ruled by a dictator!" "The plundering of the National Treasury must cease!"

Barillas then ordered artillery into the plaza, and the infantry and two cannons to guard his residence. When the guns were turned on the mob there was a general dispersing of them, though they discharged their [illegible] at the artillerymen. They left the plaza, but fought in the side streets. Five hundred lives were sacrificed in the three days' fighting, and President Barillas is still shooting down the participants in the revolt as if they were criminals. The despatch also conveys the information that Barillas has declared himself Dictator. Gen. Sanchez was shot and killed by Col. Job. The city is under martial law.

RAVAGES BY PIRATES.

Chinese Marauders Burn Down an Entire Village and Commit Depredations

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 30.—Advices just received from Shanghai, China, say the riots continue in the interior and the northern provinces. At Suenanpo a large crowd surrounded a girls' school and the school premises were destroyed. The officials captured three ringleaders. Pirates burned down the village of Treng Ba on the Black River. This action is supposed to be revenge against the villagers for delivering up prisoners to the authorities. On the 3rd inst. the village of Lurog defended itself against 300 pirates. The villagers had three men killed and one wounded. The marauders were defeated by the civic guard in a [illegible] engagement within 36 hours. Forty-seven pirates were killed. The rest was beaten back to the mountain. Near Swatow a boat containing [illegible] persons was attacked by pirates, who stole $1000 in money.

Still Another Record Broken.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The steamer Teutonic from New York arrived at Queenstown at 2 p.m. The time of her passage was 5 days 21 hours and 22 minutes. This beats the eastward record held for nearly two years by the City of Paris and City of New York by 1 hour and 20 minutes.

Contract for the New Cunard Steamers

LONDON, Sept. 30.—A cablegram to The New York World says: The contract for the new Cunard boats has been secured by the Fairfield Shipbuilding Company. The new boats will be 14,000 tons each, will be 600 feet long by 65 feet beam. The Teutonic is 566 feet long and 57 feet beam. They will be driven by engines of the [illegible] recent type up to 30,000 horse power, while the Teutonic is of 20,000 horse power. The new boats will have twin screws.

Though the steamers are not absolutely guaranteed to be five-day boats they are guaranteed to average 21 knots an hour on the open sea. If pushed for a record trip they will be able to do considerably more than 21 knots. They will be constructed so as to carry about 600 first class passengers. The new Cunarders are to have only two masts.

Grand Duchess Paul

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 30.—The funeral train bearing the remains of the Grand Duchess Paul arrived here yesterday morning from Moscow. All the [illegible] members of the [illegible] and the members of the Government were awaiting the arrival of the train. In the private waiting room were the Czar and Czarina, [illegible] of the dead Grand Duchess, [illegible] of her royal and imperial relatives. The coffin was conveyed to the Cathedral of St. Peter and St. Paul by the Czar, the King of Greece, Prince Waldemar of Denmark, Prince George of Greece, Grand Duke Paul, the husband of the deceased, Grand Duke Constantine and Grand Duke Constantinovitch. The streets from the station to the cathedral were lined with troops.

The royal bearers carried the coffin to the steps of the high altar and deposited it upon a dais covered with a purple pall bearing the Imperial arms of Russia. A grand requiem mass was then celebrated. All the foreign diplomats were present.

The Lord and the Ring

ROME, Ga., Oct. 1.—"Lord" Beresford, alias Sydney Lascelles, who cut a dash and swindled people in St. Thomas, Ont., some months ago and is now in jail here, was quietly informed that for borrowing $1000 through false pretences he would have a fair trial and preserve a whole hide, but was warned that if he compelled the young woman concerned in the ring episode to go upon the witness stand her friends would not be so patient.

The young "Lord" seemed to understand the situation so thoroughly that he accommodated himself to it and to-day returned the ring.

The young woman is a bride and her people were determined to make it hot for the "Lord" if he made an exposure of names necessary.

A Day of Acquittals

SARNIA, Oct. 1.—At the assizes to-day William Kenny, charged with bribery, was found not guilty, the judge ordering such a verdict.

CONVICTED OF PERSONATION.

Another Conviction at Belleville—A Deputy Returning Officer Acquitted.

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 1.—At the Assizes yesterday George Colby of Toronto was convicted of personation at the late Dominion election and sentenced to one month in jail. Ezekiel Palen was charged with wilful neglect of duty as deputy returning officer at [illegible] in not swearing a voter before giving him a ballot paper when alleged to have been required to do so by A. R. Chown, an agent of [illegible] Clute, one of the candidates. The defendant's counsel demurred to the indictment on the ground among others, that the criminal form of proceeding in that way was inapplicable to the offence charged. The Crown joined in demurrer and the case was argued before Chief Justice Armour at considerable length. Judgment was given for the defendant. The indictment was held bad and quashed. William Kerr, Q.C., for the Crown; J. Parker Thomas for Defendant Palen. E. L. Palen was also charged with aiding and abetting personation. Defendant's counsel took objection that the indictment was irregular and bad, as the offence, if any, was against an officer and could not be taken in this mode. The Chief Justice held the objection was well taken and the defendant was acquitted and a verdict of not guilty entered. A similar case against L. G. Porter was not proceeded with at this assize by the Crown officers, as an important witness was absent.

Say, Mister!

Is it possible you are suffering from catarrh, and have not used Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy? All the terrible consequences of catarrh in the head may be averted if you'll but make the effort! You know, too well, its distressing symptoms! You possibly know, if neglected, it invariably goes from bad to worse, and is likely to run into consumption and end in the grave! Here is a way of escape: Its makers are willing to take all the risk, and make a standing offer of $500 for an incurable case of this loathsome and dangerous disease. You can get $500 or better—a cure! c

It is a Very Sad Thing

To see young and beautiful people die when they might just as well live and enjoy health and strength. Many who suffer with coughs, colds and lung troubles, leading to consumption, imagine there is no hope for them, when in reality there is every hope if Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is taken regularly. Spread the news everywhere that this great emulsion will make flesh and blood, cure coughs, colds, bronchitis, sore throats and lung troubles tending to consumption. In big bottles, 50c. and $1. Do You Cough?

Don't delay. Take Kemp's Balsam, the best cough cure. It will cure coughs and colds. It will cure sore throat, or a tickling in the throat. It will cure pains in the chest. Self Application of Electricity
FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES
BY THE
DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT
And Attachments.
HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto
THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

Send name and address for Illustrated Book on Home Electro-medical treatment and mention this paper. J. D. TULLY, Agent, Peterborough. eod-w

I AM A MAN

"I have been treated by doctors, who had long lists of so-called cured patients, but they could not reach my case, and hope had been murdered in me by fair promises, but on first application of your magical appliance, hope and confidence came flocking in stronger than the combined powers of the four winds. I knew then that you would cure me, and now that I am a man and well again, I cannot thank you sufficiently for the cure. So again I say, use my name as reference whenever you wish. You nor any one else cannot use words too strong to express my sentiments in favor of so wonderful a treatment as that given by you."

DELHI, N.Y., August 20 1878.

"To the Father Mathew Temperance and Manufacturing Co.:

GENTLEMEN:

I am greatfully pleased to have in my power to testify to the efficacy and restorative qualities of your medicine in my own deplorable case.

"I was for eight years a martyr to alcohol, and "under the ban" from being, as all supposed who knew me (and as I myself thought), beyond cure from my reliance upon ardent spirit. Liquor took the place of food, and I was so prostrated, mentally and physically, that I courted death as the only freedom from my wretched sufferings. A kind and noble friend (through your instrumentality) induced me to take your invaluable remedy. The first bottle strengthened and gave appetite, and after finishing the fourth I felt completely cured, and have no relapse whatever. Appetite and energy have returned, and I am out of the city whose late associations have been so painful, and am engaged in useful occupation, with no desire for alcohol. Six months have now passed since I took my last drop of liquor, and my restoration to friends and life I claim only to have gained through your disinterested medical aid.

Permit me to subscribe myself forever your debtor.

First Offence.

At this morning's session of the police court Mr. A. V. R. Young, J. P., occupied a seat on the magisterial bench with P. M. Dumble. Maurice Dineen, on a charge of drunk and disorderly, was discharged, it being his first offence.

A Dangerous Practice.

Kingston papers find fault with the ladies of that town for standing up on the backs of the seats at a wedding which took place in a church there recently. Why, it was only natural in them to do so. Our society young man informs us the dear girls are always looking for a chance to "break their necks," as the slang synonym for matrimony has it.

Settled out of Court.

The trouble between the Salvation Army and the Chief of Police has been settled without recourse to the courts. Chief Roxey had the papers made out ready for service and the case would have been tried this morning, but on Tuesday an officer from headquarters in Toronto approached the chief and asked that no action be taken, promising there should be no further blockade of the streets such as occurred last Saturday night. This was perfectly satisfactory to the Chief and the case was dropped. As long as the Army people respect the rights of pedestrians and merchants no complaint will be made.

The Late Dr. Taylor.

The EXAMINER learns with regret of the death of Dr. Taylor, late of Peterborough, which took place, from gastric fever, at Niagara Falls, South, this (Friday) morning at 3 o'clock. The deceased gentleman was a much respected resident of the town, from which he removed to Niagara Falls two years ago, and was for a long time a member of the firm of Taylor & McDonald, Druggists. His last illness was of two or three weeks duration. Mrs. W. H. Hill, his daughter, received tidings of the low condition of her father yesterday, and left last night for Niagara Falls. The funeral takes place Monday afternoon.

The Opening of the Concert Season.

The complimentary concert on Tuesday night will be the musical event of the season. The programme has been completed, a copy of which will be printed in to-morrow's local papers, and will be of a sterling character, and of very entertaining variety, and in every way worthy of the patronage it enjoys, and of the veteran musician under whose direction it is given. The seat plan is filling rapidly, and there is every promise that the coming concert on Oct. 6th will in every way be a great success. Admission tickets, 50 and 25cts. Reserved seat plan at the Peterborough Bookstore.

A Haven of Health.

That Peterborough is one of the healthiest living districts in Canada is proven by the mortuary statistics. The government returns for the past twelve months are just to hand. They show that our town has the fifth lowest death rate of all the cities and large towns in Canada. Peterborough, with a population last year of 9,302, had 119 death, the ratio per thousand of population being 12.79. The ratios run all the way from Woodstock, 9.86, the lowest, to Quebec, 31.58, the highest. The record of our town is an excellent one, and is due as much to the efficient work of the sanitary officials as to natural healthiness of location.

A Robber Arrested.

On Monday evening last, Sept. 28th, a prominent citizen of Lindsay, named George Carr, was brutally beaten and robbed of about $190, by two men on one of the principal streets of that town. Carr identified one of his assailants in the person of the notorious Mike Carlin—a well known Lindsay tough. Carlin got a conveyance and drove to Peterborough the same night and took the train the next morning for Port Hope, with the intention of crossing on the North King to "the land of the free and the home of the brave." In the meantime the Lindsay police had got on the scent, and telegrams were sent all over to arrest him. Wednesday morning Chief Douglas was on the watch, says the Guide, and arrested him on the North King as she was about leaving for Charlotte. Mike did not like the idea of being arrested, and for a time began to make things lively, but finally the bracelets were put on him and he was lodged in "Castle Gamble." Constable Chas. Reeves came down from Lindsay after the prisoner, and took him back next morning. When Carlin was searched in the cells only $14 25 was found on his person.

Two Old Pioneers Gone.

One was Aged 94 and the Other 72 Years.

On Wednesday of last week, at the advanced age of 94 years, a universally esteemed and respected citizen of Norwood, says the Register, Mr. Wm. Higgins, departed this life. Deceased was born in County Sligo, Ireland, on July 15th, 1798, and came to Canada in the year 1831, settling in Toronto, then a straggling village, where he remained for one year. He then removed to Dummer and engaged in farming until 1874, when he took up his residence in Norwood. Deceased enjoyed fairly good health until near the last. The funeral took place on Saturday and was very largely attended.

Another old and highly respected resident of Norwood, in the person of Mr. Thos. Howson, passed over to the great majority on Sunday, at the ripe age of 72 years, 4 months and 10 days. Deceased had only been ill for a short time when the death summons came and his bereaved wife and relatives will have the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community in the irreparable loss sustained. He was born near Wheeling, Virginia, in 1819. His father, John Howson, deceased, was a native of Yorkshire, England, and came to America in 1817, settling first in Virginia, where the subject of this notice was born. After five years spent in Vermont, the family came to Canada, and settled in Cobourg, where they remained five years, removing afterwards to Otonabee, where the father died in 1878. Deceased was one of a family of five children, and at the age of 21 left the old homestead and bought a farm in Asphodel, where he resided until a few years ago, when he removed to Norwood. In 1844 he was married to Ann McConnell, of Dummer, and out of a family of ten but two now survive him. He always took an active interest in municipal matters and was for eight years a member of the Asphodel council. He was also for a time a captain in the volunteer force. He was a consistent member of the Methodist Church here for over half a century. The funeral took place on Tuesday and was very largely attended.

COPY OF PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

Dear sisters and friends in our noble work for "God and Home and Native Land":—

During the year just closing we have much to be thankful for, and much to make us sad. Death has entered our ranks and taken two of our sisters to their home. We say with David of old: "We shall go to them, but they shall not return to us." Our loss is their gain.

In looking over our work for the past year we can thank God and take courage. The only work carried over into the new year is the Early Closing Movement. At our request the pastors of the different churches gave special sermons on Early Closing which must tell in this direction. They have the hearty thanks of the W.C.T.U. We circulated a petition among the merchants; some approved and others did not. Some wanted a free market, but would do nothing for it. I should think that after all that has been said and done the ladies and gentlemen of Peterborough would take steps to remedy this evil, now that the W.C.T.U. has opened the way. Some have thought us out of place, and wondered "what the women would try next," but think of our sons and daughters hired at so much a week, and looking forward to a rest on Sabbath, and in consequence of late hours on Saturday night the Sabbath morning is spent in bed, until careless habits are formed and public worship is neglected altogether. A great many ask what step we will take next, but I would like to ask what step the public will take next, as these things are still going on. Our labourers in the street may stop when their day's work is done, but our girls and boys must work until ten o'clock on Friday night and twelve on Saturday night, to finish and take home dresses, bonnets and mantles. Who would wear a dress, bonnet or mantle to church or class meeting finished at twelve o'clock on Saturday night? When speaking of the matter, our merchants often say, "all would be well if the ladies would leave orders early in the week, and not at five o'clock, as some of them do."

The law providing for the early closing of bars on Saturday evening is not kept. Think of the mothers and sisters waiting up till Sabbath morning for husbands and brothers to return from their night's debauch. How long, O Lord, must families suffer from this curse? Just so long as the churches in our land, like the Levite of old, pass by on the other side.

I thank you, dear sisters, for your help in the past, and that we as a Union may go on in the work for the lifting up of humanity is my prayer.—See Isaiah xxxiii, 20 22.

MRS. GEO. PATON,
Pres. W.C.T.U.

"Fishing for Suckers."

The Recommendation Which a Hamilton Paper Gives to Patterson & Corbin.

The Hamilton Times says:—"Patterson & Corbin, the street car manufacturers, of St. Catharines, who have been fishing for suckers among the municipalities for some time back, and for whose benefit the Peterborough taxpayers passed a bonus by law, have concluded to remain in St. Kitts after all. The Peterborough terms asked for security that the firm would spend $16,000 a year in wages, and this demand has frightened them off. They have written to Peterborough saying that they 'cannot safely accept the proposed by-law without the risk of incurring damages in case they make default in the terms of the by law that might practically ruin them.' Peterborough's reply to their refusal concludes with a request for a check from the firm covering the amount expended by the town in connection with the negotiations and passage of the by-law."

Whereupon the St. Catharines Standard observes:—"Towns which waste money trying to decoy established industries away from other cities in the same Province deserve to pay their own costs in the matter, and if in this case Peterborough is out $100 or $500, so much the better for her. It will be a wholesome lesson."

The Standard should be truthful. Peterborough did not try to decoy Patterson & Corbin from St. Catherines. The first overtures came from the street car firm, and it was only when they expressed a wish to locate here on account of the superior railway facilities of our town, that the Peterborough council took the matter up. Then, when St. Catherines saw its prestige as a city would be endangered by the removal of about its only industry, prompt steps were taken and Patterson & Corbin were bought back by municipal and privately subscribed assistance. These are the facts, and justify the charge of the Hamilton Times that Patterson & Corbin were "fishing for suckers." They should at least have the manliness to pay the costs of the proceedings which were taken at their own instance, and not begin any such negotiations again until they mean business.

Personal.

Mr. John McKee, druggist, member from Peterborough district of the council of the Ontario College of Pharmacy, was in Toronto yesterday attending the opening of the college. This is the first session under the new staff, and the large attendance of 104 pupils attests the wisdom of the enlarging of the building and the appointment of a new staff of teachers.

Masters Charles McKee, Rollie McWilliams and H. Bell, town, pupils of the Institute, have successfully passed the supplemental Matriculation Examinations to Toronto University. Master McKee passed both the regular and the supplemental examinations. There is a very creditable record for these young lads and speaks well for the training given in the Institute.

Queen Victoria has a remarkably fine head of hair, for a lady of her age; but her son, the Prince of Wales, is quite bald. Had he used Ayer's Hair Vigor earlier in life, his head might, to-day, have been as well covered as that of his royal mother. It's not too late yet.

Three Months in Gaol.

Charles Howsam, the Butcher, Receives Sentence for Confessed Crime.

At the police court this morning Charles Howsam, the young butcher who confessed to the theft of a heifer from the barn of Mr. John Hutchison, Otonabee, on the night of Sept. 21st, was given his sentence. Police Magistrate Dumble in sentencing the prisoner said:

"You are charged with stealing a heifer. To this you plead guilty. It appears that you are a butcher, recently having started business for yourself. You went out no doubt to buy, but suffered yourself to be tempted by an animal you saw on the roadside. It is of the greatest consequence that farmers who have to trust their animals to the fields and highways, should feel secure in the knowledge that in addition to the general honesty of the people, they may depend on the law of the land to prevent larceny of their beasts. Therefore the law makes your crime a serious one, and imposes a heavy penalty of 14 years imprisonment as a maximum punishment. Butchers, particularly, have it in their power to commit larceny of cattle without detection, and this imposes upon the court to render in your case a judgment which will be a lesson to others. I am impressed with the fact that you are young, that this is your first offence, that on all sides your act has awakened surprise owing to the previous good character borne by you. Respectably connected as you are and in your peculiar circumstances I am greatly surprised at your act. You readily confessed your crime and sought to lessen it by payment. I am in hopes that as this is your first, so it may be your last offence. I am therefore disposed to impose such a light sentence as, while vindicating the law, will not prevent you from working back again to the respect of the world. Let this event teach you once for all that only in honesty and well doing is there satisfaction and comfort in life.

"The judgment of the court is that you be imprisoned in the common gaol of the county of Peterborough for the term of three months with hard labour."

The prisoner appeared to feel his disgrace keenly, hanging his head in shame during the proceedings. Rev. Mr. Thom, of Ashburnham, was present in the interest of the young man, Mr. E. B. Stone was present as counsel.

The "payment" referred to in the magistrate's address is said to be $9 00 given by Howsam to an agent who was to act as mediator and prevent if possible the case being prosecuted. More money was promised, but to no avail.

It is estimated there are five thousand different kinds of pills on the market. Should one be able to test the entire lot for a perfect specific in sick headache, foul stomach, habitual constipation and liver complaint then only one would be found: McGale's Butternut Pills, they cure where others only relieve. Price 25 cts.

Young's Point.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

IMPROVEMENTS.—A great improvement is being made in the R.C. Church here, both in appearance and convenience, by the addition of a vestry. Mr. C. Young has the contract for the work, and no doubt it will be well done. A stone foundation has been laid by Mr. Watley and Mr. Wm. McGregor is at present engaged with the carpenter work. Mr. P. P. Young has also erected a neat and handsome verandah around two sides of his residence. The work was done in a creditable manner by Mr. McGregor.

THE CEMETERY.—The beautiful situation of the cemetery here is admired by all who visit the village, and the people of the parish have taken no little pains in endeavouring to improve the appearance of the place. Numerous ornamental shade trees have been planted and many choice flowers set out upon the graves. But this labour is all in vain so long as the fences are not kept in proper repair. We hope that those interested in the matter will see to it that the grounds are properly fenced and an efficient caretaker appointed to look after the "city of the dead."

THE LAKES.—Owing to the cold rough weather at the beginning of this month the cottages on Stony Lake were almost completely deserted, but now that summer has returned to us again, many will regret their haste in leaving a resort where cool, delightful breezes may be found even during the warmest weather. And truly, September is the most delightful month of the year for the camper. He does not then suffer from the inroads of the mischievous mosquito, and other similar pests, nor is he in danger of suffocation from the heat of tent or cottage. In the morning he rises refreshed and invigorated, and may enjoy the exquisite pleasure of hauling in a twenty pounder before breakfast, without fear of suffering from headache or other unpleasant results caused by the sun's rays in earlier summer. And moreover, fish are more abundant and more easily caught at this season; and then the monotony of fishing—for it does become monotonous sometimes—may be broken by the use of rifle and shot gun, as ducks and partridges are plentiful and in season. The camping season on our lakes is short, but by far the best part of it is lost to those who strike tent and rush home on the first appearance of stormy weather.

This is a season when colds in the head are alarmingly prevalent. They lead to catarrh, perhaps consumption and death. Nasal Balm gives immediate relief and certain cure. Sold by all dealers.

Belmont's Roads.

The Havelock correspondent of the Norwood Register writes:—The other day Mr. Blezard, M.P.P., Mr. McAuley, reeve of Belmont and Methuen, and Mr. J. B. McWilliams went to Round Lake to inspect the road from that place to Stony Lake, on which there is to be expended $350 this season. The expenditure has been much needed for a long time and shows the benefit of having live and energetic representatives, who, instead of idling on, are up and doing. Mr. McAuley, although only a new man in the county council, has shown that confidence has not been misplaced in him, for through his energy and tact he succeeded in obtaining a grant of $100 from the county council, and $50 from the township council for this road, and Mr. Blezard succeeded in obtaining a grant of $200 from the Ontario government to supplement those from the township and county councils. That is just like "Tom" anyway, for he always appears to have an eye open for the interests of his constituents—it appears to be a habit of his. It is pleasing to know that Mr. McWilliams, who, I am told, is an old Belmont boy, though now living in Peterborough, still remembers his native township, and takes such a lively interest in its welfare. It is indeed seldom, now-a-days, that we see men who have been promoted as he has been, still manifesting such an interest in the place of their birth when residing such a distance therefrom. And this is not all for I understand that these gentlemen intend to make another trip and inspect the Methuen road through Oak Lake settlement with a view to interesting "the powers that be" towards making much needed improvements on the road. It is evident that Belmont and Methuen and East Peterborough have the right men in the right places to represent them, and it will be a lucky day for these municipalities if they can continue to retain the active interest of such a strong combination as Messrs Blezard, McAuley and McWilliams.

Helpless in her Hands.

Strong Men Powerless in the Hands of Annie Abbott.

The performance of Annie Abbott as witnessed at the Encore Theatre last night by an audience which filled every seat and occupied all the standing room, were indeed as wonderful as has been claimed. She is a small woman of the blonde type, decidedly pretty and vivacious. Her arms are bare from some distance above the elbow, and it becomes apparent almost immediately that what she does is not accomplish through the exercise of physical force. The audience was kept in roars of laughter last night, at the comical efforts of well-known citizens, who were upon the stage, to overcome the little woman, but at the same time there is something weird and awe-inspiring in the exhibition of this mysterious power so easily exerted and controlled. The first thing realized is that there is absolutely no deception, no attempt at it and no chance for it. The stage is an ordinary one, and the chairs used are selected at random.—Helena, Mont., Daily Herald, Nov. 13, 1890. In Bradburn's Opera House to-night. Reserved seat plan at Greatrex's drug store.

King of Medicines

A Cure "Almost Miraculous."

"When I was 14 years of age I had a severe attack of rheumatism, and after I recovered had to go on crutches. A year later, scrofula, in the form of white swellings, appeared on various parts of my body, and for 11 years I was an invalid, being confined to my bed 6 years. In that time ten or eleven sores appeared and broke, causing me great pain and suffering. I feared I never should get well.

"Early in 1886 I went to Chicago to visit a sister, but was confined to my bed most of the time I was there. In July I read a book, 'A Day with a Circus,' in which were statements of cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was so impressed with the success of this medicine that I decided to try it. To my great gratification the sores soon decreased, and I began to feel better and in a short time I was up and out of doors. I continued to take Hood's Sarsaparilla for about a year, when, having used six bottles, I had become so fully released from the disease that I went to work for the Flint & Walling Mfg. Co., and since then on account of sickness. I believe the disease is expelled from my system, I always feel well, am in good spirits and have a good appetite. I am now 27 years of age and can walk as well as any one, except that one limb is a little shorter than the other, owing to the loss of bone, and the sores formerly on my right leg. To my friends my recovery seems almost miraculous, and I think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the king of medicines." WILLIAM A. LEHR, 9 N. Railroad St., Kendallville, Ind.

THE NATIONAL LEAGUE.

THE CHICAGO CONVENTION ADOPTS A PLATFORM.

A Canadian Elected First Vice President—Irish Unity and Independence of all English Affiliation—Hero Worship and One Man Domination.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—The convention of the Irish National League of America and of societies and individuals throughout the United States and Canada in sympathy with the organization continued. The assembly in Central Music Hall simultaneously with the great conference of Gladstone's adherents at Newcastle, England, preparatory to a general election in Great Britain, is to-day regarded by many as something more than a coincidence. One of the emblems displayed is a glittering Irish pike. Numerous speeches were made advocating Irish unity and independence of all English affiliation.

This platform was adopted:

We affirm that our overmastering desire is to see extended to our Motherland the benefits accruing from equal laws such as have blessed America and made her the hope of suffering mankind and the model for nations struggling for free institutions.

We regret the conditions now existing in Ireland and attribute their possibility to an unfortunate tendency toward hero worship and one man domination, which we hope to see obliterated from the public life of Ireland.

We have no desire, nor do we deem it wise, necessary or patriotic to pass judgment upon the questions now so unhappily separating our brethren in the Old Land. We have heretofore tendered our good offices in the adjustment of these differences and that tender has been wholly disregarded by the contending elements, but we may and must speak out the opinions and wishes of the people we represent and say that it is the duty of the Irish and all other oppressed people to seek freedom by peaceable methods, and only when such methods have been fully tried and found wanting are nations and people justified in resorting to force.

We call upon those who are responsible for the locking up of over $200,000, mainly contributed by the people of this country for the support of the evicted tenants on the Plan of Campaign, to raise the same and distribute it as originally intended by the subscribers, and we pledge ourselves that until this request is complied with we are resolved not to contribute another dollar to aid those who have withheld this money from its legitimate beneficiaries.

We call the attention of America to the case of American citizens suffering penal horrors in British dungeons because of evidence plainly manufactured, and the fact that they dare to express themselves in favor of a free Ireland, and we ask our representatives in Congress to press the matter upon the attention of the State Department.

The reference to Parnell in the clause one man power elicited warm applause. A minority report urging that the convention support no individual or element of the Irish parliamentary party found few supporters.

Vice President Boyle

M. V. Gannon was elected president. He announced that under the new constitution he appointed as secretary John P. Sutton. Patrick Boyle of Toronto was chosen first vice president; M. D. Gallagher of New York second vice president, and P. J. O'Connor of Augusta, Ga., third vice president. William Lyman of New York was chosen treasurer.

The meeting then adjourned.

FELL IN A RAVINE.

A Well Known Explorer Who Could Carry 600 Pounds With Ease

PORT ARTHUR, Oct. 3.—Karl [illegible] died in the hospital here yesterday from a fracture of skull. He was the district's [illegible] of its old-timers and most experienced explorer. He was born at [illegible], on the Rhine, 67 years ago, and came to this country when a young man. He prospered in the county of Bruce and owned a saw mill, a farm, a store and a hotel. But in 1869 he came out here, and from then to now he has made the bush his home, following up an explorer's life. He has sold scores of locations, and he discovered Silver Hill mine, the Ottawa location on Arrow Lake, and a big list of others of lesser note.

[illegible] was exploring in the [illegible] River country with his son when he accidentally slipped and fell over a cliff. His son found him apparently lifeless at the foot of the ravine. He was taken up and brought to the hospital here.

The deceased was a man of tremendous muscular strength and has been known to pick up a steel rail weighing about 600 pounds and carry it off the boat.

May Have Died from Exposure

KINGSTON, Oct. 3.—Mrs. Selina [illegible], whose flight from Rockwood asylum was recorded a few days back, is still at large. The last trace discovered of her whereabouts was at Folger station on the K. & P. Railroad, where she was asking her way to Ottawa. It is feared she may have perished from hunger and exposure in the woods.

Shipwrecked Mariners

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Sixty-seven shipwrecked sailors arrived in this port to-day. They bring the news of the [illegible] steamship California, the British ship [illegible] Farm and the British schooner [illegible] Wonder. They bring news that their vessels were wrecked at sea.

A Tug Captain Drowned

[illegible], Oct. 3.—Capt. [illegible] of the tug [illegible] got entangled in the hawser as it was paid off and was dragged overboard. All attempts to save the unfortunate captain were useless. His body was recovered.

A Moose's Fatal Swim

[illegible], Oct. 3.—[illegible] Parks took a [illegible] sized moose [illegible] old out of the lake in front of his house on Friday morning. He states that it was coming from the direction of the islands and supposed that it had become exhausted and drowned, as there was no mark of injury, and that it did not appear to have been dead long.

DROWNED IN MUSKOKA.

ROPEWALKER DIXON MEETS AN UNTIMELY END.

Seized With Cramps in the Water—He Braved Niagara Yet Died in a Summer Lakelet—He Had Gone on a Bear Hunt But Did Not Reach His Destination

TORONTO, Oct. 3.—John Dixon, the photographer, who had recently made himself noted as a ropewalker, was drowned in Wood Lake yesterday afternoon. That a man who had crossed Niagara's fearful gorge on a slender strand and accomplished numerous other perilous feats should have come to his end in a boat on a tiny Muskoka loch is a curious illustration of the workings of fate.

Dixon had just returned from a trip to Montreal, Peterboro and Whitby, where he walked the rope before the eyes of admiring thousands.

He returned to Toronto and yesterday at noon he started for Muskoka. He has an engagement to perform at the Collingwood fair, and thought he would have a bear hunt before keeping his appointment. He endeavored to induce Eddie Bond and other friends to accompany him on his expedition but they all deemed it too early in the season for hunting and did not go. He started off alone and the next heard of him was a telegram from Mr. A. Meyers stating that he had been drowned in Wood Lake. The news was conveyed to his wife and family by friends, and as may be supposed, the house was suddenly converted to a house of woe. For despite the hazardous feats the man was constantly performing, where death tempted so long at last threw his dart, the grief of his widow and two pretty girls was none the less severe.

Dixon was a remarkable man physically. Not that he was large or powerful. But he was a splendid specimen of his kind, and that kind was best expressed in the term "steel wire." He was of regular limbs and features, black as to his hair and piercing as to his eyes and quick as a flash in his movements. He could ride any horse, drive one or a team at a breakneck pace, shoot deer or bear, or birds like a born hunter, and fearless almost to insanity. He was a born rope walker, or rather wire rope walker, and his feat in crossing Niagara on an inch cable was as far ahead of Blondin's once famous performance as the electric light is over the penny dip. In whatever he attempted he succeeded. He became an expert photographer by a few simple twists of his wrist, where other men would work for years. He could shoe a horse or build a boat. So finely strung a man must have had a wonderful nervous organization and as a matter of fact had S. J. Dixon. And that was where his danger lay. Nervous excitement was what he should ever have guarded against, and latterly it was the one thing he courted. Of late his eye has been growing more excited, his conversation more volatile, his movements even more mercurial, and it is feared his resort to stimulants more than judicious. So convinced was one paper that his life would end in a tragedy that during his recent rope walking exhibition at Hanlan's Point a reporter was detailed from this paper to attend every one of his 12 performances. But his death was not to be from the wire, though the same nervous excitement that attended him on the rope lured him to his end on the Muskoka lake. When his nerves were on the string he would dare anything, and the more daring the more he liked it. You might have searched the continent over and you would not have found another man so perfect in his type, of such lightning rapidity in his movements and so dare-devil in his composition as S. J. Dixon, and one of whom it could be predicted with certainty [illegible].

Dixon first crossed Niagara on Sept. 6, 1890. He crossed again on July 17 in this year and appeared as much at home on the slender steel string over the boiling flood as if he were pacing the sidewalk on Yonge-street. Thousands saw him later at Hanlan's Point under the management of J. C. Conner. In gale or calm, wet or dry, he did his daily performance with unnecessary daring and dash.

A later despatch states that he was bathing in the lake and, taking cramps, was drowned.

A short time ago he concluded a contract with a French manager for ten dangerous performances in Europe next summer for $10,000. There were to be five walks at Paris and five at Brussels. His own and his wife's expenses were to be paid in addition.

The Devil in the Sugar Bowl.

REGINA, Oct. 3.—The crazy murderer Westerlund, from the Swedish colony north of Whitewood, has been lodged in Regina jail. He is very quiet and reads his Bible most of the time. It appears that the man was left with the care of seven sick persons, including his wife, who was ill with childbirth. The neighbors, thinking the disease infectious, were afraid to come to the poor man's help. When his wife died he was 14 days without sleep. After the funeral he went crazy, said the devil was in the sugar bowl and in some of the occupants of the house, and did several other idiotic acts, culminating with the chopping of his son's head off and hacking a calf with the same ax in a horrible manner. The ax descended with such force on the child's neck that it sunk into the ground two inches. He was guarded by three men until the police came. At the inquest a verdict of temporary insanity was given.

HAVANA, Oct. 2.—Eustasio Mendez has been convicted of kidnapping and has been sentenced to death. Mendez previous to his arrest for the crime for which he is to die was the commandant of militia and owner of considerable property at Caibarien. The prisoner will be shot to-morrow.

Lost With All Aboard.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—The loss of the schooner Frank Perew off White Fish Point, Lake Superior, with a crew of nine on board is now generally accepted. The Perew was commanded by Capt. J. Marquery of Bay City, Mich.

GLADSTONE SPEAKS.

AT THE GREAT LIBERAL CONGRESS ON THE TYNE.

The Grand Old Man Lays Down the Program of His Party—Three Million Liberal Electors Represented—118 Delegates to Make Speeches

NEWCASTLE, Oct. 3.—The Great Liberal Congress Friday passed resolutions favoring shorter sessions of Parliament, and hold that elections should be held upon the same day and recognize the principle of paying members of the House of Commons as being the only means of securing an adequate representation of the working class in Parliament. Sir George Trevelyan in a speech pointed out the crying abuses which now infested the electoral system of the British Isles. Sir George thought in no case should a member of parliament's stipend exceed £300 a year.

A resolution was also carried to the effect that the condition of the rural population is such as to require immediate attention upon the part of Parliament.

The Marquis of Ripon Speaks.

The Marquis said it was of primary importance that Parliament should provide for the establishment of "district and parish councils," or local governing bodies under some such title to attend to the district and parish matters of their vicinity. The members of these councils, he suggested, should be elected by popular vote. Touching upon the present restricted allotments, the Marquis advocated their complete reformation by the removal of restrictions complained of and by giving security of tenure and the right to collect full compensation for improvements made. He said that the present condition of the agricultural laborer was not the ideal that we ought to content ourselves with in these democratic days. [Loud applause.] The Marquis' resolution was passed amid enthusiasm.

Sir Wilfrid Lawson aroused enthusiasm by submitting resolutions reaffirming the declarations of the council of the National Liberal Federation in favor of amending or ending [cheers] the House of Lords. [More cheering.] The resolutions also declared in favor of "local laws" in regard to public house regulations and advocated thorough reform of the land laws, the repeal of the laws of primogeniture and entail, the enfranchisement of leaseholders and the disestablishment and disendowment of the Church of Scotland.

Sir Wilfrid said: "My own personal opinion is that the period for mending the House of Lords is passed—[cheers]—and I pledge its complete abolishment." [Tremendous applause.]

Sir Henry Fowler, M.P., in supporting Sir Wilfrid Lawson's resolution, raised applause by the energetic manner in which he denounced the Government of Lord Salisbury. He said: "Salisbury's Government was a great failure and its legislation a parody and a caricature of Liberal measures." [Loud applause.] "The Liberals," he said, "never had better prospects before them than they have now with the coming general election in view." Sir Wilfrid Lawson's resolutions were adopted with hearty cheers.

Mr. Gladstone's Speech.

Over 4000 people were packed in the Tyneside Theatre to-night to hear Mr. Gladstone. The stage was occupied by members of the House of Commons, officials of Liberal associations, etc., while the Auditorium was crowded with delegates and other influential members of the party. The appearance of Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone was the signal for a prolonged ovation. When quiet was restored, Dr. Spence Watson moved a resolution expressing affection for and undiminished confidence in Mr. Gladstone. Carried.

When the cheering subsided Mr. Gladstone rose to speak. After expressing thanks for the cordial reception accorded him, Mr. Gladstone said he met them in part as citizens of Newcastle, but more particularly as representatives of that Liberal sentiment which he believed dominated powerfully and effectually the mind of the country at large. Looking back to 1886 they saw what was believed to be a crushing defeat, but during the years that had since elapsed the horizon had brightened. There were many precursors of certain victory, and that victory they knew could not be far distant. [Cheers.] Mr. Gladstone referred to the arrears in legislation and blamed the Tories therefor.

Referring to the foreign policy of the Salisbury Government the speaker said its spirit had undergone a beneficial change. Appeals to passion and pride were no longer sent broadcast over the country. A sounder, juster and more genial spirit had dictated at least the departmental position of Lord Salisbury's Cabinet. "I shall indeed rejoice," continued Mr. Gladstone, "if before the day comes for the present administration to give up the ghost [laughter and cheers] it will be possible for Lord Salisbury to make an effort to relieve us of the burdensome and embarrassing occupation of Egypt, which so long as it lasts must be a cause of weakness. It is a source of embarrassment we owe entirely to engagements contracted by a former Tory Government, and which I fear the present Government may, if it continues its present foreign policy, hand to its Liberal successors to deal with. [Cheers.]

In speaking of the temperance question Mr. Gladstone said: "Those approaching my period of life may not witness it, but many of you will see a thorough and effective reform of the laws connected with the traffic in alcohol, with an acknowledgment of the right of local populations to settle the question whether within their borders public houses shall exist." [Cheers.]

Touching the Welsh and Scotch church disestablishment questions he assured Scotland and Wales that they had the unanimous support of the Liberals.

Mr. Gladstone then took up the question of the abolition of hereditary peers. He said: "I desire to pass lightly over the difficult question of the House of Lords. [Prolonged cheers.] Owing to the priority of the claims of other subjects this question at present is rather in the shade. Well, I should not be sorry if it would remain in the shade till longer, provided the extra lease thus gained were graced by its wisdom, forbearance and moderation in dealing with public sentiment. But if the question is remote a mode exists whereby it may be made approximate, [illegible] that if in an evil hour the peers be tempted to listen to the counsel inauspiciously given by Lord Salisbury when he contemplated the possibility—his mind is open to that extent [laughter]—of a Liberal victory at the general election and reminded them that all would not be over even if the House of Commons should pass the Home Rule bill; that they might still rely, I am quoting his stated words, on the play of other parts of the constitution. There is but one other part of the constitution that could possibly perform such a prank as interpose itself between the deliberate judgment of the nation and the incorporation of the judgment in the form of a law—and that is the House of Lords. They tried that game in 1831 throughout the proceedings on the Reform bill. The consequence was they had to undergo a most painful humiliation, as they only succeeded in delaying the measure a year, and they themselves destroyed whatever confidence the people then had in them. I myself in 1860 and 1861 had the felicity, or infelicity, to be in conflict with the House of Lords. We had a great battle upon the repeal of the paper duties, one of the most difficult and most important questions in the whole [illegible]. You know what the consequences have been in the establishment of a free press, which has done more than any other single cause to educate the country, and to which we mainly owe the vast extension of the franchise which has enabled us to multiply tenfold those who take part in elections. I hope and believe the Lords will not accept the deplorable suggestion of the Premier. But should they be seduced they will themselves be the first to repent, and those who addressed you from this platform will not tell you then that the question of the House of Lords is remote, and they will tell you that it shall have precedence over every other question. Because then upon that alone will depend the question whether the country is self-governing or whether there is a power, not upon [illegible] behind the throne, but between the throne and the people able to stop the action of the constitutional machine which has now been perfected or brought nearer to perfection by the labors, struggles, zeal and wisdom of many generations.

In regard to registration reform Mr. Gladstone admitted that there was much to be said in favor of giving it a forward place on the Liberal platform. This portion of the Liberal work could not be perfected without the adoption of the principle of "one man, one vote." Reform of the lodger franchise, which now worked against the laboring man, was also much needed. Another question undoubtedly forcing itself upon their attention, continued Mr. Gladstone, can be summed up in a single word—labor. [Cheers.] The great enfranchisement of 1885 added three millions to the constituency. But much remains to be done. Labor representation in Parliament must be extended. As far as it has gone it has been thoroughly satisfactory and has done enormous good. "I can hardly say it admits of an addition of moral force. An addition of numerical force is not only desirable but in the highest degree urgent. [Cheers.]

Among the different questions lately raised regarding the hours of labor, in assenting to the principle of a compulsory law binding laborers to reduce labor to a certain number of hours daily, I am glad to be assured and see the demonstration of the fact that those who now receive for long hours low wages are to receive at least in full those wages for shorter hours. I give no absolute judgment upon a question that has not yet been sufficiently examined by the bulk of the country." Mr. Gladstone then spoke at length on Irish matters.

How the Congress is Constituted.

Each delegate represents a thousand electors, or fraction of a thousand, and the congress, therefore, represents about three million of electors. The delegates are nominated by the local associations, which are themselves elected by vote of the Liberals in each constituency. The council is constituted from the representatives of the Federated Associations, together with the president and officers appointed at each annual meeting. The council appoints a general committee, and within that a general purpose committee, which practically forms the Executive of the Federation.

Local electoral reforms for county councils and local boards; the disestablishment of the Welsh and Scotch Churches; direct popular veto of the liquor traffic; the equalization of the death duties upon real and personal property; better housing of working classes; the extinction of the factory acts, and the mending or ending of the House of Lords—that is the program.

The Irishmen of Tyneside have presented Mr. Gladstone with a handsomely illuminated address of welcome to the Tyneside and expressing appreciation for his efforts in behalf of Ireland.

Mr. Gladstone in replying to the spokesmen said he was well aware of and thoroughly appreciated the generous nature of the Irish and he assured the delegation that he would in the future, as in the past, do all that he could to further their interests.

Gladstone at Glenalmond.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Mr. Gladstone yesterday laid the corner stone of a new wing of Trinity College, Glenalmond, Scotland. He looked well.

In his speech he expressed regrets that amid the plans for educational reform which distinguished this generation more favor had not been shown the introduction, in one class or other, of pursuits connected with natural history.

Referring to the changes made in the past 40 years in the character of the preparation required for the various professions Mr. Gladstone combated the statement of a recent writer that the clergy were falling altogether behind in the intellectual race, and he mentioned Lightfoot, Liddon, Church, Magee and Aubrey Moore, men who had died recently, as proof to the contrary.

If clerical candidates wanted to be men of intellect, he said, so far from avoiding the clerical profession the objects of that profession were the highest that men could propose to themselves. There was nothing to supplant the old religion of their fathers.

Toronto Street Railway Passengers.

TORONTO, Oct. 3.—The City Treasurer received a check for $7122, being 8 per cent. on the street railway earnings for September. This is the first payment by the new company, and shows that during fair month the road carried over 2,000,000 passengers and earned $89,000.

Godson's True Bills.

TORONTO, Oct. 3.—The Grand Jury returned a true bill against A. W. Godson, the city contractor accused of falsifying accounts and so getting money to which he was not entitled. The offences occurred several years ago, and the transactions came to light through a discharged book-keeper.

A Derailed Jigger.

HAMILTON, Oct. 3.—About 20 men employed on the double-tracking of the Toronto branch were on their way to work on board a jigger this morning, and in passing a crossing near Burlington a stone on the rail threw the machine off the track and it plunged into the ditch, throwing the men off. The wheels went over Vernon Addison's left leg and broke it near the thigh. Richard Sykes, another laborer, also got under the wheels and had his leg badly cut near the hip and ankle. A third man had his head cut and back hurt.

A Partridge on a Four Poster.

FERGUS, Oct. 3.—James Robb, near Drimnock, was retiring for the night and spied a partridge sitting on the foot of his bed. Jim secured the game.

Jay Gould Quite Well

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Jay Gould's alleged illness was the general topic in Wall-street to-day. The chances of his retiring from business were discussed. Edwin Gould and his brother Howard both said to-day that Mr. Gould was "quite as well as he had been in months," and that the newspaper reports of his illness were unfounded. A despatch from Irvington says: Mr. Gould went out driving this morning in a surrey.

Alleged Bigamy.

GRAND VALLEY, Ont., Oct. 3.—A new sensation has struck the village. A marriage took place at Waldemar a short time ago, the contracting parties being Thomas Moss and Mrs. Jane Wilson, the latter having resided for some time previously in Arthur. This week a man turns up who claims to be a former husband.

The Postponed Conference.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The postponement of the trades conference between representatives of the Canadian Government and Secretary Blaine is confirmed. The conference has been postponed to a date to be fixed by Sir Julian Pauncefote and Secretary Blaine when the latter returns to Washington.

To Relinquish a Throne.

VIENNA, Oct. 3.—It is reported that Archduke Karl Ludwig, who upon the death of Crown Prince Rudolph became heir presumptive to the throne of Austria-Hungary, is about to resign his heirship in favor of his son.

The Spanish Railway Wreck.

MADRID, Oct. 1.—The judge inquiring into the cause of the Burgos Railroad collision issued an order compelling the Northern Railroad to deposit $120,000 as security for damages claimed by those who suffered injury and by relatives of the victims.

A Brazilian Revolution.

PARIS, Oct. 1.—Le Matin says there has been a revolutionary agitation in several provinces of Brazil, causing the Government great uneasiness. In many places the troops have mutinied.

Rye Bread in Future.

BERLIN, Oct. 1.—The issue of all rye bread has been resumed in the German army.

Why it is Popular.

Because it has proven its absolute merit over and over again, because it has an unequalled record of cures, because its business is conducted in a thoroughly honest manner, and because it combines economy and strength, being the only medicine of which "100 Doses One Dollar" is true—these strong points have made Hood's Sarsaparilla the most successful medicine of the day.

J. J. SHEEHY'S ANNOUNCEMENT

TO THE PURCHASING PUBLIC OF PETERBOROUGH.

Six Years ago I started in Business in this Town with a Small Stock of Dry Goods and a Smaller Capital, but buoyed up with the hope, that by Diligence, Energy and the Strictest Possible Attention to Business, that business would grow and prosper as the town progressed, and I am delighted to be able to say, that my fondest hopes in this respect have been realized, for, as Peterborough has gone ahead (which fact there is none to dispute and the evidence of which we see around us on every side) so has my business progressed, and to-day I am in a position to ask the purchasing public to call and examine a Stock of General Dry Goods, which for Variety, Quality and General Excellence is not surpassed by any in the Town of Peterborough. Now, bear in mind, that I do not for one moment pretend to say that I carry the largest stock of Dry Goods in town; but this I do state most emphatically, that, to any purchaser starting out with a view of purchasing their Fall Dry Goods for cash, be that purchase One Dollar or One Hundred Dollars, there is no establishment in the Town of Peterborough that is in a better position to offer Greater Inducements than I offer to the general public to-day. As my business has grown in the past, so I intend it shall in the future, if any efforts on my part will have the desired effect, and in order that the month of October may become the Banner Month of the six years, I propose making the following Offer. My Stock throughout the entire store has been bought at the closest possible figures. My entire stock has been marked at the lowest living prices. Now this is my offer: during the month of October, to every purchaser of One Dollar or upwards, I offer a Discount of FIVE PER CENT.

I extend a cordial invitation to every one of my old customers who have dealt with me steadily during the past six years, and also to those whom I might call my occasional customers; and finally to those with whom I have not yet had the pleasure of doing business. Yours respectfully,

J. J. SHEEHY.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 3, 1891.

The Demonstration at Brighton

The Tory demonstration at Brighton on Wednesday night was a symptom which throws a good deal of light upon the state of public morality within the Conservative party. Mr. Cochrane, attended by Mr. Clarke Wallace, M. P., and Dr. Sproule, M. P., was welcomed from Ottawa by the local party workers as if he had achieved something for the country and shed lustre upon the riding. The Old Flag figured prominently in the speeches. Mr. Cochrane was described as "one of the true men in the Conservative ranks, able to carry on the affairs of the Dominion on true British lines." All the speakers eulogised him and congratulated the people of East Northumberland upon being represented by such a person.

There can be no doubt that Mr. Cochrane has faithfully pursued Conservative principles as expounded by the Old Man and Sir Hector. A number of his supporters at or in the neighborhood of Brighton formed themselves into a patronage committee. The party had contracted election debts, and it occurred to some of them that they might pay the note which represented the debts by selling the Federal patronage within the riding. This committee used to meet at the store of a man named Bullock, and Bullock says Cochrane was present on one occasion. As money was obtained from peddling the Government offices the note was from time to time reduced in amount. On one occasion, when it had been cut down to $610, Cochrane himself was among the endorsers. Then a light-house was sold for $200 to Hedley Simpson, with Mr. Cochrane's knowledge and approval as one witness swears, and the note was retired from the bank by that payment of $300 and by another note for the remainder. But, and this in itself goes far to establish the case against him, Mr. Cochrane was discharged from all liability with regard to the remainder; that is to say, the exaction from Simpson was held by the other endorsers to cancel his share of the liability. When the office selling began the debt amounted to about $1,000, and it was all extinguished by the receipts from sales. Hedley Simpson had to pay $200 for a lighthouse, John Fitzgerald had to pay $150, for a bridge tendership on the Murray Canal, Wm. Brown had to pay $150 for a bridge, Robt. Moy had to $125 for a bridge, John Clouston had to pay $150 for a bridge, and Goodrich had to pay $200 for a bridge. The Tories on the investigating committee made out that these were voluntary contributions to the party fund, but in another part of their report they say:—"The practice which seems to have been resorted to by the political organization referred to in order to raise a fund for political purposes, though not connected with Dominion politics, was improper and reprehensible." If the payments were free gifts by ardent Tories who simply happened to get offices on the recommendation of Cochrane, where was the impropriety? The testimony proves in the clearest manner that the money was got from the sale of the offices and in no other way. All the witnesses were Tories and the men who did the buying were office-holders to boot, yet the corrupt character of the transactions was well established. In the first place, Bullock owned up that the committee made it its business to dispose of the offices for cash. Here is an extract from the official report of the evidence:—

"What were the duties of this committee? The duty of the committee was to see if we could not appoint somebody on the canal for the bridges there.

"How much was each of them to give? We exacted $150 from every one of them. That is what we wanted.

"What was the $150 to be given for? It was to be given for our influence.

"Who was to give $150? Everybody who got the appointment.

"It was the rule that those who were applicants should pay $150? I think it was."

And so on. Then it is shown by the appointees that their payments were for the offices and were in no sense voluntary contributions. The highest contribution any of them had made to the Conservative funds prior to his putting up for the office was $3. They were all poor. One or two found it extremely difficult to scrape together the blood money with the aid of friends. Their pay as bridge-tenders on the canal is $1.25 or $1.50 per day for something like eight months, so that a toll of $150 made a big hole in their earnings for the first season. Simpson's pay as lighthouse-keeper at Presque Isle is $400 a year, and the payment of $200 crippled him badly. Mr. Barron stated in the House that Simpson had been hauled to court on a judgment summons on account of a store debt, and swore that he had to meet notes for the $200 and that this absorbed all the money he had over and above that required for the maintenance of his family. The theory that men working for a dollar and a half a day voluntarily pledged themselves to pay these large sums, and stinted the bellies of their wives and children from sheer love for the Tory party, is simply absurd. Cochrane's son was also mixed up in the scandal. A man named Johnston, who got a bridge, would have been an important witness regarding the son, but, conveniently enough, Johnston was in the United States while the committee was sitting. Cochrane himself, though badly smirched by Arundel Simpson, who swore that he had a conversation with him about the sale of one of the offices, and by the whole drift of the evidence, refused to go upon the witness stand. His plea was that it might hurt him politically to have to contradict Arundel Simpson and the rest—which was a very lame excuse, seeing that his counsel and his Tory associates on the committee branded them as perjurers. Mr. Skinner, the Tory M. P. for St John, summed up by saying that according to the Hansard that "taking the whole case together the hon. member of East Northumberland comes out of it with clean skirts, and if not entirely clean, they are as clean as is necessary for his protection in this House," which was rough on the House and not very complimentary to Mr. Cochrane. The London Free Press and other Tory journals of the better class have felt it incumbent upon them to censure Cochrane. The Free Press says he was "intimately associated with the operation of his committee," for, aside from attending one of its meetings, he had to carry out its contracts with the men who agreed to purchase the offices by recommending them to the Government for appointment; and that having in view the utterly base character of the boodling he should have forfeited his seat. "No earthly good," it adds with truth, "can come from looking with leniency upon a case like this." In the House, Col. O'Brien, of Muskoka, denounced the majority report whitewashing Cochrane, as "a miserable piece of special pleading," and said the people of East Northumberland would be led by it to the conclusion "that the transactions in which they have been concerned are venial offences, and will not consider it very great harm to undertake similar transactions in the future." Mr. O'Brien was correct in his surmise. The Tory portion of East Northumberland evidently feels that Mr. Cochrane has really distinguished himself and advertised the name and fame of the riding abroad.

These are melancholy days for Canada. In Quebec a lot of people who call themselves Liberals are threatening us with civil war because Mr. Pacaud is going to be examined by a commission of judges touching a sum of $115,000 of public money which he is said to have stolen along with other sums; whilst here in Ontario a number of Conservatives deem it their duty to hang their banners on the outer wall for the return of a man caught in the act, so to speak, of compelling needy supporters to pay a portion of their earnings into the party chest for tuppeny offices. If Sir Hector is appointed Lieut.-Governor of Quebec or Uncle Thomas is elected again in Quebec West, and it is said that if he runs he is sure to win, the rasn preacher who cried out in the London Advertiser the other day, "After all we are a righteous people," had better hide his diminished head. It has been well observed that there is hope for any community so long as corruption is confined to the executive branch of government, but that when it takes possession of the legislature, and, above all, when it eats its way to the heart of the people, the case is almost beyond cure, for, as the doctors say of a far-gone patient, there is then nothing left for the remedies to work on. Instead of meeting Cochrane with brass bands and glorifying him the people of East Northumberland should have made the day one of humiliation. For if Sir Hector has shown us, as he and Mr. Abbott did before in 1872, to what heights of evil-doing Tory reptilism can ascend, Cochrane and his patronage-sellers have demonstrated how desperately mean and sordid the exponents of the system can be where there is nothing big to steal.—Globe.

"I have used Ayer's Pills for the past thirty years, and am satisfied I should not be alive to-day if it had not been for them. They cured me of dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since."—T. P. Brown, Chester, Pa.

"Having been subject, for years, to constipation, without being able to find much relief, I at last tried Ayer's Pills, and deem it both a duty and a pleasure to testify that I have derived great benefit from their use. For over two years past I have taken one of these Pills every night before retiring. I would not willingly be without them."—G. W. Bowman, 26 East Main st., Carlisle, Pa.

"Ayer's Pills have been used in my family upwards of twenty years, and have completely verified all that is claimed for them. In attacks of piles, from which I suffered many years, they afforded me greater relief than any medicine I ever tried."—Thomas F. Adams, Holly Springs, Texas.

MR. ISAACS' IN TROUBLE.

The Famed Diamond Dealer Arrested on a Criminal Charge.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Advices just received from Calcutta give the details of a strange contest between two famous people over one of the most famous diamonds in the world. The disputants are the Nizam of Hyderabad and Alexander Malcolm Geary, Suborijee, alias Alexander Malcolm Jacob, whose strange history has been published in the famous novel of Marion Crawford, of which he is the hero, under the name of "Mr. Isaacs."

The diamond in the transaction is known as "The Imperial." It is a pure white stone weighing 180 carats, while the Kohinoor only weighs 106 carats. The Imperial was formerly in the possession of Dom Pedro, and an attempt was made on the occasion of the Queen's Jubilee to present it to Her Majesty. This failed, however, as the stone was valued at $1,000,000.

Jacob is the heaviest diamond dealer in India, supplying all the potentates with their precious jewels. He made an agreement with the Nizam in March last to sell him the Imperial for 46 lacs of rupees, or over $2,000,000. The Nizam deposited 23 lacs of rupees with Jacob in advance. Jacob bought the stone from some London dealers, agreeing to pay $750,000 for it.

The diamond duly arrived in May and Jacob went to the Nizam with it, but the latter was dissatisfied and by this time repented of his offer and arbitrarily cancelled the negotiations. This put Jacob in a bad fix and he immediately left the place, having in his possession both the stone and the money the Nizam had advanced, refusing to give up either.

Warrants were issued for Jacob's arrest, one commanding him to deliver back the stone, the other charging him with a criminal misappropriation of 23 lacs of rupees.

Jacob has been arrested and imprisoned, bail being refused.

Prisoners Hanged.

HELENA, Ark., Oct. 2.—Sheriff Derrick of Marianna, Ark., left Cat Island last night, having charge of 9 of the 13 colored picker rioters who killed Inspector Miller in Arkansas last Friday. The sheriff was on his way to Marianna, where he was going to put his prisoners in jail, but the party was overtaken late last night by an armed posse, who took the prisoners after a sharp struggle and hanged the entire party.

A Madman Tries to Kill His Brother.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Oct. 2.—A dangerously insane man named Joseph Bell, who lives near Desert postoffice in the township of Johnston, was taken in custody and brought to the jail this week, prior to his disposal by the authorities. He attempted to kill his two brothers in their father's house by making a treacherous onslaught on them with a scythe.

Striking Nova Scotia Miners.

SPRINGHILL, N.S., Oct. 2.—Another strike is threatened here among the miners. At a meeting of workmen's lodges last night it was decided to stop all work to-morrow if the manager refuses to adhere to the agreement made last autumn regarding the weight of loaded coal boxes. The men base their decision on an alleged breach of the agreement on the part of the company. They are determined that it shall be enforced.

Met Death While Gathering Beech Nuts.

GALT, Oct. 2.—The 8-year old adopted son of Mr. J. Stubbs climbed a tree on Mill Creek to gather beech nuts and by some means fell to the ground, alighting with considerable force on the back of his head, causing severe concussion of the brain. He will die.

Excitement in the Tobacco Market.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 2.—The excitement in the Connecticut & Housatonic Valley tobacco market is increasing. Due to the past ten days prices have advanced from 3c to 8c per pound. Sales are being made mostly at from 18c to 30c per pound for the entire crop; one sale at 35c per pound is reported. An agricultural paper here estimates that the 1890 domestic crop contains 25,000 less cases of wrappers than cigar manufacturers absolutely require during the current fiscal year.

Smallpox in Quebec.

MONTREAL, Oct. 2.—The Provincial Board of Health has been notified of a serious outbreak of smallpox at Carleton, Bonaventure county. The first case broke out with a girl who was landed a steerage passenger from the steamer Admiral, plying on the Baie des Chaleurs and the Gulf from Dalhousie, N.B., to Gaspe Basin. Eight other cases broke out in Carleton. The doctor reports that all nine cases have since been duly quarantined in one house at Carleton.

Entangled in the Belting.

EMBRO, Ont., Oct. 2.—William Brown, a well known resident of East Zorra, was engaged with neighbors in assisting [illegible] Malcolm to fill a silo when by some means he became entangled in the belting and was drawn up against the cutting machine. Both legs were broken in a shocking manner, the fractured bone protruding through the skin. His condition is serious.

A Hotelkeeper's Suicide.

WINGHAM, Ont., Oct. 2.—A man named Champion, aged 70, an old hotelkeeper, formerly of Donnybrook, hanged himself at Whitechurch last night. Temporary insanity is supposed to be the cause.

Sudden Death.

GALT, Oct. 2.—Alexander A. Keachie, a farmer on the 9th concession of North Dumfries, attended to his duties as usual Tuesday, but was suddenly stricken with heart failure and in a few hours was dead.

Plot to Establish a Republic.

MADRID, Oct. 2.—Another conspiracy has been discovered in Barcelona, where on Aug. 2 last a revolutionary plot brought about an attack on the barracks. This time conspirators had arranged to surprise the guard at the prison, liberate the prisoners and proclaim a republic. An army officer, a major who was to head the movement, an apothecary and an innkeeper, also implicated in the conspiracy, have been arrested.

Estate of the Famous Puritan.

LONDON, Oct. 1.—The Duxbury estate, near Shorley, Lancashire, the home of Miles Standish, was the scene on Monday of a remarkable conflict for the possession of that estate, which is held in trust for Colonel Paulet, whose rights are disputed by one William Hall, who claims to be a descendant of Miles Standish. On Monday evening Hall, with a band of men, entered Duxbury Hall and announced his intention of holding it against all comers. The steward of the estate then collected a force of tenants and laborers of the vicinity, broke down the main door of the hall and evicted the intruders after a severe fight. Duxbury Hall is now guarded by the steward's men, and a long and interesting period of litigation is promised.

The Sarnia Tunnel.

SARNIA, Oct. 2.—The last of the material to be excavated at the tunnel approaches is now being taken out, and the stone work of the revetment wall is being completed. Regular traffic through the tunnel will begin on [illegible]

Solemn Facts for Every Canadian Home

Let it be remembered that though we, as a nation, are free from epidemics and pestilences which ravage other lands, we have in almost every home of our Dominion some form of sickness and disease. The homes of our fair young land are now blighted with nervousness, nervous debility, headaches, sleeplessness, hysteria, moroseness, morbidness, dyspepsia, indigestion, neuralgia and rheumatism. All these serious troubles are, without doubt, the result of weakened and disorganized nervous systems, which rapidly develop into more serious and fatal maladies when allowed to run on unchecked. Amongst the most dread of these maladies may be mentioned paralysis, paresis and insanity.

Our public and private institutions and lunatic asylums furnish us with thousands of sad examples of unfortunate mortals who were the victims of nervousness, sleeplessness, moroseness and morbidness.

We appeal directly to every father, mother, brother and sister in Canada to do their duty in this matter. It rests entirely with the individual and family as to whether these diseases must decrease or increase—whether we shall be a nation sound in mind and body, or weak in intellect and bodily strength.

Clergymen, physicians and thousands of others are already doing a noble work in our midst by recommending that valuable nerve and brain food, known as Paine's Celery Compound. It is a remedy guaranteed to cure when all other known remedies fail. It affords a surer protection from the ravages of disease than anything else known to the medical practitioner; and its cost brings it within reach of all classes. It is truly nature's great remedy for the weak, broken-down and nervous, and fully meets the wants of every man, woman and child.

For the past year I have been troubled to a very great extent with dandruff, also, a dullness of color in my hair, and through the advice of a friend (who spoke from experience) I tried your Anti-Dandruff, which upon the application of less than a bottle of your liquid I find my head not only thoroughly cleansed but a vast improvement in the color and growth.

I have, and do recommend it as highly beneficial to the profession and public generally as an agreeable and welcome innovation in the remedies put forth for public favor.

Yours, &c., WM. P. WOLFE,
Advertising Agt, "Frank Daniel Co."

Ask Your Friends About It.

Your distressing cough can be cured. We know it, because Kemp's Balsam within the past few years has cured so many coughs and colds in this community. Its remarkable sale has been won entirely by its genuine merit. Ask some friend who has used it what he thinks of Kemp's Balsam. There is no medicine so pure, none so effective. Large bottles 50c. and $1 at all druggists. d

What Say They?

In popularity increasing. In reliability the standard. In merits the first. In fact, the best remedy for all summer complaints, diarrhœa, dysentery, cramps, colic, cholera, infantum, etc., is Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. All medicine dealers sell it.

It is a Very Sad Thing

To see young and beautiful people die when they might just as well live and enjoy health and strength. Many who suffer with coughs, colds and lung troubles, leading to consumption, imagine there is no hope for them, when in reality there is every hope if Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is taken regularly. Spread the news everywhere that this great emulsion will make flesh and blood, cure coughs, colds, bronchitis, sore throats and lung troubles tending to consumption. In big bottles, 50c. and $1. At Peterborough Drug Store's. dw

To be free from sick headache, biliousness, constipation, etc., use Carter's Little Liver Pills. Strictly vegetable. They gently stimulate the liver and free the stomach from bile. dw

A Spring Medicine.

There are few who do not at this season feel the need of a spring medicine, and to all such we recommend Lane's Family Medicine as the best. This is a pleasant herb drink made by pouring boiling water on the dried roots and herbs. Druggists sell the packages at 50c. and $1. It is the best as well as the pleasantest cure for constipation and headache. dw

Victoria Carbolic Salve is a wonderful healing compound for cuts, wounds, bruises, burns, scalds, boils, piles, pimples, &c. dw

Could Scarcely See.

Mrs. John Martin, of Montage Bridge, P. E.I., writes:—"I was troubled last summer with very bad headaches and constipation and sometimes could scarcely see. One bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters made a complete cure of my case, and I wish you every success.

His Family did not Know Him.

A Belleville man has for many been bent and crippled with a lame back, but after trying the OR, Kidney cure, he could walk like a boy again and his neighbors could hardly recognize him. This remedy is for sale by all druggists and the OR, Kidney Company, Belleville. dw

Do You Cough?

Don't delay. Take Kemp's Balsam, the best cough cure. It will cure coughs and colds. It will cure sore throat, or a tickling in the throat. It will cure pains in the chest. It will cure influenza and bronchitis and all diseases pertaining to the lungs, because it is a pure balsam. Hold it to the light and see how clear and thick it is. You see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Large bottles 50c and $1. dw

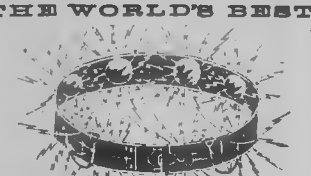
Self Application of Electricity
FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES
BY THE
DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT
And Attachments.
HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto
THE WORLD'S BEST.



ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT OF QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

Send name and address for Illustrated Book on Home Electro-medical treatment and mention this paper. J. D. TULLY, Agent, Peterborough. eod-w

Midland Railway Changes.

In consequence of the sad death of Roadmaster Stewart, of Uxbridge, who had charge of the Sutton branch, a new arrangement has been made, by which the duties formerly attended to by that official will be divided among Roadmasters H. Ferguson, of Lindsay, Cheer, of Port Hope, and McNabb, of Belleville. Roadmaster Ferguson, whose territory formerly extended from Whitby to Haliburton, and also Blackwater, will in future exercise superintendence from Millbrook to Coboconk in addition, about fifty miles more than formerly; Roadmaster Cheer, who removes from Port Hope to Orillia, will oversee the line from Midland to Scarboro Junction, and also the Sutton branch and Medonte tramway; and Roadmaster McNabb, of Belleville, removes to Peterborough and assumes charge of the line as far as Omemee on the west and Port Hope on the south, and also of the Chemong branch.

The Marvellous Mendelssohn Quintette Club.

The appearance of the Mendelssohn Quintette Club in Bradburn's Opera House, on Friday evening, Oct. 16th, is brought about by Mr. T. Dunn, who thus lays the musical public under a great obligation—giving them the chance of hearing the best chamber music on this continent. The Mendelssohn Quintette Club needs no praise, their record is made as the best musical organization existing. The Quebec Chronicle says:—"The artists of the Mendelssohn Quintette Club have justified the recommendation we have given them in these columns, and even more. They have shown themselves superior to it. The club interprets ensemble music with a precision which is remarkable. The flautist, Mr. Henneberg, is simply marvellous. Mr. Ryan played a solo on the clarinet in his unique and unapproachable style. The cantarice, Miss Marie Barnard, created a sensation. What largeness of style, justness of tone! She has a most ravishing mezzo soprano voice of great power and smoothness."

Enforced Hospitality.

A Peculiar Liquor Case Disposed of in the Police Court This Morning.

Mrs. Beckett was arrested at her home on London street this morning by P. C. Adams, on a charge of selling liquor without a license. The constable confiscated four bottles of beer which he found in an upstairs room. The trial took place before P. M. Dumble at ten o'clock, Mr. E. B. Edwards representing the town and Mr. E. B. Stone the defence.

The first two witnesses were two young men, Hetherington and Buckland, who testified that on Thursday night, at B. M. Wiley's invitation, they went with him to Mrs. Beckett's house, Wiley telling them he had some business with Mrs. Beckett in connection with property he was selling for her. They went up about ten o'clock at night, went in the house, and shortly afterwards Wiley asked for beer, offering money for it, which was refused. Mrs. Beckett said she had none, but after repeated requests went upstairs and got a bottle. Wiley pulled the cork. Witnesses did not see any money given for the beer.

B. M. Wiley testified that, being Mrs. Beckett's agent for the sale of property, he went up Thursday night after some bill boards, taking the other two witnesses for company. He said they got beer and that he gave Mrs. Beckett 50 cents for it.

Cross-examined by Mr. Stone, witness admitted that he had been employed by the Chief of Police to catch Mrs. Beckett selling liquor. That night the Chief gave him a dollar before he went to Mrs. Beckett's. Witness said he had received other sums of money from the Chief at different times. Witness went to Mrs. Beckett's for the purpose of catching Mrs. Beckett selling liquor.

MR. STONE—You are a very mean man. You abuse your position as her agent to try to do her injury. The Chief gives you a dollar to buy beer from her, but you only give her fifty cents, and put the other half dollar down in your pocket. You played a mean trick on both Mrs. Beckett and the Chief. This is about the dirtiest piece of work I ever heard of.

MRS. BECKETT took the witness stand next and testified that the beer she had in the house was for her sick mother, but Wiley asked so often for a drink that she gave it to him. Mrs. Beckett positively denied having received any money for it.

The MAGISTRATE, in giving judgment, said he must try the case on the evidence. The circumstances were peculiar. A man enters a house at an unseasonable hour, where his relationship by being to some extent in her employment, perhaps places him in a position where he could do so. He certainly was very vulgar and rude in asking for beer, except on the presumption that he thought nothing strange would be thought of it. She may have thought that his business relationship placed him in such a position that she could not refuse him. The only evidence as to the sale of liquor is B. M. Wiley's. The two other witnesses say they did not see any money paid. Mrs. Beckett denies having received any. Her evidence was as good as his. On this occasion the beer may have been given in the way of hospitality, forced though it was by the sense of Wiley's business relationship to her. The magistrate thought he would be straining the law in putting the strictest construction on the evidence in this case, therefore he dismissed the charge.

This is a season when colds in the head are alarmingly prevalent. They lead to catarrh, perhaps consumption and death. Nasal Balm gives immediate relief and certain cure. Sold by all dealers.

Address and Presentation.

Miss Nellie Wrighton Honoured by St. Andrew's Church.

Mrs. Mercer's, handsome residence, Hunter street was the scene last night of a pleasant gathering and of a well deserved compliment to a clever young musician. Mrs. Mercer entertained the choir of St. Andrew's and the choir master Mr. Ketchum and the late organist Miss Nellie Wrighton. After an hour or two of social recreation and the partaking of refreshments, Miss Jennie Mercer read the following address, Mr. Hamilton at the proper time making the presentation of a beautiful antique brush and comb set with oxydized silver trimmings. The object of the presentation is set forth in the address:—

MISS NELLIE WRIGHTON:

DEAR FRIEND—After the delightful association with you, which we have enjoyed during the past two and a half years, it is only natural that we should feel the deepest regret at the severance of your relations with us, in your capacity as organist. We can all bear testimony to the fidelity and musical ability which have marked the discharge of your duties, and it gives us great pleasure to most heartily recognize the important assistance you have given us in the harmonious and seemly rendition of the musical portion of divine worship. As a musician we have found you possessed of that peculiar ability which your position demanded, and our intercourse with you from Sunday to Sunday, and from week to week, has served to endear you to us a friend. We very much regret that circumstances make it necessary for you to sever the ties that have existed between us. In parting with you, we desire to present you with this little token of our regard, coupled with the wish that your life may be prosperous and that you may always find friends as warm as those you have in the choir of St. Andrews.

Miss Wrighton made as suitable a reply as her feelings, which were deeply touched, would permit.

The Carter's Stand.

To the Editor of the Examiner

I see by your paper of yesterday that the Chief of Police had made satisfactory arrangements with the officers of the Salvation Arma with regard of them holding Saturday night meetings on Hunter street. So far so good. Now I would like to know how long will the people on Hunter street be forced to stand the nuisance of carters and peanut stands &c., &c. After sending the council a petition signed by all those interested from George to Water streets to have the carters removed, and after waiting nearly three months nothing has been done in the matter. It seems to me that if proper instructions are given to the Chief there should be a scatteration of carters quicker than the Salvation Army.

Yours,
TORMENTED,
Hunter street.

Personal.

Mr. Robert Walton has gone to Iowa on a visit to two of his children residing there.

Miss Clara Walton has returned to her home in Chicago.

Miss Leah has returned to town after a three weeks' visit in St. Catharines.

Queen Victoria has a remarkably fine head of hair, for a lady of her age; but her son, the Prince of Wales, is quite bald. Had he used Ayer's Hair Vigor earlier in life, his head might, to-day, have been as well covered as that of his royal mother. It's not too late yet.

A Wonderful Woman.

Mrs. Abbott, the "Little Georgia Magnet," Astonishes the Audience.

"Little, but oh! my," may well be said of Mrs. Annie Abbott, the "Georgia Magnet," who gave a most marvellous performance at the Opera House last night. There was a slim audience present, but as Manager Abbott remarked, if the people had known what a rare entertainment was in store for them, the hall would not have accommodated the crowd. The people are shy of every extraordinary announcement—they fear a "fake." They have learned wisdom by experience. But in condemning the "Little Georgia Magnet" unseen, they make a mistake, for the performance was carried out exactly as it is advertised. Everybody present left the hall with the word "wonderful" on their lips.

Mrs. Abbott (for the little woman is married and the mother of a bright four-year-old boy who opened the entertainment with a couple of songs) is petite, young and handsome, but in no way remarkable in appearance. Her peculiar power was first discovered when she was but a child playing on her father's knee. She lifted the chair and its occupant easily. Her physical condition is also remarkable, her pulse being high and irregular, while her temperature is lower than other human beings could exist with. Dr. Brennan studied her pulse, but had no instruments to test her temperature.

At last night's performance a number of feats were shown. A committee of about a dozen well known gentlemen belonging to Peterborough went up on the stage as a committee, and Mr. Abbott handled them like she would feather pillows. She stood on one foot and four men could not push her over. Nine men (some of them 200 pounders) were piled up on two chairs and she lifted them, chairs and all. Mrs. Abbott did not grasp the chairs. She simply laid her hands on the backs, and to shew that no natural strength was exercised, a couple of gentlemen placed their hands between her hands and the chairs, and although the tremendous weight was lifted clean from the stage, the gentlemen averred that they did not feel the least pressure upon their hands. Sometimes she lifted the chair with an egg in each hand. A billiard cue held in her open hands, slanting downwards, could not be pushed to the floor by the combined strength of half a dozen men. But the stick snapped in her hands with the force put upon it. These and similar wonderful feats were performed. Mrs. Abbott's dress had wide sleeves, which she pushed back to the elbow, and two gentlemen, one on each side, placing their hands under each elbow could not lift her. Yet as soon as they placed a handkerchief or any other fabric between their hands and her bare arm, she could be tossed up in the air as easily as any strong man might lift ninety eight pounds. To prove that there had been no "fixing" of the stage, this exhibition was repeated on the floor of the opera house by gentlemen in the audience. More remarkable still, Mrs. Abbott is able to transmit this power. A boy whose hands she held became as if nailed to the floor in spite of the strength exerted to raise him.

What does it all mean? Mr. Abbott says scientists are baffled. Theory after theory has been advanced—electrical energy, animal magnetism, hypnotism, and a great many other isms, but none are satisfactory. It is said that Mrs. Abbott's strange faculty leaves her when she stands upon the ground. Only on board floors can she exercise her supernatural power. A common glass tumbler wrapped in a handkerchief and placed against her bare arm or breast was heard to crackle like a telephone instrument sometime does. Mrs. Abbott is probably as great a mystery to herself as any one else.

The performance will be repeated to-night. It is wonderful, though inexplicable.

A LOCAL EXPERT'S DISCOVERY.

Mr. H. O. Fisk, the electrician, this afternoon in company with several newspaper men visited Mrs. Abbott and made several tests. It was found that her resistance to the electric current was lower than usual—1,500 ohms. Tested with the galvanometer, Mr. Fisk found an alternating current of electricity of very irregular character. The telephone test was not decisive.

The many remarkable cures of catarrh effected by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla is conclusive proof that this loathsome and dangerous disease is one of the blood, only needing such a searching and powerful alterative to thoroughly eradicate it.

The Whistling Nuisance.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—I was very glad to see a communication in your columns a few days ago about the constant whistling of locomotives and factories. I heartily endorse all that your correspondent wrote. Sometime ago the tooting of engines in Toronto was stopped, to the unspeakable relief of many sufferers. But there is a certain establishment in Peterborough which is a greater offender than any. I refer to a foundry where the steam whistle, a particularly hideous one, not content with sounding at certain hours, is kept shrieking at intervals all day long. Surely this is not necessary. Hoping that something may be done to abate the nuisance,

Yours, &c.,
EARACHE.

A Drain that Smells.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—For some time past my nasal organs have been assailed by a most intolerable stench rising from the grating over the drain at the corner of George and Hunter streets, just outside Macdonald's drug store. I have often found it a positive trial to pass it, and can only wonder that the Salvation Army and others who frequent near that spot have not all been laid up with typhoid before this. Something might be done to flush the sewer and disinfect it. I hope that the proper authorities will attend to it.

Yours, etc.,
FEBRIFUGE.

[Since the above was in type the sewer has been flushed, which will probably abate the nuisance for the present.—ED EXAMINER]

Dyspepsia

Few people have suffered more severely from dyspepsia than Mr. E. A. McMahon, a well known grocer of Staunton, Va. He says: "Before 1878 I was in excellent health, weighing over 200 pounds. In that year an ailment developed into acute dyspepsia, and soon I was reduced to 162 pounds, suffering burning sensations in the stomach, palpitation of the heart, nausea, and indigestion. I could not sleep, lost all heart in my work, had fits of melancholia, and for days at a time I would have welcomed death. I became morose, sullen and irritable, and for eight years life was a burden. I tried many physicians and many remedies. One day a workman employed by me suggested that I take Hood's Sarsaparilla, as it had cured his wife of dyspepsia. I did so, and before taking the whole of a bottle I began to feel like a new man. The terrible pains to which I had been subjected, ceased, the palpitation of the heart subsided, my stomach became easier, nausea disappeared, and my entire system began to tone up. With returning strength came activity of mind and body. Before the fifth bottle was taken

I had regained my former weight and natural condition. I am today well and I ascribe it to taking Hood's Sarsaparilla."

The Late William Smith.

The EXAMINER announces with deep regret the death of Mr. William Smith, of Ashburnham, this morning, at the early age of 27 years. The deceased gentleman has been an employe of the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company for seven or eight years till within the past five or six weeks, when acute consumption seized upon him and closed his young life this morning. Mr. Smith was a highly respected young man, an active member of the Mark street Methodist church and of Carswell Lodge of Good Templars, and a prominent member of Peterborough Lodge of Oddfellows, and of Canton No. 10 Patriarchs Militant. The funeral takes place on Monday, at 3 o'clock p.m., under Oddfellow auspices.

A BAD HUMOR CURED

$5,000 Expended on Doctors and Medicine Without Avail—Gave Himself up to die.

Good Wife Suggests Cuticura Remedies—Used Them 7 Months, and is Entirely Cured.

I was in the war during 1862-64, and took a heavy cold at Gettysburg, from which I never fully recovered. In 1875 I broke out in sores all over my chest and shoulder, which seemed impossible to cure. I tried all the famed doctors I could find, and to no avail. I expended some five thousand dollars trying to find a cure, but could not, and finally giving myself up to die, my good wife suggested to me, one day, to try the CUTICURA REMEDIES, which were so extensively advertised and used. I followed her suggestion, and am happy to say by diligent application of your CUTICURA REMEDIES for seven months I was entirely cured, after spending five years of time and money without avail, and am a sound and well man to-day. You may refer to me if you wish, as I will tell any one who may call on me my experience.

THE OUTRAGE IN ROME.

EXCITED FRENCH PILGRIMS LOSE THEIR HEADS

The Cause of the Riot at Emanuel's Grave The Pilgrims Apologize to the Pope The Queen Has Another Grandchild General Foreign News

ROME, Oct. 5. Large numbers of citizens went to the Pantheon yesterday, and as a protest against the insults which had been offered to the illustrious dead by the French pilgrims inscribed their names in the visitors books, which are kept at the tomb of King Victor Emanuel. In many cases riot are feared when processions composed of highly excited young men meet any of the numerous bands of pilgrims who fill the city. Many threats were uttered by the processionists against the insulters of their King, and it is reported some pilgrims were roughly handled. Many carriages containing foreigners were rudely stopped and the hats of the occupants were taken and thrown into the roadway. The procession was composed of workmen in blouses and youths. On the corso a procession was formed of great magnitude, which marched to the capitol, hooting at pilgrims in the hotels along the route. Large crowds of excited citizens collected in front of the French Catholic Seminary and loudly demanded that the pontifical arms be removed from the facade of the building. The police, however, dispersed the crowd. The most intense feeling was displayed by the crowd in regard to these scenes, and this is accounted for by the fact that the people of Rome were yesterday celebrating the anniversary of the plebiscite of 1870, by which Rome pronounced in favor of a union with the Kingdom of Italy. The accounts of the insults offered by the pilgrims to the tomb of Victor Emanuel differ. One story is that when the officials in charge of the tomb asked the pilgrims to write their names in the visitors' books, the French pilgrims refused to inscribe their names and deliberately, and with a great display of feeling, spat upon the book. This story, however, is denied. Another report declare the pilgrims shouted "Vive le Pope!" "A bas Victor Emanuel!" Last night the whole city was brightly illuminated. All the principal streets were crowded with citizens in holiday attire. The parading was resumed and a long procession marched through the principal thoroughfares. The paraders cheered for Italy and King Humbert. The pilgrims did not venture out last evening. Many of the French pilgrims intended to start on their return home last night, but did not do so, wishing to avoid all disturbance.

The Pope is deeply affected at the disorders which occurred here yesterday. He has just issued instructions that all Catholic pilgrims now in Rome are to remain tranquil in face of the displeasure displayed by the bands of men who paraded the streets to mark their disapprobation with the French pilgrims conduct and that the latter in every way do all in their power to avoid giving cause for [illegible].

The French pilgrims who were the cause of the disorder started during the day for Messina. Before doing so they called at the Vatican and expressed regret for the occurrence of yesterday. The Pope said he [illegible] also regretted yesterday's incidents and hoped they would not happen again. The [illegible] of the accounts of the outbreak agree in asserting that one of the pilgrims who visited Victor Emanuel's tomb spat in the visitors book and wrote "Vive le Pope!" "Mort au roi Humbert. A bas Victor Emanuel."

An Italian present, enraged at the insult to the dead, struck the writer in the face and assisted the guards to expel him amid the anathemas of those present. The other pilgrims tried to rescue their companion from the guards. The crowds attracted by the disorder, attacked the pilgrims with knives and stones, filling the air with imprecations of "death," etc. The guards had the utmost difficulty in protecting the pilgrims from the frenzied Italians.

M. Harmel, the leader of the French workmen pilgrims, called on the Minister of Interior to-day and disclaimed any sympathy with the outrage of yesterday. He expressed deep regret for all the occurrences in connection with it. Eight trains early this morning were in readiness to take the pilgrims out of Rome, but as popular feeling had calmed down considerably the pilgrims were informed that no departure from their original program was necessary.

Thousands of citizens marched in procession to the Pantheon in Rome to-day to deposit a wreath on King Victor Emanuel's [illegible]. [illegible] Friday last a number of French Catholic pilgrims made an insulting [illegible]. While the crowd was in [illegible] a number of Radicals mounted [illegible] and made violent [illegible] denouncing the Vatican and [illegible] "Down with the priests!" It is reported that the Pope has decided to [illegible] of some of the altars in the Pantheon which were desecrated by the anti-clerical demonstrations on Friday last.

While there he met William Wilson of Metcalf, a powerful young man of about 35 years of age. They were drinking together when an altercation arose between them, and it is said Wilson pushed him away from him, which caused him to fall and strike his head on a large spittoon, fracturing his skull and causing his death. Wilson was arrested. An inquest is in progress.

Killed Her Son.

CHATSWORTH, Oct. 5. A heartrendering accident occurred at the home of Mr. William Ashbury, near Holland Centre. In the bustle and hurry of preparing dinner Mrs. Ashbury threw a pan of boiling water out of the kitchen window, which was instantly followed by a scream that thrilled through her like a powerful electric shock. Her darling 2 year old boy was toddling past the window at the time and received the scalding water upon the back of the head and neck and back. The shock was too much for the poor little sufferer's nerves and convulsions set in the following day, resulting in the death of the child in a little over 24 hours after the accident occurred.

While O'Connor was dancing Macmaster jumped up and struck him a violent blow on the side of the head with his fist. O'Connor fell senseless, but came to some time afterwards, went to an adjoining house, was placed in bed and died the next morning. The coroner's jury verdict was that death resulted from the blow delivered by Macmaster, and the latter is in jail on a charge of murder.

QUEBEC, Que., Oct. 3. Mr. Mercier will not leave Quebec to-day, as has been his custom heretofore, but will stay to partake [illegible] of the blessing of the new Basilica bells. The first witness for the Royal Commission to arrive in Quebec is ex-Governor Robitaille, who has taken up his quarters at the St. Louise Hotel. A number of lawyers are mentioned as likely to attend the enquiry, as Girouard, Casgrain, McMaster and Barwick on one side and Beique, William Cook and Greenshields on the other.

Barondess Captured

MONTREAL, Oct. 5. Joseph Barondess, Master Workman of the Jews' League of Cloakmakers of New York city, under arrest charged with extortion, conspiracy and obtaining money under false pretences, and who was out on $12,000 bail, was arrested yesterday by Detective Grose of this city on board the steamship Norwegian at Quebec, outward bound. Barondess had fled from New York city on the 25th ult., one week previous, to avoid the penalty of his crime. On Thursday Detective Grose secured a clue to the whereabouts of the missing man and prevailed upon Messrs. Allan to hold the Norwegian at Quebec until he could reach her. This was done with the aforesaid result. Barondess was at once brought to Montreal, and left last evening for New York in charge of the detective. The modus operandi pursued by the prisoner was a novel one and brought in lots of cash. He was in the habit of calling on the employers of labor and informing them that a strike was imminent among their employes, but if they would give him a small sum of money say $500—he, as master workman, would have no difficulty in settling the affair satisfactorily. The employers, as a rule, to save further trouble gave him the required amount, which he generally appropriated to his own use, there not being the slightest indication of a strike among the laborers. Upon discovering the fraud the dupes had Barondess placed under arrest.

THE TYNE CONGRESS.

THE FREEDOM OF NEWCASTLE EXTENDED TO GLADSTONE.

He Says Local Government Without Control of Police is but an Elusive Fait, Held Out to Deceive—The Grand Old Man Deals With the Irish Question.

NEWCASTLE, Eng., Oct. 5.—In his speech here last night Mr. Gladstone said he was glad that the Government intended to introduce a Local Government bill for Ireland, as local government must assist Ireland to obtain national rights. But he remarked it was an idle tale—that of Local Government without control of the police. Mr. Gladstone combated the assertion that the government of Ireland had been a success. The Government had interfered with private liberty in Ireland in a manner that would not be tolerated in this country. One reason for the increased observance of the law in Ireland was the friendship of the people of Great Britain. Mr. Gladstone continued. "I ask myself what is the motive that induces our opponents to persist in this—for them—hopeless contest. What is the object they propose? Is it because they are governed by the fear of an Irish nation? Well, it is an Irish nation under five millions and a Government always fond of assuring us that two of those five millions are enthusiastically on their side. The majority is credited with the diabolical intention to oppress the minority. Yet one would think that this minority was not wholly incapable of some efforts in its own defence, especially when it is supported by 35,000,000 of English, Scotch and Welshmen, not one of whom would for a moment tolerate the slightest indication of such an oppression. [Laughter and cheers.] It is not fear for the reputation of the country, is it, that compels their policy in Ireland to be continued? The reputation of a country is measured by a standard easily got at if it means what its neighbors think of it. The reputation of Russia is probably very high with certain parties in Russia itself. It would not be so high, however, if measured by opinions of the civilized world. [Cries of "Hear, hear"!]

A condemnatory verdict was long ago pronounced by England with reference to her conduct towards Ireland. Is it because the Government think their policy contributes toward the strength of the Empire that that policy is continued? The strength of the Empire consists in entire unity. Is it for the interest of the public purse then? Not less than three millions are annually thrown into the sea under the operations of the present legislation in Ireland. I refer to arrears in public business. Parliament will never overtake these arrears until this terrible Irish policy is out of the way. In the period to come it is clear that it must be either friendship or enmity with Ireland. You have arrived at a point decisive in your history. If Ireland is oppressed hereafter it will be oppressed by you people of England. The spectacle of one people oppressing another is the saddest, most heartrending and humbling that can be seen in the surface of the earth. I can never believe that a great nation will place itself in such a position. Ireland's conduct in the difficult circumstances of the last nine months [hear, hear] has evoked in every breast a responsive voice of sympathy and of increased conviction that we may deal safely and prudently with our fellow subjects in Ireland. When the proper period comes the general sense of the country will ratify the judgment already given at nearly a hundred points.

At the conclusion of Mr. Gladstone's speech there was an outburst of cheering which lasted several minutes.

NEWCASTLE, Oct. 4. The town hall here yesterday presented an animated spectacle, the occasion being the presentation of the freedom of the city to Mr. Gladstone. The building was packed. The ladies present almost equalled the gentlemen in numbers. Members of Parliament who had taken part in the proceedings of the National Liberal Federation: Lord Armstrong, inventor of the Armstrong gun; Bishop Wilberforce of Newcastle; Sir Isaac Lowthian Bell and a majority of the corporation of Newcastle had seats on the platform.

As Mr. Gladstone entered, accompanied by the mayor and mayoress of Newcastle and John Morley, the immense audience rose and greeted him with prolonged cheering. Mr. Gladstone and his party proceeded to the platform. The mayor delivered a long eulogy on the life and work of Mr. Gladstone and declared Newcastle did itself honor in honoring the great Liberal leader. He then presented Mr. Gladstone with the parchment making him a citizen of Newcastle and the latter signed his name to the list of freemen of the city. Mr. Gladstone then spoke in praise of local self government and of free trade. He was enthusiastically cheered. Upon leaving the town hall Mr. Gladstone received an ovation from an immense concourse of people. After lunch Mr. Gladstone started for Hawarden.

Referring to free trade Mr. Gladstone said, "Our children and kinsmen in America, to whom we have looked and might still look to teach us many a useful legislative lesson, have set us in this matter an example of a retrograde nation. They have thought for a moment, though, I believe, only for a moment, that the secret of prosperity was to be found in fixing by the Government the channels in which enterprise should run and the forms in which ingenuity should be exercised." Continuing, Mr. Gladstone said he hoped that in the long run both England and America would be so influenced by the example and triumph of their immediate predecessors. "Although," he added, "there remains much to do, yet a great amendment has already been achieved by the change from protection to freedom.

"England, among the great nations of the world," Mr. Gladstone remarked, "had become almost the solitary witness of the principle of freedom as applied to trade, as she has long been in Europe the solitary witness of freedom of social and political institutions. England was faithful to her task as the witness of social and political freedom, and in time others followed her example. Had England been abashed by authority or overborne by the examples of other countries, the English people would not have been at this moment free. But she persevered in her work, and the world has been content to tread in her steps. That stewardship in regard to freedom in general we have now in regard to commerce. We are again being tested as to whether we shall be firm or not firm to our convictions; whether the time passed in finding a solution for a great economical problem has been wasted or applied to a great and beneficial work; whether free trade has been a triumph not only for the capitalist, but for the workman, whose wages have thereby been increased 50 per cent."

Upon leaving the Town Hall Mr. Gladstone was enthusiastically cheered by the crowd of people gathered in that neighborhood. After luncheon Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone started for Hawarden.

Thursday Gladstone delivered a long speech on the occasion of laying the foundation stone of a new wing of Glen Almond College. Just fifty years ago he was present at the same place at the opening of the college, of which he was the chief promoter. At the time he was the rising hope of the Conservative party. A new edition (the fourth) of his work on Church and State was just out. Scotland at that time had no public school on the English model with a training college for students intending to take orders in the Episcopal Church. Glen Almond College was designed to supply the omission, and has done so well that to-day, when the Church of Scotland is threatened with disestablishment, a new wing is found necessary, and Mr. Gladstone was there to lay the foundation stone.

Two Women Fight to the Death

SHAWNEETOWN, Ill., Oct. 5. Miss Belle Jameson was shot and killed yesterday by Mrs. White, wife of Robert White, a well-to-do farmer living about twelve miles from here. The Jameson girl had been working for Mrs. White but was dismissed, which so angered her that she attacked Mrs. White with a club. Being disarmed she ran to a bureau drawer and secured a revolver, with which she fired once at Mrs. White but missed her. Mrs. White took the weapon away from her and shot her twice—once through the brain, death resulting instantly. The coroner's jury justified her in the act.

Terrible Effects of An Explosion On a Tug Boat in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—A boiler explosion aboard the C. W. Parker killed seven persons and seriously injured many others in the neighborhood of Archer-avenue bridge on the south branch of the river about 4.30 o'clock this afternoon. The tug C. W. Parker in company with three other tugs were engaged in attempting to tow the coal steamer H. S. Pickands out of the draw of the bridge when the explosion occurred. Three of the killed were the captain, engineer and cook of the tug and their bodies have not yet been recovered. The other persons killed were standing on the banks of the river to which a number of spectators had been drawn to witness the removal of the steamer Pickands, which had run aground.

The killed: James B. Carter, the captain of the tug C. W. Parker; John C Moore, engineer of the C. W. Parker; Samuel Armstrong of Manistee, cook of the C. W. Parker; unknown man killed by a fragment of the boiler while standing at the east end of Archer-avenue bridge; Mrs. Mary Rice, Barbara Rice, her 18-year-old daughter; Samuel Sawyer, laborer; Joseph Cullen, fireman of the C. W. Parker.

The Perew foundered Tuesday afternoon. The crew took to a yawl and were tossed about for six hours passing within two miles of White Fish Point, and also of a steamer, but without getting assistance. The yawl capsized within forty rods of Parisienne Island. All hands were drowned except Larrabee.

Nearly Half a Million Stolen from a New York State Bank

KINGSTON, N.Y., Oct. 5.—The Ulster County Savings Institution has closed its doors and is in charge of Bank Superintendent Chas. M. Preston. Expert examiners have been at work since Tuesday and have found already that the enormous sum of $463,000 has been stolen by Treasurer Ostrander and Matthew T. Trumpbour, assistant treasurer, and it is feared that the stealings will reach over that amount.

At midnight Trumpbour was arrested at his house. He had his clothes all packed up and was preparing to flee from town. Ostrander was arrested about two weeks ago for embezzling $75,000 and was under bonds of $20,000, and his bondsmen last night turned him over to the sheriff and he was locked up.

The town is wild with excitement. Depositors are arriving on every train and by all manner of vehicles. The men and women wander aimlessly about and occasionally some of the excited farmers threaten to break in the bank building and get their money, while others suggest that a lynching party be formed to hang Ostrander and Trumpbour. Business is virtually suspended and nothing else is talked about, as the general opinion for years was that the bank was as solid as the rock of Gibraltar and especially so after the statement of the trustees of three weeks ago which showed a surplus of a quarter of a million dollars.

J. J. SHEEHY'S ANNOUNCEMENT

TO THE PURCHASING PUBLIC OF PETERBOROUGH.

Six Years ago I started in Business in this Town with a Small Stock of Dry Goods and a Smaller Capital, but buoyed up with the hope, that by Diligence, Energy and the Strictest Possible Attention to Business, that business would grow and prosper as the town progressed, and I am delighted to be able to say, that my fondest hopes in this respect have been realized, for, as Peterborough has gone ahead (which fact there is none to dispute and the evidence of which we see around us on every side) so has my business progressed, and to-day I am in a position to ask the purchasing public to call and examine a Stock of General Dry Goods, which for Variety, Quality and General Excellence is not surpassed by any in the Town of Peterborough. Now, bear in mind, that I do not for one moment pretend to say that I carry the largest stock of Dry Goods in town; but this I do state most emphatically, that, to any purchaser starting out with a view of purchasing their Fall Dry Goods for cash, be that purchase One Dollar or One Hundred Dollars, there is no establishment in the Town of Peterborough that is in a better position to offer Greater Inducements than I offer to the general public to-day. As my business has grown in the past, so I intend it shall in the future, if any efforts on my part will have the desired effect, and in order that the month of October may become the Banner Month of the six years, I propose making the following Offer. My Stock throughout the entire store has been bought at the closest possible figures. My entire stock has been marked at the lowest living prices. Now this is my offer: during the month of October, to every purchaser of One Dollar or upwards, I offer a Discount of FIVE PER CENT.

I extend a cordial invitation to every one of my old customers who have dealt with me steadily during the past six years, and also to those whom I might call my occasional customers; and finally to those with whom I have not yet had the pleasure of doing business. Yours respectfully,

J. J. SHEEHY.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1891.

The Reciprocity Negotiations.

It is announced from Ottawa that the informal reciprocity negotiations with the United States, which were to have been resumed on the 12th inst., have been put off by President Harrison "until such time as the state of Mr. Blaine's health will permit him to attend" the proceedings. This is rather vague. Mr. Blaine has been ill, but his health is said to been restored, and the American papers state that he will be at his desk at the State Department in a few days. Of course the illness even of so eminent a man need not have prevented Mr. Harrison from continuing the informal preliminaries with Canada had he been really anxious to do so. Mr. Blaine was on the broad of his back all summer, yet that did not hinder the President from concluding important reciprocity conventions with Spain in behalf of Cuba and Porto Rico, and with the independent republic of San Domingo. The Brazil convention was signed prior to Mr. Blaine's collapse, but those named were perfected in his absence at Bar Harbor and others with Venezuela and Guatemala initiated. It may be urged that these were merely arrangements under the McKinley Bill. That cannot be said, however, of the negotiations now in progress for and old-fashioned reciprocity with Mexico, the outcome of which, like any treaty that may be made with us, will require the sanction of a two-thirds majority of the United States Senate. If Mr. Harrison can manage to treat specially with Mexico in Mr. Blaine's absence it is reasonable to infer that the absence of Mr. Blaine is not his sole reason for declining to go on with the preliminaries in our case.

The conduct of our Government at the commencement of these negotiations was as bad as it could be. The official correspondence shows, as was repeatedly stated in the Globe between January and March, that the overtures for an informal conference came from Canada and Britain, and that Mr. Blaine agreed to meet our agents at such a conference upon the understanding that the whole thing should be kept quiet until some result has been reached. But the Old Man, for election purposes, violated this agreement. He made a campaign stalking-horse of the matter, and, in order to deceive the electors, declared that Mr. Blaine had been the first to suggest that the two countries should enter into closer trade relations. The Tories boasted that the N. P. had brought the Yankees to their knees, and deluged us with articles and speeches extolling the Old Man's wonderful cunning. Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British Minister at Washington, found himself in an awkward box. He himself had made the arrangements just described, and, tacitly at least, had agreed to the condition of secrecy; and it took him all his time to convince Mr. Harrison and Mr. Blaine that he was in no way responsible for the gross breach of honest dealing committed by our Government. When Sir Charles Tupper turned up at Washington after the elections he had to shoulder the blame in Mr. Blaine's presence. So far as we know, the annals of diplomacy contains nothing more remarkable in its line than Tupper's confession that he and the Old Man had done the lying.

"I told Mr. Blaine," says Sir Charles in his report to Ottawa, "that I wished at the outset to recognize the accuracy of the statement contained in his letter to Sir Julian Pauncefote, which I had seen, in reference to the initiation of the negotiations regarding reciprocal trade arrangements between the two countries; that I believed it arose from the negotiations which had recently taken place between the United States and Newfoundland and the desire expressed by Canada to be included in any arrangement such as had been understood to have been contemplated by the United States and Newfoundland, and that upon that being communicated to him by Sir Julian Pauncefote he had expressed his willingness to open negotiations for reciprocal trade arrangements between Canada and the United States, assisted by delegates from the Dominion of Canada, the negotiations to be informal and, to a certain extent, of a confidential nature until they could assume a more formal character if any result were arrived at."

The New York Tribune has said that Mr. Harrison and Mr. Blaine were "astounded" at the conduct of the Canadian Government first in deliberately breaking faith with them, then in deceiving the Canadian electors, and then in cynically avowing through Sir Charles that they had done so. It may well be that the President does not care to meet our envoys except in the presence of his Secretary of State, who has had experience of their peculiar ways. But, after all, what is there to gain by meeting them? Mr. Blaine's letter to Mr. Baker of Rochester, written during our election campaign as an unofficial denial of the Old Man's fibs, made it clear that the United States is not willing to treat with Canada save on a very wide basis, including reciprocity in manufactures as well as reciprocity in natural products. But any reciprocity in manufactures that would be worth while to the States would have to involve discrimination against British exports, and to that, if it has a policy at all beyond boodle, the Tory party is sternly opposed. Similarly, in framing a schedule of natural products the Americans could not very well avoid asking for free trade in coal; but the two Tuppers and Sir John Thompson are pledged to resist this, though the Old Man offered it to Senator Aldrich and Mr. McKinley in July, 1890. In fact, any measure of reciprocity worthy of the name, any measure which the United States Senate could be expected to ratify by a two-thirds majority, would of necessity make a very large breach in the battlements of the N.P., and at the same time entail an extensive discrimination against British wares. It is extremely doubtful, indeed, if anything short of a reciprocity as free and absolute as the trade between the various States of the Union would be looked at either by Mr. Harrison or by the Senate; and that, as we all know, constitutes treason in Tory eyes. Disraeli fought Peel on the Free Trade issue and described Protection as one of the bulwarks of the altar and the throne. But shortly afterwards, when he saw how the cat was jumping, that nimble statesman saw nothing in Protection but a "survival from them past," and promptly threw it overboard. Our Tories are just as clever at taking a sharp curve as Disraeli ever was; but, unlike him, they are under bonds to the protected interests, which supply them with the sinews of war and could wreck them at the first division. The reptile funds subscribed by swindling contractors for the use of dishonest Ministers having been temporarily closed owing to recent events, the margin which the Manufacturers' Association turns over to the Government for its license to fleece the consumer is an important item now more than ever in the internal economy of the party. As an old annexationist, Mr. Abbott may be quite prepared to risk the anger of Britain by entering upon a treaty which would force us to discriminate against her; but as an old campaigner, who knows the vote-value of boodle from having presided over the chest, he will think twice before provoking the hostility of the Red Parlour.

Nothing is said as to the time for re-opening the informal negotiations. If the present Government remains in office, it will probably be put off on some excuse or another to the Greek Kalends. The Canadian people may as well make up their minds to the fact that closer commercial intercourse with the States is not to be got through the instrumentality of men who do not want it.—Globe.

If you are suffering from a feeling of constant tiredness, the result of mental worry or over work, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will promptly cure you. Give them a trial.

Henry G. James.

Henry G. James, of Winnipeg, Man., writes: "For several years I was troubled with pimples and irritations of the skin. After other remedies failed I used four bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters and since then I have been quite free from my complaint. B. B. B. will always occupy a place in my house."

Sufferers

FROM Stomach and Liver derangements—Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Sick-Headache, and Constipation—find a safe and certain relief in Ayer's Pills. In all cases where a cathartic is needed, these Pills are recommended by leading physicians.

Dr. T. E. Hastings, of Baltimore, says: "Ayer's Pills are the best cathartic and aperient within the reach of my profession."

Dr. John W. Brown, of Oceana, W. Va., writes: "I have prescribed Ayer's Pills in my practice, and find them excellent. I urge their general use in families."

"For a number of years I was afflicted with biliousness which almost destroyed my health. I tried various remedies, but nothing afforded me any relief until I began to take Ayer's Pills."—G. S. Wanderlich, Scranton, Pa.

"I have used Ayer's Pills for the past thirty years, and am satisfied I should not be alive to-day if it had not been for them. They cured me of dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since."—T. P. Brown, Chester, Pa.

"Having been subject, for years, to constipation, without being able to find much relief, I at last tried Ayer's Pills, and deem it both a duty and a pleasure to testify that I have derived great benefit from their use. For over two years past I have taken one of these Pills every night before retiring. I would not willingly be without them."—G. W. Bowman, 26 East Main st., Carlisle, Pa.

"Ayer's Pills have been used in my family upwards of twenty years, and have completely verified all that is claimed for them. In attacks of piles, from which I suffered many years, they afforded me greater relief than any medicine I ever tried."—Thomas F. Adams, Holly Springs, Texas.

PILGRIMS' COURT [illegible]

By Showing Disrespect to the Tomb of Victor Emanuel.

ROME, Oct. 3.—To-day a [illegible] of pilgrims after having been received by the Pope visited the notable [illegible] of the city. While they were at the [illegible] they manifested open disrespect of the tomb of King Victor Emanuel. [illegible] bystanders protested [illegible] against such disrespect of the dead. One word led to another and a row between the pilgrims and the defenders of Victor Emanuel followed. The church attendants in alarm summoned the police who entered the church and placed three of the pilgrims under arrest. When the news of the disturbance and subsequent arrests spread through Rome bands of young men began to gather immediately in many quarters and marched in procession through the streets singing anti-clerical and patriotic airs and hooting and hissing at any pilgrims who chanced across their path.

The processionists marched to the hotels occupied by the pilgrims and loudly demanded that the Italian flag be displayed. The proprietors were quick to accede to the patriotic demand, and when the national flag appeared the crowd raised an enthusiastic cheer. At the same time the groans for the pilgrims were redoubled.

After several hours of uproarious marching the processionists dispersed. The pilgrims who caused the original trouble were French.

EQUINOXIAL STORM.

Secretary Rusk Maintains That There Is No Such Thing.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—"Uncle Jerry" Rusk, not content with rehabilitating the American hog abroad, and attacking the rain clouds, now proposes to abolish the popular belief in equinoxial storms. Numerous enquiries having been addressed the weather bureau, since its transfer to the Agricultural Department, as to what has become of the equinoxial storm, supposed to be due about September 21, Secretary Rusk in reply has transmitted an opinion that there is no such thing as an equinoxial storm properly so called, and that therefore it cannot have been either lost, stolen or mislaid. He says: "The fact that the sun crosses the equator on March 21 and Sept. 21, has nothing whatever to do with the weather. The matter has been carefully considered by scientists, and the records for 100 yards back show the fallacy of the popular belief. The equinoxes are wholly imaginary points in the sky, or the intersections of two imaginary lines, the equator and the path of the sun, and the apparent presence of the sun at either of these points can have absolutely no effect upon our weather. With the changes of the sun's position, and the consequent distribution of hot and cold air, there come alike to old England and New England months of stormy weather. The storm that appears next before or after March 21 or Sept. 21 is dubbed the 'equinoxial' of that year, but the name does not give the storm any other peculiarity. The frequency of storms is about the same for several successive weeks, and one is as likely to occur on any other date as the date of the equinox."

Sleep of Death.

CASSELMAN, Ont., Oct. 3.—The 8-year-old daughter of John Nelson was found dead in the Nation River, between the Canada Atlantic Railway bridge and a temporary wooden bridge owned by the Casselman Lumber Company. When discovered by Louis Cadorette on Wednesday morning about 10 o'clock she was lying between two stones with her head resting on her arm. It was suspossed that she was on the bridge when surprised by the 5 o'clock Montreal express, which arrived at Casselman at 5.50, and in her fright either jumped or fell off, that she crawled to the place where she was found, a distance of 20 feet from the bridge, and probably lived all through the cold night, eventually dying from the shock and exertion.

Sir Hector Says He Is Satisfied

OTTAWA, Oct. 3.—Sir Hector Langevin bade adieu to Ottawa to-day. He received a big send-off. Two hundred employes of the Public Works Department and all the local politicians bade him good bye at his residence. Sir Hector, who looked anything but well, shook hands cordially with all his friends. None of the Cabinet Ministers were present. Senator Clemow, in the course of a lengthy address complimentary to the ex-minister, said he hoped Sir Hector would be reinstated. Dr. Valade spoke in a similar manner. Sir Hector replied briefly. His speech only occupied two minutes in its delivery. He said he had always endeavored to do his duty as a member of the Cabinet, and never had allowed the considerations of religion or nationality to disturb his judgments. He would now go to Quebec and stay there for a rest, after which he would again commence the fight. This remark was loudly applauded. In French he said he left Ottawa satisfied that his honor had been vindicated.

Falling Off in Orders and Collections.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Rather less activity in general lines of distribution than had been expected continues to be reported in special telegrams to Bradstreet's, although, particularly at the west and northwest, there is a good deal of confidence displayed that the receipt of orders will soon meet all anticipations.

In the Province of Quebec orders for staple goods are not coming in as freely as previously and mercantile collections are not made as promptly as desired. Exports of wheat from Montreal are checked. There is also less activity in Ontario owing, in part, to unseasonable weather. The Dominion reports 29 business failures this week, against 34 last week and 26 this week last year. The total number, Jan. 1 to date, is 1340 against 1210 last year.

Ground to a Pulp

JERSEY CITY, Oct. 2.—Gordon Conever, a fireman on the ferryboat Jersey City, went into the paddlebox to-day to oil the outer bearings of the shaft. Engineer Rogers not knowing of his fireman's position caused the engine to make a full stroke. Passengers in the cabin heard a shriek and a horrible crunching sound as the wheel turned and had the engine stopped. Conover was smashed to a pulp and then dropped into the water.

The Boastful Pumpkin.

A pumpkin which was growing in the midst of a field of corn got the big-head one day and began bragging itself up.

"I am not only a fine vegetable to look at," observed the pumpkin with great complacency, "but I am nourishment for both man and beast. Made into pie I am welcomed all over America, and even Kings have condescended to eat me. As food for the bovine tribe nothing can take my place. In fine, take it all around, the world could not do without me."

Just then the owner of the field and his hired man happened along, and the owner caught sight of the pumpkin and called out:

"Here, Bill, this thing is taking up room wanted by the corn. Root it up and throw it over the fence!"

MORAL:

The man who thought he owned the earth died several weeks ago, but the big wheel hasn't even skipped a cog yet.

In other words, get the "Golden Medical Discovery," and rescue this member of your family from consumption, which threatens her. It has saved thousands. According to the doctors it has wrought miracles, for it has cured those whom they pronounced incurable, except by a miracle. It is a truly wonderful remedy. For all bronchial, throat and lung diseases, weak lungs, spitting of blood and kindred ailments, it is a sovereign remedy.

For the past year I have been troubled to a very great extent with dandruff, also, a dullness of color in my hair, and through the advice of a friend (who spoke from experience) I tried your Anti-Dandruff, which upon the application of less than a bottle of your liquid I find my head not only thoroughly cleansed but a vast improvement in the color and growth.

I have, and do recommend it as highly beneficial to the profession and public generally as an agreeable and welcome innovation in the remedies put forth for public favor.

A Pleasant Herb Drink—A Spring Medicine.

The druggists tell us that people call daily for the new cure for constipation and sick headache discovered by Dr. Silas Lane. It is said to be Oregon grape root (a great remedy in the far west for those complaints) combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring on boiling water to draw out the strength. It sells for 50c. and $1 a package, and is called Lane's Family Medicine. d

It is a Very Sad Thing

To see young and beautiful people die when they might just as well live and enjoy health and strength. Many who suffer with coughs, colds and lung troubles, leading to consumption, imagine there is no hope for them, when in reality there is every hope if Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is taken regularly. Spread the news everywhere that this great emulsion will make flesh and blood, cure coughs, colds, bronchitis, sore throats and lung troubles tending to consumption. In big bottles, 50c. and $1. At Peterborough Drug Store's. dw

Mrs. George Rendle.

Mrs. George Rendle, of Galt, Ont., writes: "I can recommend Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, for it is a sure cure for all summer complaints. We are never without it in the house." Fowler's Wild Strawberry, price 35c.

The well known strengthening properties of iron, combined with other tonics and a most perfect nervine, are found in Carter's Iron Pills, which strengthen the nerves and body, and improve the blood and complexion.

A Cure for Constipation and Headache.

Dr. Silas Lane while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and herbs, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick headache, and is the best spring medicine. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50c. and $1 a package. dw

Aunty's Advice.

A Welcome Announcement.

Those who have tested it say that for the grippe, and especially for the cough that hangs on after the disease itself seems cured, there is nothing equal to Kemp's Balsam, the specific for all throat and lung diseases, and the best cure for coughs and colds. BY THE
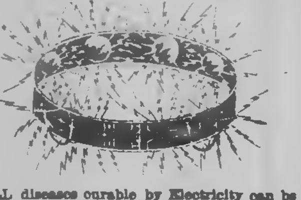
DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT
And Attachments.
HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto
THE WORLD'S BEST.



ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT OF QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and meta with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

The load of grain was stored at Brown's tavern, and the injured man sent home on a bed.

The Wonderful Woman.

Mrs. Abbott gave another of her marvellous exhibitions at the opera house Saturday night. The audience was small. A number of the leading gentlemen in town, including our Mayor, Police Magistrate, City Solicitor, T.V.C. Superintendent and other prominent men, formed the committee of investigation, and they were all greatly puzzled to account for Mrs. Abbott's mysterious power.

Police Court Affairs.

At a special session of the police court Saturday night, John Connors was brought to the bar of justice as a suitable transition from too frequent familiarity with the bug juice bar, and paid $2 to reconcile the discrepancy. James West, who was run in on the same well used track, was not so fortunate. He was financially flabergasted, and as a result is spending ten days on the hill feasting on "skilly" and taurine beef.

Dominion Election Petition.

In the High Court of Justice Queen's Bench Division, Saturday, Mr. G. Cameron, for the petitioners, moved to extend the time for the commencement of the trials of the East Peterborough and South Victoria Dominion Election Petitions. Order made and trials postponed, East Peterborough till Monday, Dec. 21st, at Peterborough, and South Victoria till Thursday, December 10th, at Lindsay.

The Veterans' Interests

Mr. George Merrill, who has in hand the case of the volunteers of 1837-39, writes to the Belleville Intelligencer: "I was informed to-day (Oct. 2) by His Excellency the Governor-General, that the cause of the old veterans of 1837-38 has been transferred to the Department of Militia and Defence for further consideration. Their cause is also laid before the Home Government. Old vets. may rest assured that their long neglected claims will be honorably settled."

When you need a good, safe laxative, ask your druggist for a box of Ayer's Pills, and you will find that they give perfect satisfaction. For indigestion, torpid liver, and sick headache there is nothing superior. Leading physicians recommend them.

Battered the Bailiff.

Patrick C. Crowley, of Otonabee township, was arrested by Constable Cochrane Saturday on a warrant which has been hanging over his head since June last. Mr. Chas. Stapleton, as bailiff, was making a distress for rent on Crowley's premises, and Crowley, angered at having his goods seized, undertook to get satisfaction out of the minion of the law, whom he assaulted with a heavy iron bolt which he procured from a wagon. Mr. Stapleton escaped sorely bruised and cut, and carried his arm around in a sling for some time as a result of the encounter. A warrant was issued for Crowley's arrest, but he kept out of the way until Saturday, when he was arrested on the streets in Peterborough. P. M. Edmison held court Saturday afternoon and remanded the prisoner till Wednesday. Crowley was allowed out on bail.

Salvation Army Notes.

As announced, the Salvation Army held a series of special meetings Saturday night and Sunday. The meetings were conducted by Capt. Southall, the recently appointed divisional officer for the Kingston division, of which Peterborough corps now forms a station, and Ensign Dawson, who has charge of the "Prison Gate Home" of the Kingston penitentiary. The meetings were of a very interesting character and were well attended. The ensign told in a heart-touching manner of the efforts that were put forth at the "home" at Kingston to help, both bodily and spiritually, the unfortunates as they emerge from the penitentiary on their period of imprisonment expiring, and how, in many cases, these efforts were successful.

To-night there will be a banquet from 6 to 7.45, and then at 8 a meeting, at which a number of officers from surrounding stations will be present.

There will be a harvest home festival at the barracks in two weeks, on which occasion the interior of the building will be decorated with agricultural products, fruits, &c.

The Red Men Scalped.

Indian River Baseball Team Taken into Camp.

What was probably the last baseball game of the season took place on the P.A.A.A. grounds Saturday afternoon between the Indian River team and a nine composed of players from the Edison and Association teams. The visitors were not in it from the start, and the Peterborough team had ample revenge for the defeat inflicted two weeks ago.

The batteries were, for Indian River, Welch and Miles, and W. Guerin and Moher, but they were batted freely, two and three baggers being frequent. Few good hits on the contrary were made by the Indian River men. McCabe pitched four innings, Pomfret catching; then Belknap went in the box and made his first attempt at pitching, and it was successful, only one run being made off him in three innings. Pomfret closed the game by pitching the last innings. Parks caught for both Belknap and Pomfret.

The Peterboroughs outplayed their opponents at every point. The visitors play an agricultural game all through, and are not yet practised up to the point of tackling a team like Peterborough with any chance of success.

Following is the score, minus the record of passed balls, double plays and other features of the summary:

"Save who can!" was the frantic cry of Napoleon to his army at Waterloo. Save health and strength while you can, by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, is advice that applies to all, both young and old. Don't wait until disease fastens on you; begin at once.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Mr. James Goodwin gave an earnest, practical talk at the young men's rally, which was helpful and profitable to the young fellows present. We are so glad these meetings are growing in numbers and interest, and good results are following the simple Gospel message.

Mr. Alfred Miller conducted the Bible study and consecration service Sunday morning. The attendance was large and the Holy Spirit was present to apply the word.

Mr. Albert Hamilton's impressive and straight talk at the open air service in Central Park was listened to with marked attention and, we believe, with much profit to the large crowd present. The Y.M.C.A. band led the singing in a very acceptable manner.

Miss Friend, who proposes going out to China as a missionary, gave a very touching and inspiring address last evening at the Gospel and song service. The hall was filled to overflowing and many were unable to get in. We praise God for this continuance of His power in our services.

Board of Directors will hold their monthly meeting at the residence of Mr. Early on Tuesday evening at 8 p.m.

The Ladies' Auxiliary will meet on Wednesday afternoon at 4 p.m., in the parlour, for re-organization and work for the season. All ladies interested in association work invited.

We thank heartily Miss Green and Mrs. Benjamin Cooney, Ashburnham, for elegant bouquets of cut flowers for the parlour.

An Association Established at Norwood with Good Prospects.

Wednesday night of last week a Young Men's Christian Association was organized at Norwood by Mr. R. J. Colville, general secretary of the Peterborough association. The new association begins its existence under most favorable auspices. There is a membership of 65, a good subscription list already secured, and the hearty support and co-operation of the christian clergy and people of the village is assured.

Rooms have been secured near the corner of Peterborough and Colborne streets, which will be furnished as a reading room, a parlor and a hall for meeting purposes. Bible study will be held during the week and gospel meetings on Sunday for men only.

Wednesday evening a largely attended meeting of men was held in the town hall, when the Association was organized and the following officers elected:—

PRESIDENT—Mr. Wm. Plant.
1ST VICE-PRESIDENT—Mr. A. B. Steers, B.A.
2ND VICE PRESIDENT—Mr. Jas. Cameron.
SECRETARY—Mr. C. N. Callender.
TREASURER—Mr. Frank Raddon.

Mr. S. Lachance.—Sir, for several years I have suffered from violent attacks of headache rising from imperfect digestion. To-day, after having used few bottles of Dr. Sey's Remedy, I am entirely cured of these attacks and my stomach digests well. I have also used the same remedy in my family, for indigestion, colic and flatulency; and that always with success. Dr. Sey's Remedy is is also an excellent purgative which acts without causing pain, and which does not prevent one from going about their ordinary occupations.

A Sunday Accident.

Messrs. Thos. Emmerson and Chris. Moffatt were driving along the Lakefield road Sunday when their horse took fright and began to run away. The two men were thrown out, Mr. Moffatt receiving injuries to his side and Mr. Emmerson a cut on his head. The horse was pulled up at the side of the road before proceeding far.
